HBO's 'The Gilded Age' a tale of upheaval in late-1800s New York

Old money clashes with new amid the changing economic order of late-1800s New York in a period drama from "Downton Abbey" creator Julian Fellowes that is upcoming on HBO.

In "The Gilded Age," premiering Monday, Jan. 24, it's 1882 and there is a growing conflict between the old ways and the new. One side is represented by New York socialites Agnes van Rhijn and Ada Brook (Christine Baranski, "The Good Fight," Cynthia Nixon, "And Just Like That ..."), old money sisters who take young niece Marian Brook (Louisa Jacobson, "Gone Hollywood") into their Fifth Ave. brownstone following the death of her father.

To their dismay, their new neighbors are George and Bertha Russell (Morgan Spector, "The Plot Against America," Carrie Coon, "The Nest"), whom they regard as new money riffraff despite that he has made a fortune in railroads and she is a social climber and a capable woman in her own right.

Caught between these worlds is Marian, who must decide whether her future lies with the established order or in going her own way.

The nine-episode first season was filmed in late 2020 and early 2021 around New York City as well as in Newport, R.I., and Troy, N.Y. The turn-of-the-century architecture at these locations was a source of fascination for Spector, who embraced the chance to play someone from that era, albeit with some trepidation.

"You know, I'm married to a British actor," Spector, the husband of Rebecca Hall ("Passing"), notes, "and when they start they do a lot of this type of drama, this sort of this era, the sort of high-style, high-language stuff. I'd done it in school but never really professionally so I was a little nervous about approaching it.

"But I think it's sort of a testament to Julian's abilities as a writer," he continues, "that you sort of slip into it quite easily, actually. But yeah, I really loved George. I love his combination of ruthlessness and deep love for his family and sweetness with his children. It gives you a lot to sort of oscillate between."

Coon, meanwhile, loved that Bertha was her own woman with her own mind and thinks that had she existed in a later time, could conceivably be a senator or an entrepreneur.

"What I related to particularly with Bertha was an egalitarian marriage where her husband was not intimidated by her ambitions," she says. "That's certainly something I share with my husband (actor/playwright Tracy Letts, "Divorce") and so he's my biggest champion. And I loved that Bertha and George have this passionate, equal, sexual relationship at the center of this story.

"I found that very relatable and very compelling – and very fresh and contemporary-feeling," she continues. "You know, not some stodgy period piece. These are people with the flesh-and-blood compulsions and I really appreciated that about them."

Checking in with JOHN ORTZ

The family that makes wine together stays together.

At least, that's the rationale behind "Promised Land," an ABC drama series that premieres Monday, Jan. 24. Stage veteran John Ortiz – seen previously in such shows as "Luck" and "Togetherness" – plays the patriarch of a vineyard-operating clan in California's Sonoma Valley that's challenged for wealth and power by a rival dynasty, the leader of which is portrayed by "Scandal" alum Bellamy Young. Christina Ochoa ("Animal Kingdom") and Cecilia Suarez also are members of the show's largely Latinx regular cast.

"It definitely brings to mind some of those great family-driven dramas with lots at stake," Ortiz says, "like 'Dynasty' or 'Succession,' or even one of my favorite movies of all time, 'The Godfather.' It's the push and pull and ins and outs of family/business life."

The artistic director and co-founder of the LAByrinth Theater Company, Ortiz describes his "Promised Land" alter ego, Joe Sandoval, as "a passionate, hard-working man who has given his life to nothing but the earth and the vineyard and his family. He has poured his heart and soul and sweat into the land, and he is incredibly driven by the opportunity that this country has provided for him. And he intends to be successful at it, at all costs."

The costs are raised considerably by Young's character, "who also happens to be Joe's ex-wife and the mother of three of his children," as Ortiz explains. "He has a foundation that I think is pure, and if anything, the 'cracks' in him stem from his belief in right and wrong. And what some people might characterize as 'stubborn' can become a fault."

'Fast Foodies' returns for Season 2 with more repartee and reimagined dishes

Anyone who has found their curiosity piqued by the reimagined dishes on truTV's "Fast Foodies" can actually try a few – if they happen to be in the St. Paul, Minn., area, that is.

That's the home of the Handsome Hog, the Southern cuisine eatery owned by Justin Sutherland, one of the chefs on the show. On the Thursday nights the series airs, he has watch parties featuring the dish he's creating onscreen as that night's special. It's a clever bit of entrepreneurship that he reports has paid off.

"Last season every Thursday was standing room only ...," he notes. "This season, we definitely are going to do a lot more now that we know the demand for it and are a little bit more prepared. We've got some dishes planned out. I don't know the episodic breakdown yet fully, so once I figure out the order of episodes, we're definitely going to plan some dishes to coincide with our watch parties."

As the second season kicks off Thursday, Jan. 27, Sutherland and fellow chefs Kristen Kish and Jeremy Ford again put their imaginations and culinary chops to the test creating reimagined fast food dishes for celebrity guests to sample and choose which is best. This season, they include comic Nikki Glazer ("Blind Date"), actor Jesse Tyler Ferguson ("Modern Family"), comic/actress Natasha Leggero ("Another Period"), "Saturday Night Live" player Bobby Moynihan and NBA commentator Baron Davis.

In Thursday's season opener, Glazer is the show's guest diner, someone who Sutherland says he has always admired. And the chemistry is evident as the repartee between Glazer and the three chefs is easy and entertaining.

Keeping up with stand-up comics, people who make their living being fast on their feet and funny off the cuff, can be challenging for some. But Sutherland says that kind of interplay has proven stimulating for him and his castmates.

"It's great. It keeps the energy up," he says. "It gives us something more to do than just cook. And I think honestly, it's a lot of back-and-forth. I think there's moments where we're keeping them on their toes and from the majority of the guests that we've had, I think it's been a really good back-and-forth of all of us making each other laugh and keeping each other on our toes. ...

"But at the end of the day, it's our show," he continues, "and we've got to balance being the host of our show and kind of maintaining control (with) also playing off of their jokes. And yeah, I think we've all gotten better at improv and keeping the things moving."

Donovan Mitchell has the Jazz on his chest but the Mets in his heart

Donovan Mitchell's formidable game may belong to the Utah Jazz but his rooting interests lie in another sport entirely. And it's mainly thanks to his father.

Indeed, the 25-year-old All-Star shooting guard spent much of his childhood in Major League locker rooms, the result of his father Donovan Sr. being in the employ of the New York Mets' front office. So naturally he grew up rooting for the Amazin's with a poster of David Wright on his bedroom wall in the Mitchells' suburban New York home.

In fact, the younger Mitchell himself might have had a baseball career had fate not intervened. In his sophomore year at the Canterbury School in Connecticut, he suffered a broken wrist in an infield collision that ended his season. He turned his focus to basketball and transferred to Brewster Academy in New Hampshire, where his play attracted the attention of college recruiters.

After two years at the University of Louisville, where he was First Team All-ACC his sophomore season, Mitchell declared for the 2017 NBA Draft and was selected 13th overall by the Denver Nuggets, then sent to the Jazz in a draft night trade.

Now in his fifth season with the Jazz, Mitchell has established himself as an elite scorer with the ability to take it to the rim or shoot it from beyond the arc and dominate games. With the Jazz owning one of the top seeds in the West, his talents certainly will be instrumental in a postseason run.

Mitchell and the Jazz can be seen in action Wednesday, Jan. 26, when they host the Phoenix Suns in a game airing on ESPN.

"The Accidental Wolf"

"Succession" actor Arian Moayed is the creative force behind this thriller series about Katie (Kelli O'Hara, "13 Reasons Why"), a Manhattan housewife and mother who takes action when she receives a mysterious call from a panicked man who evidently is fighting for survival and pleading for the life of his pregnant, wounded wife. Raul Castillo, Mike Doyle, Judith Ivey and Denis O'Hare also star. (ORIGINAL)

"The Golden Palace"

In honor of Betty White, who recently passed away just shy of her 100th birthday, Hulu offers the only season of this 1992-93 CBS comedy that catches up with former Golden Girls Rose, Blanche and Sophia (White, Rue McClanahan, Estelle Getty), now transplanted in South Beach following the remarriage of ex-housemate Dorothy (former cast member Bea Arthur), where they run an art deco hotel called the Golden Palace.

"After Life"

The third season of this dramedy series continues the adventures of Tony (series creator and writer Ricky Gervais), a smalltown newspaper columnist who discovers that the best way to move on from the death of his wife is to make others feel good. Penelope Wilton ("Downton Abbey"), Ashley Jensen ("Extras"), Tom Basden ("Plebs") and Tony Way ("Edge of Tomorrow") also star. (ORIGINAL)

"Random Rings: Seasons 1 & 2" (Jan. 26)

This series of animated comedy shorts that originally aired on Disney Channel features Disney characters, primarily the cast of "Big City Greens," making random calls to strangers a la "Crank Yankers," except here the calls are all scripted to convey the feeling of catching someone off guard.

BY JAY BOBBIN

Nicole Byer of 'Grand Crew' on NBC

You often do your own material as a performer. How different is it to speak someone else's words as a sitcom star on "Grand Crew"?

Honestly, it's not that different because I know (series creator and executive producer) Phil (Augusta Jackson) so well. Phil and I did improv together in New York for a very long time. Ten years ago, we did improv out here (in Los Angeles), and then (my character's) name was Nicky. She was based on me a little bit, so it is my voice.

I feel like our writers' room (on "Grand Crew") and Phil are just so talented that everything that was written was just easy. It was easy to find. It was easy to say. It was easy to perform. So, honestly, it wasn't much different than what I'm used to. It was fun and funny.

You were well-acquainted with many of the other talents on "Grand Crew" before starting the show. What has that meant to you?

I really love working with friends, and I also love working with people who are open to collaborate and are just easy to work with... funny, talented people who are a joy to be around but also professional. It's like we can joke, but also, we came to do a job. I love that so much, and that's what I've learned. I really like my friends.

There have been so any other sitcoms about groups of friends, what do you think makes "Grand Crew" special?

You see the magic happening on this show. I don't want to toot our own horn, but we have very magical chemistry that happened almost instantaneously, and I think that really comes through on the screen. I think these people are interesting, they are funny, and they seem to just really have joy and love each other.

movie review

BY JAY BOBBIN

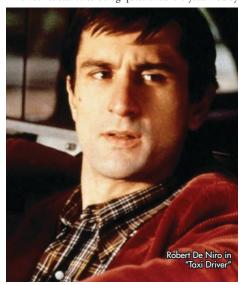

'Taxi Driver' remains a powerful ride

Certain movie-character names stand as immediate identifiers of what the person and film are all about, and Travis Bickle is one of them.

Any remotely familiar with motion pictures will recognize that as Robert De Niro's role director Martin Scorsese's searing 1976 drama "Taxi Driver," which currently is streaming on Netflix. The Paul Schraderwritten story of a disenfranchised loner who finds acceptance through unusual means has retained its power, painting a haunting portrait of the New York era while telling the tale of one man's very specific journey.

Bickle finds work as the late-shift cabbie of the title, and he has definite thoughts about the social decay he sees around him, underscored visually (and brilliantly, by cinematographer Michael Chapman) by the steam that rises from the street grates, create a sort of curtain over the city. His hopes for something better are personified by an attractive political-campaign worker (Cybill Shepherd) who is somewhat bemused, and ultimately turned off, by his efforts to court her.

Soon, though, Bickle finds another purpose in Iris (Jodie Foster), a young prostitute he envisions rescuing from that occupation. Turning himself into her avenging angel of sorts, he changes his physical appearance, fashioning his hair into a mohawk ... and moving toward turning his increasingly violent fantasies into reality. Bickle's resistance to being questioned is crystallized by his iconic line, "You talkin' to me?

In a decade of upheaval that was filled with movies that questioned authority, "Taxi Driver" was one of the most disturbing examples, particularly coming from a major studio (Columbia Pictures). It undoubtedly went a long way toward establishing Scorsese's career and it surely centered De Niro as a versatile performer, coming as it did on the heels of his Oscar win as the young Don Corleone in "The Godfather, Part II." Another strong suit of "Taxi Driver" is its unforgettable score by Bernard Herrmann, the frequent Alfred Hitchcock associate who died soon after competing this assignment. The music strongly evokes the atmosphere and the plot, and it's a stunning piece of work on its own. Additional cast members who make their marks include Peter Boyle, Albert Brooks, Harvey Keitel and then-entertainment critic Leonard Harris.

Though there has been talk of a sequel from time to time, there still is no other movie like "Taxi Driver" the better part of 50 years later. And many will contend, rightfully, that it deserves to continue

OF 'ALL CREATURES GREAT AND SMALL ON MASTERPIECE' ON PBS

How was it to do a second season of "All Creatures Great and Small on Masterpiece"?

When I tweeted about the first slate of (episodes of) Season 2, I realized that it not only had the same director and director of photography as the first slate of Season 1 that I tweeted about a year earlier, it was also drawn by the same (production designer) and held by the same camera assistant. I think that continuity argues for what a beautiful time we had in how many people wanted to do it again.

What do you find to be the biggest challenge to re-creating the period that the series is set in?

No central heating. That's the main problem. Shooting in spring in North Yorkshire is freezing. We should have done our Christmas episode in April, when there were no leaves on the trees. Instead, we did it in June and had to look quite hard for some dead trees and Christmas trees. That's my main takeawav.

Since you have so many animal co-stars in the drama, which was the toughest to work

It's the old thing about never work with children, animals or (veteran character actor) Denholm Elliott. I would say cows. Cows are much, much harder to act with than anything else.

They don't like it if you move away from them. They like knowing where you are, so if you are standing next to a cow and you have managed to get it on its mark and then you continue the scene by walking away – as we had to do with a very funny scene that I really enjoyed – the cow goes, "Where is he?" And it backs into you and, in my case, steps on your foot.

'POV' documentary features a health-care advocate 'Not Going Quietly'

If Ady Barkan doesn't seem to have the circumstances to be a hero, an award-winning documentary reaffirms that determination and courage can be found anywhere, even in his situation.

Diagnosed with ALS in 2016, attorney and activist Barkan has been crusading ever since – along with others who share his concern – to put a spotlight on inequities that exist in the American health-care system. That effort is highlighted in the film "Not Going Quietly," which was honored with an Audience Award at the 2021 South by Southwest event, and is getting its broadcast television premiere on the PBS series "POV" Monday, Jan. 24 (check local listings).

Barkan's campaign gained wider attention after his encounter with a senator on a cross-country flight in 2017, when Barkan pointed out that then-pending tax cuts would impact programs pointed out that then-pending tax cuts would impact programs necessary to his health. The politician then voted for the cuts, inspiring Barkan to co-found the Be a a Hero initiative.

"Part of what this movie shows" says Barkan's wife. Backael King (who appears in the film

"Part of what this movie shows," says Barkan's wife, Rachael King (who appears in the film), is that if you have a tracheostomy, like Ady has to help him breathe, ALS is not necessarily a terminal illness. It is a longterm condition, so we need to support people living with that condition to be able to stay in their homes, to be with their families, like Ady is able to do. I think right now that's what he's really trying to draw attention to, is that having home care, being in his home allows him to have the quality of life by being around his family."

"Not Going Quietly" director Nicholas Bruckman adds, "Ady says in the film, 'We can't convince the politicians, but we can highlight the stakes for the American people.' You see that throughout the film, there is a direct line drawn between whether that organizing and activism had an impact on the 2018 election. And so, I think this idea that you don't necessarily split the vote, but you create this people-powered movement that ultimately wins elections is the piece behind that tactic and the political feeder around it."

The team that helped make John Madden's TV career

Q: I was saddened by the news of the death of John Madden. How long did he and Pat Summerall work together broadcasting football? – Mark Troy, via email

A: One of the most iconic teams in sports announcing first was brought together in 1981 by CBS, where they would call five Super Bowls together. In 1994, they moved to Fox, which made a winning bid for television rights to NFC games – and they called three more Super Bowls there. Though Summerall intended to retire from broadcasting in 2002, Fox brought him back and paired him with others, since Madden (who won Super Bowl XI himself in 1977, as the then-coach of the Oakland Raiders) had moved to ABC after his contract with Fox had ended.

Newman made a big leap into stardom in the story of boxer Rocky Graziano. The film is included in a Newman birthday salute Wednesday, Jan. 26, on Turner Classic Movies.

"The Long, Hot Summer" (1958) An ideally cast Newman plays Ben Quick, a reputed troublemaker who gets a mixed reception in his new locale, in this William Faulkner tale.

"Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" (1958) Newman makes a first-rate Brick to Elizabeth Taylor's Maggie in the Tennessee Williams play.

fighter helping to establish the State of Israel in director Otto Preminger's drama.

"The Hustler" (1961) One of Newman's most memorable roles is "Fast" Eddie Felson, a pool-playing upstart who wants to take on the legendary Minnesota Fats (Jackie Gleason).

"Sweet Bird of Youth" (1962) A drifter (Newman) gets involved with a former film star (Geraldine Page) in another Tennessee Williams adaptation.

"Somebody Up There Likes Me" (1956) "The Prize" (1963) Newman displays great humor within a thriller premise in the Irving Wallace story about an unlikely Nobel Peace Prize winner caught up in intrigue while in Sweden for the ceremony.

"Hud" (1963) Called "the man with the barbedwire soul" in ads, Newman's character in this excellent drama is a rancher's (Melvyn Douglas) rebellious, amoral son.

"Harper" (1966) Newman's smooth, sly screen image largely was crystallized by this private-eye tale that boasts a great all-star supporting cast.

"Cool Hand Luke" (1967) An outstanding "Exodus" (1960) Newman impresses as a freedom Newman plays an independent-minded convict who shows "a failure to communicate."

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" (1969) Newman and Robert Redford had their first teaming as the title outlaws who, at least here, stage robberies with a humorous spirit.

"The Sting" (1973) The reunited Newman and Robert Redford are great in this best picture Oscar winner as Depression-era con men out to even a score with a tough gangster (Robert Shaw).

"The Towering Inferno" (1974) Though he faces more immediate peril than any architect hopefully would, Newman makes a fine action hero in producer Irwin Allen's disaster epic about a fire in the world's tallest building.

"Absence of Malice" (1981) Newman is in top form as a mobster's grandson seeking justice after a newspaper article wrongly suggests he's involved in illegal dealinas

"The Verdict" (1982) In what many deem his career-best performance, Newman plays a down-onhis-luck Boston lawyer seeking redemption via a case against the Catholic Church.

"The Color of Money" (1986) Newman won an Oscar for reprising his "Hustler" role as Eddie Felson, now the mentor to a younger pool shark (Tom Cruise). "Nobody's Fool" (1994) A terrific Newman plays a small-town ne'er-do-well trying to patch things up with his estranged son (Dylan Walsh). "Road to Perdition" (2002) Keeping his trademark charm, Newman has an atypical role as a Depression-era crime boss targeted by a vengeful exemployee (Tom Hanks).
