'Marvel's M.O.D.O.K.' proves that even evil megalomaniacs can have their problems

He may be a Mental Organism Designed Only for Killing, but the title character in a stop-motion animated Marvel series upcoming on Hulu is really just an insecure little boy at

In "Marvel's M.O.D.O.K.," premiering Friday, May 21, we are introduced to M.O.D.O.K. (voice of Patton Oswalt), a canister-shaped, clearly immature megalomaniac who floats around in his hover chair and vaporizes any who get in his way. He's the head of A.I.M., short for Advanced Idea Mechanics, whose motto is "settling for nothing less than conquering the world."

But the reality is A.I.M. is in trouble. Years of producing hair-brained tech toys like a Fitbit for pets and a cerebral cortex manipulator have left the firm in dire financial straits and even his right hand Monica (voice of Wendi McLendon-Covey) thinks he should step down. Worse, the search engine GRUMBL has designs on a buyout.

Things at home aren't much better. Wife Jodie (voice of Aimee Garcia), a social media star, has had it with her husband's selfish, self-involved behavior and offspring Lou and Melissa (Ben Schwartz, Melissa Fumero) don't have much of a relationship with him, either.

So with his company and his family life in ruins, M.O.D.O.K. is in for fight of his life.

The series was created by Oswalt and Jordan Blum and is based on the character from the Marvel Comic universe.

"There's this humor already built into the character of this megalomaniacal supervillain with a huge ego," Blum explains, "who has this self-doubt that kind of creeps through. And it drives him, and it makes him want to be taken seriously and want to be seen as something more. So having this as the basis of who this character was in the Marvel comics and then being able to explore that, you know, with his family and how he's seen at work, it kind of just lent itself to this type of show."

"We went back and looked at the original v'M.O.D.O.K.' comics," adds Oswalt, a longtime Marvel fan, "and he ... wasn't meant to be comedic, but he's so over-the-top rageful that a lot of (the scenes are) very unintentionally funny, I think. He is truly his own worst enemy. And as far as the blood and gore, we decided to take it to just Monty Python level so it doesn't feel offensive or disturbing. It's hilarious. We just said, 'Let's go way over the top with it.'

Oswalt, who has an extensive voice-acting resume that includes the TV series "BoJack Horseman," "Spider-Man" and "American Dad" and the feature films "Ratatouille" and "The Secret Life of Pets 2," says he had no problem coming up with the voice of a childish megalomaniac.

"I hate to say this because he's such a twisted, damaged character," he says, "but M.O.D.O.K.'s voice is just an amplified ... more treble-y version of my own voice. It's me when I'm at my most whiniest and angriest and petty. So that's all I had to do, was sort of crank it up that way. He was very, very fun to vocalize."

For Jasmine Davis, her breakthrough role as transgender hairstylist Imani in "The Chi" has proven to be therapeutic.

The trans actress often uses the Method – an acting technique that requires the actor to immerse oneself in their character's mindset and motivations – to create a character. So she will often fall back on experiences from her own past to inform behavior on screen, which also means reliving and working through a lot of pain.

But she has a coping mechanism for that.

"It's actually embracing it and learning how to manage it," explains Davis, who like her character is a South Side Chicago native, "and that's when I took this character on knowing that there are going to be some things that I'm going to be triggered by being here. ... So to do it in a very healthy way, I know that I have to let these triggers affect me but how can I manage it in a healthy way? And so I learned to do that through my acting coaches and my therapy, it's like managing it, accepting it. How are you going to manage it? You know, make sure you're aware of this. How does it make you feel?"

In Season 4, which premieres Sunday, May 23, on Showtime (and Crave 1 in Canada), Imani's world expands as she opens her own shop and interacts with more of the community on Chicago's South Side. At home, she's settled into domestic life with boyfriend Trig (Luke James), and together they're now raising Jake (Michael Epps), of whom they became guardians in Season 3.

"People don't get to see these type of on TV," Davis says.
"You know, even though they exist in real life, we don't really get to see a transgender woman with relationships and families

transgender woman with a guy who is heterosexual raising a kid, going to school and Imani's stepping into the mother role and trying to help nurture and mother this kid to get him on the right path."

Bakers turn detective to recreate delicious desserts on Fox's 'Crime Scene Kitchen'

Fans of baking and forensic investigation will likely find a unique new competition series upcoming on Fox suits their tastes.

In each episode of "Crime Scene Kitchen," premiering Wednesday, May 26, contestants are tasked with entering a kitchen and then using a scant few clues left behind – crumbs, trails of flour, contents of a trash can, etc. – determining the delicious dessert that had just been consumed. They then must set about recreating the confection. The baker who not only gets the dish right but also most impresses the judges – chef Curtis Stone and cake artist Yolanda Gampp – wins a $100,000 grand prize.

So not only is there baking know-how and technical expertise at play here but also deductive reasoning, a mix Joel McHale – the show's host and a non-baker – found fascinating.

"When you go in the kitchen, you have to check everything," he explains, "including like the bulletin board, you can check the garbage, you have to check the dishwasher. And the (contestants) are like, 'Well, I used milk.' And (the judges are) like, 'You shouldn't have. Why? Because the milk was not opened. Just because it's there doesn't mean it was used.' So there are a couple of misdirects which drive people out of their minds. It's great, and the clues only get harder and harder as the thing goes on. So sometimes you wind up with close to everybody baking the same thing and then other times just everything is different."

And it is in those other times when things get interesting as contestants will create an absolutely over-the-top spectacular dessert worthy of winning any baking contest — but it's only problem is it's wrong. The judges then must decide whether that baker continues or goes home.

The contestants are a mix of professional and home bakers, some of whom thrive under the bright lights of televised competition while others grapple with their nerves. It is the job of McHale, a stand-up comic by trade, to keep things light and enable the competitors to focus.

"I am a Golden Retriever dropping the tennis ball in front of you so you'll throw it," he says. "So I enjoy all that and I literally get my energy from it. ... I enjoy getting to know the bakers; they all have very interesting backgrounds. ... So I think Fox wanted a non-baker or non-chef as their host just to keep everything kind of — you know, the judges are the experts and the host is the person making loud noises into a microphone and the bakers are baking."

playerprofile BY GEORGE DICKIE Chase Elliott: NASCAR's king of the road course

Fans asked and NASCAR answered: There will be more road courses on the 2021 Cup schedule - seven to be exact. And it is on this type of track where Chase Elliott excels.

In fact, were it not for a late-race spinout in February's O'Reilly Auto Parts 253 on Daytona International Speedway's road course, he might be going for his sixth straight win in the inaugural EchoPark Texas Grand Prix, which airs on FS1 Sunday, Feb. 23, from the Circuit of the Americas in Austin.

Dating back to August 2019, he'd bagged four consecutive wins on the twisty configurations, taking checkered flags at Watkins Glen, Daytona and two on the Charlotte Roval. And his overall stats on road courses are impressive. In 13 career races, he's won five, with six top 5's, eight top 10's and 284 laps led – all numbers that far outpace those of any other active Cup driver. And his four-straight wins is exceeded only by only Jeff Gordon's six from 1997 to 2000.

As for the secret of his success, Elliott once remarked that there is none other than "trying to be better than we were last time." His crew chief Alan Gustafson, however, was a little more succinct. "I think it's him ...," he said. "He's really, really good."

Whatever the case, Elliott will be taking to the 20-turn, 3.426-mile track of the Circuit of Americas on Sunday to do battle with the likes of Joey Logano, Kevin Harvick, Martin Truex Jr. and others in pursuit of his fifth road course victory in six races.

"Panic"

Creator Lauren Oliver used her young adult novel of the same name as the basis for this hourlong drama about a group of graduating Texas high-school seniors who compete in an annual series of challenges that this year has ramped up to dangerous levels. Olivia Welch, Mike Naist, Jessica Sula and Enrique Murciano ("Without a Trace") head the cast. (ORIGINAL)

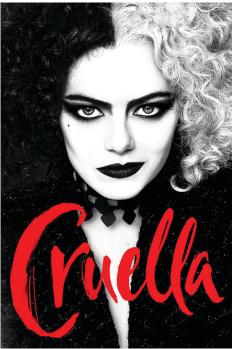

"Movie: Shadow in the Cloud"

Roseanne Liang ("Do No Harm," "My Wedding and Other Secrets") co-wrote and directed this 2020 horror actioner about a World War II pilot (Chloe Grace Moretz, "Dark Shadows") traveling with classified documents who encounters an evil entity aboard her B-17 flying fortress. Nick Robinson, Beulah Koale, Taylor John Smith and Callan Mulvey also star in this U.S./New Zealand co-production.

"The Kominsky Method"

With best friend and longtime agent Norman gone, the spian-turned-acting coach Sandy Kominsky (Michael Douglas) faces the future alone — that is until he gets word his ex-wife Roz (Kathleen Turner, Douglas' "Romancing the Stone" and "The War of the Roses" co-star) is coming to town to spend time with daughter Mindy (Sarah Baker) in the third and finale season of this comedy. (ORIGINAL)

"Cruella" (May 28)

This origin story is set in the punk rock era of 1970s London, where young grifter Estella (Emma Stone) is determined to make a name for herself with her designs. Catching the eye of fashionista Baroness von Hellman (Emma Thompson), their partnership sets in motion a series of events that will cause the girl to embrace her dark side and become the evil Cruella. celebrity q&a Pam Dawber

BY JAY BOBBIN

OF 'NCIS' ON CBS

Now that you're finally acting opposite your husband Mark Harmon on "NCIS," what do you think the draw is between your reporter character Marcie and his Gibbs?

My makeup artist Tina, who's just fabulous, said to me during the third episode I did, "You know what's so great about this? I've been on this show for 18 years, and everybody is scared of Gibbs. But you're just right in his face!" He's just the antithesis of Marcie. He frustrates the heck out of her, and he kind of quietly appreciates her, but she annoys the heck out of him ... so it's really fun.

How did you find both living and working with Mark for the time you were doing the show?

We didn't drive to work together or come home together. I had a 6 a.m. call – which is why I really have no interest in going back into show business! – but he had other things to do, so he had to stay, and there was still a bit of separation. I could listen to what went on with the rest of his day.

Marcie is so chatty and Gibbs is so much like a dial tone, I got most of the lines in our scenes. Each script (of the four Dawber did) was written by a different team, and they were all so open to anything. I'd say, "I'm going to suggest something, but if it doesn't make any sense" And they were all so wonderful, it was a real collaboration. It was almost like we were all creating at the same time, and it was great.

Did you know that it was a four-episode "NCIS" stint you were signing up for?

I wasn't sure, and I don't even know if they were sure. I said, "Let's start out with two." That was my original deal. They were flying by the seat of their pants because with COVID, everything has been much more difficult. This ("NCIS") season is only 16 episodes, so the network has been sandwiching new episodes between reruns. And this has been a continuing story.

movie review

BY JAY BOBBIN

'Wonder Woman 1984' proves super enough

Apart from being a much-anticipated sequel, "Wonder Woman 1984" had a lot of significance when the business of movie exhibition was in a forced transition period.

Now in its regular HBO run - with showings Tuesday, May 25, and Friday, May 28 - the Gal Gadotstarring adventure directed by fellow returnee Patty Jenkins became the yardstick by which Warner Bros determined whether it was viable to profit from placing a new movie on the HBO Max streaming service at the same time it opened in whatever theaters were available in the time of the coronavirus pandemic. That turned out to be promising enough for the studio to do the same thing with its entire slate of 2021 releases.

With its expected action set pieces, "Wonder Woman 1984" clearly was designed to be seen first on big screens ... but the fact is that many people get their initial exposure to movies at home, where they likely would have watched this for the first time anyway, pandemic or not. The ultimate question is whether a film is entertaining, wherever one watches it, and the "Wonder Woman" follow-up fills that bill.

Here, the setting does indeed advance to the mid-1980s, when the Amazonian heroine's alter ego Diana Prince (Gadot) is in America's capital working at The Smithsonian. So is an envious colleague (played by Kristen Wiig) who gains superpowers via a stolen but recovered artifact, which then is swiped by a business titan (Pedro Pascal) for his own nefarious purposes.

As sequel stories go, "Wonder Woman 1984" is a pretty good one, with Jenkins and DC Comics staple Geoff Johns among its writers. It also finds a way to bring Chris Pine back as Wonder Woman's love Steve Trevor that's at once fantastical and sensible within the boundaries of the tale and the genre. Robin Wright and Connie Nielsen also reprise their roles as the maternal figures to the title character.

While the personal subplots play fine in any medium, the one area in which viewers might wish they'd seen "Wonder Woman 1984" in a theater first is the special-effects-driven material. Bear in mind that four decades ago, certain world threats existed that aren't as consistently prominent now (though they still loom in the background and occasionally resurface); the script smartly makes use of those, generating spectacle that remains best-seen on a giant screen.

Still, "Wonder Woman 1984" gets the job done, to the extent that another sequel is in the works. Like James Bond (we think, since his latest caper still awaits its release), she will return.

"The Cube" (TBS — series premiere, June 10)

NBA All-Star Dwayne Wade hosts this new U.S. adaptation of a hit U.K. competition series in which contestant pairs must demonstrate their skill, determination and sheer nerve as they attempt seemingly straightforward mental and physical tasks. Unfortunately for them, those challenges become exponentially harder because they're confined in the titular glass box that seems to have a mind and attitude of its own. While trying to win the $250,000 jackpot, each team can bring in Wade to compete on their behalf for one attempt only. "Us on Masterpiece" (PBS — series premiere, June 20)

OF 'IN TREATMENT' ON HBO AND HBO MAX

As you assume the lead role of "In Treatment" for its fourth season, how do you assess your therapist character Brooke Taylor?

I think there's something to be said about patients coming into a therapist's home. There's a face that therapists wear when they're treating, a sort of a mask that protects from judgment and any sort of feeling that the patient might interpret from them so that they feel like they're getting a compassionate, open ear.

Since much of your performance in the series relies heavily on interaction with those playing the patients, how do you view the rest of the cast?

Without question, the actors in this show are absolutely incredible. They're fierce. They're dynamic. They are nuanced. They are strong. They just shine brilliantly.

You do feel like you get the opportunity to sit in the front row to watch them just be impressive in a variety of ways ... not only with their acting, but also with the level of preparation that they bring to their performances, and the different dynamics that they bring into their very long speeches that they have to prepare. It's amazing. It's my favorite part, because they do it with such fire.

Given the times we've been living in lately, how do you think "In Treatment" now reflects those?

Even in this pandemic, as you hear her say in the show, (Brooke) shows up for her patients. She shows up for them no matter what. And even during quarantine, she shows up dressed, ready to be of service to them.

I think that also extends as far as her opening them up to her own experiences, to help invite them to come closer to the things that they're looking to confront. That being said, I think what's also been interesting in doing this show is that you also get to watch how that type of therapy and treatment is exercised from patient to patient and session to session.

TCM does its part again in observing Memorial Day

In a time when vaccinations, face masks and social distancing have altered the world, Memorial Day will remain what it always has Certain traditions of the holiday had to change by necessity last year as the coronavirus pandemic took hold, not only in America but around the world, and many of those shifts will stay in place this year as the campaign to combat the health crisis continues. Still, those who have defended the United States in times of war will be honored in ways that are traditional if revised ... including television commemorations.

One of the foremost is Turner Classic Movies' annual weekend of military-themed films planned to mark Memorial Day. The lineup will encompass virtually all of the major military conflicts of the 20th century, with a particular emphasis on World War II, which gave Hollywood a bounty of tales to tell between true stories and others that built fictional plots atop actual circumstances of

The 2021 edition of the TCM marathon begins Friday, May 28, with "Pride of the Marines," starring John Garfield – who also appears in "Destination Tokyo" the next day. Also on the schedule for Saturday, May 29, are the James Garner features "Darby's Rangers," "Up Periscope" and "36 Hours," plus Andy Griffith in "No Time for Sergeants."

Sunday, May 30, returns several staples of Memorial Day programming to TCM:

John Wayne in "The Green Berets"; Clint Eastwood in "Kelly's Heroes" and (with Richard Burton) "Where Eagles Dare"; and Steve McQueen and (again) James Garner in "The Great Escape."

Those rising very early on Memorial Day itself – Monday, May 31 – can watch another TCM mainstay, "The Dirty Dozen," with a brawny cast including Lee Marvin, Charles Bronson and football legend Jim Brown, On that last day of the marathon, John Wayne's "Flying Leathernecks" and the potent duo of Clark Gable and Burt Lancaster in "Run Silent, Run Deep" also will be presented.

Though some things about Memorial Day may be different, then, much will stay the same ... with TCM doing its part to keep it that way.

Where art thou, Archie? 'Riverdale' plans its return

Q: When will "Riverdale" be back? - Pam Davis, Greenville, Mich.

A: The CW has set the KJ Apa-starring Archie Comics revision's fifth season to resume Aug. 11 ... delayed from its previously intended July return. If that seems like a long break, well, it is. There have been several reasons for it, one being the network's need to find a slot for its "Kung Fu" reboot, which has occupied that Wednesday hour since early April. However, there also were production delays related to the coronavirus pandemic, so filming of Season 5 isn't due to be completed until June – which also means later air dates for the remaining episodes.

Q: Is it true that there's going to be a version of "NCIS" set in Hawaii next season? - Don Shain, via e-mail

A: It is, and it effectively trades one "NCIS" for another ... given that "NCIS: New Orleans" ends its seven-year CBS run Sunday, May 23. Some of the casting already has been done for the new show, and the pivotal role of the team leader has gone to Vanessa Lachey – which we deem to be a very interesting choice. A lot of her television work has been on the lighter side, as when she succeeded Jill Wagner as the sideline reporter on the original "Wipeout," but that surely won't be the case for her in an "NCIS" show. It also makes sense that CBS would choose Hawaii as a location, since that long has been one of the network's favorite sites to showcase, dating back to the original version of "Hawaii Five-0" and continuing through that series' later reboot. The same goes for Tom Selleck's "Magnum, P.I." and its current Jay Rodriguez-starring version, and it also pertains to some lesser-known dramas CBS has done over the years, such as the Richard . Chamberlain vehicle "Island Son.'

BEST JAMES GARNER PROJECTS

"Maverick" (1957-62) Though he left the popular, often-lighthearted Western series early over a contract dispute (not the only one he'd have in his career), Garner became a star as gambler and ladies' man Bret Maverick.

"The Great Escape" (1963) In this all-timegreat adventure movie, based on a true story, Garner plays one of the Allied prisoners plotting a getaway from a World War II camp.

"36 Hours" (1964) This clever World War II drama - being shown Saturday, May 29, as part of Turner Classic Movies' Memorial Day Weekend marathon - casts Garner as an imprisoned officer whose captors try to convince him the war is over, to get him to give up vital information.

"Grand Prix" (1966) Director John Frankenheimer's drama, which uses exciting driver's point-of-view and split-screen techniques plentifully, sees Garner lead an all-star cast as a veteran of the international racing circuit.

Wayatt Earp in this mature Western that reunited him with "The Great Escape" director John Sturges.

"Support Your Local Sheriff!" (1969) After making several serious Westerns, Garner spoofed the genre in this comedy about an unlikely lawman who grows into the job.

"The Rockford Files" (1974-80) Garner's famously laid-back personality gave him another television hit, as he played a flawed private detective who still managed to get his cases solved. After the weekly run ended, Garner made several TV-movie seauels

"Victor/Victoria" (1982) Reunited with Julie Andrews and directed by her husband, Blake Edwards, Garner plays a Chicago gangster who can't believe her character is the female impersonator she's posing as.

"Murphy's Romance" (1985) Garner earned his only Oscar nomination as a pharmacist who develops a May-December romance with a divorced

"Hour of the Gun" (1967) Garner makes a fine mom (Sally Field, who has called Garner the best kisser she ever worked with) new to his small town.

"Promise" (1986) This Emmy-winning drama boasts superb work by Garner as a man who has to assume custody of his troubled younger brother (James Woods).

Barbarians at the Gate" (1993) This terrific, fact-based cable movie takes a whimsical approach as Garner plays the chief of RJR Nabisco, whose bid to take over the company sets up a labyrinth of financing complications,

"8 Simple Rules" (2003-05) Producers wisely enlisted Garner to help carry this series forward as the father-in-law of the character played by John Ritter, who suddenly passed away during the show's

"The Notebook" (2004) One of Garner's most popular projects came toward the end of his career, a relationship drama that spans several decades. And if you don't have tissues for the ending, at least you've been forewarned.

InFocus

Adapted from David Nicholls' Booker Prize-nominated novel, this new two-part, four-hour dramedy (which concludes next Sunday) revolves around Douglas and Connie (Tom Hollander, Saskia Reeves), a scientist and artist respectively, whose once provocative differences in personality have only become more tedious over the course of their 20-year marriage. Now that their moody son, Albie (Tom Taylor, "The Dark Tower"), is about to head to university, Douglas thinks it's the perfect time for one last big family vacation. Connie, however, thinks it's the perfect time to ask for a di-

"College Bowl" (NBC — series premiere, June 22)

Three-person teams from some of the nation's top schools battle it out for scholarships in a bracketed tournament over four rounds in this new academic competition. Members of each team work together to answer questions on a wide variety of subjects, with the eventual top two schools advancing to the finals, where they face off for the College Bowl trophy and a scholarship. Former football superstar Peyton Manning serves as host, with his older brother Cooper as a sidekick and co-host.
