Pat Sajak and Vanna White spin ABC's 'Celebrity Wheel of Fortune'

If you're playing "Wheel of Fortune," you have to know which letters you want to choose.

However, for a new celebrity version, three letters – namely, ABC – did the choosing.

The network adds Pat Sajak and Vanna White to its roster of primetime game-show personalities as "Celebrity Wheel of Fortune" launches a new Thursday slate of contests starting Jan. 7. (In the others, "The View's" Sara Haines hosts "The Chase," and Craig Ferguson presides over "The Hustler.") Even with stars taking the spins, "Wheel of Fortune" remains the familiar game that's long been a syndication powerhouse, with the celebrity players donating their winnings to charities.

The game itself always is the ultimate "star" of "Wheel of Fortune," though, and Sajak says, "That's been part of my success, recognizing that. It's not 'The Pat Sajak Show.' I may be the most charming and delightful host in the world – and I probably am! – but if there's no game, there's nothing there. You can't get in the way of it."

Viewers "want to see the puzzle and solve it," reasons Sajak. "Unlike most shows like "Jeopardy!," the object is not to try to solve the puzzle first; it's to try to make some money (by picking as many individual letters as possible), so it's leisurely in that sense. The player's not trying to solve it instantly."

That should remain the case as celebrities vie to win money for the organizations they designate. With the late Alex Trebek having hosted a playoff between "Jeopardy!" champions in a special ABC series last winter, Sajak believes that "greased the wheel a little bit" for the "Celebrity Wheel of Fortune" order.

"It's a tricky business," Sajak notes. "The one thing you don't want to start doing is to overexpose the show. In some markets, you'll have a half-hour of (the syndicated) 'Wheel of Fortune' followed by an hour of (the ABC) 'Wheel of Fortune,' and I don't think you can do that too often without watering it down. But for a limited run like this, I think it's fine."

Sajak appreciates the career longevity he's had thanks largely to "Wheel of Fortune," which he has hosted since 1981. His popularity was reaffirmed by the fan outpouring during his absence after emergency intestinal surgery in late 2019. (White moved over and filled in as host, and Sajak's country-singer daughter Maggie was a guest letter-turner.)

"What I take the greatest pride in personally," Sajak reflects, "is that it's very tough to be welcomed into a house for nearly 40 years. The fact that Vanna and I still are is the best thing I can say about it, from a talent or skill point of view."

Checking in with FRAIG FERGUSON

Craig Ferguson had wanted to host another game show, and this time, he's very much in the game himself.

After the actor-comedian and former CBS late-night host's Daytime Emmy-honored run with "Celebrity Name Game," he both guides the competition and acts as a player as ABC debuts "The Hustler" Monday, Jan. 4. (It enters its usual Thursday slot several days later.) One of the contestants already has the answers to the trivia questions posed, but the person has to keep that secret from the others to claim the grand prize.

"I'm kind of slow on the uptake with this kind of thing," the self-effacing, Scottish-born Ferguson muses, "so I was like, 'Wait! What happens?' My agent's office has a big conference room where they rule the world from, and we played the game a couple of times there, and I loved it. I don't just host this, I have to play ... and I don't know who the Hustler is.

"That's a good idea for two reasons," Ferguson notes. 'One, it keeps my attention, and I'm a little easily distracted. And two, it puts me in a completely neutral situation. You usually have to be careful not to give a clue (thus revealing the game's secret), but I can't, because I genuinely don't know. So for the legality of it, it's great."

Seen recently with longtime friend Kathie Lee Gifford in the movie "Then Came You" (which she also wrote), Ferguson reports that "ABC had been looking for a game-show format for me for a while. I'd done a couple of pilots for them over the years that didn't go, and when we hit on this, we knew that this was the one."

Cooks repurpose last night's dinner into 'Best Leftovers Ever!' on Netflix

David So is a stand-up comedian, entrepreneur and restaurateur who absolutely abhors food waste, so doing a show like "Best Leftovers Ever!" was a no-brainer for him.

Currently streaming on Netflix, the half-hour series pits three contestants in a competition to see who can repurpose last night's Pad Thai, duck confit or fried fish sandwich into something delicious that best impresses judges Jackie Tohn ("GLOW"), Rosemary Shrager ("Rosemary: Queen of the Kitchen") and So ("Death of a Telemarketer"). The winner takes home a $10,000 grand prize.

"You know in Los Angeles, I think food waste is a big thing," the LA-based So explains. "You know, everybody feels like they have to buy some new food every day and that's not what I grew up with. I grew up with Mom and Dad making one big meal, usually on the weekends because they were working all the time, and I had to be creative with those leftovers and make something new for myself during the weekdays. ... Like food waste is terrible, like I hate it because I didn't have that growing up. My mom made sure that we used every bit of food in the house and when she did, it tasted good. It's possible, you know?"

The culinary talent presented here is not on the order of restaurant chefs but rather very good home cooks who have a following online and some may have had culinary training. And the creativity is impressive, such as in the opening episode when one contestant created macaroni and cheese from leftover Pad Thai.

So was wowed by that dish but not all outside-the-box thinking will get his vote in this competition if the food doesn't adhere to his rule No. 1

"For me it's always going to be flavor first," he says. "I think that when it comes to some contestants, they're trying to think so hard outside of the box that they forget that the food has to taste good first – because I've got to eat that.

"So it's great that you have a lot of these abilities and you have a lot of these skills that you probably picked up online or you learned from somebody else. That's fine," he continues. "But just don't forget where you came from and don't forget that the food has to taste good first. There's always going to be like the 'wow!' factor and skill, it's cool. But then it's always going to be about what it tastes at the end of the day."

player profile BY GEORGE DICKIE Durant ready for anything with Nets

When Kevin Durant and Kyrie Irving signed free agent contracts with the Brooklyn Nets in July 2019, it gave long-suffering Nets fans visions of Eastern Conference dominance and multiple appearances in the NBA Finals.

But it'd have to wait a year. Durant would first have to recover from a torn Achilles suffered in the '19 NBA Finals, leaving their faithful counting down the days until their dynamic duo would step onto the court together.

Well, that day has arrived and Durant presumably is ready to resume a career that saw him win a league MVP award, two Finals MVP trophies and two NBA titles, among many other laurels.

Before he went down, the former Golden State Warrior and Oklahoma City Thunder/ Seattle SuperSonic was one of the game's most prolific scorers, sporting per-game averages of 26 points, 6.4 rebounds and 5.9 assists. His four scoring championships and 10 All-Star selections attest to that.

A small forward for much of his 12-year NBA career, the 6-feet-10-inch, 240-pound Durant will slot into that position in Brooklyn as well as play some power forward and center in new head coach Steve Nash's "small ball 5" scheme. He'll also be used to bring the ball up court on possession changes.

He's ready for whatever is asked of him and he's hoping his heel tendon will be, too. "I'm just looking forward to seeing how my body responds ...," he said.

Durant and the Nets can be seen in action Thursday, Jan. 7, against their Atlantic Division rivals the Philadelphia 76ers in the early game of a TNT doubleheader.

OF 'NURSES' ON NBC

As "Nurses" settles into its regular time period after its December preview showings, what do you think about its timeliness, given the coronavirus pandemic?

When we started making Season 1, COVID-9 wasn't around, but it was still exciting to be able to do a show about nurses and to honor them. I don't think any of us quite realized how important the stories were that we were telling until we started filming Season 2 (for the show's home market, Canada) We started that pre-pandemic, then we had a four-month hiatus and then started up again while everything was still going on.

In working on Season 2, has the pandemic been folded into the stories as a subject, as other medical shows have been doing lately?

Well, everything had already been written, so it was a matter of this being something happening in the world now and how we acknowledge it. Without giving too much away, some of the storylines definitely changed, because it's not something a medical drama can ignore.

What sort of research did you do for this role?

I didn't know when I got cast what it was going to be like on the set, whether they would have someone for us there (as a technical adviser). I have a friend who's a doctor in Scotland, and I basically called him and said, "Just tell me stories." I wanted to have information and possible scenarios in my head, things that doctors and nurses would have gone through. We talk all the time anyway, but I just wanted to have that added weight to it.

And we do have a medical adviser with us on the set all day, every day. Even for scenes that aren't medically heavy, he's there to make us look like we know what we're doing and to help us pronounce things right.

Clint Eastwood shows his Western stuff in 'Hang 'Em High'

Clint Eastwood starred in the television series "Rawhide," but after his success in the foreign-produced Man With No Name hits, he still had to prove he could carry an American-made Western.

Not surprisingly, that chance came quickly, since other producers were eager to cash in ASAP on the actor's worldwide mega-fame. "Coogan's Bluff" was a modern Western of sorts, but a more traditional entry in the genre followed with 1968's "Hang 'Em High," which Turner Classic Movies shows Friday, Jan. 8 - actually as the lead-off attraction in an all-night tribute to co-star Pat Hingle.

"Hang 'Em High' telegraphs that it will have surprises right from the opening scene, in which the central character is left for dead by a lynch mob in an impromptu hanging. It shouldn't be much of a spoiler to report that it doesn't succeed, since no filmmaker in his right mind was going to kill off Clint Eastwood in the first five minutes of a movie starring him. (As it happens, the filmmaker in question was producer Leonard Freeman, who launched the original "Hawaii Five-O" the same year; that show's James MacArthur appears briefly here as

With quite a bruise around his neck as a reminder of his near-fate, Eastwood's Jed Cooper is determined to even the score with those who would have killed him - including none other than the Skipper from "Gilligan's Island," Alan Hale Jr. – but a judge (Hingle) cautions him not to become a vigilante himself. Since Cooper was a marshal previously, he's allowed to return to that job, giving him the means to cross paths with his assailants and pursue personal justice while also serving the needs of his badge.

The leader of the nasties, played by Ed Begley, is saved for last in revenge terms ... and if "Hang Em High" plays like an extended TV episode (with some movie violence thrown in), that's not a shock. It was the first feature film directed by Ted Post, who had cut his teeth on lots of work for the home screen, including a number of "Rawhide" installments that first teamed him with Eastwood. (They would reunite again later on the first "Dirty Harry" sequel, "Magnum Force.")

Plenty of other familiar faces pass through "Hang Em High," including Ben Johnson, Bruce Dern, Dennis Hopper and just about anyone else who wasn't working on a John Wayne picture that month. Truly, many of the same actors tended to turn up in movie Westerns of that period. Along with Eastwood at an early stage of his superstardom, they help keep "Hang 'Em High" edgy yet familiar, and still fresh enough that it has stayed a cable staple for many years.

OF 'TRAFFICKED WITH MARIANA VAN ZELLER' ON NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC

This is an extremely dangerous underworld to explore. What security measures did you employ to keep production safe?

That's a very good question. You know, the access that we get takes months, sometimes even years to get. Miguel (Angel Vega) knows this well. I worked more with Miguel than any other fixer or local journalist in the world. Miguel is based in Culiacán in Sinaloa, Mexico. And I've actually reported more from Culiacán than any whose also reported more from Culiacán than anywhere else in the world, including my hometown here in Los Angeles. And so, it takes a lot of time to gain access into these worlds. A lot of trust building. And there's a lot of security measures put in

Are you not afraid of repercussions from those who disagree with this series?

We go through enormous lengths to protect the identities of those that we speak to. You know, everything from covering and their whole bodies, tattoos, anything. They're not disclosing locations. Miguel knows that every single cut, every time we cut one of these episodes, the first person we send it to is Miguel, who sees himself, when we're working with him, in anything that has to do with cartel, for example. And he sees and makes sure that nothing is identifiable. So that's one way of protecting not only the people that spoke to us, our sources, but ourselves.

But, ultimately ... we come back as journalists. We four journalists always say that we are the lucky ones because we get to come back to the safety of our own homes, but people like Miguel, who are local journalists uncovering these incredibly important stories, aren't as lucky, and they have to stay back which is, you know, why it's important for us to make sure that he sees it and that (Miguel feels) comfortable with the material that we're putting out there.

Viewers help PBS create an 'American Portrait' in limited series

When PBS began soliciting videos from viewers about their lives, the phrase "coronavirus pandemic" wasn't part of the daily vocabulary.

Of course, much has changed, and the current health crisis inevitably became a factor in "PBS American Portrait." The website-based initiative to help mark the Public Broadcasting Service's 50th anniversary yielded a couple of 2020 broadcast specials, but the main documentary series assembled from those submitted videos begins its four-week run Tuesday, Jan. 5 (check local listings).

Each one-hour installment has a central theme as people from various parts of the country tell their self-recorded stories. The premiere – subtitled "I Dream" – shows how certain residents of Alaska, Illinois and Virginia have pursued the so-called "American dream." The limited series' later subjects are "I Work," "I Keep" and "I Rice"

"COVID has had an impact on our American dream, on what we want and what we desire out of life," notes Michele Stephenson, a producer of "American Portrait" via originating company BY JAY BOBBIN

RadicalMedia." She explains the challenge was in "figuring out how to pivot that (into the overall project) without being specifically and completely totally engulfed by the pandemic."

PBS programming executive Bill Margol says of the result, "The thing that I have been surprised at is, no matter what the circumstances are and no matter what the stories people submit are, there is an undercurrent of hope. There is an undercurrent of, 'Yeah, this is my situation,' whether it is a good situation or a bad situation – but everyone seems to have hope, a resolve that things will get better or they can change things."

Indeed, RadicalMedia project supervisor Craig D'Entrone reasons that in both in the broadcast version and additional material on the related website (www.pbs.org/american-portrait), "American Portrait" has an undercurrent of strength and optimism that may be particularly beneficial now.

NBC will 'Transplant' more of medical drama into its lineup

Q: I was sorry to see "Transplant" end. Will there be more of it? – Josh Barnes, Belleville, Ill.

A: In fact, there will be. The medical drama featuring John Hannah was a huge hit in its native Canada, where it aired well before NBC picked it up for its American debut. Despite being moved around the schedule a bit, and even being off the air for a while during election season, the show hung in well

Q: Is "A Million Little Things" actually filmed in Boston? – Mike Wade, Attleboro, Mass.

A: Location work for certain scenes has been done in Massachusetts for the ABC drama, now in its third season, but its main production base is Vancouver. There's surely much less back-and-forth by cast and crew members for the show's current round because of the coronavirus pandemic, but the producers and writers can be creative by inserting generic footage that was filmed in Boston previously.

BEST ELVIS PRESLEY MOVIES

"Love Me Tender" (1956)Presley's first movie role turned an average Civil War story into an event - and also got the picture's title altered, thanks to one of the tunes he crooned. "Loving You" (1957)Mirroring Presley's own rise to stardom, this rags-to-riches drama boasts one of his most sensitive performances, before he entered the phase of having his songs hung on threadbare plots.

"Jailhouse Rock" (1957) The famous scene with Presley singing, and gyrating to, the title tune says it all about this classic. This is among the features Turner Classic Movies will show in a Presley birthday tribute Friday, Jan. 8.

"Viva Las Vegas" (1964)Presley's ultimate star vehicle gave him an ideal partner in Ann-Margret and pretty much set the blueprint (he races cars!) for numerous other Elvis movies.

"Roustabout" (1964) This arguably was the best of Presley's efforts once he got into "Blue Hawaii" (1961) You couldn't hope more of a cookie-cutter mode (he's a cycleriding carnival worker!) with his movies.

"Charro!" (1969)Commendably, Presley tried to turn his screen career around - but pretty late in the game - by not singing a note in this mature Western.

"Elvis: That's the Way It Is" (1970)It's a boxer who succeeds in the ring, though he ironic that one of Presley's final movies offers one of his most dynamic screen appearances, before, during and after a Las Vegas concert
