Fourth pride, fun, foolishness

School sports, bus, other fees could drop

But lunches for younger students rising to $3

Lunch prices could increase at Macomber School and at Westport Elementary next school year, but sports and some other school fees might drop according to a revised fee structure up for possible vote this week (after Shorelines went to press).

After discussions at two meetings, the School Committee seemed poised to vote on the changes at its late-June session, but that stalled over concerns by several members about the need for committee members to sign conflict of interest forms before taking action.

Fee discussion arose because some families have voiced concern about what they say are high fees for sports, transportation and other things that add up to significant sums, especially for those with more than one child in the system. Some worry that the fee burden can serve to discourage participation in multiple activities.

There is urgency to getting the fee system approved since forms have to be sent to families as soon as possible, said school Business Manager Michelle Rapoza.

The proposed changes, outlined by Ms. Rapoza at the June 1 meeting and then revised a bit at the next meeting include:

- Raise lunch price for Macomber School and Westport Elementary from $2.75 per student lunch to $3. That recommendation came after it was learned that the amount Westport charges is less than a formula set by the state Department of Elementary & Secondary Education.

- Reduce the student parking fee from $25 to $15.

- Student activity fee would stay at $25 with a $100 cap for students who are involved in several clubs and activities.

- Transportation (school bus) fee for grade 7-12 students would drop from $225 to $200; family transportation cap would drop from $450 to $400.

- Sports equipment (formerly known

March up Main features respect, irreverance

Perry's Bakery, a perennial powerhouse in the world of Westport parade floats, rocked and rolled its way through the village Tuesday with a trailer load of enthusiastic and unique superheroes.

The high energy effort took first place among floats — Sue Steadman decked out as a Portuguese Superman, complete with moustache, may have won a few judges' votes with her handouts of fresh-cooked chourico rolls.

Bakery owner Karen Smith (aka Super Girl), along with Superman, Batman, Nina Turtles and other caped crusaders were also aboard as the float delighted youngsters and protected Westport from evil.

Why so much effort each year?

"It's great fun — we love the Fourth," she said.

FOURTH: Westport celebrates Independence Day

spirit was evident as the parade set off at 10 a.m. sharp from the corner of Hix Bridge Road.

Leading the way was long-time town tax assessor Jack McDermott, who retired recently after 42 years on the job. He was chauffeured in a VW convertible by colleague Steve Medeiros and, in what must be out of the ordinary for his line of work, was treated to loud cheers along the way.

Sharing the proud moment (and helping out with the parade) were both of his daughters — Ann Boxler, a member of the parade committee, and Beth McDermott who made the trip up from Washington DC for the occasion and did parade route golf cart duty.

Last year's chief marshal, Eddie 'Fast Eddie' Beaulieu, now 101 years old, didn't ride this year but watched and waved from his son's driveway.

There were, as always, veterans, Scouts and politicians.

State Senator Michael Rodrigues rode in an old car; Rep. Paul Schmid drove a tractor in his farming clothes.

"What a day — perfect weather, low humidity, light breeze ... we could not have asked for better," said parade committee Chairman David Palmer.

The parade flowed smoothly, nobody got hurt, nobody that he knows of got in trouble — "everybody just had fun celebrating Independence Day in Westport."

One change — marshaling antique cars and trucks in Beech Grove Cemetery to help keep Hix Bridge Road open for emergency vehicles, worked like a charm.

"We had a volunteer at the gate and when I needed five cars I'd hold up five fingers and out would come five cars."

And perhaps because they had taken the precaution to prevent repeats of the last few years when ambulances have

Westport Fair: Old fashioned fun through Sunday

The annual Westport Fair brings summer fun to town for the 62nd year from Wednesday, July 12 though Sunday, July 16.

Fair committee members have kept the traditional New England fair a popular attraction by providing entertainment for all ages.

Once again events and exhibits are being planned that include tractor pulls, 4-H youth showmanship competitions of farm animals, family entertainment of bands, magic shows, Toe Jam Puppet, quilt exhibit, vegetable and flower exhibits, pet photo contest, arts and crafts, food vendors, a carnival and more.

The annual chicken barbecue is held Saturday evening and is served from 5 to 7 p.m. Tickets will be on sale Wednesday through Friday evening at the fair T-shirt booth or from a fair committee member. Tickets are $12 for adults and $6 for children.

Fair gates open Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evening 6 p.m. Saturday gates open at 11 a.m. and on Sunday at 8:30 a.m. Admission to the fair is $5 — children under 12 free. For a detailed schedule of the fair, visit their website www.westportfair.com.

The Westport Fair Committee this year awarded seven scholarships to: Chelsey Benoit, Logan Branco, Connor Brown, Colby Hawes, Samuel Morra, Jaely Pereira and Mariah Shields.

FEES: Some student fees to fall

as athletic fee) — would be capped at $500 per family — down from $750.

■ The sports equipment fee per individual student would drop from $250 to $175.

Ms. Rapoza said costs might also be offset by the impact of school energy savings via participation in a solar energy program and a (hoped for) repeat of last year's milder than usual winter.

To offset the estimated $23,000 impact of this reduction, the committee is considering a reduction in the now-full-time nurse leader position to a half or two-thirds position.

■ Cheerleading fee would stay at $175 but committee member Carolina Africano suggested that that be reduced since cheerleading does not require the expenses (referees, equipment etc.) of other sports. A revision may be proposed before final vote.

■ Co-op ice hockey fees would remain unchanged at $800— Westport has no control over this, committee members were told, since the costs are driven by high insurance and ice time expenses.

peacock," Ms. Taylor said.

Ms. Taylor isn't concerned about the south Tiverton peacock being able to find food because there are plenty of berries and bugs to eat. She is, however, worried about it being able to survive during the winter months.

"We had a mild winter this past winter but if we have one like we had a few years ago that could be devastating to a peacock," Ms. Taylor said.

Ms. Taylor said her facility is ill-equipped to try to capture it.

"Unfortunately we don't have any special powers that other people don't have. We really can't do anything. Peacocks can go up to 60 feet in height in a tree and roost up there ... they are flighted birds and they are big birds. Unless they are in a situation from which they couldn't escape, we wouldn't be able to walk up and get that peacock."

Ms. Taylor also said that animal control is aware of the wild peacocks in the town. Efforts to contact Tiverton's animal control officer for comment went unanswered.

The building that is home to Provender, at the corner of Puncatest Neck Road and Main Road in Tiverton Four Corners, is up for sale.

Provender building goes on the market

TIVERTON — The building that houses Provender in Tiverton is for sale, and is listed for $1.2 million. The three-story building sits at the northwest corner of Puncatest Neck Road and Main Road in Tiverton Four Corners.

The first floor of the building is currently home to Provender, Inc. (doing business under the name of Provender Fine Foods).

It is the building that is for sale," said Kristin Parella, a sales associate at Lila Delman Real Estate International's Newport office, which is marketing the building.

The business is under the separate ownership of Jennifer Borden, who said she didn't know whether the business would continue if the building is sold. "You'll have to talk to my landlord," she said.

Town records show the owners of the building, located at 3883 Main Road in Tiverton, are Scott and Cynthia Burns, and indicate the structure was built in 1850. Its most recent valuation for tax purposes showed land and improvements valued at a total of $442,800 (0.25 acres, land valued at $101,100 and improvements at $341,700).

"For over 35 years, the business has been a beacon to those who crave gourmet sandwiches and sumptuous baked goods, in one of the most heavenly pockets of Southern Rhode Island — South Tiverton," said Ms. Parella. The building was also home to the Virginia Lynch Gallery, and exhibited works of artists such as Gretchen Dow Simpson, Howard Ben Tre, and Edward Koren, to name a few, she said.

The 4,518 square foot building was restored in 2007 and offers three levels for mixed-use commercial endeavors. The first floor retail has a full kitchen, refrigeration and full basement for storage. The second and third floors offer five light-filled rooms ideal for an art gallery or office. There is also the potential for multifamily, mixed-use, subject to a special use permit, Ms. Parella said.

For monarchs' sake, spare the milkweed

Once among the most abundant and lovely of backyard summertime visitors, the monarch butterfly is vanishing at a disturbing rate.

Easy as it is to blame habitat abuse in the species' Mexican winter home, it turns out that harm done here may be even worse.

Not so long ago, the orange and black butterflies were everywhere in New England — gardens were visited by dozens at a time. Last summer, though, weeks went by without a sighting and it's getting worse fast.

Researchers say there are now one-fifteenth as many monarchs as there were in 1997 and that the population in their Mexican range last winter dropped by 59 percent from the previous year.

Some of the fault does lie with Mexico where loggers have stripped sections of the mountainous fir forests where the butterflies spend their winters. But those forests are now better protected and the cutting is greatly diminished.

Not diminished at all, however, is the assault here on milkweed, the butterflies' primary source of food and the plant on which they lay their eggs.

Considered by many a roadside weed and nuisance, milkweed is attacked with poison spray and weedwackers. Once everywhere along South Coast roadsides, the East Bay Bike Path — lots of places — milkweed has fallen victim to our preference for the well-manicured look. And as milkweed goes, so go monarch butterflies.

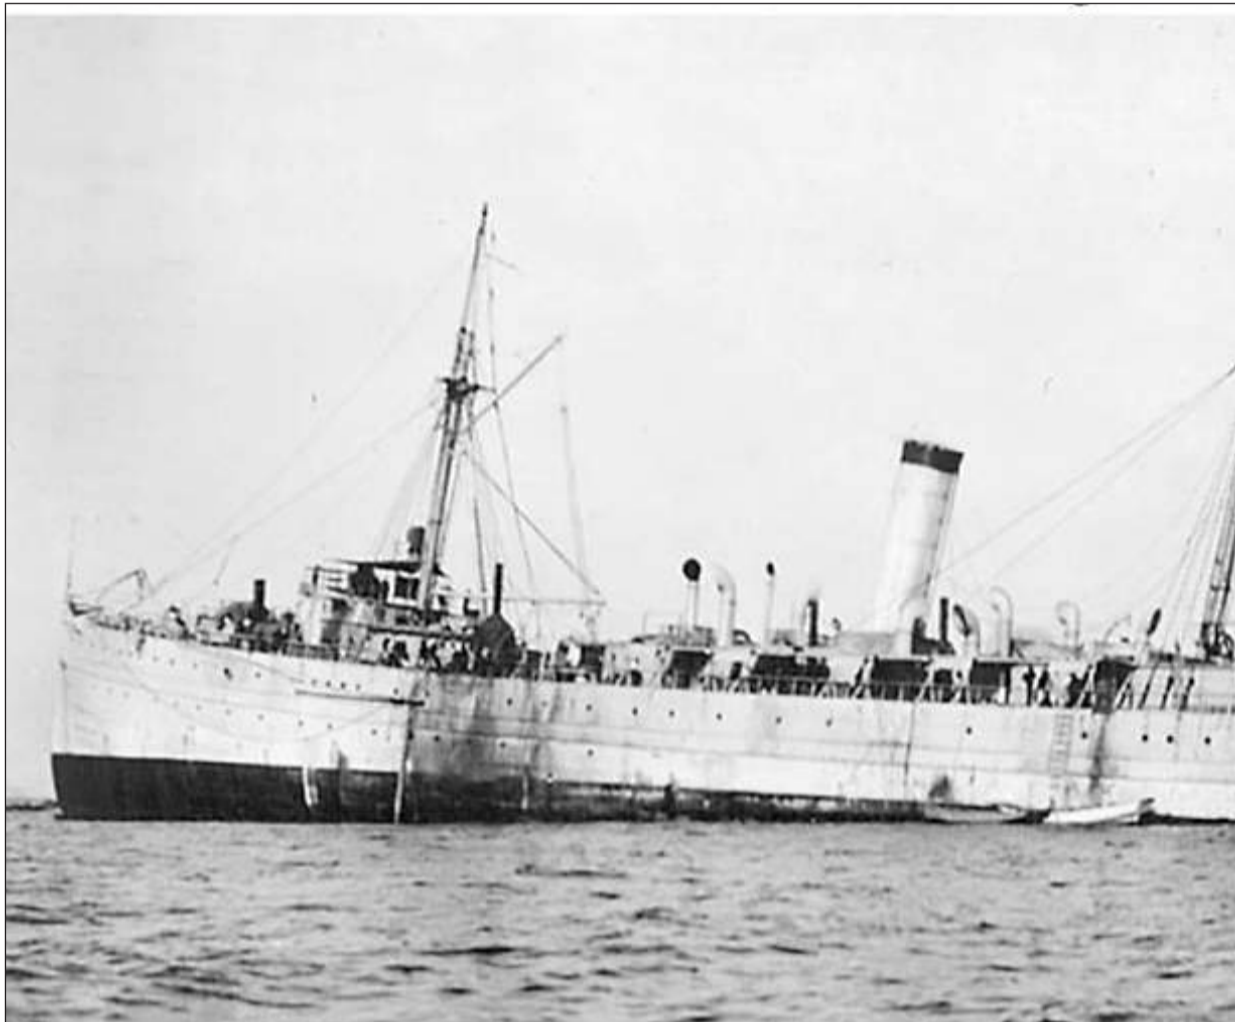

The only hope for these creatures is a less heavy-handed approach by all — highway road crews, landscapers and homeowners.

Milkweed may be a 'weed' to some. To a monarch butterfly it is life itself.

A lonely patch of milkweed plants fell victim recently to trimming along the East Bay Bike Path. Once-large patches here have dwindled dramatically.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Navy ship Yankee sits on Hen and Chickens reef off Westport.

Yankee's last day — everything went wrong

To the editor:

As a charter member of the Westport Fishermen's Association, I have always been proud of our accomplishments. The latest is our wreck display. Project coordinator Tanja Ryder did most of it. Tanja is super at building programs.

Seeing the picture of the Navy cruiser "Yankee" sitting on Chickens Reef off Westport made me think someone might like to know how she got there. The "Yankee" was a cargo ship when the Navy bought it and covered it with rapid fire guns and torpedo tubes. It did a great job during the Spanish-American war. It was retired a few times and then used as a torpedo training ship.

The day of the grounding, the Yankee had a torpedo explode in the tube while in Vineyard Sound. No one was hurt but if you look at the picture in this (June 22) newspaper, you will see the black color up forward on the port side. That's the location of the explosion.

The Yankee came through Quick's Hole Channel into Buzzards Bay and set course about northwest for Newport. The fog was very thick and when the captain heard the horn of a ship entering the bay, he called for full astern to stay clear of the approaching ship.

There was no radar or sounding machines, and when the entering ship had cleared the captain ordered the single screw vessel to go forward and the Yankee drove onto the Chickens Reef. It is possible that the captain did not know about what happens when a large propeller is put in reverse. It will turn counter-clockwise and, as if the bottom of the prop were on solid ground, will cause the stern to go to port. Instead of heading northwest, the course was now north and headed for the ledge.

Forty years ago, as a member of U.S. Power Squadrons, I taught boat handling and this subject was part of it. A salvage attempt for the Yankee is a story in itself at another time.

Police used care to defuse difficult situation

To the editor:

I would like to express my deepest respect and thanks to the Westport Police Department, especially officers Oliver and Shea, for a job well done.

As manager of Westport Camping Grounds, I have experienced my share of difficult situations involving unruly campers. Normally I am able to resolve the problem myself. But recently, a young person with mental health problems threatened to harm herself and other campers. I felt the need to call for professional help. After explaining the situation, these two officers accompanied me to the site and were able to resolve the dilemma by speaking calmly and with care for everyone's welfare.

Too often in the news, we read the negative stories about rogue officers or police departments lacking discipline. In 43 years running Westport Campgrounds, I have only found professional and caring officers who do their best to resolve potential disasters. I thank these two officers and the entire staff of the Westport Police Department for being there when I needed them.

I am pleased to know that soon we will have the type of building facility these men and women deserve for the difficult work they do. Please continue to support Westport's finest!

WESTPORT — The Westport Monthly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends is hosting its annual Book Fair under the tent on the Meetinghouse grounds at 938 Main St. It is from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. through Sunday, July 16, rain or shine.

Handy House open on Saturdays this summer

WESTPORT — The Handy House, 202 Hix Bridge Road, is open on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. through Oct. 31 with guided tours, a new exhibition, and fun summer adventures for kids.

A new exhibition, "Headwaters to Harbor," created by the Westport Historical Society celebrates the unique heritage and identity of Westport.

The exhibition will take the visitor on four distinct "virtual journeys" back in time to highlight the changing nature of our relationship with this environment:

- A river journey through time exploring both the east and west branches, harbor and ponds of Westport.
- A virtual walk down East Beach using maps and photographs to document the community that once existed before the hurricane of 1938.
- A look inside the Cory Store once located at Westport Point to learn more about shipbuilding activities in Westport.
- A swordfishing expedition using photographs taken by David Allen in the 1980s.

Ongoing summer activities also include guided tours every Saturday at 11 a.m. For families, a special self-guided activity, "Family Reunion," introduces kids to the history of the house and its owners.

A series of summer adventures for kids is scheduled for Wednes-

Dar Williams will perform after intermission on Saturday. Her music represents her thoughts and feelings about both her own life and larger forces in the world.

Concert at the Vineyard is on Saturday with a double bill

The Westport River Watershed Alliance will host its Summer Concert at the Vineyard on Saturday, July 15, at Westport Rivers Vineyard.

Well-loved performers Dar Williams and Chris Smither will share the bill for an outdoor concert beginning at 5:30 p.m. The concert gates open at 5 p.m. In the event of rain, the concert will take place on Sunday, July 16.

This unusual mix of extraordinary musical talent has been arranged with the help of co-presenter The Narrows Center for the Arts.

Chris Smither will kick the concert off. A profound songwriter, he draws deeply from the blues, American folk music, modern poets and philosophers. Reviewers continue to praise his dazzling guitar work, gravelly voice and songwriting.

"Smither is an American original – a product of the musical melting pot and one of the absolute best singer-songwriters in the world," according to the Associated Press. Honing a synthesis of folk and blues for 50 years, Chris Smither is truly an American original. As Acoustic Guitar magazine wrote, Smither sings about "the big things – life, love, loss – in a penetrating and poetic yet unpretentious way."

Dar Williams will perform after intermission. Dar's music represents her thoughts and feelings about both her own life and larger forces in the world. Her ninth studio record, "Emerald," marks a particularly dramatic confluence between her experiences and broader contemporary culture –

Camp Invention is July 24 to 28

WESTPORT — Camp Invention is at Westport Elementary School from Monday to Friday, July 24 to 28.

The week-long summer adventure has activities that explore connections between science, technology, engineering and innovation while sharpening your 21st-century STEM skills.

A program of the National Inventors Hall of Fame, Camp Invention allows children in kin-and what it means to be a songwriter at this moment in history.

In the past few years, she has been involved in a wide range of different efforts and projects: teaching a course on "Music Movements in a Capitalist Democracy" at her alma mater, Wesleyan University, working with children at summer camps; leading songwriting workshops, getting involved with the workings of her village, and writing a book about the ways she's seen towns becoming more independent and prosperous over her 20 years of touring.

Guests can bring a lawn chair and/or blanket or sit in row seating that will be provided. The sloping lawn of the vineyard provides a great view for everyone. Beer and wine will be offered for sale, and food trucks will be selling hot food. No alcohol can be brought into the venue, but guests are welcome to bring their own picnic.

The show is co-presented by the Narrows Center for the Arts, and sponsored by Buzzards Bay Brewing and Westport Rivers Winery. Other local businesses supporting this event with their sponsorships are The Bayside Restaurant, Country Woolens, Lees Oil Service, Pine Hill Equipment and Ralco Electric.

Get tickets at www.westportwatershed.org or www.narrowsceneter.org or call 508/636-3016. Tickets are $50; $40 members. There is a small charge for online sales. Advance tickets are recommended. Carpooling is encouraged.

Raindate information will be posted on the WRWA facebook page and on the WRWA answering machine at 508/636-3016.

ergarten to Grade 6 to experience real-world problem-solving, creative thinking and invention.

Children work together to transform the terrain and ecosystem of a distant exoplanet. They take risks as budding business owners, blast rockets, air cannons and rubber chickens, and wire a circuit to a Spy Gadget Alarm Box.

The fee is $250. Visit campinvention.org or call 800/968-4332 for information.

AT THE LIBRARY

Cast Offs knitting group meets on Thursday evenings

Cast Offs of Westport, a nonprofit knitting group, meets on Thursdays from 5 to 8 p.m. at the library.

The members knit for charity, knitting preemie hats and other items for St. Luke's Hospital, cancer hats and shawls for the Charlton Cancer Center, burial dresses and wraps for R.I. Children's Hospital, heart pillows for the Charlton Cardiac Unit and Dadooza hug dolls for R.I. Early Intervention.

All knitters or crocheters are invited to join them for companionship and serving a purpose.

Book discussion group to read Kent Haruf's 'Plainsong'

The library's book discussion group will next meet on Friday, July 14, at 10:30 a.m. in the community room of the library. New members are welcome.

The book for July is "Plainsong" by Kent Haruf. For more information, contact Brianna McAvoy at briannamcavoy@gmail.com.

Children's summer programs are under way

There are lots of summer activities. All ages are welcome to participate by picking up a bookmark and a reading log to keep track of your favorite books. Earn stickers for each book read. Win prizes in a weekly raffle drawing.

Reading certificates will be awarded to all those who return their completed reading logs, with at least two books read, by Wednesday, Aug. 9. Save the date of Tuesday, Aug. 15, for Magic by the Great Rolando at 11 a.m. (sponsored by the Philip Snyder Foundation.)

Members and their families should call the library by Wednesday, Aug. 9, with the number for folks planning to attend the Awards Picnic on Aug. 15. (Held rain or shine.)

Toddlers to 5 years: "Summer Days" Story Time. Stop in on Wednesdays through Aug. 9 from 10 to 10:45 a.m. for several short stories, finger-plays, songs, puppets, rhythm instruments and free play each week.

Ages 6 and up: "Library" Reading Club. Workshops meet from 10 to 11 a.m. Tuesdays through Aug. 8. Enjoy tall tales, tangerine tales, fairy tales from around the world, and Native American legends. Create a take-home craft project each session featuring a fairy or troll house with furniture. Registration is necessary.

Read to Rosie is on Friday, July 21, from 10 to 11 a.m. and Friday, Aug. 18, from 10 to 11 a.m. On Thursday, July 27, at 7 p.m., visit with live reptiles native to the rainforest presented by Rainforest Reptiles Shows. (Supported by the Philip Snyder Foundation)

Call or drop in to register for a 10-minute slot with Rosie, a canine friend. (Limit 6)

Call the Library with any questions.

Two exhibits are open at the library during July

In the Manton Community Room through July 27 is an exhibit, "Plant, Animal, Mineral," a series of mixed media drawings portraying abstracted and reinterpreted natural forms, by artist Ellen Nanni-Vargas.

On exhibit in the Helen E. Ellis Case through July 28, Ed Micale of Westport shares "Fly Me to the Moon," a collection of rockets and more to celebrate space travel throughout the years.

Computer 101 offered on Thursday evenings

Do you have a question about using your laptop, notebook or general computer use? How about using Microsoft Office, downloading files or using email?

Computer 101 is on Thursdays from 6 to 8 p.m. Bring a laptop along or use a library computer. All ages are welcome.

Register for a half-hour slot by visiting the library or call 508/636-1100.

Book donations sought for upcoming book sales

The Friends of the Westport Library are accepting book, CD and DVD donations for the Summer Paperback Book Sale and the huge Annual Book sale in September. Donations will be accepted through the end of August.

Books in good condition only, and no textbooks, encyclopedias, dictionaries, VHS or cassette tapes. A donation box is in the library lobby.

Westport Free Public Library is at 408 Old County Road. Summer hours are from noon to 8:30 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays. For more information, call 508/636-1100.

Alexie Rudman and Rachel Pacitto

Watershed Alliance welcomes two new summer interns

BayCoast Bank continues to support the Westport River Watershed Alliance's summer internship program with a grant this year for two local students who will assist with the summer coastal ecology education program and water quality monitoring program.

The Alliance welcomes two highly qualified students who grew up in the local area: Alexie Rudman and Rachel Pacitto.

Alexie is beginning a master's of environmental management at Duke University in the fall, where she will focus on marine policy and adaptation to climate change in coastal areas. Her love for the outdoors developed at a very early age, having spent tireless hours playing in the rocks and tide pools at South Shore Beach and Sakonnet Point as a child, and exploring the fascinating creatures in her grandmother's garden in Little Compton. She continued to explore her passion for the outdoors through surfing, which inspired curiosity and concern for the well-being of coastal ecosystems and those who depend on them. Working at the WRWA will allow her to improve her skills in environmental outreach and community involvement, and will enable her to learn about the science behind coastal processes in a hands-on way.

Rachel has always felt deeply connected and passionate about the natural world around her. As a child, she spent her days, rain or shine, outdoors, exploring the surrounding forests and the Charles River in Holliston, where she was raised. As a teenager, she often traveled to her favorite coastal destination, Horseneck Beach in Westport. Motivated by her insatiable compassion and curiosity for marine life, Rachel moved to Westport to complete her bachelor's degree in marine biology and Spanish, with a minor in sustainability, at UMass-Dartmouth. Rachel's studies focus on conservation, education outreach and environmental policy.

BayCoast Bank President and Chief Executive Officer Nicholas Christ said, "The internships offered by the WRWA give students a unique opportunity to forge connections between their academics and the real world. It's an invaluable experience that merges hands-on learning with career exploration. We are proud to once again support the WRWA and its educational programs."

COA has lunch, transportation, more

WESTPORT — The Westport Council on Aging (COA) offers a variety of activities for seniors 60 and older at the senior center, which is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday to Friday at 75 Reed Road. For more information, call 508/636-1026.

If you are 60 years of age or over and interested in having lunch at the center, it is served from 11:30 a.m. to noon Monday to Friday.

Reserve a meal with the kitchen 48 hours in advance by calling 508/636-1026. A $2 donation is appreciated.

Drop off your cash register receipts from Lee's in the box at the front entrance of the COA. A portion of each goes to support the Friends of Westport Council on Aging Inc.

Transportation is offered from Mondays to Fridays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. for medical appointments, pharmacy and food shopping. Call the center to arrange transportation at least two weeks in advance.

Are you or anyone you know in need of assistance? Call the Outreach office and ask for Andrea, Cindy or Susan for services available to Westport residents 60 years of age and older. Outreach provides home visits, help with applications, information and referrals, food stamps, fuel assistance, caregiver support, vision impaired support and medical equipment loaned out.

The Senior Day Program offers a variety of activities for seniors 60 and older from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Monday to Friday.

Classes are on Tuesdays from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. Suggested donation is $10, but offer what you can said planners, "cash, check, flowers, a positive affirmation, snacks, a small puppy, love ..."

For teacher changes, class updates, weather permitting cancellations and upcoming events, visit studioon6yoga.com.

Author to speak about his book on whaling art

WESTPORT — "O'er the Wide and Tractless Sea: The Original Art of the Yankee Whale Hunt" will be presented by Michael P. Dyer on Thursday, July 20, at 7 p.m. at Westport Free Public Library, 408 Old County Road.

Buried deep within the logbooks, journals and manuscripts of America's 19th-century whaling heritage are watercolor paintings and other drawings and representations of the hunt rarely if ever seen by the public.

Using the collection of the New Bedford Whaling Museum, Mr. Dyer has brought these hidden artworks into the public eye with a new publication, available this July. The drawings by Westport whalers will be highlighted in this presentation.

Mr. Dyer is senior maritime historian at the New Bedford Whaling Museum. He was the inaugural U.S.A. Gallery Fellow at the Australia National Maritime Museum in 2008, and a 38th Voyager onboard the Charles W. Morgan in 2014.

The suggested donation is $5. For more information, contact the Westport Historical Society at 508/636-6011 or visit www.wphistory.org.

Gardeners hosting talk on hydrangeas

WESTPORT — The Westport River Gardeners will sponsor a talk by Mal Condon, "Success with Hydrangeas," on Saturday, July 22, at Macomber House, 930 Main Road.

He will share his expertise on major species, regional climate effects, best pruning practices and more. The public is invited.

The club meeting is at 8:30 a.m., with the talk at 9 a.m. New members are always welcome.

Country Travelers offering summer trips

WESTPORT — The Country Travelers offer a variety of trips. You don't need to be a Westport resident to attend. Reservations are required. Call Veronica Beaulieu at 508/636-4889 or email vfb0859@aol.com for reservations or more information. All trips are based on a minimum number of people, so reserve as early as possible.

A bus trip to the Foxwoods Casino is on the last Wednesday of each month, July 26. Pickups are at the Hampton Inn parking lot and at St. John the Baptist Church, 945 Main Road. It is $23 per person, which includes a driver gratuity and a bonus package from Foxwoods on arrival ($10 free play and $10 food voucher or $18.95 buffet).

On Tuesday, Aug. 15, take a trip to the Aqua Turf Club for song, dance and romance featuring Ritchie Mitnick with songs not only from yesteryear but also favorites from today. Complimentary coffee and doughnuts, a glass of beer or wine and door prizes, with a family-style salad, pasta a la Norma, chicken Français, pan-seared salmon, potato, vegetable, dessert and beverage lunch. It is $65. Reserve early as this trip always sells out.

Watch for details here on other trips coming up. Forty need to sign up to prevent cancellation of any of these trips. All leave from behind the Hampton Inn in Westport.

Tickets on sale for 36th annual clambake

WESTPORT — The Westport Point United Methodist Church will hold its 36th annual clambake on Saturday, July 29, rain or shine, at the church at 1912 Main Road.

The menu includes New England clams, sausage, hot dog, potato, corn, sweet potato, stuffing and brown bread. Chowder and drinks will be served at noon, and the bake begins at 1 p.m.

The cost is $40 (or $50 to add lobster). Tickets can be purchased at Partners Village Store or leave a message at the church office at 508/636-2036 or email wpumc1@aol.com.

Turkey dinner at Acoaxet Chapel

WESTPORT — The Acoaxet Chapel will host a turkey dinner on Saturday, July 29, at 5:30 p.m. at the chapel at 36 Howland Road.

It's $12 per person for a dinner of turkey, mashed potatoes, gravy, dressing, vegetable, cranberry sauce, rolls, dessert and beverage.

Reservations are required. Call Phoebe at 401/635-4857 (leave a telephone number when making reservations.)

Annual Farm to Tapas dinner is on July 30

SOUTH DARTMOUTH — SEMAP and The Livestock Institute of Southern New England will host its third annual Farm to Tapas dinner on Sunday, July 30, from 5 to 8 p.m.

It's an evening of local food, drink. They've invited over a dozen local restaurants and caterers (all sourcing local ingredients, of course) to prepare their own tapas station. Guests will be able to sample from each station.

Open bar. Lots of food. Tickets are $95; $35 farmers. You must currently be farming (as your main income source) to be eligible for this ticket price. Limit four tickets per farm.

Judith Beiser Sands

Loved her family, never met a dog she didn't like

Judith (Judy) Beiser Sands, Westport
— 5/6/1932 –
6/13/2017

Judy was a much-loved and respected member of the Westport community and was predeceased by her husband of 66 years, Robert E. Sands.

Judy and Robert were married on 9/1/1950 and raised their family in Marietta, Ohio before retiring to Westport.

Judy was an accomplished bookkeeper and loyal friend to many. She possessed the unique ability to make everyone she knew feel special and welcome in her life. She harbored no prejudices and welcomed all into her home and treated them as a meaningful part of her life. She offered love and support unconditionally to her many friends and expected little in return.

Judy and her many friends enjoyed daily morning walks on the beach and weather was rarely a deterrent to their routine. This time together with everyone's best friend was a favorite way to start their day. The terms rained out or cancelled due to weather conditions were rarely used by Judy or her friends or heard by their four legged partners.

She loved unconditionally her children and grandchildren and never met a dog she didn't like; her family and love of dogs were her two great passions. Her life was epitomized by a George Eliot quote: "What do we live for if it is not to make life less difficult for each other."

Judy is survived by two daughters, Karen A. Sands of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Elizabeth M. Sands of Westport; two sons, David R. Sands and his wife Bonnie of Cape Coral, Fla., and Marietta, Ohio, John F. Sands of Lexington, Mass.; four grandchildren, Ruby and Aidan Sands, Mark and Stephen Sands along with his wife Lauren and Judy's great grandchild, Luna Sands. Also surviving are her brother and his wife, John and Maureen Beiser of Atlanta, sister Harriet A. Gobi of Spencer and sister-in-law Rose Sands of Worcester; many nieces and nephews, including Mark and Alan Voorhees, Jane Blitz, Judy Trope, Kate Connolly; Richard, Bruce, Bobby, Brian, Peter and Anne Gobi; Walter, Bill and Joe Sands, Jimmy Blanchard, Martha Twigg, Fay Flannery, David Mitchell, as well as many grand nieces and nephews. She is predeceased by her sister and brother-in-law Barbara and Ralph Voorhees.

A memorial service will be scheduled in the future with burial to take place at Beech Grove Cemetery, Westport. Details will be provided in the near future. At the request of the family there are no calling hours. Please omit flowers; contributions may be made to Best Friends Animal Sanctuary, Guiding Eyes.org, This is the Dog.com! or the individuals' favorite charity in Judy's name.

Arrangements are under the direction of the Potter Funeral Home, 81 Reed Rd., Westport, MA 02790.

To sign the online guestbook, please visit www.potterfuneralservice.com.

John McFarland Bergland III

Physician, teacher, avid lacrosse, tennis player

John "Jack" McFarland Bergland III, MD, 85, passed away Friday, June 30, 2017, from acute myeloid leukemia (AML). He was the loving husband of Gertraude (Bippart) Bergland to whom he was married 41 years.

Born in Baltimore, Md., December 11, 1931, son of the late John McFarland, Bergland, Jr. and Julia (Whitridge) Bergland, he lived in Baltimore and Houston, Tex., before moving to Westport in 2002.

A graduate of Gilman School in Baltimore, he went on to Princeton University ('54), where his grandfather and father had preceded him. He attended Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine ('62) and completed his post-graduate training at University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky.

He was one of the founding members of Medical Clinic of Houston and spent much of his career as Senior Partner Internal Medicine Medical Clinic of Houston from 1968 – 2000. Jack taught as an associate clinical professor of medicine at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, St. Luke's Hospital in Houston and at the University of Texas School of Medicine. He won numerous teaching awards and commendations from each of these institutions, which made him extremely proud. Upon retiring to New England, he continued practicing as a physician with Harbor Medical in Scituate, Mass., through 2011. In retirement, Jack volunteered in a community clinic for the medically indigent and frequently travelled abroad to volunteer his skills and knowledge. Helping patients with their medical needs proved extremely gratifying for him.

A skilled athlete in football basketball and tennis, Jack had a special love for lacrosse. Known by his closest, lifelong best friends and teammates as "Boogie," he played as a defenseman while at Gilman, Princeton and the Mount Washington Lacrosse Club. His beloved Gilman team won the Maryland State Championships in '48, '49, and '50 and still holds the Maryland State record for fewest goals scored in a season, allowing only 18 goals in 10 games. Jack was recognized as 1st string All Maryland during his junior and senior years and served as co-captain. While playing lacrosse at Princeton, he played as a member of the undefeated freshman team and played on the '53 National Champion Team. These victories, and later being co-captain of the National Open Champion Mount Washington Wolfpack in '59, were lacrosse highlights in his life. He helped to found lacrosse in Texas in '73 and as a result served on the National Lacrosse Foundation Board for three years.

Throughout Jack's adult life, he was also an avid tennis player. While fiercely determined to compete and win on the court, he always brought humor and life to his game, relishing the opportunity to socialize, laugh and build further friendships. He was known and loved by many on the courts of the Briar Club in Houston and the Acoaxet Club in Westport.

Jack was passionate about education and had a special devotion for Princeton and his Class of '54. He channeled this passion into teaching and most generously helping others in any way possible with their educational needs and dreams. He was a lover of classic New Orleans Dixieland Jazz, travel to Europe, especially to Germany, his wife's homeland. Within the Tiverton and Westport area, he was universally known for his fondness of antique cars, especially his grandfather's 1931 Chevrolet wooden Beachwagon "Morris" and his 1968 Volvo "Olaf". Adoring pets, he was always caring for and ensuring the well being all of his six "grandpups".

His love for his wife Gertraude was immeasurable. They were true soulmates from the moment they met, bringing out the best in each other, unified in their mission to build and maintain their loving family and to help people.

Jack was known and loved by all for his warmth, compassion, generosity, sincerity and integrity. His laugh was infectious and his kindness knew no boundaries. He was devoted to helping others, placing their well-being far above his own needs. His passion for history, medicine and sports, combined with his knowledge and unique ability to engage people made him a gifted and beloved teacher. Jack represented the best of human qualities and made the world a better place with his presence. He loved being alive.

In addition to his loving wife, he is survived by his four children, Robin Bergland, Susan Bergland, John Bergland IV, his wife Michelle, their three children, Carolyn, Catherine and William and Ashley Bergland Sowyrda and her husband Gregory.

A most sincere, heartfelt thank you to John L. Yang, MD, and the oncology nurses, nursing care staff and the hospice caregivers at St. Anne's hospital in Fall River. Jack received the best and compassionate care imaginable. To all his loving and loyal friends who in many visits kept his spirits up and filled with laughter, sincerest gratitude from his family.

A memorial service and Celebration of Life will be held on Tuesday, August 8, at 2 p.m. at his beloved childhood Tiverton home: The Whitridge Estate, 285 Stone Church Road, Tiverton.

Moran named director of Land Trust

The Board of Directors of the Westport Land Conservation Trust (WLCT) has chosen Ross Moran to serve as the organization's next executive director. The selection was made after a regional search.

"WLCT is thrilled to welcome Ross into this role," said Trip Millikin, board president. "We have found a leader with the vision to build upon WLCT's past and lead the organization as we pursue our goal to protect the next 1,000 acres in Westport. Ross has the commitment to our mission and the capacity to guide us forward strategically."

Mr. Moran is currently the general manager of Southeast Gardens & South-coast at The Trustees of Reservations (the Trustees), a Massachusetts land conservation organization. He oversees all aspects of operations, public engagement and stewardship of 19 properties

owned by the Trustees, including Haskell

Public Gardens in New Bedford. Prior to this position, he served as assistant director of parks, recreation and beaches for the City of New Bedford.

"I am honored to join WLCT's team as executive director in service of the mission to protect the unique character of this historic community," said Mr. Moran. "The Land Trust's 45-year track record of conserving Westport's special places and significant forest, scenic and agricultural resources is tremendous. I look forward to working with the community to build on these accomplishments far in to the future."

The Land Trust currently has four major land protection projects to protect over 230 acres across Westport, as well as a full schedule of public programs this summer. Mr. Moran will begin work for the Land Trust on July 31. He lives in New Bedford with his wife and three children.

Kids are comfortable around this Barrington dentist

Twenty years ago when Dr Matthew Asaro first named the Little League team he was sponsoring, he decided on "Dental Dudes." It was a name that didn't stick. "Couldn't we be called something a little scarier?" said the kids on the team. And so "The Extractors" were born and they have been drilling away ever since. A Barrington native and resident, Dr. Asaro played on the Vienna Bakery team in first grade, and remembering those days helps him and his whole office staff have a great rapport with kids. It's such a good town to have a family dental practice in, says this Barrington dentist who lives in town and has a daughter in school. "It's a place with good family values and I am really happy to support the community whenever I can," he says.

"We see a ton of kids in our dental office, says Dr. Matt, as the kids call him and it's a comfortable experience for them. "We start off on Day One, which can begin as early as two years, sitting them in the chair and showing them what we are going to do," he says. It works, says Dr. Asaro, and the kids he put in the chair in his early practice days are now in college, and returning for their dental visits.

Of course kids aren't the only game in town. Dr. Asaro is a general dentist who treats patients of all ages. Much of his practice is in the growing cosmetic area. Interior veneers are a very popular solution for a great smile and never stain or darken, he says. "We offer both porcelain veneers which are a two visit process and composite veneers which can be done in one visit," he says. All his fillings are mercury-free composites. Many of his adult patients have come in with crown and bridge work that doesn't match the enamel on their teeth. He is able to color match, using both a color restoration process and teeth whitening for a beautifully natural look. He does implants, too.

Dr. Asaro is accepting new patients and if you are looking for a conservative and technologically savvy practitioner who can take care of the whole family, call for an appointment. You will find a warm welcome and the very best of dental care.

had a tough time getting through, "Not a single ambulance needed to get through this year."

Float quality was strong — Brownie Troop #675 put first-rate work into their patriotic float — "but numbers were down, maybe by half from last year," Mr. Palmer said.

The pre-start lineup, which last year stretched down to Westport Marine, barely made it to Hay Ray's.

"Why? I don't know. The weather was perfect but it could have something to do with the Fourth falling on a Tuesday ... We'll try to get word out for more next year."

Mr. Palmer said he is always especially pleased when nobody gets hurt.

"Safety is our first priority — it's the biggest thing we focus on." He added that he was sorry to read about a woman in the Bristol parade getting run down by a float.

"Bristol's focus is safety to but it just shows that no matter how well you prepare, things can happen in an instant."

Once concern, he said, is right at the starting corner where the crowd often presses out into the roadway.

Organizers repeatedly urged parents to keep children from darting out into the roadway in pursuit of candy tossed from floats and vehicles.

This antique fire engine made the drive across the state line from neighboring Little Compton to the Westport 4th of July Parade.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT

'Genius at his trade' Hunt named to sailing Hall

C. Raymond Hunt, designer of boats ranging from the Boston Whaler to the lovely Concordia Yawl and fast, seaworthy deep-vee-hulled Bertrams, will be inducted into the US National Sailing Hall of Fame on September 24 at New York Yacht Club's Harbour Court Station in Newport.

Bruce BURDETT

Yachts is located now in Portsmouth — his grandson, Ray Hunt Jr. of Dartmouth is director of manufacturing and engineering.

And Mr. Hunt's son, James 'Sham' Hunt, lives in Westport (another son, Josh, lives in nearby Marion).

His design credit list is long. In addition to the Whaler, Bertram and Concordia Yawl (39 and 41-footers — of 104 built, all but two are still sailing), he

C. Raymond Hunt aboard his Concordia 41 yawl 'Harrier,' a boat he designed. Son James 'Sham' Hunt of Westport recalls, "We sailed the boat to Cowes, England, and raced in Cowes Week — at that time one of the biggest events in sailing Europe. We won 6 for 6 races with only the family onboard. The British were ecstatic. After Cowes we went on to the Fastnet Race ... two thirds into the race we were winning by a large margin on corrected time but broke two turnbuckles and had to retire to Ireland. A great summer — all six of us lived on the boat and then sailed it to Sweden where it was loaded onto a freighter for the trip back to the U.S."

THE WRITE PLACE

Kristy Acevedo's sci-fi sequel takes readers to whole new world

When Kristy Acevedo's debut sci-fi thriller, "Consider: Book One of The Holo Series," came out last April, she never imagined she would criss-cross the U.S. connecting with fans, or that she would be nominated for a Philip K. Dick Award. Though she didn't win, Acevedo says that the experience was "a lot of fun" and "to be nominated for that award in the sci-fi community is amazing!" Acevedo, who teaches English at Greater New Bedford Voc-Tech High School, spent her February break in Texas attending "Teen Bookfest by the Bay" and her April vacation at the Pacific Northwest's premier Science-Fiction and Fantasy Convention in Seattle. "I have met a lot of fans, read to huge roomfuls of people, and sat on some amazing panels with fellow writers," she reflects.

Consider is a science fiction thriller set in Fairhaven and New Bedford, Mass. When mysterious holograms suddenly appear from the sky, heralding the end of the world, Alexandra "Alex" Lucas must decide whether to heed their warning and step through a portal-like vertex to safety.

In the much-anticipated sequel, Contribute, which was published this Tuesday, readers will finally learn the fate of 17-year-old Alex. Kirkus Reviews praises "Contribute: Book Two of The Holo Series," writing, "It's a rare treat to see a protagonist who suffers from an anxiety disorder, showing readers humanizing frailty even in the context of a technologically advanced world."

"I thought Consider was a tough book to

POLI-TICKS

When 'cute' is too cute

I can't stand "cute" gimmicks where a politician has us pay for her campaign under the guise of public information. Take the ad seriatim stunts for publicity undertaken by Gov. Gina Raimondo. Here are a few examples:

R.I. Department of Transportation (RIDOT) signs

Sometimes the garish blue signs populating the RI landscape make me cringe as an environmentalist.

Arlene VIOLET

There is hardly a good view left in Rhode Island which isn't pockmarked by a RIDOT billboard pronouncing a "completed project," usually on time, under Gina Raimondo. Now, the governor claims it is a mechanism for accountability when she uses state staffers to construct and mount the signs. Actually, my own eyes as well as yours, thank you very much, can gauge the progress or lack thereof. I can figure out, too, whether there is a run-away cost. The biggest joke is to listen to RIDOT head, Peter Alviti, tell listeners on WPRO's Gene Valicenti show, that the signs are still up after completion because there is a "punch list" and the signs, which often violate the size allowed by towns for political signs, will soon come down thereafter. Yet the signs linger long after the "punch list" is completed. What is most annoying is the administration's presumption that the voters are all airheads who actually buy the explanation. Remove the signs!

Hiring of a creative manager

The Governor has now hired a $61,000 plus staffer to promote her through various web configurations. Again, this is explained as an "accountability" mechanism. The reality is that taxpayers are funding a position, worth in excess of

HEALTHY EATING

Eating well on vacation;
a healthy summer treat

It is vacation season! Eating healthy while traveling can be difficult. Here are eight tips for a healthy and happy summer vacation.

1. Stay hydrated. Always keep a bottle of water with you. This will keep your digestive system and body happy.
2. Stick to your exercise routine. If you usually work out three times per week, stick to this same routine. Find out if your hotel has a gym or walking trail close by.
3. Walk when possible.
4. Eat breakfast daily. This will prevent you from being overly hungry by lunch.
5. Control at least one meal of the day. If possible, make one meal per day at your hotel. If you do not have a kitchen, stick with simple things such as instant oatmeal with nuts, or a peanut butter and jelly on whole grain bread.

6. Eat the food that appeals to you. Pay attention to your own hunger cues and food desires. Eat only what appeals to you, not the crowd you are with.
7. Keep meals balanced. Fruits and vegetables are often forgotten about on vacation. Try to include one fruit or veggie with each meal.
8. Limit alcohol. Enjoy yourself by having your favorite cocktail, but be mindful. Try to alternate one beverage with one glass of water.

WATERFRONT: Hunt's designs 'get better with age'

designed the 110 and 210 sailboats, 12-meter Cup contender Easterner, the 5.5 meter and many others.

Less well known — he designed a “lobster boat with no transom so pots would exit easily for (Westport’s) Bill Whipple of Prelude Corp. lobster company.”

Renowned sailor Gary Jobson wrote this about Mr. Hunt:

“A Genius at His Trade is the aptly named biography of C. Raymond Hunt’s long and productive career by author Stan Grayson. Ray Hunt was equally adept at designing both sail and powerboats. His designs get better with age. Some of the classes include the venerable 110, 210 and double-headed keelboats that could plane. He raced in the America’s Cup defender trials on the J/Boat Yankee and skipped the 12 Meter Easterner during the 1962 Cup summer. To describe Ray Hunt as versatile would be an understatement. One of the key ingredients for his success was the ability to use ideas from one marine discipline for another.

Hunt found that whether a boat is powered by an engine or a sail, the basic principles of aerodynamics and hydrodynamics apply. For example: after designing and racing the 110, which features a hard chine, Hunt observed, “Sailing on the V (of the hull) is the secret to the 110. I think it’s an idea that could be modified for powerboats.”

The deep V hull helped inspire many powerboat designs, including the Dick Bertram line. In 1949 Hunt designed a multihull for a client. About the same time, a Canadian inventor was developing a powerboat called a Sea Sled, which had a structural failure and was difficult to steer. Hunt worked on improving the concept for several years. In 1954, he became aware of a new Styrofoam and resin boatbuilding material. By 1964, he recognized the need for an inexpensive powerboat and introduced the Boston Whaler. One of his greatest sailboat designs was the Concordia series of classic yawls introduced in 1938. Most of the 103 of these beautiful 40’ yachts are kept in Bristol condition today and are the pride at many yacht clubs around the East Coast.

As a sailor, he started his career on a promising note by winning the Sears Cup in 1923 and 1925. He won the 5.5 Meter World Championship and was aboard many of his designs in winning a long list of major regattas listed in Grayson’s book. During World War II, then Secretary of the Navy, Charles Francis Adams, who was one of America’s greatest sailors, recruited Hunt to design a fast ship for the U.S. Navy. His design was never built, but Hunt’s concept paid many dividends a few years later. Ray Hunt inspired his son, James “Sham” Hunt who also had a great sailing career highlighted by winning a gold medal in the Olympics as crew for George O’Day in the 5.5 Meter class. and he won the Mallory Cup.”

Other inductees in this year’s class are Bill Bentsen, Bill Martin, Clark Mills, Robby Naish, Corny Shields, Randy Smyth, and Tom Whidden.

Vessel 'Fortuna' takes tournament with 330 pound mako

The sport fishing vessel ‘Fortuna’ from East Greenwich, captained by Mike Beland, landed a 330 pound mako shark to take first place in Snug Harbor Marina’s Shark Tournament this weekend. Bryan Jay was on the rod when the fish hit.

Capt. Dave MONTI

Michaela Hastings on ‘Rangeley’ took second place with a 235-pound mako.

Matt Conti, of Snug Harbor Marina, said, “We had a great turnout with 49 vessels participating, two more than last year.” The tournament took place July 8 and 9 and concluded at 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Proceeds from the tournament go the Rhode Island Saltwater Anglers Association and the Recreational Fishing Alliance.

How much Atlantic menhaden is enough?

I serve on the Atlantic menhaden advisory panel of the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission (ASMFC) that makes regulation recommendations on catch quotas for Atlantic menhaden (locally known as pogies). The lines on how these fish should be utilized have been more sharply drawn today with a new amendment (visit asmfc.org for a copy) being developed for the Atlantic menhaden species management plan.

In early August the ASMFC will vote on Amendment 3 that will be put out for public comment and on Nov. 14 they will vote on options within the Amendment that will guide the plan in the future.

On one side of the issue is Omega Protein, a firm that catches and processes more than 80 percent of all the Atlantic menhaden. Atlantic menhaden is used for the production of fish oil pills for humans, as well as an important ingredient for the production of dog and cat food, fertilizes and other uses. With the Atlantic menhaden stock on the rebound, due to the first ever catch quota put into place in 2012, those that represent the interests of fish processors want an enhanced Atlantic menhaden quota.

On the other side of the issue are conservationists and fishermen who see the importance of Atlantic menhaden for environmental reasons. They are an important forage fish for striped bass, bluefish, tuna and other species. Menhaden also serve as roving filters, converting algae into energy and thus reducing nutrient load. An adult menhaden, through its unique filtering gills, is able to process up to 4 gallons of water per minute or a million gallons of water every 180 days. Multiply this by the number of menhaden and this is an amazing amount of water being filtered, a reduction of nutrients means fewer algae blooms and ultimately more oxygen for all fish.

Conservationists believe we should leave enough Atlantic menhaden in the water to use for the environment and as a forage fish. They say current formulas (to determine catch quotas) do not contain adequate ecological reference points.

Rich Hittinger, a Rhode Island recreational and commercial rod and reel fisherman, is part of a regional group of the National Wildlife Federation advocating for conservative Atlantic menhaden quotas. Hittinger said, “Atlantic menhaden play an important role in our striped bass fishery as a forage fish.” A statement issued by the National Wildlife Federation said, “Amendment 3 needs to have ecosystem-based management guidelines. We have sound science that suggests a forage fish like menhaden should be left with a 75 percent unfished stock in the water to fulfill these needs.”

John McMurray, a New York charter captain and a member of the ASMFC said, “Atlantic menhaden are an incredibly important baitfish for striped bass, bluefish and other predators targeted by recreational anglers. Multiple studies have shown that, when available, menhaden are the preferred diet of striped bass.”

Many feel that the progress made in regulation of Atlantic menhaden as a forage fish is under threat. Patrick Paquette, a charter captain from Cape Cod and an Atlantic menhaden Advisory Panel member said, “Since more restrictive Atlantic menhaden quotas have been in place, we have seen an increase of menhaden in our waters, which will lead to an enhanced striped bass fishery. Allowing more Atlantic menhaden to be taken for commercial fish processing will impact the striped bass fishery up north.”

Steve Medeiros, president of the Rhode Island Saltwater Anglers Association (RISAA) said, “We have a model Atlantic menhaden management program here in Narragansett Bay. We helped craft the plan with the RI Department of Environmental Management (DEM). The program includes a Bay management area that has a fish abundance threshold. If we drop below the threshold commercial fishing is shut down in the bay.”

The species biomass is measured weekly (sometimes twice a week) via airplane spotter stock assessments. “This is an important forage fish for striped bass. Our members are quite aggressive about conservative quotas for this fishery making sure we have enough fish in the water for forage fish and environmental reasons.” Medeiros said.

Amendment 3 to the menhaden management plan will include an opportunity to manage these fish not just for the health of the individual species, but for the importance they play for predators across the ecosystem.

To voice your opinion about Amendment 3 and the Atlantic menhaden management plan, visit asmfc.org after the ASMFC early August meeting when the public comment period begins. Local hearings on the Amendment will likely occur with the comment period ending prior to the November 2017 Commission meeting. Watch for details on hearing dates and where to send written or email comments.

Black Ships Festival returns to Newport

The Black Ships Festival commemorates the signing of the treaty Kanagawa in 1854, negotiated by Commodore Matthew C. Perry, USN, of Newport, which ended two centuries of Japanese isolationism. The Festival offers a variety of events that emphasize both Japanese art and culture, including a formal Gala, Japanese arts & crafts, martial arts, a Japanese tea ceremony, Taiko drums, and a visit by two ships from the Japanese Navy Defense Force. In addition, Spencer W. Viner, Esq., of Newport and Phoenix, AZ, will be awarded, "The Order of the Rising Sun, Golden Rays with Rosette" for his contribution to promoting friendship, goodwill and mutual understanding between Japan and the United States, an honor that has been awarded to 105 recipients in 70 countries; 4 of whom are citizens of the United States. Among his many career accomplishments, Viner has done work here on the East Bay by developing a relationship between Roger Williams University, where he served on the Board of Overseers, and the University in Shizouka Prefecture, Japan.

POLI-TICKS: Stop the self-promotion

$100,000 given health benefits and perks, to promote the governor's reelection.

RI Commerce Corporation

Popping up on its website is a smiling Governor Raimondo touting her job creating prowess and the economy of Rhode Island, again using tax dollars for self-promotion.

Democrat Governors PAC

How many times did you want to change the channel (except you couldn't because the same ad was on all 3 major stations at the same time) when you saw the Governor's pitch for free tuition? It didn't matter that her program went Ker-plunk since she was portrayed as the champion of free college fighting all those dastardly people trying to prevent her from giving a freebie. Politically, of course, her advertisement of herself worked since $450,000 didn't have to come out of her campaign coffers and she believes that a lot of folks will credit her anyway.

All this self-promotion is probably legal, but it reminds me of the "good ol' days" when pols didn't even make a virtuous pretext. A former Supreme Court chief justice had somebody on the payroll to run errands, drop off his laundry, mow the grass, etc., no doubt based on his assessment of his far-too-important duties to take time to visit the cleaners himself. He took taxpayers instead to the cleaners. The "theft of services" statute was unconstitutionally vague, never fixed, and now we have taxpayers funding blatant political pablum. I hoped that the governor wouldn't have skirted so close to the ethics line but it looks like she is part of the same ilk of officials. The "new way" is worse since it parades as virtue. Hopefully she will reconsider and use her millions in her campaign war chest instead.

WRITE PLACE: Meet the author Saturday

write," laughs Acevedo. "Contribute was 10 times harder!" Her challenge was that the book is set in the year 2359 on an alien planet. Acevedo had to create a new cast of characters, as well as imagine what this new world and new technology would be like. From clothing with moving, holographic scenes of leopards, to the ability to create your own customized furniture out of thin air, Acevedo has built a world where everything seems possible, but nothing is as it should be.

Despite her travels, Acevedo said nothing compares to the reader feedback. "I think one of the best things I've experienced the last year is receiving emails from readers who really connected with the Alex character and who appreciated having a main character with an anxiety disorder that felt very real to them."

She is also amazed to have received emails from readers from Europe and Asia.

When asked how she thinks the sequel will be received, Acevedo answers honestly, "I don't know. It's so different from Consider." She said she has heard from early readers that, "people who like hardcore sci-fi will like the second book even better than the first."

On Saturday, July 15, from 2 to 4 p.m., Barnes & Noble in Dartmouth, Mass. will celebrate the release of Kristy Acevedo's second novel with a book signing and meet-and-greet.

"My first launch party was so amazing I don't think it will ever be topped," said Acevedo. "This time feels more like a thank-you to fans."

The event is free and open to the public, and will include light refreshments. Barnes & Noble is located in Dartmouth Town Center, 392 State Road (RT. 6). For more info call 508-997-0701 or visit kristyacevedo.com/events.

House of the week

Historic Rumford Victorian has many updates

Attractive, immaculate, and spacious, this well-built and cared for 1882 Victorian in the popular Rumford neighborhood in East Providence has many updates while retaining its period detail. The home sits on a fenced-in ¼ acre corner lot at the intersection of Wilson and Horsford Avenues.

Step onto the wonderful front porch and enter into a spacious front foyer with a double wide coat closet. An abundance of natural light floods the extra-large living room and formal dining room leading out to a three-season porch overlooking the well-kept perennial gardens.

With close to 2,000 sq. ft. of living space, the home offers three to four good sized bedrooms, one of which is currently used as a first-floor office. The eat-in kitchen is updated with hickory cabinets in like-new condition. A half bath, laundry room/pantry are also located on the first floor. The back entry has a desired mud room - perfect for New England winters.

The master bedroom features two large closets, the second bedroom also has two closets and a bonus room with a view of the side yard. The third bedroom has one closet. All are located on the second floor along with a good-sized bathroom with a full bathtub and shower.

Beautiful hardwood floors and custom woodwork from the period, this home has the best of both worlds-modern amenities and updated features. The basement is large enough to store everything under the sun with a built-in shelving system.

The meticulous grounds have an irrigation system, outdoor lighting, and the entire house uses well water with a private septic system.

There is a gravel driveway leading to a two-car garage on the side street. This home is near all amenities and less than an eighth of a mile from Myron Francis Elementary School.
