COVER BY ROGER PERSON

"Girls" is a 40"x 46" acrylic painting hanging in the artist's home. Much of Roger's work has been inspired by people he met while working in his studio in downtown Siler City. Though he is now working in his home, the ideas still keep coming!

ARTS

Chatham has a rich history, one of the state's major tourist attractions (that would be Jordan Lake) and plenty of economic vitality. But if you ask many outside the area what they think of when they hear "Chatham," they'll respond with two words: The arts.

Earlier this year, Chatham was named one of the nation's top communities for music education for the second-straight year (see page 14 for more) and there are renowned artists everywhere.

Which begs the question: Why?

Cheryl Chamblee, executive director of the Chatham Arts Council, believes it's an expressive local culture that celebrates both independence and community.

"Artists here innovate in quirky, smart, glorious ways, yet they actively support and collaborate in each other's work," she says, noting that some of the artistic activity is hard to see because it's taking place in small studios all across the landscape. "It's sort of in the air we breathe. The arts are part of the core identity of Chatham County. It's part of who we are."

HOW CAN I GET MY FREE LIBRARY CARD?

INSIDER'S TIP

It's easy! Bring an official photo ID and proof of your current address, such as a utility bill or U.S. Mail delivered to your address, to any branch and complete a short application form. Cards are issued to anyone 5 years or older who lives in Chatham or several nearby counties — or to anyone who works in Chatham, regardless of where they live. Library card policies are online at chathamlibraries.org.

Chatham Arts Council

Describing its work as "nurturing creative thinkers," the Chatham Arts Council invests in local artists and educates children in the arts. Investments include grants to support local arts activities and help promoting events across Chatham. Education is provided through its annual ClydeFEST, a hands-on arts carnival for elementary-age children held each spring, and the Artists in Schools initiative, which brings professional artists into local schools to enrich math, science, language and history instruction. Their online directory connects residents to about 175 artists and galleries. PO Box 418, Pittsboro, 919.542.0394, chathamartscouncil.org

► Artists Directory. Sortable online listing includes more than 150 Chatham artists of all kinds — actors, architects, musicians, playwrights, storytellers, teachers, visual artists and several arts-based organizations. chathamartscouncil.org/all-artists

► Artists in Schools. Engaging, interactive workshops led by actors, dancers, musicians and visual artists reinforce education across the curriculum — including concepts in math, science, language and history.

Chatham Libraries

Showing its spirit of innovation, the main branch of Chatham County Public Libraries operates jointly as a public library and campus library for Central Carolina Community College in Pittsboro. In addition to extensive print and audio-visual materials, three branches combine to provide Chatham residents with book clubs; genealogy and local history resources; free access to NC LIVE, a statewide database of newspapers, magazines and e-books; computer access; and specialized online services. Meeting rooms are available at each branch for public events of a nonprofit, educational, cultural or civic nature. chathamlibraries.org

► Chatham Community Library. The main and largest branch offers free computer classes, author events and extensive children's programs. On the Central Carolina Community College campus, 197 NC Highway 87 North, Pittsboro, 919.545.8084

► Wren Memorial Library. Siler City's library includes a genealogy and local history collection. 500 N. Second Avenue, Siler City, 919.742.2016

High School Arts

Arts are vibrant in schools throughout Chatham and some nonprofit foundations work in high schools to expand arts opportunity with scholarships, trips to performances and specialized arts equipment and supplies.

► JMArts, the Jordan-Matthews Arts Foundation. Projects include the fall musical, New York Arts Adventure spring educational trip and JMArts Scholars for summer study. PO Box 395, Siler City, 919.742.2916, jmarts.org

► Northwood High School Arts Education Foundation. Projects include teacher grants, student funding for summer arts activities and annual college scholarships recognizing student achievements. PO Box 894, Pittsboro, nhsaef.org

Performing Arts

While there's no large performing arts center to grab the attention, theater, music and storytelling thrive throughout Chatham, often in small rooms or other venues you might not expect.

► Bynum Front Porch. Storytelling, bluegrass jam sessions and a summer music series are staples at the historic Bynum General Store. PO Box 381, Bynum, 27228, bynumfrontporch.org

► Fearrington Village Singers. Village Voices for women, Harmony Grits for men and a combined chorus perform concerts throughout the year. fvsingers.blogspot.com

► Manifold Studios. Artists record at a high-end, full-scale recording studio and media production facility. PO Box 1239, Pittsboro, 919.444.2290, manifoldrecording.com

► Pittsboro Youth Theater and Center for the Arts. Youth productions, theater arts classes and adult performances are offered at a venue that also includes a small coffee shop and space for public, live performances. 18A East Salisbury Street, Pittsboro, 919.533.6997, pittsboroyouththeater.com

► Shakori Hills Community Arts Center. The organization dedicated to arts, music and sustainability education is home to events including the annual Shakori Hills GrassRoots Festival. 1439 Henderson Tanyard Road, Pittsboro, 919.542.1746, shakorihills.org

Visual Arts

Not only is Chatham home to internationally renowned artists, including potter Mark Hewitt and sculptor Edwin White (edwinwhitedesigns.com), but the area is rich with talented artists working in many different media.

► Chatham Artists Guild. More than 60 members living and working in Chatham promote local arts, share resources and ideas, and produce their popular annual studio tour held in December. PO Box 1024, Pittsboro, chathamartistsguild.org

► Galloway Ridge Artist Collaboration. Hosts an artist reception and rotating exhibition three times each year, open to the public with artists invited from Chatham and bordering counties. 3000 Galloway Ridge Road, Pittsboro, 919.545.2611, gallowayridge.com/artists

► Mark Hewitt Pottery. World-renowned, functional pottery is produced by Mark Hewitt and other potters who sell work at their barn/showroom and host special events during kiln openings in June and December. 424 Johnny Burke Road, Pittsboro, 919.542.2371, hewittpottery.com

► NC Arts Incubator. Operates a gallery and offers affordable studio space for emerging artists. The Chatham Rabbit coffee shop is on the premises. 223 N. Chatham Avenue, Siler City, 919.663.1335, ncartsincubator.com

► Small Museum of Folk Art. Nonprofit with an educational mission includes a collection with work by Clyde Jones and other notable, local folk artists. 219 East Street, Pittsboro, 919.642.3866, smallmuseumfolkart.org

► Smelt Art Gallery. Exhibition space billed as "a non-conventional art gallery within an old smelting plant." 220 Lorax Lane, Pittsboro, 919.448.4888, facebook.com/smeltartgallery

SPOTLIGHT

ROGER PERSON Chatham 411 Cover Artist

Whimsical. Colorful. Unique. Ask any local art aficionado how they'd describe Roger Person's art and those are words you're likely to hear right off the bat. After that, you might get a puzzled look. There are sculptures and paintings of all sizes, mediums and shapes. "I've got an income that sustains me, so I can do all this goofy stuff," he told a blogger several years ago. "If someone likes it, fine, if they don't, that's okay too."

BUSINESS

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times. Charles Dickens obviously didn't compose those words about Chatham business in 2021, but his opening line from "A Tale of Two Cities" sort of rings true in this strange moment we're all facing.

Let's work backwards.

In obvious ways, this is the worst of times. As the new calendar year begins, we're 11 months into a pandemic that has already claimed too many companies — small businesses, in particular — and pushed owners to their creative limits as they struggle to keep their ventures alive.

On the other hand, once we move past this immediate health threat, we could quickly enjoy the best of times. Because, as analysts like to say, "the underlying fundamentals are sound."

With large companies pouring into the Triangle region, one of the nation's largest planned developments well under way near Pittsboro and infrastructure like megasites and business support groups, commerce could be booming soon.

MICHAEL SMITH President Chatham County EDC

With more than two decades of experience in local economic development organizations and the North Carolina Department of Commerce, Michael Smith began work in January 2021 as president of the Chatham County EDC. He has served as president of the North Carolina Economic Development Association and holds a master's degree in geography with a concentration in urban/regional planning from East Carolina University.

Chatham Chamber of Commerce

Since 1947, the Chatham Chamber of Commerce has worked to help its members promote their businesses and succeed in a competitive marketplace. The chamber also organizes community events including Leadership Chatham, designed to help participants develop a deeper understanding of the local community and the issues it is facing. 531 E. Third Street, Siler City, 919.742.3333, ccucc.net

► Chatham Development Briefing. The chamber sponsors an annual summer presentation to highlight the latest news on local development.

► Leadership Chatham. The initiative to develop more informed community leaders holds monthly sessions from September to June focusing on key local issues driving Chatham's success — including agriculture, the economy, education, government, health, history, and team building. Enrollment is limited to 25 participants.

Chatham County BPW

Created to help business and professional women refine their leadership skills and build professional networks, Chatham County BPW holds general meetings featuring speakers on business-related topics and informal chats over coffee for members to share ideas. chathamcountybpw.com

Chatham County EDC

As the county's lead economic development agency, the Chatham County Economic Development Corporation supports local business and markets Chatham as a preferred location for emerging growth companies. That work includes attracting new business and industry, strengthening companies already operating in Chatham, and enhancing the economic climate and infrastructure needed for success. 964 East Street, Pittsboro, PO Box 1627, 919.542.8274, chathamcdc.org

► Opportunity Chatham. The EDC hosts an annual gathering of community leaders in winter to learn important information from a guest expert and discuss the successes, strengths and challenges of local economic development.

Megasites

Chatham is home to two megasites — large parcels of land planned and developed with roads, utilities and other amenities to accommodate large industrial or research facilities.

► Chatham-Siler City Advanced Manufacturing Site. The North Carolina Certified Site near Siler City offers 1,802 acres with an excellent transportation network connecting to nearby communities in the Research Triangle and Piedmont Triad and an adjacent 290-acre support park. # OUTREACH

Though what they do often takes place quietly, out of the spotlight, a huge number of locals are working every day through faith-based groups and civic clubs to strengthen Chatham communities.

One of the area's more active civic clubs is the Silk Hope Ruritans, who operate a community building used by groups of all kinds, provide scholarships to high school seniors and fund much of their outreach with income from Old Fashioned Farmers Day, one of Chatham's most popular annual festivals.

Daniel Rickard, president of the Silk Hope Ruritans, believes clubs like his connect people who want to make a real difference in their communities with a hands-on approach.

"The positive impacts these clubs have had through the years is immeasurable," he says. "A single club's contribution to our community may seem small and insignificant to some, but collectively these clubs' impact on the world have, and continue to be, the foundation of our communities."

EDUCATION

When Central Carolina Community College opened its new Chatham Health Sciences Center early last year, it was just the latest addition to a rapidly expanding educational scene.

The 40,000-square-foot academic center in North Chatham that trains students for health-related fields was followed just months later by Chatham Grove, a new public elementary school. Two more new schools are slated to open late this summer: the public Seaforth High School and private Thales Academy.

“Education at all levels in Chatham County provides its residents, businesses, and organizations the best opportunities to work toward economic vitality and mobility for Chatham communities and the larger region,” says CCC Chatham Provost Mark Hall. “Fortunately, much collaboration and mutual support exists among the College, the schools, economic development groups, non-profit organizations, local governments, and the employers in Chatham County that ensures a collective effort is sustained.”

DR. RANDY BRIDGES Interim Superintendent Chatham County Schools

Appointed late last year after Superintendent Dr. Derrick D. Jordan resigned to accept a position with the state Department of Public Instruction, Dr. Randy Bridges will serve in an interim role while a new superintendent is hired. Bridges was superintendent of Orange County Schools for five years, returning later for a brief tenure as interim superintendent. He also served as interim superintendent of Lexington City Schools and superintendent of Florence School District One in South Carolina.

CHATHAM IS ONE OF AMERICA'S BEST FOR MUSIC EDUCATION

Based on its commitment to music education and its “efforts to assure access to music for all students as part of a well-rounded education,” Chatham was named one of America’s Best Communities for Music Education by the NAMM Foundation. Awarded for the second year in a row to Chatham County Schools, the accolade considered a wide range of factors, including learning standards, opportunities for students, professional development for teachers, funding trends and community support.

GOVERNMENT

When Franklin Gomez Flores was sworn in last year as the first-ever Latino representative on the Chatham County Board of Commissioners, it was yet another milestone for a vibrant community enjoying growth. Growth in population. Growth in diversity. And growth all across its physical landscape.

Government has been keeping pace, too, with several new buildings that have not only changed the physical landscape, but helped enhance services available to its growing population. Want examples? There's the Chatham County Justice Center, a striking new facility tucked behind the Historic Chatham County Courthouse. And the Chatham County Agriculture and Conference Center, where you can hold a meeting or even a wedding.

The good news is that local government, whether it's town or county, has managed to preserve the kind of personal touch everyone enjoyed before the latest boom arrived. And if you talk with local officials, it's an approach they want to preserve for years to come.

You are in CHATHAM COUNTY, and there's nothing like it. Let's work together to create jobs and make our community even more extraordinary.

Michael Smith, whose 20 years of economic development experience includes leadership positions at the Sanford Area Growth Alliance (SAGA), has been named by the Chatham County EDC board as the organization's new president. Smith has served as the President of the North Carolina Economic Development Association (NCEDA). He earned a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science and a Master's Degree in Geography with a concentration in Urban/Regional Planning from East Carolina University. He came to Sanford from his position as director of economic development in Stanly County. Prior to that he served in Davidson County economic development and led economic development in the Statesville Region for 10 years. Before working in Iredell County, Smith worked with the N.C. Dept. of Commerce in Raleigh for seven years as a project manager and in marketing and business development.

"We're very well positioned," Smith said. "Chatham County, with its available industrial real estate, is very well positioned. Having two sites in the 2,000-acre range is pretty dramatic. I mean, nobody else in the state has anything like that. And so I'm going to be really excited and talking to those two different ownership groups to get their ideas about the best way to move forward."

SERVICES

There's an African proverb that goes something like this: "It takes a village to raise a child." It's the idea that children can only thrive when there are a lot of people helping create the safe, healthy environment they need to succeed.

To be honest, the same idea applies to the rest of us, as well. It takes everyone working together to help people and entire communities thrive.

Ilana Dubester, executive director of El Vínculo Hispano/The Hispanic Liaison, says nonprofit organizations of all kinds play a crucial role in improving the lives of Chatham County residents in many different ways. Homeownership. Literacy. Leadership development. Educational achievement. And so much more.

"Nonprofits fill the gap in government services and go beyond what local government can offer its residents," she says. "Chatham is fortunate to count on dozens of extraordinary nonprofit organizations and leaders who are passionate to their missions and devoted to helping the community."

EVENTS

Under normal circumstances, there's no shortage of engaging, live events taking place all across Chatham.

From author readings in Fearington Village to annual agricultural festivals in several western communities, there's always plenty to keep everyone busy.

Interested in music? Got that covered with concerts, competitions and weekend festivals galore. Famished for food? Try some wine tastings, a fruitcake open house or one festival built entirely around North Carolina peppers. Arts and crafts your thing? Take your pick from artisans selling their wares at local street festivals to kiln openings and a huge, annual fine-art studio tour.

For a largely-rural area, Chatham's variety is pretty impressive. The best events give visitors a chance to experience local culture and maybe enjoy something that's not available in their own backyard.

These aren't normal circumstances, of course, but don't give up. Many events are continuing now in creative formats and others are already planning their big return.

Siler City Christmas Parade. Marching bands, floats packed with children and vehicles of all kinds welcome the holiday season with a downtown parade along S. Chatham and nearby streets. Siler City. December 9, 2021.

I KNOW THERE ARE MANY MORE LOCAL EVENTS. HOW DO I FIND THEM?

That's true! There are many more events, large and small, held all year long throughout Chatham. While we don't have enough space to list them all, the Pittsboro-Siler City Convention and Visitors Bureau maintains an online events calendar. The bureau also keeps people connected with social media feeds, sample itineraries for visitors, an online listing of tourism-related businesses and an overview brochure. 964 East Street, Pittsboro. # COMMUNITY

Not too long ago, Chatham was seen largely as some rural oasis frozen in time, a tranquil retreat of rolling hills and open farmland, where folks could live a quieter, simpler style of life.

Those familiar places still exist, of course, and they remain an essential part of what makes Chatham special. But other areas are changing so quickly that if you haven't driven through in the last few months, well, you may not even recognize where you are.

Much of that change is taking place just north of Pittsboro, where one of the nation's largest "live, work, play" communities is well underway, significantly reshaping the physical landscape. But change also is happening out west in Siler City, where the arts and Latinx commerce are reshaping a vibrant cultural landscape as well.

With so many ways to live — from rural farm communities to small towns and bustling planned developments — a lot more people are finding Chatham. And many of them are now calling it home.

CHATHAM: BY THE NUMBERS

At about 700 square miles, Chatham is the state's 18th largest county by area and home to 77,713 residents, according to Office of State Budget and Management estimates — a growing population projected to be 110,406 by 2040.

Chatham Park

One of the nation's largest planned communities, Chatham Park will eventually include about 22,000 homes — along with businesses and entertainment venues — on more than 8,000 acres east of Pittsboro. The development's first custom homes are now under construction in a community that is expected to have a population of about 60,000 when it is fully developed around the year 2045. chathampark.com

► Mosaic. Chatham Park's first major project is a 44-acre community that serves as the gateway to Chatham Park. It includes restaurants, retail and office space, entertainment venues, educational facilities, a hotel, 164 apartment homes and 12 condos. mosaicatchatham.com

Ferrington Village

Developed more than four decades ago as an "English-inspired village nestled in the idyllic countryside," Ferrington Village has attracted almost 3,000 residents from around the world to a vital community built around quaint independent shops, a world-class hotel and restaurant, and a full calendar of activities and events.

Its location, just a 15-minute drive from Chapel Hill, has helped attract guests and locals, alike, to The Ferrington House Inn and Restaurant, part of the world-renowned Relais & Chateau association of individually owned and operated luxury properties. ferrington.com

Goldston

The smallest of three incorporated towns in Chatham, Goldston was established in 1907 — fueled by a railroad line that still runs along Main Street and through a compact business district that stretches a few blocks.

The town is home to about 300 residents and 15 buildings on the National Register of Historic Places. Its quaint downtown attracts visitors driving through southwestern Chatham all year long, but especially in the fall, when Goldston celebrates Old Fashion Day, a one-day, downtown street fair featuring music, food, classic cars and local arts.

Pittsboro

Formed in 1787 and serving as the seat of Chatham government, Pittsboro has managed to combine a respect for its long history with a look toward the future — with farmers, artists, students and tech innovators all living and working in the growing community.

About 6,750 people currently reside within the city limits and just beyond, though that number will quickly be eclipsed with the Chatham Park planned community now underway. Also drawing people to Pittsboro are a historic and vibrant downtown as well as Central Carolina Community College's Chatham Main Campus. pittsboronc.gov

Siler City

For most of Siler City's history, beginning with its founding in 1887, the town served as commercial hub for rural residents in western Chatham. And it still does, with a strong retail economy and an industrial presence emphasizing textiles and food processing.

But a transformation has been occurring in recent years — with the town of about 8,000 residents quietly emerging as a vibrant and diverse community, with a robust Latinx culture and artists working in many media taking up residence near downtown galleries. silercity.org

Association of Realtors

More than 600 real estate professionals are members of the Orange Chatham Association of Realtors, the local affiliate of a national organization providing continuing education and promoting a code of ethics for members. A membership directory on the website can be searched by city, member name and realty office. 143 Chatham

RECREATION

Maybe it's the area's rural legacy or perhaps its rich natural resources, but whatever the reason, outdoor activities have always been central to recreation in Chatham.

Jordan Lake is probably the most visible example, if only because so many people drive across the 16-mile-long lake every day on U.S. Highway 64. Along that route, they pass the entrance to three different campgrounds and can catch a good view of day-visitors sunbathing on the sand and swimming in the water at Seaforth Beach.

There are paddlers exploring other local waterways, as well. Many bring their own boats onto the Haw and Deep rivers and set their own itineraries, but that's not necessary with outfitters like Haw River Canoe and Kayak Co. offering tours.

If paddling, swimming, camping and picnicking aren't your thing, don't despair. Chatham has plenty of other options to enjoy — from golf and youth sports to a tiger sanctuary, which, to be honest, is something you just don't see everywhere.

Attractions

Unique local attractions draw visitors seeking a new experience. But check before you visit, because many are open limited hours.

- ▶ Carolina Tiger Rescue. Nonprofit wildlife sanctuary for wild cats offers public and private educational tours. 1940 Hanks Chapel Road, Pittsboro, 919.542.4684, carolinatigerrescue.org

I SEE A LOT OF BIKERS IN CHATHAM, BUT HOW DO I KNOW WHERE TO RIDE?

Chatham enjoys a 198-mile system of bicycle trails that draws riders throughout the region to lightly-traveled country roads that connect towns, crossroads communities and points of interest. A free map suggests seven recreational loops, from 13 to 37 miles long, and shows parks along the routes. visitpittsboro.com/location/bicycle-trails-2

- ▶ Entrance Fees. About $7 per car is charged daily from Memorial Day through Labor Day; senior citizen discounts and annual passes are available.
- ▶ Camping. Options include tent, trailer and RV camping; more primitive backpack sites; and special areas for groups.
- ▶ Educational Events. Learning activities, usually free and led by park rangers, give park visitors a deeper insight into the natural world.

Parks and Recreation

Public recreational areas and activities are provided by organizations across Chatham. Seasonal guides are often available online.

Our winery is open Saturday and Sunday for you to visit and experience our wines in the tasting room or to relax on the deck, overlooking the vines. Our modern-rustic style winery building is nestled among the peaceful rolling hills of Chatham County, located right outside the Triangle. We believe wine is something everyone can enjoy, but it's more about the experience and the people you share it with. We want to create a relaxing, fun, and exciting environment for you to enjoy.

SENIORS

Chatham seniors enjoy a particularly active lifestyle, being actively involved in everything from community service to business and the arts. Cathy Brooks Edwards, or “Brooksie” as she’s known, is proof of that proposition.

The 65-year-old, who describes herself as a “wise elder” and “super cool senior,” recently started a 10-month project to become certified as a teacher in Kundalini yoga. “My body already feels stronger,” she says, “and it is my desire that this takes me into aging with grace.”

It’s not like she wasn’t busy already. A little more than one year ago, she published “Heartspace,” a book about grief, loss and love in death and dying. It’s full of honest, reflective essays by many Chatham residents who share their personal experience and insight.

But if literature isn’t your thing, there’s much more to keep Chatham seniors busy. Much of it is organized by the Chatham County Council on Aging, but that’s just the first place to look. It seems like there are as many pursuits as there are seniors.

HOW CAN I GET FREE HELP FILING MY TAX RETURNS?

INSIDER'S TIP

You may qualify for free tax help from VITA, the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program, offered through the Chatham County Council on Aging. IRS-certified volunteers help prepare a basic return and then file electronically for people with low income or who have disabilities or speak limited English. The service is available from February 9 through April 6. Call 919.542.4512 for details. chathamcoa.org/services

Chatham County Council on Aging

A “one-stop” resource for local seniors, the Chatham County Council on Aging provides a wealth of information and services to help people enjoy a healthy life, be engaged in the community and live independently. The portfolio includes community and in-home meals, in-home personal care and caregiver respite, assistive equipment loans, medical transportation, a calendar of events and much more. PO Box 715, Pittsboro, chathamcoa.org

► Virtual Classes and Events. Though they began during the pandemic, virtual classes and events have become so popular that they are now a permanent part of the Council on Aging calendar. Options currently include games, performances, fitness classes and personal enrichment activities.

► Eastern Chatham Senior Center. 365 NC Highway 87 North, Pittsboro, 919.542.4512

► Western Chatham Senior Center. 112 Village Lake Road, Siler City, 919.742.3975

Retirement Communities

Many communities in Chatham cater to the needs and interests of retirees and senior adults. Here are some:

► Carolina Meadows. With more than 800 residents and 160 acres of landscaped outdoor spaces, the North Chatham community offers comprehensive healthcare, fitness and lifestyle programs, and opportunities for community outreach. 100 Carolina Meadows, Chapel Hill, 27517, 919.942.4014, carolinameadows.org

► Carolina Preserve at Amberly. Based in Cary with homes in Chatham, the active-adult community has 1,360 homes, a state-of-the-art fitness center, and more than 120 clubs. 115 Allforth Place, Cary, 27519, 919.467.7837, carolinapreserve.com

► Encore at Briar Chapel. Neighborhood for residents age 55 and up in the North Chatham development features single-level homes with an exclusive clubhouse. 117 Boone Street, Chapel Hill, 27516, 919.951.0700, briarchapelnc.com/homes/active-adult-55plus-homes

► Galloway Ridge at Fearington. Apartments and villas offer a variety of lifestyle options with amenities like a 49-seat cinema, on-site medically-based fitness center, organized giving opportunities, and long-term skilled nursing and assisted living. 3000 Galloway Ridge Road, Pittsboro, 919.328.2657, gallowayridge.com

► Twin Rivers Independent Senior Living. Apartment-based community with on-call staff available 24 hours a day provides weekly housekeeping and linen service, scheduled meals and activities. Twin Rivers is affiliated with Cambridge Hills Assisted Living, an all-inclusive assisted living community with a 38-bed unit for memory care. 25 S. Rectory Street, Pittsboro, 919.545.0149, silver-thread.com

Senior Games and Silver Arts

Held each spring, Senior Games and Silver Arts offer Olympic-style competitions in about 18 sports and artistic activities in performing arts, visual arts, literary arts and heritage crafts for seniors. Local winners may advance to statewide and national competitions. chathamcouncilonaging.org/activities/senior-games

Senior-Focused Organizations

Other organizations in Chatham provide services and volunteer opportunities focused on seniors.

► Fearington Cares. Nonprofit community care organization holds events and provides a wide range of assistance to residents of Fearington Village who need a helping hand. 28 Swim and Croquet behind the Gathering Place (location), 2020 Fearington Post (mail), Pittsboro, 919.542.6877, fearingtoncares.org

WELLNESS

With healthcare access becoming more important every day, it's comforting to know that Chatham enjoys a remarkable portfolio of resources to help local residents live a healthy life.

As rural hospitals struggle in many communities across the nation, services at Chatham Hospital in Siler City have been expanding. The latest example? Just last fall, a brand-new, $2.6-million Maternity Care Center began delivering babies at the hospital for the first time in almost three decades. They expect to deliver up to 120 babies during this first year of operation.

Two of the world's most respected medical centers are just a few miles over the border — UNC Hospitals in Chapel Hill and Duke University Hospital in Durham — and UNC Health Care provides specialized care at two local centers, one in Chatham Park and the other in Siler City.

Of course, there's much more to wellness than hospitals. Chatham offers home health, nursing, fitness centers, public parks, yoga studios and much more in an area that continues to grow and expand its wellness options every day.

INSIDER'S TIP

THE COVID-19 VACCINE HAS BEEN AUTHORIZED. NOW WHAT?

The COVID-19 vaccine is key to beating this pandemic, so it's important that members of the Chatham community roll up their sleeves and get vaccinated once it's available to them. Vaccine rollout will be done in phases, starting with healthcare providers and long-term care facilities, and will take months. Stay up-to-date at chathamnc.org/coronavirusvaccine.

Chatham County Public Health

With its mission of protecting and promoting the health and safety of residents, the Chatham County Public Health Department is responsible for a wide range of activities including health policy and promotion, family health programs, environmental health and animal services.

Among its many wellness activities, the department employs health educators, nurses and social workers to teach wellness classes, prevent teen pregnancy and transmission of sexually-transmitted diseases, and help residents live a more healthy lifestyle. It also operates a clinic in Siler City and works to enhance environmental health with projects like water quality testing, restaurant inspections and public sanitation programs. chathamnc.org

▶ Administrative Office. 80 East Street, Pittsboro, 919.542.8220

▶ Siler City Clinic. Offers immunizations, maternity care, family planning and primary care for adults and children. 1000 S. Tenth Avenue, Siler City, 919.742.5641

Chatham Hospital

The 25-bed Chatham Hospital is classified as a critical access hospital, one designed to provide high-quality healthcare services in rural communities. Operated as part of the UNC Health Care System, the hospital is accredited by The Joint Commission and has received 12 consecutive five-star ratings for patient experience from the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services.

The facility provides surgical, medical, pediatric and emergency services, as well as outpatient services. The 10-bed emergency department provides full-service, around the clock care. Community-based outpatient services in the areas of diabetes education, physical therapy, imaging, cardiac rehabilitation and pulmonary rehabilitation are also offered. 475 Progress Boulevard, Siler City, 919.799.4000, chathamhospital.org

Duke Center for Living at Fearington

One of the few area fitness centers specializing in medically-based wellness programs, the Duke Center for Living at Fearington helps people make lasting lifestyle changes to improve their health. Facilities include a four-lane, 25-yard indoor pool. 100 Clynelish Close, Pittsboro, 919.545.2133, dukefitnessfearington.com

Duke Health

Associated with Duke University and one of the region's largest healthcare networks, Duke Health has received a number of top rankings from U.S. News & World Report. dukehealth.org
