A team of trained search dogs was headed back to Barrington Beach on Monday morning, July 6, as the search for a missing boater continued into its fourth day.

Late Thursday afternoon, July 2, the Barrington Fire Department received a phone call for an overdue boater that kicked off a multi-agency search in the water and the air.

The individual was identified in a Providence Journal story as Barrington resident Stanislav Antons, an accomplished triathlete who owns a house on Walnut Road.

Officials found Mr. Antons' boat floating in the water just south of the Rhode Island Country Club property late Thursday afternoon, but could not locate the individual. The Barrington harbormaster, fire department, Rhode Island Department of Environmental Management, U.S. Coast Guard, the Rhode Island State Police and a number of private residents participated in a search early Thursday evening.

By late in the day on Friday, the Coast Guard had ceased searching for the missing man, but others, including volunteers from New England Search and Rescue, had joined the effort.

"We became involved on Saturday, July 4," said Christopher Monteiro, the director of operations for New England Search and Rescue. He added that NESAR officials reached out to the family and offered their assistance.

Stas Antons

Mr. Monteiro said NESAR has had two patrol boats in the water and on Sunday was also using two small planes to search from the air. The search also included cadaver dogs. Mr. Monteiro said the cadaver dogs

Domenic Carbone named president of Warren-Barrington Rotary Club ... again

BY MANUEL C. "MANNY" CORREIRA
Special to The Times

Twenty-five years ago, Domenic Carbone took his first turn as president of the Warren-Barrington Rotary Club. It was a successful venture that offered him a chance to lead a small, but dynamic club of businessmen and women into an ever-challenging world. Now, he's doing it again. Mr. Carbone, an architect by profession, was officially installed as president of the 75-year-old club Tuesday night, June 30, during ceremonies at the Wharf Tavern in Warren.

Using a famous off-the-cuff quote from former New York Yankees great, Yogi Berra, he said, "It's like deja-vu, all over again." "I'm looking forward to it," said Mr. Carbone, a Barrington resident who will turn 60 on July 11. "I'm honored to again lead this wonderful Warren Barrington Rotary Club into our 75th year. And, what a privilege to serve under this year's inspired Presidential theme: 'Be a gift to the world.' It'll be a lot of fun to serve under that banner."

Other officers installed for the 2015-16 year include president-elect Mary Almeida of Bristol; Raymond Parker, treasurer, of Barrington; Timothy Pray, secretary, of Bristol; James Gasparro, speaker chairman, of Barrington; and Louis Rego, sergeant-at-arms, of Warren.

Special plaques were also presented to several deserving club officers for their dedication and contributions to Warren-Barrington Rotary.

"So now, how will our club be a gift to the world?" asked Mr. Carbone. "I would suggest three steps; See, Encounter and Engage. So in the Rotary year ahead, let's see out from those windows into our community, let's encounter those we see, and let's engage those we encounter. Then, we will surely be a 'gift to the world.'"

NEWS BRIEFS

Police inundated with fireworks complaints

The Fourth of July is a celebration often marked with fireworks, but in Barrington (and likely in other towns also) the fireworks started more than a day before the holiday and continued on past the Fourth. People began calling into the police station on Thursday, July 2, filing complaints about loud fireworks and were still calling in on Sunday night — well-past Independence Day. On Thursday, the police department fielded complaints from residents on Washington Road, Sowams Road and Linden Road, while on Friday the calls expanded to folks on Whipple Avenue also. On Saturday, July 4, residents on Sowams, Pleasant Street, Vineland Drive, Ocean Avenue, Maple Avenue, Mathewson Road, Barrington Avenue, Grassy Plain Road, Greenbrier Drive, Roffee Street, College Lane, Anchorage Way, Washington Road, and Clarke Road called police about loud fireworks. (There were numerous calls on Vineland Drive.) On Sunday, loud fireworks in the area of Sowams Road and Barrington Beach yielded calls to the police. During all the reported incidents, no one was charged.

Parking lot under construction, please steer clear

Barrington School Department officials are reminding residents that the Primrose Hill School parking lot and playground are closed to the public while the area is under construction. Crews are building a new parking lot and renovating the playground at the local elementary school, which is located at 60 Middle Highway. School officials sent out an email recently, alerting residents to the situation. "It is anticipated that the projects will be complete mid-August, at which time, the playground will re-open. Thank you for your assistance in keeping everyone safe," stated the email.

Beachfront Bargain Hunt comes to Barrington

Local Realtor goes national on HGTV show

BY JOAN D. WARREN
Special to The Times

Realtor Carolyn Nolan has always been a bit camera-shy so when she got a call from the producers for a popular cable home show to possibly be the featured agent for an episode, her first reaction was to decline the offer. It was her three children who changed her mind.

Exactly one year ago, a production crew from the cable channel HGTV were in Barrington filming for an episode of the program Beachfront Bargain Hunt where Mrs. Nolan showed a buyer, Mark Piccerelli, four houses near the water in town. The episode aired June 21 and will replay on Sunday, July 12 at 7 p.m.

A realtor with Coleman Real Estate and a Barrington resident, Mrs. Nolan said she is very happy she decided to participate on the show and that stepping out of her comfort zone was a lesson she learned from her kids and hopes others will take stock in.

"My first reaction was no way, maybe another agent can do it but my kids said 'Mom, you are always telling us to try new things and spread your wings', so I had to practice what I preach," she said.

The experience of working with a professional TV crew was exciting, but hard work. She had an initial interview with the network people via Skype and was in Boston with her husband Tim when she got the call informing her that the crew would be in town in a few weeks to begin four days of filming with her as the agent in charge. She said there wasn't much time to change her mind.

"I was so nervous but two of my good friends helped me decide what to wear and gave me talking points. They really came through for me," she said.

They filmed 10 hours per day all over town and in neighboring Warren.

The four houses Mr. Piccerelli and his daughter Isabelle toured were from different areas of town: A home in Bay Spring overlooking Allin's Cove, a house on Bay Road a few blocks from the town beach, a house in Hampden Meadows on the Barrington River and a house on Hundred Acre Cove. All were in the $300,000 price range, a bargain in the making and in tune with the theme of the show.

In the end, Mr. Piccerelli chose the cottage on the Cove.

The half-hour show showcased the Town of Barrington nicely, making Mrs. Nolan's role on the show not as cumbersome as she had thought it would be.

"They did some really good editing," she joked.

Dave Coleman, owner of the real estate company that bears his family name, said the program really made the town look fabulous.

"They did a nice job. I think the show was a great experience for Carolyn to self promote while showcasing the beauty and charm of the town," he said.

Mr. Piccerelli thought the show was well done and like his agent, thought the editing was superb.

"We spent a lot of time filming and the end result was great," he said. "Carolyn did a fabulous job on the show, but more than that, she is a very good Realtor. I hadn't bought a home in many years and she walked me through the entire process."

Mrs. Nolan is pleased with the attention the show has sparked but is still the same unassuming realtor she has always been.

"The show was a great experience and I am glad I did it. If it wasn't for my children pushing me I would have passed on the opportunity. I'm glad I listened to them," she said.

Barrington's Carolyn Nolan is featured on an episode of HGTV's Beachfront Bargain Hunt.

Show, realtor make Barrington shine

Since Beachfront Bargain Hunt aired last month, Carolyn Nolan has received many calls from friends and family all over the country who saw the program. She even got a call from a couple who were so impressed with the town after seeing the show that they called her up to see some properties. Carole and Michael Cryan from New Jersey were in Barrington last week and toured a few homes near the water. "The show absolutely brought Barrington to the forefront of our minds," Mr. Cryan said. "We loved the different waterfront areas the town has and the varied coastline."

"Carolyn did such a nice job of showing the town and understanding the buyer. For viewers like us it was more about the features of the town rather than the houses that peaked our interest," Mrs. Cryan said.

A private boater cruises in the water off Barrington Beach late Thursday afternoon, July 2, looking for a missing Barrington man. The search had continued on Monday, relying mainly on volunteers.

were brought aboard boats and picked up a scent on the water just south of the Rhode Island Country Club golf course.

"The dogs are about 95 percent reliable," he said.

On three consecutive searches, the two dogs separately identified the same location in the water.

"That's when we contacted Barrington police," said Mr. Monteiro.

Officials called on a dive team based out of Warwick, which responded to the location off Barrington Beach at about 5 p.m. on Sunday. Nothing was found Mr. Monteiro said the in-water search has been made difficult by low visibility — he said the divers can only see about 3 to 5 feet under water and must conduct the search by touch.

Search expanded
As the tide rolled in late Thursday, officials expanded the search to the water north of Nayatt Point and west of Mussachuck Beach. Firefighters also walked the shoreline in this area looking for evidence of the missing man.

Empty boat located
The Barrington Fire Department received a call for an overdue boater at about 5:30 p.m. on Thursday, July 2. The search has been focused in the area south of Barrington Beach and east of Conimicut Lighthouse. On Sunday, divers were in the water south of the golf course looking for the missing boater.

cult," he said, adding that visibility worsens as divers kick up silt that rests on the bottom of the bay.

Barrington Fire Department Lt. Rich McKay said the fire department assisted with its own patrol boat, Marine 1, during Sunday's dive operation. He said the search continued until it grew too dark.

In addition to the in-water search, firefighters have gone to areas overlooking the bay to search for any signs of the missing diver, and have walked along the shoreline — from Barrington Beach south to Nayatt Point and from Nayatt Point west to Mussachuck Beach — to look for anything from the missing man that may have washed ashore.

As of Monday, the searches had come up empty.

The missing man

Fuel Belt Race Team has identified the missing man as Stas Antons, who has competed in Ironman triathlons.

According to the town's website, Mr. Antons and his wife Karen Antons purchased the home at 10 Walnut Road in Oct. 2014.

The website LinkedIn lists Mr. Antons as a 1997 graduate of the University of Rhode Island and a lead development manager for TIAA-CREF.

The search begins

Shortly after receiving a call for an overdue boater on Thursday, a flurry of vehicles responded to the town beach.

Police and fire department vehicles filled the western portion of the parking lot at Barrington Beach, and news cameras set on tripods pointed southwest toward the water. Barrington Fire Chief Gerald Bessette stood at the far western edge of the parking lot and spoke to members of the media and other officials.

By about 7 p.m., officials had sent divers into the water searching for the missing person. Chief Bessette would not offer details about who was missing.

According to Chief Bessette, the Coast Guard, which had also sent helicopters to aid in the search, was continuing to expand the area of the search because of the incoming tide and wind.

As the sun set and the sky began to grow darker, the lights of the DEM, police and fire department boats could still be seen in the water east of Conimicut Lighthouse.

"When the divers can't see, when it gets too dark, the Marine Task Force will cease," said Chief Bessette, adding that the Coast Guard would remain in the area and continue the search.

A small vessel could be seen in the area of the rescue boats. Chief Bessette confirmed that the small boat was involved in the incident. It had been anchored in the water just east of the shipping channel.

By about 8:15 p.m., DEM was preparing to take custody of the vessel.

Plenty of fun with summer concerts, feast

Rest up because the fun starts this Sunday and doesn't let up until the end of August. The annual Barrington Summer Concert Series kicks off on Sunday, July 12, with a show by the Pat McGee Band and featuring special guest Patrick McAloon at Barrington Beach at 6 p.m.

The Pat McGee band, which has toured all over the United States, has shared the stage with The Who, Allman Brothers, Fleetwood Mac, James Taylor and more. The show is free and promises to be a lot of fun. Get to the beach early and stake out your spot for the concert.

On Sunday, July 26, the Becky Chase Band will take the stage for the second installment of the Barrington Summer Concert Series at Barrington Beach. And on Sunday, Aug. 9, the Nightlife Orchestra will host a show at RISD's Tillinghast Farm. The concert series wraps up on Sunday, Aug. 23 with the Boston Premier Band at Barrington Beach.

Holy Angels Feast

If you're looking for something different than a concert, mark your calendar for the Holy Angels Church Feast of the Assumption celebration Aug. 13 to 16. The Maple Avenue parish does an excellent job of hosting the four-day event.

The fun starts with a steak fry on the church grounds at 6 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 13, and continues Friday and Saturday, Aug. 14 and 15 with an exciting festival. There is musical entertainment, children's games, Roman Garden dining, a bake sale, and some of the most delicious food anywhere. The feast continues on Sunday morning,

Aug. 16 with a Feast Mass, followed by an outdoor procession. (It's also worth mentioning, Holy Angels will hold a white elephant sale in the church parking lot on Saturday, July 18, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.)

You don't need to be a parishioner to enjoy the feast, although you may consider joining once you've soaked up all the fun.

Memorial Day coverage snubbed veterans

To the editor:

After carefully reviewing the Times publication of the Memorial Day Parade, I am disappointed with the fact that the related article did not note some particular patriotic elements of the Memorial Day event.

Not in one photograph or in the content of your editorial was there any mention of our guest speaker, grand marshal, or wreath placement at Victory Gate or the town's honor roll. Nor any mention of the team of Boy Scouts who placed flags on the graves of war veterans.

It seemed as though your photo and editorial focus was on the entertainment (tossing of candy) and the ability of parade viewers to easily return home and not endure traffic congestion.

For myself and other veterans, Memorial Day is a day of remembrance of those who made the ultimate sacrifice in all wars and conflicts fought by American forces. I would ask that next year there is a proportional focus on the true meaning and aspects of Memorial Day in your newspaper.

Sincerely,

Writer's armchair criticism does little to help town

To the editor:

For the record, I do not recall saying "punch in the gut" as my reaction to Shaws and CVS' avoidance of the plastic bag ordinance which was passed nearly three years ago. While it would not be the first time I have been misquoted in this paper, to be fair, it is close to how I felt when I learned that CVS and Shaws were offering plastic bags at checkout. While following the letter of the law (thicker ply and stamped with 'Reusable'), this action sticks a big fat thumb in the eye to the primary reason for the ordinance, which is to begin reducing the excessive amount of plastic in our environment - a material that NEVER biodegrades.

The wording of the Reusable Checkout Bag Initiative is based on boiler plate language used in hundreds of similar ordinances successfully implemented across the country, until now. It is the aggressive plastic bag industry and its lobbyists, funded by the trillion dollar oil and gas industry, who cleverly figured out the end run.

As a former member of the Conservation Commission, the group who first brought the plastic bag plague to our attention, perhaps Mr. Ryan could step up and help word an amendment to the ordinance with teeth, instead of offering his usual armchair criticism.

Rep. Malik helped bridge DOT bureaucracy

To the editor:

Several years ago an automobile accident took out one of the light stands on the Route 114 bridge from Barrington to Warren. Given the millions of dollars spent to construct the bridge and make it attractive you might have thought the the RIDOT would have moved promptly to install a new light stand. Not so.

I submitted several inquiries to RIDOT as to when the repair might be made and received little or no response.

Having run up against a wall, I contacted Warren Town Manager Tom Gordon who put me in touch with Representative Jan Malik. To his credit, Rep.

Malik went right to RIDOT to determine the source of the problem and got a commitment from the new director to replace the light. Since the item must be specially made it may take some time before the new light is installed but Rep. Malik has committed to do the needed follow up.

In a way it is a shame that an ordinary citizen has trouble getting the attention of a state department on a matter like this but in the end our bridge will look as it was originally designed thanks to the efforts of Rep. Malik.

Don't knock the gas station 'roller dogs'

Years ago there was a place on the East Side of Providence that served up hot dogs, and if you ate a certain number of hot dogs, say, more than five or six, then the guy behind the counter would take a Polaroid of you and add it to the restaurant wall that was already cluttered with photos. Underneath your face on the photo, he would write in black Sharpie, "Josh, 6" or "Suzy, 8" or "Mike, 14." (I think "Mike" held the record for most dogs consumed in one sitting.)

I never made the wall and I think the restaurant has since been converted into a hookah bar or a shoe store or a hookah bar that sells shoes out the back door.

To be honest, the hot dogs were only OK, and were, in my humble opinion, ruined by ridiculously bulky buns. Just too much bread.

There are other places to get hot dogs around Rhode Island — think Haven Bros. in Providence and Rod's Grille in Warren (although Rod's, as we all know, is for gaggers) — but there are not enough spots in the East Bay.

My search for a good dog (nothing too fancy or expensive or requiring that I sit down to eat it) has led me to an unexpected location at a small strip mall in Bristol. Inside a gas station convenience store at the end of the strip mall, is a machine that is loaded with tasty hot dogs.

"Roller dogs." There are normal ballpark franks, jumbo dogs and sometimes weirdly shaped cheeseburger hot dogs. The buns are packed in a drawer under the rollers and the condiments are lined up at the end of the counter.

It is not fancy.

It is not expensive.

There is nowhere to sit down and eat.

People at my office — and I'm guessing a few of you reading this column — cringe at the thought of "roller dogs." You can buy hot dogs at a convenience store? Are those safe to eat? Are you sure they're really hot dogs?

My answer to those questions — learned through experience — is yes. (And the dogs are only that much better when you smother them with chopped onions and mustard.)

Still, I suppose there is a small part of me that would abandon the convenience store hot dogs if I could grab a tasty and inexpensive hot dog some place else.

So, if you happen to know of a good spot, let me know (drop me an email at jbickford@east-baynewspapers.com).

And if you don't, come on down to Bristol and meet me for a "roller dog."

MANUEL C. "MANNY" CORREIRA

Sandy Gorham is the new head football coach at Barrington High School. Gorham was the head football coach at Barrington from 1985 to 1990, and served as head coach at East Providence High School also.

Familiar face returns as head football coach

Sandy Gorham, who led the Eagles from 1985 to 1990, returns to Barrington gridiron

BY MANUEL C. "MANNY" CORREIRA
Special to The Times

One year after serving as an assistant coach, John S. "Sandy" Gorham is now the man in charge of varsity football at Barrington High School.

He returns to the sidelines as head coach, the same position he held with the Eagles from 1985 to 1990. He replaces the popular and highly-successful Bill McCagney, who recently retired.

"I'm glad to be back," said the likeable 63-year-old Gorham, who prior to coming back to Barrington, was a Hall of Fame coach at East Providence High School. "I love coaching. I love being around the kids."

Barrington High School Athletic Director George Finn is happy to have Coach Gorham back to lead the Eagles.

"We are pleased to have Coach Gorham return as our head coach for the football program," he said. "His knowledge of the game, our program, and the community, make him a great fit to lead the Eagles. The returning players are excited to have him as their new head coach. As difficult as it was to know that Bill McCagney would not be returning after his tenure of 25 years, the team is prepared to move forward and work hard for Coach Gorham."

Sandy Gorham moves up to the top post on Barrington's coaching staff following a blue ribbon career at East Providence High. During his two decades at the helm of the Townies, he was named Rhode Island Division 1 Football Coach of the Year four times (1995, 1997, 1999 and 2003), Words Unlimited Rhode Island Male Coach of the Year in 1997, and Rhode Island Athletic Directors' Male Coach of the Year in 2003.

He was also selected Rhode Island representative to the NFL Conference in 2007, and was selected Rhode Island Coach of the Year USA poll in 2013.

"His knowledge of the game, our program, and the community, make him a great fit to lead the Eagles."

AD GEORGE FINN ABOUT FOOTBALL COACH SANDY GORHAM

Coach Gorham, a 1975 URI graduate, has also been inducted into several Halls of Fame, including the RI Football Coaches Hall of Fame in 2003, the Providence Gridiron Club Hall of Fame in 2008, the East Providence High School Hall of Fame in 2013, and the ESPN "The Rivalry Series" Hall of Fame (2013). He is also a member of the Rhode Island Aquatic Hall of Fame (1994).

Following in the footsteps of his good friend and fellow coach, Bill McCagney, Sandy Gorham knows he'll have his work cut out in keeping the Eagles flying high among all Division I schools in the RI Interscholastic League. Admittedly, it will be a challenge this year with more than 20 seniors having graduated and only two returning starters on offense and defense.

"The kids have been great," he noted. "They know what lies ahead. They're excited about the chance to play."

Luckily, Coach Gorham has some quality assistant coaches at his disposal.

Steve Lenz is returning along with Jim Anderson and several other volunteer coaches. Adam Toman, former Barrington High School and Bridgewater State University star, is new to the coaching staff and will handle the offensive and defensive lines.

"He's a personal trainer and brings energy and enthusiasm to the program," the coach noted.

Under any other circumstance, Coach Gorham conceivably would have discarded the notion of coming back to Barrington to coach the varsity, had it not been for his 12-year-old son, Luke, who will be entering seventh grade at the Barrington Middle School.

"My son influenced me to take this job," he admitted. "I had coached my sons, John and Ryan, at East Providence, and Luke asked me if I was going to coach him. When he found out that Bill had resigned, he asked me to take the job."

It didn't take Sandy long to make his intentions known.

"Football has always played a key role in my life," said the former East Providence Townies boss, who in his 20 years at the helm, coached the Townies to seven Barrington's Bobby Colantonio was recently selected to compete for the US team in the 2015 IAAF World Youth Championships in Cali, Colombia this month. Bobby, who will be a senior at the high school this fall, will compete in the hammer throw after he finished first at the trials at Benedictine University in Lisle, Ill. on June 30.

Bobby's top throw was 234 feet, 3 inches in the 5K hammer throw. He also won the 12-pound hammer throw with a distance of 224 feet, 2 inches.

Super Bowl appearances, including five Super Bowl championships. After 40 years, he still teaches health and physical education at the school.

Along the way, he coached five All-State quarterbacks at EP, and more than 30 All-Staters in all, including Jamie Silva, who went on to stardom at Boston College, and then played with the Indianapolis Colts in the National Football League.

"He was probably the greatest player I ever coached," said Coach Gorham. "Jamie was extremely dedicated to the game of football. He had a passion and desire for the game like few others."

In addition, Sandy has had to deal with family health issues. It hasn't been easy, but he has persevered. He has also excelled as coach of the Eagles' swim and softball teams. He loves keeping busy and working with kids.

Walking around the football field area and relaxing inside a quiet spot in the school cafeteria, Coach Gorham talked about the future and the challenges which lie ahead. He knew the cupboard would be a little bare, with only two returning starters, but was encouraged by the fact that reinforcements were on the horizon.

"We have some good young players coming up down the road," he said, smiling. "The attitude of the kids we already have is great."

"I'm here for the long haul with my eyes wide open," he concluded. "I hope we get judged fairly."

BCS offering trips to Tanglewood, Goodspeed

For many years, Tanglewood, located in the beautiful Berkshires, has been a staple of Barrington Community School summer day trips, and this year is no exception. Summer home of the Boston Symphony Orchestra since 1936, Tanglewood is on 500 acres in the Berkshire foothills.

BCS is offering two trips — a Saturday morning rehearsal and a Sunday afternoon concert. Fees include concert ticket, grounds maintenance fee surcharge, BCS escort, motorcoach and driver tip. Barrington departure for both concerts is from the Town Hall parking lot.

On Saturday, July 18, a BSO morning rehearsal features guest conductor Sir Neville Mariner and pianist Paul Lewis. The program will include Mozart's Symphony No. 35, Haffner; Mozart's Symphony No. 36, Linz; and Schumann's Piano Concerto. Following the rehearsal, the group will travel to Lenox, where many lunch, browsing and shopping opportunities are available.

Barrington departure is at 7 a.m., with a Providence pickup at 7:20; return will be by 6 p.m. The cost is $88; $78 BCS members. Seating is in the front of the center section of the Shed and seats are pre-assigned.

On Sunday, Aug. 9, an afternoon concert is with guest conductor Charles Dutois, who has performed with all the major orchestras on most stages of the five continents. He is presently artistic director and principal conductor of London's Royal Philharmonic. He will lead the Boston Symphony Orchestra in a program featuring famed violinist Joshua Bell, and works include Mussorgsky's "Night on Bald Mountain," Wieniawski's Violin Concerto No. 2, and Berlioz's Symphonie Fantastique.

Bring a picnic to enjoy lunch at fresco on the lawn before the concert or purchase lunch there. Barrington departure is at 9 a.m., with a Providence pickup at 9:20 and a return by 9 p.m. The fee is $110; $98 BCS members, for seating in the front of section 11 and 12. To upgrade to box seats (the white rocking chairs) add $25.

July trips that still have openings are a musical theater trip to Goodspeed at Chester for "My Paris" and Gillette Castle on Wednesday, July 29; and "My Fair Lady" and luncheon at Matunuck's Theatre by-the-Sea on July 16.

Summer Music Series kicks off at Barrington Beach on Sunday

The Barrington Summer Music Series gets off to a rousing start at Barrington Beach on Sunday, July 12, at 6 p.m., with the renowned Pat McGee Band.

McGee is a big supporter of the USO and performed in Greenland as well as the Middle East and Africa with Navy Entertainment. He also played for 5,000 men and women serving on the Arabian Sea, which "was certainly a career highlight," he said.

McGee wrote the music for his latest album and was inspired by the classic albums of the 1970s. It is his 10th recording and was recorded in Los Angeles in 2014, with Russ Kunkel, Leland Sklar, Waddy Wachtel, Danny Kortchmar, Jeff Pevar and others.

AT THE LIBRARY

'Big Movies on the Big Screen' on Wednesdays

Enjoy big-scale movies the way they were meant to be seen: on a large screen, enhanced by state-of-the-art sound. That's the hook for librarian Doug Swiszczy's film lecture series, "Big Movies on the Big Screen," which continues on Wednesdays at 1 p.m.

On July 15, "West Side Story" (1961) will be featured. Leonard Bernstein's music, Stephen Sondheim's lyrics, and Jerome Robbins' choreography and direction created the ground-breaking Broadway musical on which the movie is based.

Transplanting Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" to Manhattan's West Side in the late 1950s, the story centers on the love between Tony (Richard Beymer), a Polish-American, and Maria (Natalie Wood), a Puerto Rican girl blossoming into young womanhood. Their starry-eyed dream of a life together is threatened by their association with rival street gangs, the Caucasian Jets and the Puerto Rican Sharks.

Bernstein's edgy music, Robbins' propulsive choreography, and Robert Wise's direction of the dramatic scenes resulted in a film that nudged the musical genre a little closer to true art. The movie won 10 Academy Awards, including Best Picture, and Best Supporting Actor and Actress for George Chakiris and Rita Moreno, respectively. Unrated, the color film will be shown with a 15-minute intermission, during which complimentary light refreshments will be served. The entire program (including Mr. Swiszczy's pre-film commentary) runs for 3 hours and 15 minutes, and is free and open to all.

The series will continue with "Lawrence of Arabia" on July 22, "Titanic" on July 29 and "War Horse" on Aug. 5.

Silver Lining for newly re-opened Minuteman Press of Seekonk

A destructive fire in March which completely destroyed all the company's printing equipment, could not keep Minuteman Press of Seekonk's owner, Marc Frechette, down. The day after windows at the Fall River Avenue location were boarded up, Marc, a second generation Minuteman owner, was up and running with his staff at his home. Shortly thereafter, the presses were rolling again. Other Minuteman Press companies had jumped into the breach to help a fellow printer out, and Konica Minolta had offered its demo equipment in their showroom.

On May 1, just two months after the disaster, Marc and his loyal staff, reopened at a new location on Taunton Avenue. "There certainly was a silver lining to the whole event," he says. "Today we have upgraded to totally new equipment, all using the latest technology. We now have 100% digital production." And in searching for a new location, Marc was able to merge with The Copy Shop, a successful instant print business that had a nearby prime location for his business, with an abundance of parking and easy customer access.

Minuteman Press of Seekonk has merged with The Copy Shop at its convenient location on Taunton Avenue in Seekonk, after a devastating fire in May. All new digital equipment and more space are fortuitous outcomes of the event.

Marc prides himself on the company's excellent customer service, which won a coveted "Top Quality" award from Minuteman Press International, Inc. "We go above and beyond what is necessary to make sure our customers are happy and successful," he says. He and his staff often consult with customers helping out with marketing ideas. The company prints business cards, flyers, newsletters, carbonless forms, invitations, labels, manuals, notepads, presentation folders, menus, tickets, large format black and white as well as color and much more.

Soccer team celebrates good run

The Barrington Youth Soccer Association's "Team Aberdeen" U-14 boys' team reached the finals of the Super Liga Championship recently. The local team, which entered the playoffs as a number five seed, knocked off Cumberland 5-1 in the opening round and then defeated CLCF, 2-1, to reach the finals. Team Aberdeen played Pawtucket to a scoreless tie during the first half of the finals, but struggled in the second half, allowing five goals in the eventual 5-0 defeat. Despite the loss, organizers and parents were very pleased and made proud by the local team's run to the title game.

Teen swimming for Save The Bay

YMCA lifeguard Santino DePasquale is fourth highest fund-raiser so far

BY TED HAYES

thayes@eastbaynewspapers.com

Save The Bay's annual Newport to Jamestown swim is fast approaching, and a local teenager is emerging as one of the top pledge earners in the annual event.

So far, Santino DePasquale, 17, of Warren, has raised about $2,400 in pledges for the July 11 swim, and hopes to reach $4,000.

"Hope so," he said recently, shortly after ending his shift as a lifeguard at the Bayside YMCA in Barrington. "There's still a while to go."

Santino, the son of Diane and Joseph DePasquale, is heading into his junior year at Mt. Hope High School and hopes to become a United States Coast Guard rescue swimmer.

The swim starts in Newport and cuts across Narragansett Bay just north of the Pell Bridge, a distance of about 1.8 miles. Santino has never swum that far, but he has been training regularly, three or four times a week, at the Bristol

Santino DePasquale

Town Beach.

"I've done a mile, but I haven't done anything over that," he said. "But you just have to stay strong. Once you hit a mile you know you're more than halfway. You just have to bang it out and keep going."

Currently, Santino is the fourth-highest fund-raiser in this year's swim. For more information on his swim, or to help him raise money for Save The Bay, see www.save-bay.org/theswim. From there, click on the "Meet the Swimmer" link; you'll find a route to Santino's fund-raising page.

Inspired Insanity

Around again: Lange plans non-stop sail

In 2007, Donna Lange set out from Portsmouth aboard her Bristol-built Southern Cross 28 on a two-year voyage that would take her around the world.

Bruce BURDETT

Now the 53-year-old grandmother, musician and oceans activist is back — this time in Bristol.

Her boat, Inspired Insanity, is getting some attention at Bristol Marine before returning to a mooring out from the Elks Club as she recruits supporters and stocks up for a more ambitious attempt.

She'll sail around the world again, Ms. Lange says, but this time non-stop (last time she made three stops). If she manages that she'll become the first American woman to achieve the feat, and in a boat that, while stout, is older by far, smaller and slower than the sort of boat used in most ocean attempts these days.

What's more, she'll follow a challenging route — trade winds toward Europe, then south below Africa and around Antarctica via the Roaring Forties. It's a shorter route but one with relentless waves and wind.

And she intends to do it without reliance on electronic navigation.

"GPS is not being used," Ms. Lange said. "I am sailing as sailors did when finding their way was the true adventure and a necessary skill for going offshore. I intend to highlight the need for genuine seamanship skills in this day of high tech lassitude. The ocean, as we all know, is not humbled by electronic equipment. Though the benefits of having the new digital equipment are obvious, they should not be a substitute for genuine seamanship skills."

To that end she said she took an "apprenticeship" with Bristol's Halsey Herreshoff on the use of compass and sextant.

"I will be self-reliant and immersed in sailing technology, as was required before the 12 volt digital revolution."

Bristol is an appropriate place to launch her adventure, Ms. Lange said, and feels like home since she's been setting sail from this port since 2002.

And it's a good place to find the sort of expertise and gear needed to bring a boat of this vintage up to the challenges ahead.

"Like many mariners, I've learned that the cluster of marine services around Bristol makes this a very efficient place to prepare for long trips ... This is the second time my boat Inspired Insanity has been outfitted in Bristol for a global trip."

And as before, a number here have stepped up to help. She said she has been provided with places to moor her boat, stay ashore, maintenance, bottom paint, electronics gear, deck hardware, sails, emergency flotation equipment, public relations help and much more.

Naval Academy Midshipmen arriving Friday

This Friday morning, July 10, four U.S. Naval Academy 44' sail-training vessels will moor at Herreshoff Pier for a three-day port visit and community outreach. At press time they were scheduled to arrive at 11 a.m.

The USNA contingent will include 35 male and female Midshipmen and five faculty coaches. They are completing an ocean transit as part of their summer training, and will take time to enjoy Bristol's history, food, and hospitality and stretch their sea legs in Bristol's parks with community projects arranged by Walter Burke, Cathy Morrison, Sandy Lee and other citizens.

Town Administrator Tony Texiera asks everyone available to join us on the pier to give a warm Bristol welcome and show of support to kick off the visit.

Bring a friend, neighbor, grandchildren, relative or other interested folks to the pier and greet the Midshipmen; and to ask questions about life as they prepare to become officers in our Navy and Marine Corps, and find out what it takes to be accepted at the Academy in Annapolis.

While here, the Midshipmen will tour local sites and museums, visit the Veterans Home, join morning exercise at Independence Park, visit the Town Beach and take turns standing watch.

The vessels will be open for tours daily from 1 to 4 p.m., from the Herreshoff Pier on Friday and Saturday, and from the Town Pier, following a move to that location on Sunday at 11 a.m. They are scheduled to depart Monday morning at 11 a.m. from the Town Pier.

DAVID BERGMAN

Pat McGee with some of the veteran musicians that backed him on his recent album, including (l-r) Leland Sklar, Russ Kunkel, Waddy Wachtel, and Jeff Pevar.

McGee's latest assembles a band of legends

Barrington resident returned to rock roots for self-titled album; will be performing this Sunday on Barrington Beach

BY CHRISTY NADALIN
 cnadalin@eastbaynewspapers.com

"This album is the result of my rekindled love affair with classic rock," says Pat McGee, the Barrington musician who is entering his third decade as a popular performer and recording artist. He was listening to vinyl at a friend's house and decided to revisit the records that inspired him, including Jackson Browne, James Taylor, and Crosby, Stills & Nash. "I became obsessed with the vinyl experience, and wanted to write songs that could have come out of that era," he says.

So he took a chance and contacted some of the the guys who backed up the who's who of classic rock. And to McGee's surprise,

JOYCE BOGHOSIAN

Pat McGee, whose latest album was both inspired and created by the vintage technology of classic vinyl.

they responded, with enthusiasm. This laundry list of legendary musicians included Russ Kunkel, Leland Sklar, Waddy Wachtel, Danny Kortchmar, and Jeff Pevar. Nicknamed "The Section", they agreed to back McGee on his latest album. "It was mind-blowing," he admits.

And it only got better when they got to the studio.

McGee wanted to be authentic, so they recorded to 2" tape (contemporary industry standard is digital.) He has never recorded live like that, and wasn't really sure what he was getting into. It wasn't long ("I knew within 2 bars") before any trepidation he might have felt turned to excitement.

"When you have musicians like that...they are just so incredibly creative in the moment," McGee says. "We never did more than 2 or 3 takes of anything."

"I still can't believe it happened. I achieved my goal and put so much icing on the cake."

It will be at least a month before McGee can relax and perhaps come to terms with the experience of hearing his musical idols play his songs. His July schedule is hectic with appearances as far away as the Arabian Sea, where he will land on an aircraft carrier with fellow Barrington resident Patrick McAloon to perform for members of the U.S. Navy, to Barrington Beach, where he'll be performing this Sunday night, July 12, beginning at 6 p.m. A venue less exotic, but no less exciting for McGee: "It's not often I get to play in a place where they allow kids in the audience," he says.

DOWN TO EARTH

When it comes to leaves, don't be afraid of color

You already know that I'm as crazy about flowers as the bees are but show me a plant with burgundy, yellow, blue, orange, or striped-white foliage—anything other than one of the million shades of green—and I'll do my darnedest to cram it into the garden. Even if I already have one. Case in point: Coppertina ninebark (Physocarpus opulifolius 'Mindia'), which has peachy spring foliage that matures to the deepest burgundy, and beside-the-point pink flowers in June. Years ago I bought one and planted it in the shadows against an ivy covered fence and promptly forgot about it. A year or two later I spotted another at a nursery, fell madly in love and bought it all over again. That one I planted where I can see it.

Even plain green leaves are full of colorful pigments that assist in processing sunlight or offer defensive chemistry as well as myriad subtle variations within chlorophyll's dominant greenery. Yellow, blue, and purple flavonoids help plants defend against insects and fungal infections. Orange and yellow carotenoids protect against ultraviolet damage and help with photosynthesis. Red anthocyanin, most visible in leaves as they emerge (think peonies), screens against frost and sunburn. Some plants are so full of one or other of these pigments that chlorophyll's green takes a backseat and gardeners everywhere (I know it's not just me) whip out their wallets.

Variegation is a-whole-nother ballgame of genetic mutation, sometimes stable, sometimes not, wherein a few leaf cells quit producing chlorophyll. Variegated plants tend to grow less vigorously than their solid green progenitors but the resulting patterns of white stripes, dots, and splashes on green are hard to resist. After all, every variation on the green theme sews another square of calico onto the garden's crazy quilt. (In this metaphor flowers are the appliqué, rickrack, and dingle balls.)

Variegated plants, which as a rule are susceptible to sunburn and do best in some shade, will shine a spotlight in a dark corner. Yellow foliage does the same although, like my Tiger Eyes sumac (Rhus typhina 'Bailtiger'), tends to turn more green the less sun it gets. The color complements orange and blue bring out the best in each other. Blue foliage will look more blue in any case near orange but in truth, orange is orange no matter what's nearby and can become a focal point, whether you need one there or not.

Burgundy is the toughest color to place in order to keep it from disappearing into the void the way ninebark number one did. Best to plant dark foliaged plants where they can be backlit by the sun or in combination with wildly different shapes and textures that put their negative space on display. My black lace elderberry (Sambucus nigra 'Eva') would read as one big shadow against the house if its tatted leaves didn't spill across the dinner-table foliage of my butterbur patch. Got one right. I planted my second ninebark where it shines behind a red-stemmed, blue-flowered hydrangea and against a backdrop of grey oak-leaved plume poppy. Two for three.

A couple of weeks ago I found myself powerless to resist the call of yet another ninebark. Unlike Coppertina, Amber Jubilee (Physocarpus opulifolius 'Jefam') is a beacon whose peachy new leaves "fade" to chartreuse instead of burgundy. It's much more likely to steal the show than disappear into the shadows and only needs a few color echoes elsewhere in the crazy quilt to keep it from being a little too visible. No doubt I'll spot a solution to that design problem the next time I visit a nursery.

At sea, she intends to eat plenty of peanut butter.

"A 28 foot boat cannot carry 300 days of bulky supermarket food," she said. "Yet, the heavy physical and mental demands of solo sailing require high-energy nourishment." A Georgia company has provided her with a boatload of 'PB2' brand of powdered peanut butter which is mixed with water to be eaten.

"It's terrific," she said. On her previous trip around the world, she said that New Zealanders introduced her to dry bulk foods which take little space but pack a lot of energy.

Should medical issues arise, Ms. Lange, a registered nurse, has made arrangements with The Miriam Hospital in Providence for consultation via satellite.

She's doing it again, Ms. Lange said, for a variety of reasons.

She'll use sextant and compass to navigate in the traditional way, Ms. Lange says, not GPS.

She loves the sea, both its beauty and challenges, and the self-reliance such efforts require.

"Solo sailing is a deeply personal experience which most people will never experience," she said.

And these adventures help her spread messages that are important to her — self confidence, especially for young people and women, and respect for and the need to protect the oceans, among others.

Ms. Lange intends to embark from the Herreshoff Marine Museum at 10 a.m. on Sunday, July 26 — all are invited to see her off and partake in the Seaman's Blessing. If all goes as planned she'll be back in May of 2016.

In the meantime she'll be singing and playing guitar whenever preparation demands allow and has scheduled several public events:

- July 15 - Bristol Rotary luncheon at noon
- July 16 - Herreshoff Museum lecture, 6 p.m.
- July 17 - Church Street Coffee House concert with presentation fundraiser, 7 p.m.
- July 19 - Send-off party, location TBA, 4 p.m.
- July 26 - Set sail from Herreshoff dock, 10 a.m.

POLI-TICKS

Keep charter schools intact

“If it moves, we will kill it” intones Arnold Schwarzenegger in one of his movies. It seems that his line has become the motto of some legislators who want to ingratiate themselves to teacher unions by snuffing out charter schools despite the fact that have become beacons of hope for some students who were otherwise failing, and they serve as experimental teaching labs with mostly great results. Yet, legislators like Representative Jeremiah O’Grady (D-Lincoln, Pawtucket) and Senator Hanna Gallo (D-Cranston), a teacher union member, are intent on killing charter schools through death by a thousand strokes. Of course, they assert high-minded motives for their actions, but the bottom line is that they want to return to the “good ol’ days” where the public schools were the only publicly funded shows in town, without competition.

If you analyze the arguments about preserving precious finances for traditional public schools the legislators sounding the death knell for charters really want to keep a system which may not work as well. Rather than look at what is happening in charter schools for possible emulation, they attack the pedagogy and assert untruths like only rich kids are going there. The fact is that lotteries are extensively used for student selection so there isn’t “star material” recruitment. It’s unfortunate that the larger school system won’t collaborate with charters and exchange ideas as colleagues rather than view the schools as usurpers. Furthermore, if the funds are somewhat higher in charter schools, that is a function of scale and experimentation. The solution isn’t to gut them but to make them larger thereby reducing the per capita cost.

The main reason for the protectionism asserted by Mr. O’Grady and Ms. Gallo is that the public schools with some exceptions, of course, are all about the work force and not about the students. If somebody from Mars dropped into far too many public schools the creature would conclude that the schools exist for salaries and perks for the adults rather than the children. School contracts are tomes which are all about teacher rights and they say very little about children. Contracts delimit how late a teacher can arrive to teach and how soon he/she can boogie out of the place at the end of day. While no doubt many teachers do correct papers at home and prepare lesson plans, you’d hardly know that from the contract which demands free periods to do these tasks during the school day. What used to be standard fare like helping kids out after school and meeting with parents are now constrained by provisions that are tighter than a gir-dle.

Fortunately, Governor Gina Raimondo has promised to veto any bill that would place limits on the growth of charter schools. While neither Mr. O’Grady nor Ms. Gallo’s bill made it out of the session ending in June, the legislation may rear up in a fall session. Instead of trying to kill Charter Schools it would be a pleasant change to see cooperation.

Then again, anyone who thinks that the charter school experiments are heading in the right direction get attacked as “anti-teacher” as, no doubt, the governor will be. It’s time the attackers learned that proponents are not anti-anything. They’re just “pro-kids.”

Get smart about asthma

If you thought your spring allergies dragged well into summer, you’d be right. With the delayed spring we had, the tree pollen season started later and may have seemed more severe. “Everything overlapped, with Maple, Birch and Oak trees seeming to pollinate at the same time,” says Dr. Russell Settupane of the Allergy & Asthma Center at 850 Aquidneck Avenue in Middletown. “It wasn’t sequential.” But as unpleasant as allergies can be, from a wellness standpoint, the greater concern is the fact that they routinely trigger asthma attacks, a condition that can quickly become quite dangerous; even life-threatening. According to Dr. Settupane, fully two-thirds of asthma cases are triggered by allergies, and for the majority of these allergic asthmatics, they do not recognize their triggers, and so their asthma is not well-controlled. “It’s a completely under-recognized disorder.” And when your allergies clear up, it’s out of sight, out of mind. But they are coming back, probably sooner than you’d like. “The more knowledge and information allergy sufferers have, the better,” says Dr. Settupane. One way to enter the next wheezing season armed with knowledge about the allergy-asthma marriage is to visit GetSmartAboutAsthma.com. This site is a helpful tool that provides important asthma and allergy information and tips for how to manage your allergy season, recognize your triggers, and know when the symptoms you are experiencing are actually uncontrolled asthma—and what you can do about it.

DINING REVIEW

Enjoy waterfront dining at 15 Point Road

15 Point Road has fabulous waterfront dining, inside or on the outdoor patio. The attractive, sunny yellow restaurant sits on a slope above the old Stone Bridge offering great water views and Tiverton across the Sakonnet River. And, no annoying sunset getting in your eyes.

The dining room is a pale peach with high ceilings, skylights and modern, clean lines. There are comfortable booths or tables and upholstered chairs and big windows. Cute ship's lanterns hold candles, with larger models hanging from the ceiling. Tall, narrow glass tubes are filled with sand and shells. A cozy bar area is in the southwest corner of the building (away from the dining room).

Settled in a table by the window, we started with a Chardonnay and a Cabernet. There are 25 wines by the glass with descriptions of each, which is great for those who want to try something new. There also are lots of specialty cocktails, sangria and beers on draft or bottled.

We started with the baked Brie — a big slice wrapped in phyllo and baked until the pastry is crisp and the cheese is nice and gooey. It comes with toasted crostini and a dollop of raspberry jam for a sweet/tart finishing touch.

The stuffed quahogs are marvelous. Chef Christopher Maitland has a deft touch with seafood and these are the best stuffies ever — moist and light with tender clams, bits of onions, celery and bell pepper and just a little heat. A garlic/herb butter was divine melted on top.

Other appetizers are shrimp cocktail, littlenecks Peri-Peri, hot and spicy shrimp, calamari, Caprese salad, wild mushroom ragout, lobster mac and cheese, steamed mussels, scallops wrapped in bacon, New England clam chowder and lobster bisque. Specials were gazpacho and the stuffies.

Entrees come with a house salad, fresh vegetable and a starch. Our salads came with a basket of warm bread and a dipping oil with roasted garlic cloves.

The varied menu has something for everyone. "From the Sea" are Mount Hope seafood (lobster, shrimp, scallops, tomatoes, tarragon and scallions with a wine cream sauce in puff pastry), Chilean sea bass, sweet potato salmon, pan-seared scallops and native sole "en brick."

"From the Land" are a surf and turf of lobster-stuffed tenderloin, steak Diane, a burger, filet mignon, steak au poivre, chicken Nanaquaket (with apples, celery, lingonberries, walnuts and apple brandy), chicken Marianne (with mushrooms, carrots and a Madeira cream sauce) and veal or chicken Madeira.

New England classics include a deconstructed beef Wellington, seafood-stuffed scrod, fish and chips, seafood casserole, and baked stuffed shrimp.

A pasta section has drunken lobster penne, scallops Block Island, shrimp or lobster scampi, seafood Compton Bay, papardelle pasta with chicken, and King & Prince (lobster, spinach, veal medallions in a sherry cream sauce over fettuccine).

And specials were pesto-coated salmon, baked stuffed lobster,

HOURS: Dinner from 5 to 10 p.m. Tuesday to Saturday and from 4 to 9 p.m. Sunday and lunch (during the summer only) from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday to Sunday

MOST POPULAR DISHES: Mount Hope seafood, steak Diane, and scallop risotto

Caribbean pork loin, roast duckling, fried clams, seafood pasta, grilled swordfish, and almond-crusted halibut.

The steak au poivre is a big, 12-ounce sirloin, lightly peppered, pan-seared until juicy and pink and finished with a demi-glaze. Fried shallot rings added a touch of sweetness. The fingerling potatoes and gorgeous roasted cauliflower and broccoli florets were delicious accompaniments.

The almond-crusted halibut, a special, featured a big filet dredged in almonds, sautéed and served with a velvety orange/ginger beurre blanc. The sugar snap peas and carrots were tender/crisp and the rice pilaf was unique with bits of dried fruit and pumpkin seeds. Entrees come on big, white plates and sport purple orchids.

Whatever you do, don't skip dessert. There are beignets, bananas Foster, Godiva parfait, frozen mud pie, chocolate lava cake, Grand Marnier crème brûlée, carrot cake, key lime pie and a chevre cheesecake.

The beignets are just ethereal — light, puffy doughnut-shaped fritters made in-house and rolled in cinnamon/sugar. Vanilla ice cream and whipped cream added to each bite? Wow!

The beignets have always been our favorite, but the new bananas Foster is pretty amazing. A big margarita glass of rum-glazed bananas served over apple crisp is topped with vanilla ice cream and whipped cream.

And, you Irish coffee fans? 15 Point Road has the best Irish coffee. It's topped with a layer of barely whipped cream, so you sip the coffee through the layer of cream. It's a real taste of the Emerald Isle.

If you want to stop by for lunch this summer, the deck is just the place. The menu features chowder, soup, salads that can be topped with salmon, scallops, chicken, shrimp or steak tips; grilled chicken or swordfish sandwiches, lobster roll, burgers, clams and chips, fish and chips, a lobster, scallops and clam fritters basket, Cajun salmon BLT wrap, and a grilled seafood kabob.

The weekly Dining Review is rotated among restaurants that advertise in the Food & Dining section.

HEALTHY EATING

Make the right choice when happy hour rolls around

Although some research suggest that moderate drinking may have health benefits, it's important to make healthy alcohol choices. With so many fancy cocktails and delicious mixers, the calories in alcoholic drinks can add up quickly. To ensure that your drinking choices do not get in the way of your weight loss or health goals these will be your best options.

- Champagne. 4 ounces is about 100 calories.
- Red or white wine. 5 ounces is about 100 calories.
- Hard liquor (vodka, rum, whiskey, tequila, gin, rum, or scotch without the mixer). 1.5 ounces is about 100 calories.
- Martini. 5 ounces is about 140 calories.
- Light beer. 12 ounces is about 110 calories.

If you need to mix your liquor with something, try flavored seltzer water with a lemon or lime. Adding juice, soda, or sugary mixes can easily give you an extra 100-300 calories

The most important part of making healthy alcohol choices is to measure your drinks. A standard drink is equal to 5 ounces of wine, 12 ounces of beer, or 1.5 ounces of hard liquid. Most glasses hold much more than this. Try measuring your drink and then pouring it into your favorite glass at home to get an idea of what 1 drink really looks like.

Remember, the standard recommendation is to limit yourself to 1 drink per day (for women) and 2 drinks per day (for men).

Since then, more than 20 million people have seen the film and Joe realized there's still a lot for him to learn about becoming healthy and staying that way. "Fat, Sick & Nearly Dead 2" taps into the tsunami of positive change that's sweeping the world when it comes to what we eat. Film to be followed by an open discussion with Health Coach Michael Kinnane and tasty healthy juicing demonstration.

MEET CAROLYN NOLAN: REALTOR, FORMER TEACHER AND MASTER COOKIE MAKER

BY JOAN D. WARREN

Carolyn Nolan of Barrington is a realtor with Coleman Real Estate and was recently featured on an episode of HGTV's "Beachfront Bargain Hunt." A former teacher, Carolyn uses her skills to educate her clients, to keep them as informed as possible in every aspect of a real estate transaction. When not working, she enjoys biking, golfing and spending time with her three children and husband, Tim. (The episode of 'Beachfront Bargain Hunt' will air Sunday, July 12. Check local listings for time.)

WHY REAL ESTATE AS A CAREER? "First and foremost, I love meeting and working with people. As a former educator, it is ingrained in me to teach — once a teacher always a teacher. As a realtor I find that I use my teaching skills to educate my buyers and sellers on all the many aspects involved in a real estate transaction. Also, one of the driving factors that buyers with families are attracted to in Barrington is our amazing school system. I can speak from experience to both being a teacher in the school system and being a parent having three children go through the system." LIFE BEFORE REAL ESTATE: "I taught in the Barrington school system for 10 years. I taught third grade, multi-age (1-3), and enrichment. Once we began having our family, I was a stay-at-home mom (a job I am most proud of)." FAVORITE ASPECT OF THE JOB: "The people! I have had the privilege of working with amazing people. During a real estate transaction you get to know your buyers and sellers very well and you maintain communication for months during the process. By the time we get to the closing, I feel like I have become a member of their extended family."

BEST FAMILY DAY: "With our twin daughters off to college and our son busy with high school and sports, the best family day is any day we can all manage to be together. When the kids were younger they used to refer to family day as 'FFF' — Forced Family Fun! Now that they're older, we all really enjoy spending time together."

Carolyn Nolan

Coleman Realtors

401-743-2488

HOBBIES: "I love to ride my bike, run and talk and walk with my friends. Most recently, I have taken to golf in efforts to spend time with my husband and son, who are passionate about the game. After a rough start, I can honestly say I am beginning to enjoy the game and our time together outside."

INSPIRATION: "I feel blessed that I have been inspired by many people, starting with my parents, who instilled in me a strong moral compass, hard work ethic and care and compassion for others. I am also inspired daily by my close knit family and friends. They are kind and compassionate people. hey inspire me to love life to the fullest, cherish what you have and always give back to others."

KITCHEN CONNECTION: "My husband is the cook in our family, and I am the baker. The dessert that I get asked to bring to any family/friend function is always my chocolate chip cookies. The funny thing is that I honestly just follow the recipe on the back of the Toll House Cookie Chocolate Bits, but for some reason everyone thinks I have a secret recipe. I guess the secret is now out!"

CURRENTLY READING: "As a former teacher I have always had a love for children's literature. I love the lessons and morals that are taught in short reads. As an adult, my guilty pleasure is People Magazine. I am always looking to get the newest issue."

TIMEOUT SPOT: "My most favorite spot to relax is on my parents' dock on Lake Winnepesaukee. It is the most beautiful and peaceful place."

STAGING ADVICE TO SELLERS: "Staging is about allowing the next owners to see themselves in the home. This means highlighting space, making sure every room has a purpose, keeping things simple and most of all clean and de-cluttered."

MARKET PREDICTIONS: "I am so thankful for the strong market we are presently in and believe that we will stay strong through the summer and then will level off again until next February or March, and then we will see a positive thrust in the market again as we enter the spring."

Loan rates based on $100,000 with 20% down payment & no PMI. Variable mortgages listed are for 30 years, adjusted annually. Points are a one-time charge equal to one percent of the mortgage. APR stands for annual percentage rate and reflects closing costs spread over the life of the loan. CAP is the most a variable mortgage can increase in one year. Savings and loans and Rhode Island loan and investment banks are included in the bank section of this chart. These rates, provided by the institutions on Monday of this week, are subject to change or special conditions. For more information, consumers are advised to call the institution. First-time homebuyers may qualify for lower-rate mortgages from the Rhode Island Housing and Mortgage Finance Corporation. Many credit unions only grant loans to members and limit membership to a defined group. When shopping for mortgage rates ask for explanation of closing costs.
