Assembly committee votes on Tiverton casino bill

TIVERTON — The Rhode Island House Finance Committee on Tuesday (after this paper's deadline) is scheduled to consider and then vote on whether to pass a bill out of committee that could eventually allow for a casino to be built in Tiverton.

There's a long road to travel before construction of a casino could become a reality, however.

"This is the first vote," said Rep. John G. "Jay" Edwards (D), who represents District 70 in Portsmouth and Tiverton, and serves in the house leadership as House Majority Whip.

"This is in the committee only. It will then be scheduled for a floor vote, if it comes out of committee. Usually two days later it comes to the floor for an up or down vote. Then it goes to the senate for a vote before their committee, and then to the floor of the senate. Finally it goes to the governor for signature to become law."

The bill also authorizes a vote to be held in the general election this fall — both state-wide and in the Town of Tiverton — both must approve the measure.

"I support it going to the voters," Rep. Edwards said. "I don't gamble, but there are many who do and the casino will benefit the town by adding revenue and jobs."

Among the issues expected to play out in coming weeks as the debate about the proposed legislation continues is the apportionment of gaming revenues between the Town of Tiverton and the state.

Twin River CEO John Taylor told members of the Finance Committee recently, "if gaming revenue to the Town should fall below $3 million in any given state fiscal year, we're asking our partner, the State, to make up the possible shortfall."

PORTSMOUTH — For most of the first half between the Portsmouth Patriots and Tiverton Tigers boys' basketball Tuesday night, it appeared the capacity crowd was witnessing a repeat of the last matchup between these squads just 11 days earlier.

In that Feb. 12 contest, Portsmouth squeaked out a 4-point victory at home, 61-57.

In Tuesday's Division II quarter-final matchup, the 10-7 Tigers again found themselves keeping pace with the 16-1 Patriots, tying the game at 25 with just over two minutes left in the first half before

Fire-damaged home demolished

Declared a hazard, blight on the neighborhood

BY TOM KILLIN DALGLISH
tdalGLISH@eastbaynewspapers.com

TIVERTON — Workers from Tiverton's Department of Public Works began demolition Monday of a fire-damaged house and garage at 97 Hayden Avenue. The buildings had been declared unsafe and a blight on the neighborhood. The job was expected to take about two days.

This is "a small single family home completely gutted by a dangerous, rapid moving diesel generator fire in October 2014," Town Administrator Matt Wojcik wrote the Town Council on December 10 at the beginning of a months-long process to tear the building down.

The building, he wrote, creates "an atmosphere of blight and attractive nuisance" in the neighborhood, and the building must be removed "forthwith."

"Blight is one of the most insidious destroyers of value in any community. People react decisively when faced with immediate issues — fires, floods, criminal activity — but the long, slow grind of an abandoned, neglected property on everything around it can actually do more damage to property values and neighborhood," Mr. Wojcik wrote.

The structure has been boarded up for the year and a half since the fire.

Demolition of a fire-damaged home too unsafe to occupy is not a simple matter. Procedures are detailed in town and state ordinances.

The Town Council must make the ultimate determination to demolish, based on notice and findings under the town code, that were communicated by letter from Town Clerk Nancy Mello to the owners of the home, Bruce Lewis and Cheryl Rioux.

It must be found that the dwelling "constitutes an especial fire hazard or a menace to the health of persons, and endangers other property, or occupants thereof or other persons," wrote Ms. Mello.

The recent unanimous council determination followed a show-cause hearing and was based upon recommendations of the town building official, the chiefs of fire and police, and the director of public works.

"From a public safety standpoint, this building should be demolished. It's not safe, and is structurally deficient and a fence should be put around it," DPW Director Stephen Berlucchi told the council.

"I declare this structure to be a dangerous building and recommend the initiation of proceedings to remove said structure," he wrote in a letter to the council on Dec. 31.

Town building official Neil Hall said structural beams inside were charred by the fire. Police Chief Thomas Blakey said the building was "unsafe," and that he wouldn't even allow police officers in there.

Doors and windows have been boarded up at town expense. Costs for the boarding up are hoped to be recouped by the sale of the debris.

In his Dec. 10 memo initiating the demolition proceedings Mr.

Wojcik told the town council, "Neighbors are complaining they cannot sell their property due to the blighted appearance of this building. Tiverton police recently looked into apparent entry into the building and the board-up has been re-secured."

"Town officials," Mr. Wojcik wrote, "are in complete agreement that the security of the building from vandals and children cannot be guaranteed, a hardship upon the neighborhood is being unnecessarily tolerated, and that tear-down is the best solution to the situation."

The house at 97 Hayden Avenue was last assessed for tax purposes in 2015 at $78,500. Built in 1920, it is listed as having three rooms and 804 square feet, and as having 1.5 stories, with a basement.

Efforts by phone to reach the former occupants of the house (listed in public records as Bruce Lewis and Cheryl Rioux) were unsuccessful. The property is listed online as scheduled for sale by auction on Thursday, March 31, at 2 p.m., a foreclosure sale that was continued from Monday, Feb. 29.

Another fire-damaged home (in Sept. 2014) at 1588 Bulgarmarsh is similarly facing demolition, but proceedings have been tied up, reportedly while the owners seek to be able to tear it down themselves.

BASKETBALL: Tigers bow to Portsmouth in playoffs

the Patriots gained back a slim lead going into the break, 32-27.

But then Portsmouth started playing its game and it was a different story for the rest of the contest. The Patriots outscored Tiverton in the second half by 14 points to ultimately win going away, 71-52.

High scorers for Tiverton were Benjamin Duckett and Tyler Murray, who each finished with 13 points. Timothy Murray added 11, Justin Dore (two 3-pointers) and Stephen Gacioch with 6, and Elias Skarpos with 2.

After the game, Patriots head coach Joe Occhi was asked how the regular season game differed from what transpired Tuesday night. He gave most of the credit to his team's strong defense.

"Honestly, I think our defense stiffened up around the basket," he said. "We didn't give them the easier looks that we did last game. We controlled it."

Mr. Occhi also said Portsmouth did a better job of playing to its strengths in the second half.

"The game started to get more to our pace in the second half. It became more of a running game, which is closer to the way we play than how Tiverton plays," he said.

Portsmouth sophomore Chris Herren led all scorers with 28 points, including 19 in the first half.

The 6-foot, 3-inch guard started the game cold but went off with about eight minutes left in the first half, scoring 10 points in just over a minute. It began with a layup on a strong move to the hoop, followed by a jumper for 2 and then two straight 3-pointers, the last capped by a fist pump as the Portsmouth crowd came to its feet.

Also contributing offensively for the Patriots were junior Matthew Clark, who finished with 13 points; and senior Jack Kelley, who added 10.

Junior Zach Rahilly, who also collected 10 points and flashed some strong defense throughout the game, was particularly effective in the second half.

One of the game's highlights was Rahilly's 3-point play in which he grabbed an offensive rebound, was fouled while scoring a shot underneath, then sank the free throw. Later in the half, he scored twice in under a minute, both on strong passes to the inside from Herren.

Senior guard Darnell Taylor also had a good game, scoring 9 points off the bench.

Portsmouth advanced to the Division II semifinals where the Patriots lost 44-42 to eventual champ Narragansett on Friday, Feb. 26, at Roger Williams University.

"Narragansett only lost to us and Westerly and they have been very hot for the last month; they have not had a close game," said Mr. Occhi.

Big crowd — and loud

Tuesday's game attracted perhaps the biggest crowd ever to the newer PHS gym. Principal Robert Littlefield said about 1,200 people were in the building for the boys' game, the second of a double-header. (The PHS girls' team lost its earlier Division I quarterfinal matchup against Coventry, 51-44.)

Tiverton had a strong showing of support from its fans and Mike Herren, the uncle of the Patriots' top scorer, said many residents of his hometown of Fall River also turned out.

"It was great to see all those kids up there, and all in color," added Mr. Occhi, referring to the large group of PHS students who gathered in one part of the bleachers to lead cheers. "This may have been the biggest crowd I've ever coached a game for. It was a great atmosphere."

TIVERTON — From the outside, the new Tiverton Yacht Club clubhouse, under construction on Riverside Drive, "looks about 80% done. All the work now is inside," said Tiverton Yacht Club Commodore Steve Hughes last Thursday, Feb. 11.

"We're all closed in — the windows, doors, the deck is framed, it's all insulated. We're in the middle of the electrical and plumbing work," he said.

Outside work, like some of the exterior and landscaping, he said, will have to wait for warmer weather.

The 2,600 square foot, two-story, $600,000, clubhouse "is still on target for a June 1 completion," he said. The new structure will have a deck on three sides.

Volunteers needed for numerous town boards

BY TOM KILLIN DALGLISH
tdalglish@eastbaynewspapers.com

TIVERTON — Eleven Tiverton boards and commissions have openings and the Town Council is looking for volunteers to fill the vacancies.

All told, 15 new Council appointments are needed to fully complete the memberships.

"It's an immediate need," said Town Clerk Nancy Mello, whose office handles the applications and administers the appointment process with the Council. "It's not unusual to have a few vacancies," she said.

The need is most dire for the Recreation Commission, which is missing five of seven members provided for in the Charter and cannot convene a quorum until new members are appointed. With spring and summer recreational activities looming, and at least two council meetings usually required to complete any new appointment, the clock is ticking.

The Building Code Board of Appeals is looking for a member who is a contractor or engineer. The Zoning Board of Review has a vacancy for a 2nd alternate member.

The Board of Canvassers has an alternate position that must be appointed based on a recommendation by one of the political parties.

Other boards or commissions seeking members are those for Art, Conservation, Economic Development, Historical Cemeteries, Housing, Personnel, and Recycling/Landfill (2 vacancies).

Most of the boards, committees, or commissions, and their responsibilities, are set forth in Article X of Tiverton's Home Rule Charter.

Volunteers are asked to make their application through the Town Clerk's office, and will likely appear at least once before the Town Council, which usually interviews new applicants, typically asking them why they seek the appointment, what their relevant experience is, whether they've attended meetings of the board in question, and have read the description of the responsibilities of the board in the Charter.

Tiverton teen wins top honor for philanthropy

BY TOM KILLIN DALGLISH
tdalglis@eastbaynewspapers.com

TIVERTON — She got her start in philanthropy as a first grader in 2005, selling lemonade with her friend Jennifer on Main Road in Tiverton, to raise money for Hurricane Katrina victims. The two girls raised $510.36.

Ten years later, Tiverton resident Linnea Bjornson, 17, now a senior at LaSalle Academy in Providence, was honored on November 20 as the recipient of the Herbert E. Kaplan Youth in Philanthropy scholarship at National Philanthropy Day award ceremonies at Twin River in Lincoln.

In the years since her lemonade venture, "Linnea's commitment to helping others has grown stronger," said her commendation.

Linnea is devoted to the mission of The Herren Project (THP), an organization and a cause that provides resources to people taking the first steps to recovery from substance abuse and addiction toward a life of sobriety.

The "Youth in Philanthropy" award goes each year "to a high school senior who best exemplifies positive civic and community support through their active involvement in philanthropic causes," said Linnea's commendation.

The award carries a $2,500 scholarship, given by the Association of Fundraising Professionals of Rhode Island.

The ceremonies at which Linnea was honored was attended by almost 500 fund-raising professionals from throughout the state. Three others were honored at the event: one a corporation (Alex and Ani), another a law firm (Barton Gilman LLP), and the third a citizen (Bristol resident Suzanne Magaziner).

Linnea says she became interested in the problems of addiction because "my family has personally been affected by substance abuse and was one of the first to be helped by the Herren Project, about six years ago."

Since then, Linnea has organized annual track meets, where students buy and wear purple T-shirts (called "Project Purple T-shirts") to benefit the Herren Project. She ran the CVS 5k race this fall, selecting The Herren Project as her charity of choice.

Her most ambitious project, however, is yet to come.

"I'm in the process of publishing a book of anonymously written statements and letters from people, who've described their personal struggles, or watched the suffering of a family member or loved one, dealing with substance abuse and addiction."

"The idea for the book came from a journal I kept regarding my own family member's struggles," she said.

The goal of the book is to inspire people not to give up hope, Linnea said. Proceeds from the sale of the boo will go to the Herren Project.

What do her friends and classmates think about her philanthropic work, she was asked.

"It's kind of funny. I didn't tell them I'd gone this far with what I do, and people come up and say, 'I didn't realize your work was as involved as it is.'"

"In the future," said Linnea, "I'm hoping to take on a career in nursing. I love working with people and helping them out."

As for her book, she's looking for content.

"I would like people to join me in this project," she said. "I would like to ask them to share, in their own words, how they have been affected by someone struggling with substance use. I ask that all letters be written anonymously, so people should please refrain from including any specific names in the letter itself. I would ask contributors to please type and send a copy of their letter via e-mail to pensofpatrons@gmail.com. With their help, their words of struggle will not only provide hope for others, but will as well help fund treatment for someone drowning in addiction."

Linnea's Commendation

For presentation at the Nov. 20 award ceremonies at Twin River, the Association of Fundraising Professionals of Rhode Island listed some of Linnea's accomplishments: "As a member of the Best Buddies club at LaSalle, Linnea visits students at Meeting Street where the students from the two schools enjoy friendships based upon dignity and respect. Linnea and her classmates also look forward to their annual 'Spread the Word to End the Word' day, when they wear t-shirts emblazoned with this phrase and students from Meeting Street visit LaSalle for the day."

"During the summer Linnea volunteers at St. Philomena School's Camp YOLO. She is also involved in Students Against Destructive Decisions (SADD) and St. Christopher's in Tiverton.

Linnea never viewed that lemonade stand as community service. She just had a blast and wanted to continue that feeling. From that little lemonade stand on Main Road in Tiverton, Linnea has embarked on a life-long journey of helping others."

Fight for Air

One strange sport, that firefighter stair climbing. Load up with 40-plus pounds of boots, coat, air pack and helmet, then 'sprint' up a high rise. The only pleasure, say those who've done it, comes some time later when lungs stop burning, heart ceases pounding and leg tremors ease — when they can actually breath and talk once again. There are no fans to speak of but there ought to be. For this is a sport with purpose — one that pays off again and again in the towns these teams serve. Better to learn your lungs' and legs' limits training on the staircase, they figure, then when lives are on the line.

They do it, say members of the Westport team that finished 5th out of 19 firefighter teams at the Omni Hotel in Providence Saturday, for satisfaction found at other moments, such as ...

■ When they were able to carry a patient hundreds of yards through deep snow rather than wait for a plow.

■ The day last winter when they lugged the young victim of a sledding mishap up the hill to the ambulance.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Our honeybees are under relentless attack

To the editor:

Although there are snowdrops and pussy willows and a yellow haze from Chinese witch hazel, this is not the time to write about spring. Those of us who live here know that spring is a long way off no matter what the calendar says.

Instead I am going to write about pollinators and honey bees and poisons, so you can stop right here if you aren't interested. There are many pollinators — flies, beetles, wasps, moths, butterflies and even the wind. It is the honey bee on which we are so dependent as 30 percent of our food is pollinated by bees, and these were imported from Europe as the New World had no bees that made colonies — they were for the most part solitary.

We have read about a mold that has attacked many hives but there are other destructive forces as well — i.e our crazy warm December weather caught many bees far from home when it suddenly turned cold and they never made it back. There is a tiny, tiny wasp that attacks and kills — a Tiverton beekeeper lost 1,700 bees that way.

But far and away the worst is — a neonic systemic chemical which remains in the soil and does not wash off or deteriorate. If it is used as a spray it kills the bees immediately. The Tiverton beekeeper lost half his hives as the neighbor sprayed with Sevin to control mosquitoes — an impossible task.

If it doesn't kill bees outright it affects their brain cells so that they no longer can find their way home.

If you are buying plants or shrubs you should ask if they have been treated with neonics. I have a list with the commercial names and would be happy to send you a copy. My e-address is sidneytynan@gmail.com. Neonics have been already banned in Germany and France.

In the spring the Tiverton beekeeper takes his hives to a local apple orchard just as the flowers are beginning to open. When the bees have done their invaluable work, the orchard owner calls and says it is time to take back the hives as he is about to spray. He has just bought 21 more packages of bees to replace the hives lost. A package contains bees and a queen and weighs about 3 pounds and can cost anywhere between $125 to $135. (In case you are tempted to become a beekeeper.)

In my reading I came across several bits of information which may or may not be useful to you. 1) Bees eyes are most sensitive to yellow or purple, and I will have to check my yellow field flowers to see if that is so and may even plant some purple pansies although that is not my favorite color.

2) Butterflies are inadvertent pollinators as what they are after is the nectar. Nectar acts as a high energy drink because it takes a lot of work to make those wings go back and forth.

3) Pollen is vital to bees for its protein content. This varies greatly, and legumes such as peas and beans and clover produce a pollen that is particularly rich. I plan to grow some scarlet runner beans on a trellis and see what comes.

I would like to thank my beekeeper friends in Tiverton and Westport for their helpful information and I hope I have been accurate in transcribing it. Restoration Agriculture by Mark Shepard, 2013; and A Buzz in the Meadow by Dave Goulson, 2014, provided lots of useful facts.

Time to upgrade town's veterans' Wall of Honor

To the editor:

Little Compton Grange #32 is working with the Little Compton Town Council to upgrade the veterans' Wall of Honor.

This Wall of Honor is for all who were residents in Little Compton when they entered the military.

At present there are four plaques, World War I, World War II, Korean and Vietnam. To upgrade this wall we need to cover the Gulf, Desert Storm, Afghanistan, Iraq and others as well.

If you are one of these veterans

please send your name and military information to Little Compton Grange #32, 460B Long Highway, Little Compton, RI 02837-1819

Lt. Jared Hopton returns on leave to Little Compton

LITTLE COMPTON — Lieutenant Jared B. Hopton, with his wife Krista and their new born son Riley William (two and a half months old), arrived home in Little Compton on leave from the Army on February 7. He will be going to Fort Sill in Oklahoma in early March.

His grandfather, Francis Hopton, a Little Compton resident (who retired from a career in the Navy), said Lt. Hopton, after several training sites in the U.S., was transferred to Germany where he served for three years with a missile defense unit. His deployment also included a one-year stint in the mid-east (in Turkey along the Syrian Border, with a short stay in Israel).

Jared B. Hopton

Lt. Hopton's parents, also Little Compton residents, are Frank and Monica Hopton, of Steeple View Road.

Lt. Hopton attended Wilbur/McMahon and then went to high school at La Salle Academy in Providence, where he was a first string soccer player. He attended college for two years at Mars Hill in North Carolina, then graduated from the University of Rhode Island where he was enrolled in the ROTC program.

Edwards: 'Committee of the Repealer' needed

Did you know that in Rhode Island, it's illegal to place a windmill within 25 rods of any traveled street or road?

It's a law that's been around for more than a century and there may very well be a good reason for it, says House Majority Whip John G. Edwards (D-Dist. 70, Portsmouth, Tiverton). But he thinks it's one of many ancient laws on the books that should be reviewed.

Rep. has introduced legislation that would create a Joint Committee of the Repealer to suggest the repeal of laws that are outdated or not business friendly.

"It's time we have a committee that sits down, reads through some of these older statutes and makes recommendations to repeal rules that hold no relevance in 2015," Rep. Edwards said. "The joint committee would also target 'business-unfriendly' wording and redundant language in our books. We're supposed to be doing everything we can to encourage economic growth. Well, it's the little things that count sometimes and I think this is something that just needs to be done. There are a lot of arbitrary statutes and cumbersome regulations that need to go."

The bill (2016-H 7174) calls for compiling suggestions for the repeal of statutes, regulations and executive orders received from citizens, businesses and government.

The bill is cosponsored by Representatives Dennis M. Canario (D-Dist. 71, Portsmouth, Tiverton, Little Compton) and Daniel P. Reilly (R-Dist. 72, Portsmouth Middletown), among others.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Taxpayers will bow to new DOT 'overseers'

To the editor:

Wow! It didn't take long. The ink from Raimondo's signature on the toll bill was just barely dry when the director of D.O.T. announced the creation of 14 "overseer" positions to keep an eye on the road/bridge projects.

But it won't end there. Each one will make $100,000-plus per year. Each will need at least one assistant who will do all of the footwork. Then, a secretary for each "overseer." After all, who will make the reservations for the daily "power lunches?"

All of these people will need an office with all of the amenities. Of course, every overseer will need a vehicle to get to the office. I figure you'll see some new personal use and owned/leased Suburbans, Escalades and maybe a new Mercedes SUV or two in the DOT parking lot subsidized in some way by the taxpayers.

No need to worry about getting reimbursed for mileage, which supposedly isn't done anymore. These overseers work for DOT, so all they need to do is pull into any DOT facility to fill the tank for the bubble on the state's/taxpayers' dime. Gotta have a full tank so the wife can get the kiddies to their activities. Let's not forget the yearly "fact find trips" all over the country, so they can see how other states do their repairs to roads and bridges.

Last and certainly not least is that every single position mentioned above — overseers, assistants, secretaries — will be permanent. Once you get above a certain level on the state employment totem pole and into management/administration, there is no such thing as creating a temporary position. All of this before any legal challenges.

Once you total all of this up including what will be lost from truckers completely bypassing toll gantries and eventually Rhode Island, the state may see between $30 and $35 million a year at best. Then you'll see the General Assembly work out a way to toll passenger vehicles.

Thoughts on automatic weapons and Smith's Hill

To the editor:

I have two subjects to write about. The first is Smith's Hill where I and other neighborhood kids sledded all winter during the 1930's. We pulled our sleds down Hix Bridge Road, onto Cadman's Neck Road and then went screaming down that snow covered hill. There was no other hill in the area as good as Smith's for sleds.

The Smith family owned that steep field for about 100 years. The Smith brothers, Bill, John and Stuart were hard working successful farmers. They were also well known in town government. John was a selectman and moderator for years. Those Smiths really enjoyed watching many young people and some adults sledding.

Since the early 1900's that area was known as Smith's Hill but now someone has described it as potato hill. I consider that to be an insult to the name Smith. No potatoes were ever grown on that steep slope. Any vegetable planted there would be washed to the valley bottom during a rain storm. I hope the person who came up with that name would contact me so I could hear the reason for that name.

The second subject is the Constitution's Second Amendment. When that was written the only arms available were muzzle loading pistols, muzzle loading rifles and muzzle loading cannon. Automatic guns were unknown. Guns then were used for hunting or protecting human life. Those guns probably took one half minute to load.

I am not against any responsible person owning a gun. When I was age 13, my father bought me a Mossberg 22 rifle which I used on a range he built. But do we need automatic firing guns for hunting, target practice, life protection or for shooting clay pigeons?

Police need pistols that fire every time the trigger is pulled but why not require civilian rifle bolts to be pulled before each firing of a rifle. I can not believe that the Second Amendment says it is okay to own an AK7. (I hope that is the proper designation of the well known rifle).

Greenvale gets green light for special events

Decision ends year-long battle to host weddings, concerts

BY JIM MCGAW

jmcgaw@eastbaynewspapers.com

After what Jim Nott said was one of the most contentious public hearings he's sat through as a member of the Zoning Board of Review, the panel recently voted unanimously to grant a special use permit to Greenvale Vineyards so the farm can continue to host weddings, small concerts, corporate outings and other events.

The decision came with several conditions placed on the winery pertaining to the maximum number of attendees, the distance from Wapping Road where events may be held, time limitations and other stipulations.

Applause broke out when the 5-0 vote was announced and a happy Nancy Parker Wilson, Greenvale's general manager, was swarmed with hugs from supporters immediately after the meeting adjourned.

"The one thing that has kept me going the last six years has been this notion that good will prevail," Ms. Parker Wilson said. "And it took us this long, but we worked hard to get the zoning to work with all of us in agriculture so there can be this kind of process. I just hope it's a little easier for someone else."

Her family has owned the farm since 1863 and has been growing grapes there since the mid-1990s. Six years ago, the zoning board narrowly denied Greenvale's application to host weddings, receptions and other special events on its property off Wapping Road in south Portsmouth.

"Now all has changed," said Mr. Nott, pointing to an amendment to the zoning ordinance that was enacted by the Town Council in June 2015. The change allows farmers to seek permits before the zoning board to hold special events on their property that they say are necessary to keep their businesses economically viable.

"This is a case of great significance to my client and to the ability of Greenvale to continue a viable farm," said David Martland, the attorney representing the farm, adding that the decision will impact many other owners of agricultural property in town.

The hearing began in early November, with most members of the public speaking in favor of Greenvale Vineyards' permit. A good number of objections were heard Dec. 17, however, mainly in the form of letters that were read into the record.

On Thursday night the board again heard from Nancy Howard of 16 Dianne Ave., the most vocal critic of Greenvale's petition. Ms. Howard took issue with much of the previous testimony presented by Greenvale and said the farm has been holding special events for 15 years in defiance of the zoning board and Superior Court rulings.

"I think past performance predicts future behavior," said Ms. Howard, who questioned whether Ms. Parker Wilson will be "fully above board in the future" when it comes to adhering to conditions.

"This is essentially a use change no matter how you package it," said Ms. Howard. "Please protect my neighborhood."

Failed to make case

In voting to approve the petition, however, board member Jimmy Hall pointed out that those opposed to Greenvale's application failed to make a convincing case that the special use permit should be denied.

"At no time did anyone present an expert witness to contradict or help this board make a decision to find in (opponents') favor, and I think that's important," said Mr. Hall.

He and other board members noted that Portsmouth Police have found no alcohol-related accidents or any other skirmishes connected to events at Greenvale. Although there have been five noise complaints against the winery, no violations were ever found, board members said.

In addition, board members said the application was compatible with the town's Comprehensive Community Plan and that Greenvale's events would not be detrimental to surrounding areas or cause problems with traffic.

"We have the advantage of knowing what's going to happen because it's been happening for 10 or 15 years," said board member John Borden, adding that every effort should be made to help local farms survive. "Approving this petition and allowing Greenvale to supplement their income for special events would further increase their chance that this would remain a farm — and protect 55 acres," he said.

Mr. Nott and board member Kathleen Pavlakis reminded opponents of Greenvale's plans that the property could theoretically become a far more objectionable neighbor if the permit were not approved.

"If this was denied, they could bring in pigs to the top of Wapping Road," said Mr. Nott.

"These things are allowed on farms. Nobody wants to live next to a pig farm."

Ms. Pavlakis said the farm could easily be sold to a housing developer. "If objectors are worried about noise because of a little music, you have no idea what it's like to live with construction going on around you," she said.

Conditions imposed

In approving the special use permit, the zoning board imposed the following conditions on Greenvale:

- No event will be allowed within 650 feet of Wapping Road.

- No portable lighting will be allowed within 650 feet of Wapping Road.

- A police detail is required for any event with 100 or more attendees.

- No event is allowed to go beyond 10 p.m. on any night.

- The numbers of events allowed in a calendar year is not to exceed 60.

- Only one event can be held at a time.

- All servers of alcohol must be TIPS (Training for Intervention Procedure) certified.

- A Greenvale staff member must be onsite and available to deal with any complaints or emergencies during all events.

- The use of trolleys or buses will be encouraged for large (over 100 people) private events to minimize traffic on Wapping Road.

- All vehicles should be parked on Greenvale property as opposed to Wapping Road or neighboring streets.

An additional set of conditions was approved for certain categories of events:

- Weddings must be limited to 200 attendees (excepting caterers or music providers). Attendees must leave by 10 p.m. and caterers and music providers by 11 p.m.

- Corporate events are limited to a maximum of 200 attendees.

- Private events are defined as anniversaries, birthday parties and rehearsal dinners and are capped at 100 guests.

- Concerts are maxed out at 150 attendees and are confined to the tasting room and adjacent terrace.

- Wine dinners may have a maximum of 80 guests and are also confined to the tasting room and adjacent terrace.

- Festivals, as defined under the special use permit, are the Restoration Celebration, Harvest Festival and Warm up to Winter Festival. They are maxed out at 300 attendees and must conclude by 5 p.m.

After the meeting, Ms. Parker Wilson said she had no problems with the conditions set by the zoning board.

"It's very much in keeping with what we're doing," she said.

The Knitting Circle meets on the second Tuesday of the month, March 8, at 6:30 p.m. at the senior center. It is separate and apart from the Knitting for Charity Volunteers. This evening group is open to the public for those who want to socialize, share and learn from each other. You work on your own projects with your own supplies. If you are interested in joining, come to the next meeting.

The URI School of Pharmacy Outreach Program presents “Rx to Over the Counter” on Thursday, March 10, at 10:30 a.m. Why is a medication you took for years by prescription now available over the counter? How is it decided to take a prescription medication and make it an “over the counter”? Is it safe? How about insurance and costs? And what medications are currently making the switch? The program is free and open to the public.

Tiverton Library Services presents a book club, “Words for Wisdom,” hosted by Prudence Fallon on Tuesday, March 15, at 10 a.m. New members are welcome at any time. Suggestions on authors and books are gladly accepted. The club meets on the third Tuesday of the month. The book this month is “All the Light We Cannot See” by Anthony Doerr.

The AARP Tax Assistance program is under way. Volunteers will be at the center every Wednesday and Friday through April 15 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. AARP volunteers will help low- to moderate-income taxpayers, especially those 60 and older. They are trained to assist you in filing cer-

AARP offers free tax help in Newport County

SAKONNET AREA — The AARP Foundation Tax Aide Program is offering free income tax preparation at sites in Newport County. It is not necessary to be an AARP member to take advantage of this help. It is available to people of all ages with low and moderate incomes. In 2015, the program completed nearly 2,000 returns for Newport County clients.

All tax preparers are trained and certified by the IRS each year. Each return is quality reviewed before filing. Preparers are qualified to handle most common forms and schedules. Complex returns should be taken to paid preparers.

State returns for Rhode Island and Massachusetts are completed along with the federal forms, as well as other states. All returns are computer prepared and are electronically filed for fast refunds.

Newport County sites begin opening on Monday, Feb. 1, and will operate through Friday, April 15.

For more information, contact each site.

Sites include —

■ Tiverton Senior Center, 207

Conanicus St., Tiverton, on Wednesdays and Fridays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

■ Portsmouth Senior Center, 110 Bristol Ferry Road, Portsmouth, on Thursdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

■ Middletown Senior Center, 650 Green End Ave., Middletown, on Tuesdays from 9 a.m. to noon.

LEGAL NOTICE

TIVERTON, RI NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given that a Public Hearing will be held by the Tiverton Town Council at the Tiverton Town Hall, 343 Highland Road, Tiverton, RI, on:

MONDAY, MARCH 28, 2016, at 7:00 PM

On Monday, March 28, 2016, the Town of Tiverton Town Council will be holding a public hearing to consider an Amendment of Article II (Definitions) and Article V Sections 3, 4, & 10 (Use Table) of the local zoning ordinance, to regulate the usage of medical marijuana in the Town of Tiverton under the local zoning code. The proposed Amendment may be obtained or examined and copied prior to the hearing at the Town Hall, 343 Highland Road, Tiverton, RI, in the Tiverton Town Clerk’s Office. The proposed Amendment may be altered or amended prior to the close of the public hearing without further advertising, as a result of further study or because of the views expressed at the public hearing. Any alteration or amendment must be presented for comment in the course of the hearing.

Nancy L. Mello
Town Clerk

The proposed amendment reads as follows:

ORDINANCE NO. ____

AN ORDINANCE IN AMENDMENT TO THE ZONING CODE OF THE TOWN OF TIVERTON

IT IS HEREBY ORDAINED by the Town Council of Tiverton, Rhode Island, that the Zoning Code of the Town of Tiverton be amended as follows:

ZONING

Art. II, Definitions.

Compassion center means, as defined in R.I. Gen. Laws § 21-28.6-3, a not-for-profit corporation, subject to the provisions of chapter 6 of title 7, and registered under § 21-28.6-12, that acquires, possesses, cultivates, manufactures, delivers, transfers, transports, supplies or dispenses marijuana, and/or related supplies and educational materials, to patient cardholders and/or their registered caregiver cardholder, who have designated it as one of their primary caregivers.

Marijuana store means any retail establishment at which the sale or use of marijuana, medical or otherwise, takes place. This shall not include a compassion center regulated and licensed by the State of Rhode Island, as defined herein.

Non-residential cooperative cultivation means a use of land located in a non-residential zone, or of a building, or a portion thereof, located in a non-residential zone, for the cultivation of marijuana by two or more cardholders, as defined in R.I. Gen. Laws § 21-28.6-3.

Residential cooperative cultivation means a use of land located in a residential zone, or of a building, or a portion thereof, located in a residential zone, for the cultivation of marijuana by two or more cardholders, as defined in R.I. Gen. Laws § 21-28.6-3.

Personal marijuana cultivation means marijuana cultivation by a single registered cardholder, as defined in R.I. Gen. Laws Chapter 21-28.6, within his or her residential dwelling for medical use only. This use shall only be permitted as an accessory use to a lawfully permitted residential use. In a mixed-use building that contains residential and nonresidential uses, this use shall be contained within the residential dwelling unit only.

Marijuana cultivation center means any entity that, under state law, may acquire, possess, cultivate, manufacture, deliver, transfer, transport, or supply marijuana to a registered compassion center, or other entity authorized to dispense marijuana.

Art. V, District Use Regulations

AT THE LIBRARY

Legos and special storyteller program

LITTLE COMPTON — Lego Fridays are taking place on Fridays through March 25 at the Brownell Library on the Commons. The free, drop-in program is a chance for kids ages 7 to 12 to use their imagination to build with Legos. All materials are provided.

The late-winter session for story-times and crafts is under way through March 15. The baby and toddler drop-in storytime is on Mondays at 11 a.m., and the preschool drop-in storytime and craft is on Tuesdays at 11 a.m.

No registration is required. Come join other parents and caregivers to socialize while the kids are playing after the storytime.

For more information, call the library at 635-8562 or visit brownell-libraryri.org.

Union library has knitting, book club

TIVERTON — Knitting lessons will be offered during the month of March at Union Public Library, 3832 Main Road. Beginner knitters and those with a bit of knitting experience are invited to learn how to knit a ruffled scarf.

Lessons are from 1 to 3 p.m. on five Tuesdays, March 1 to 29. Knitters are asked to bring size nine knitting needles, a large eyed tapestry needle and worsted weight yarn (140 yards for a 30-inch scarf or 280 yards for a 60-inch scarf). Space is limited, so call 624-9874 to register.

The March selection for the library’s book group is “The Boys in the Boat” by Daniel James Brown. Copies are available to borrow from the library during regular hours on Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. The discussion is at Union on Thursday, March 17, at 1 p.m. All are welcome to attend.

An Irish afternoon tea is from 3 to 5 p.m. on Tuesday, March 15. Tea and light refreshments will be served. The public is invited to stop in and browse the library’s collection and enjoy a relaxing afternoon.

Drop-in Lego/ Megablock Saturdays

TIVERTON — Drop-in Lego/Megablock Saturdays are at the Tiverton Public Library, 34 Roosevelt Ave., on select Saturdays from 10:30 to 11:45 a.m. in the children’s activity room. The next is on March 5.

Children ages 5 to 10 are invited to use their imagination, be creative and build constructions of their own choice or take on the Lego Challenge. Parents/caregivers are welcome to join in or remain on the library property while children participate.

Children ages 1 to 4 are invited to the activity room for Megablock or foam block-building. Parents/caregivers must remain in the activity room.

Another session is on March 19. For more information, call Janet Linhares at 625-6796, ext. 3.

RELIGION NEWS

Holy Trinity

TIVERTON — A Lenten series is at Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, 1956 Main Road. The classes are based on the book "The Cross and the Lynching Tree" by James H. Cone. The study will be led by Kate Harrison Bates, Ph.D., who did her doctoral thesis on reconciliation.

The classes continue on Thursday, March 10, and Wednesday, March 16, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. For more information, call 624-4759.

The 14 Stations of the Cross will be installed in the church within the next week. This Christian practice of following in the footsteps of Jesus as he undergoes his Passion and Death is one of the oldest devotionals in Christianity.

First Baptist (Old Stone)

TIVERTON — A traditional and evangelical Sunday worship service is at 10 a.m. at First Baptist (Old Stone) Church, 7 Old Stone Church Road.

Children are invited to stay in the service with parents or can be taken into fellowship hall where activities are available.

The food closet is open on Thursdays from 10 a.m. to noon and Fridays from 8:30 to 10 a.m. No signup is necessary.

Francis Sylvia Gracia

Authority on Azorean settlement of New England

Frances Sylvia Gracia passed away Wednesday, Feb. 17, 2016. She was the daughter of the late Alice Sylvia Gracia and the late Joseph Gracia of Little Compton, and the granddaughter of John and Emilia Sylvia, among the earliest Azorean residents of that town.

Frances was a graduate of Josephine Wilbur School and the University of Rhode Island (Business Administration), and the University of Hartford.

Throughout her life she had a passion for history and, in particular, for the history of Azorean settlement in New England. She was an early and tireless advocate for the establishment of the Ferreira-Mendes Portuguese-American Archives now housed as a special collection at the University of Massachusetts, Dartmouth, and she was a superb source of information for Portuguese Americans seeking to trace their family histories. Much of this information is now available in her 1974 publication, "Early Portuguese Settlers in Little Compton, Rhode Island," which can be found in the holdings of the special collection or at the Little Compton Historical Society.

She is survived by her sister, Joan Kotker, and her brother-in-law, David J. Kotker of Bellevue, Wash., and her beloved nephew, Joseph G. Kotker of Seattle, Wash. May she rest in peace.

Committal prayers will be offered at a graveside service at 10 a.m., Wednesday March 2, in Our Lady of Fatima Cemetery, South of the Commons, Little Compton. WWW.MARIANIANDSON.COM

Tiverton speedster

Garret Morris, a Tiverton resident and a senior attending Bishop Stang High School, stands on the top block at the medal ceremony after winning the Massachusetts D5 state title in the 55 meter dash in a meet record time of 6.58 seconds. He moved on to take 6th place in the event at last weekend's Massachusetts All-State meet and 6th at the New England Championship in that same race.

PHS' Ben Steen wins two races in state swim meet

Portsmouth High School senior Ben Steen won two individual races to lead the Patriots to a third-place finish among the boys in the state championship swim meet at Brown University on Feb. 20.

Steen took the 50-yard freestyle in a time of 21.95 seconds and the 100-yard freestyle in 47.60.

The two victories boosted the Patriots to a third-place finish overall in the meet that was won by Bishop Hendricken, with Barrington placing second.

Steen and teammates Vincent Downs-Honey, Jake Steen and Eamon McKenney took second place in the 200 medley relay with a time of 1:40.89. The same team took third in the 400 freestyle relay with a time of 3:19.65.

Here are other boys' results from the meet:

- 50 freestyle: McKenney, fifth place, 22.81
- 200 freestyle: Downs-Honey, second place, 1:49.06
- 100 backstroke: Downs-Honey, fourth place, 54.11; McKenney, fifth place, 54.62
- 200 individual medley: Steen, seventh place, 2:05:38
- 500 freestyle: Steen, ninth place, 5:08.05

Girls' results

On the girls' side, Portsmouth High took 19th place as a team.

The team of Ryan Pitt, Claire Williams, Renee Downs-Honey and Mary Spigel finished 12th in the 200 medley relay with a time of 2:10.34.

Pitt and Williams also joined Emily Kalp and Avery Borush to take 13th place in the 400 freestyle relay with a time of 4:19:81.

Senator spends 10 years pushing veterans' pension bill

BY NICHOLAS FACCENDA

Since 2006, Walter S. Felag, chairman of the Senate Committee on Special Legislation and Veteran Affairs, has introduced the same piece of legislation every year. Every year, it fails.

But he's not giving up.

This year, Sen. Felag has again introduced a bill to exempt federal military pensions from the state personal income tax – a bill that many states have already passed.

“Rhode Island is ranked 50th in places to live in retirement inside the U.S.,” Sen Felag said, adding that many retired veterans leave the state of Rhode Island to live in the states where this law is passed. Sen. Felag, a democrat, represents District 10 (Bristol, Warren, Tiverton.)

At a January 27 press conference, Sen. Felag advocated for the bill once again.

“Our military retirees have sacrificed so much for our country and I believe it is not only fair, but, also our moral obligation to honor their service by keeping their pension dollars in their pockets where it belongs,” he said.

“Our state already has a horrible ranking for retiree living and to tax the pensions of our veterans only adds to this terrible distinction and drives them across our borders. I am hopeful this year will finally be the year that we can acknowledge the service of our retired military men and women by allowing them to keep the benefits they so rightfully earned and deserved by serving our country.”

As to its probability of success, the senator worries that they bill could suffer from limited state dollars. Should the bill face defeat again it could be replaced by a secondary plan to only take a portion of a veteran's military pension to help fund the state.

Sen. Felag also sponsored legislation to rename Route 114 from the Warren town line to the Mt. Hope Bridge the 1st Sergeant P. Andrew McKenna Memorial Highway in honor of the late Bristol soldier. Representatives Jan P. Malik, Kenneth A. Marshall, Ray Gallison, Raymond Hull and Samuel A. Azzinaro also introduced such a bill.

Pictures await birders

The Paskamansett Bird Club's March 9 meeting will feature two long-time members taking photographs from very different perspectives – far away and close to home (in fact, from home).

David Cole and Betty Slade will provide a sampling of photographs from their extensive travels, while Norman Buck will focus on birds he can see from his house windows in Westport.

Ms. Slade and Mr. Cole have been enthusiastic birders ever since they took their first birding course with Fred Thurber at the Lloyd Center in Dartmouth in 1994. They have traveled to Central and South America and Antarctica as well as to southern Africa and Southeast Asia, seeking birds.

The meeting will be, at 7:30 p.m. at the Community Hall of Friends Meeting, 739 Horseneck Road, South Dartmouth. It is free, open to the public, and accessible.

Local photographer finds her lens reveals some unexpected life lessons, as well as great photographs

BY CHRISTY NADALIN
cnadalin@eastbaynewspapers.com

Serendipity—the phenomenon of finding valuable or agreeable things not sought for—is something we all experience at one time or another. But for Heidi Piccerelli of Barington, Serendipity has become her daily companion.

It was serendipitous that she found her passion for wildlife photography—and birds in particular—not long ago, as a realtor with a listing of a property adjacent to a local wetland. Photographing the empty house for her promotional materials, her lens found far more appealing quarry in what she found on the other side of the windows: a veritable sanctuary of birds, including osprey, snowy egrets, and great herons. Heidi was hooked.

"My passion for photographing birds literally took off with wings," she says.

Every encounter with a bird—and she photographs them daily—is serendipitous, unexpected, unique in the way each bird reveals itself through her lens. It makes each photograph more than just a picture. "There is a relationship in each photograph," she says. "It's about what happened in the moment. It has to mean something."

HEIDI PICCERELLI

One of the nearly 100 photographs Heidi has selected for her upcoming show at the Audubon Environmental Education Center in Bristol.

Perhaps her affinity for birds should not come as a surprise. She is the great-great-granddaughter of Frank Weston

Benson, an artist who worked in a number of mediums but whose earliest passion was ornithological illustration. His keen observation of birds expressed itself not only in an impressive body of work, but at home, where he and his wife Elizabeth spent time with a pet crow and a tame osprey.

Her mother, too, loved birds, but growing up, Heidi had no interest in birding. "I would be talking to my mother and she would get distracted by a bird outside the window," Heidi recalls. "And I would get annoyed by that."

But that changed when Heidi's mother lost her battle with cancer in 2013. Heidi noticed that she felt a strong connection with birds. Indulging that connection—opening herself up to it—has helped her along in her healing process. "It's hard to describe but there's something a little magic about how this has all helped me to move on, and is still helping me, every day," says Heidi. "There's something great out there, something spiritual, that we can't explain." Heidi writes eloquently of this connection in her blog, as well as of her own personal transformation from a daughter with little interest in her mother's hobby to a woman who, missing her mother, was a little surprised, yet comforted, to find herself pulling her own chair in front of her kitchen window to watch the show.

Her blog has reached other people who are working through their own grief and have had similar experiences. "People have been coming to me with their own stories," she says. "It's comforting. You feel less afraid, and like it is all not so final."

Heidi's admiration for birds would seem to be mutual. She has an uncanny eye for spotting birds at their photogenic best, capturing details that would escape the casual observer. She points out one recent photograph of a raptor, the downy feathers or fur of his most recent catch still trapped in his talons. She appreciates nature in all its messy glory—and encounters with hawks, considered to be messengers from the spirit world in some Native American cultures, are always gratifying—but she still feels protective of "her" flock.

"I think I might have the smallest backyard in Barrington," she says, "but it feels like a wildlife sanctuary." In regular residence is an extended family of 17 blue jays that return to the yard every day to enjoy a breakfast of peanuts in the morning, revealing themselves when they are comfortable that the coast is clear of hawks.

The photographs that Heidi has amassed in just her relatively short time of daily devotion number in the thousands, and it is no small job to sort through them all to determine the 75-100 prints that will hang in the Audubon Environmental Education Center in Bristol though April 6—Heidi's first major show. "It's an incredibly difficult task," she says, and not just because her photography is so deeply personal. "I want to show my absolute best work. It's such an honor—I can hardly believe it's happening."

View Heidi's work at www.heidipiccerelli.com, and meet the artist at the opening reception on Sunday, March 6 from 1 to 3 p.m. The show will hang at the Audubon Environmental Education Center, 1401 Hope St., Bristol, through April 6 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. Heidi's blog, Wild For Birds, can be accessed from the home page on her website.

Citizen scientists wanted for FrogWatch

Roger Williams Park Zoo is seeking citizen scientists to participate in the ninth season of its statewide FrogWatch USA program. Upcoming training sessions discuss the importance of amphibians in the environment, how to tell frog species apart by their calls and how monitoring our local population helps to protect them. Certified citizen scientists commit to monitoring a local amphibian habitat (such as a pond or lake) and collecting data on what they hear approximately once a week for about 15 minutes.

Amphibian species are disappearing at an alarming rate across the globe due to a number of factors such as habitat loss, pollution and disease. Amphibians act as valuable indicators of ecosystem health, and without them, insect populations could grow out of control and potentially spread disease that could threaten human populations and agriculture. This has led to what many conservationists call a global amphibian crisis, with one third to half of all amphibian species facing possible extinction.

Though there don't appear to be any immediate threats to the species found in New England, the data collected through the FrogWatch program will help conservationists to keep tabs on these populations and react to any decline more quickly.

"FrogWatch USA is an easy, enjoyable way for people who have an interest in amphibians and the environment to contribute real data that will help us better understand the status of frog and toad populations on a local, regional and national level," said Lou Perrotti, Director of Conservation Programs at the Zoo. "Without citizen science programs like FrogWatch USA, it would be impossible to collect the volume of valuable data needed for long-term species monitoring programs."

Training sessions will take place at the Zoo's Education Center on Sunday, March 6 from 1 to 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, March 16 from 6 to 8:30 p.m., and Sunday, March 20 from 1 to 3:30 p.m. To help defray the cost of running this important project, a $10 fee will be charged per participating household (up to two adults and two children) to cover materials. Participants are only required to attend one session and pass a test on identifying frog calls to be a certified FrogWatcher. Online registration is required.

To register, or for more information about the FrogWatch USA program at Roger Williams Park Zoo and about the global amphibian crisis, visit the Zoo's website, www.rwpzoo.org, and click on "FrogWatch USA" under the Conservation tab.

Saltwater Fishing Show big success

The New England Saltwater Fishing Show held this weekend at the Rhode Island Convention Center was a huge success. Steve Medeiros, show producer and president of the sponsoring Rhode Island Saltwater Anglers Association said, "Attendance was the best it has been in thirteen years. Preliminary numbers indicate that Friday, Saturday and Sunday all were attendance-breaking days. Initial estimates have put attendance at over 15,000 people and the best part for our exhibitors... a lot of product... fishing rods, reels and tackle were sold."

Capt. Dave MONTI

Capt. Tom Pelletier of Quaker Lane Outfitters, North Kingstown said, "It was so crowded this weekend that many times you could not see across the aisle." Greg Vespe of Flippin Out Charters and fluke fishing rigs said, "People were buying fluke rigs in large numbers and asking a lot of questions on fishing tactics which is great. It was wonderful to see so many people coming to the show this year."

One of the shows headliners was Capt. Dave Carraro who gave a presentation with his mate on a behind the scenes look at the National Geographic Network program Wicked Tuna. Capt. Dave Carraro said, "We attend a lot of shows all over the country and this is by far the best show we attend. It was wall to wall people this weekend. In fact I had to leave the booth just to get a little "me" time because it was so crowded."

My business No Fluke Charters had a booth at the show and I agree with the other exhibitors and attendees—it was one of the best New England Saltwater Fishing Shows ever. Presentations I gave on summer flounder, tautog and shellfishing were all well attended as were other presentations. My biggest thrill was when Brody Carroll, an avid 10 year old angler from Barrington, approached me and said,

"Capt. Monti I read your fishing column all the time, do you mind giving me your autograph?" This was a first for me and I was very flattered. Fishing is funny. You never know what impact it will have on you and others.

Hats off to Steve Medeiros and the Rhode Island Saltwater Anglers Association for a successful and very special fishing show for all of us.

Magnuson-Stevens Act gets reviewed

The Magnuson-Stevens Act (MSA), the nation's landmark fisheries law, is now 40 years old. I attended a senate hearing last week in Washington, DC to review the MSA.

Members of the oceans subcommittee of the Senate Commerce, Science and Transportation Committee asked questions and heard testimony on the successes, challenges and forward path of the law that had been reauthorized in 1996 and 2006.

Samuel D. Rauch III, Deputy Assistant Administrator for Regulatory Programs at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), offered testimony.

The bipartisan support of the MSA was very uplifting. Many Senators noted the MSA has been very successful rebuilding fish stocks and is a global model for sustainable fisheries.

Some Senators related fisheries shortcomings that exist under the MSA such as the ability to handle challenges in fish populations due to climate change and warming water, the devastation of the ground fishery in the Gulf of Maine, the need to be more responsive to fishermen and fishing communities.

Senator Markey of Massachusetts brought up the plight of fishermen in his State that are catching large numbers of summer flounder and black sea bass and having the throw thousands of pounds of dead fish overboard because quotes have been kept too low without taking climate change into consideration. Scientists believe climate change has caused a shift in the bio mass of these species up the east coast due to warming water in New England. Senator Markey asked, "How is NOAA taking these climate changes into account when establishing fishing quotas."

Samuel Rauch of NOAA addressed the climate change issue by relating work NOAA scientists have done in this area as well as relating how many of the other issues raised by Senators were being addressed or could be addressed within the existing MSA law.

Matt Tinning, senior director, U.S. Oceans Programs for the Environmental Defense Fund attended the hearing and said, "In some fisheries, improvements in management must be considered. But needed changes can be advanced within the existing legal framework (of the MSA), including through the stakeholder-driven regional council process that the MSA created. A complicated and protracted process of opening up the Magnuson-Stevens Act for reauthorization at this time is not only unnecessary but would be counterproductive. We urge Congress to keep what's working."

Congress is exploring new legislation to revise or reauthorize the MSA, many in the fishing community believe it is fine the way it is and that improvements can be made within the existing law. Others believe that reauthorized or not, MSA needs safeguards added to address key issues such as eco-system based management.

Where's the bite

Share 'Stories from the Field' at Mount Hope Farm

Mount Hope Farm and the RI Food Policy Council are proud to announce their next Food Matters Event, "Stories from the Field", an evening of storytelling and community aimed at increasing the synergies and opportunities among and between local growers. The event will run Wednesday, March 9 from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. and will be held in the historic Barn at Mount Hope Farm.

Some of us come to farming by choice, responding to our inner clocks, goals or personal aspirations. Others take on the family mantle, carrying on the tradition of farming as passed down by the preceding generation. The evening will feature a diverse group of storytellers and farmers whose work and lives provide us with a harvest from land and sea, each responding to the age old question: How did I get here? Joyful, funny, sad and frustrating, this is a crop of stories told by those whose boots dig deep into the fields across New England lands and waters.

Guests will be welcomed beginning at 5:30 p.m., and invited to enjoy some light refreshments, network and warm up for the main event. Featured storytellers will include Don Minto of Watson Farm; Kohei Ishihara of Freedom Food Farm; and Laura Brown-Lavoie of Sidewalk Ends Farm. More gifted speakers and growers are expected.

"As Mount Hope Farm's Director and the chair of the RI Food Policy Production Working Group, I am doubly excited about this event," noted Executive Director Jennifer Bristol. "We must make every effort to share and celebrate the work and stories of farmers everywhere."

Space is limited and reservations are required; this event is free with donations accepted at the door. Reservations can be made by visiting the RI Food Policy website at www.rifoodcouncil.org/events.

Mount Hope Farm is located at 250 Metacom Avenue, Bristol. For more information, please call 401/254-1745 or visit www.mounthopefarm.org.

Why I hate camping

I have a vivid picture in my mind. It is of a 2 year old blond boy, standing by the lake, throwing rocks in. Perfectly content. I am looking at him from the back and can't see his expression, but know it is neither smiling nor frowning. My husband is next to me, almost in tears. We are both watching this precious angel with a heavy heart.

This was the one and only time I went camping (in my adult life). TJ was two and Peter was not even one. We were with a whole group of friends on Burton Island. We had brought over all our camping, food, and baby supplies, and were at a beautiful little spot where we set up our tent next to a lean-to. Our friends were all spread out—at our little location were only 2 people we knew, and 4 or more friends of theirs.

We were hoping that this weekend getaway would help us forget that we were waiting on a diagnosis to tell us what was wrong with our boy.

The one night we spent on that island was awful. It was raining and both boys were crying hysterically all night. Peter only calmed down when placed between Sean and I, sleeping only out of sheer exhaustion.

Then TJ joined us. The four of us huddled together and I don't think Sean or I slept a wink.

Little 2 year old TJ seemed out of sorts the entire time we were on that island. At the time, the words "sensory integration disorder" and "autism spectrum disorder" meant nothing to us. We just knew something was not quite right with our sweet boy who couldn't talk and got hysterically upset for no reason at all.

The next morning I exited our tent to find a hippie girl I didn't know complaining about our parenting to my friend behind the lean-to. I remember the surprised look on their faces as I turned away in tears, exhausted from no sleep and fed up with the lack of understanding for the incomprehensible position we were in.

Immediately Sean and I sought friendlier faces—one of our best friends (and TJ's Godmother) was in a different camping location with closer friends of ours and they knew what we were going through. They came back to our camping location and with their help we packed up all our belongings and got back to the ferry on time to head back to the mainland.

I know my friend at our camping location felt terrible that we left, but we were beyond reach at that point. The thought of spending any more time with people who weren't 100 percent on our side was unimaginable, and Sean and I were too hurt to continue with the weekend. We went home and cried—mostly out of fear of what lay ahead for us.

We knew what was coming. That week, TJ was diagnosed with autism.

I look back at that image of our little two year old, happily throwing rocks into the lake, and yearn for that simplicity. That time before we were labelled "autism family". That time before 20 hours of therapy a week took over our two year old's life. Before Sean and I would fight like hell for our child to gain words when he had none. Before our one year old would be an "autism sibling", and he couldn't even walk. Before our entire family would fight for autism acceptance and understanding everywhere we went.

Today I cringe when I hear the words "Burton Island". I know that's silly, and I should not associate that beautiful place with such a negative experience, but I can't help it. My stomach drops when I hear those words, and I haven't been camping since.

It could also be the fact that I hate sleeping outside. And bugs. I hate bugs.

Let's face it, I hate camping. Maybe one of these days I'll try it again. But don't hold your breath.

TRASH OR TREASURE?

A tobacco jar with a price tag that will really make your head smoke

Fewer people may smoke these days but tobacco has had a major influence on the history of our country. The American Indians were the first to smoke tobacco and introduced it to the Portuguese and Spanish explorers who brought it Europe. Large tobacco farms numbered in the thousands from New England to the Carolinas for hundreds of years. The demand for tobacco was what built the slave trade in the United States beginning in the mid 1700's.

Tobacco was an expensive commodity and needed to be kept air-tight. So those who smoked kept their tobacco leaves in boxes or jars. In the mid-nineteenth century (during the Industrial Revolution) there was a large amount of pottery being produced and figural tobacco jars in the shape of people and animal heads were all the rage.

Today's tobacco jar collectors search for those from this period made in odd shapes and colors. Bohemia was the primary source for the figural head jars. English, French and Dutch figural head jars are rare as well as those made here. In the United States, Dickens-Weller made the better examples and expect to pay $800-$1000 for one. More common ones sell between $30 and $100. Tobacco jars from the 1950's and '60s are also considered collectible, though they're not as ornate as earlier jars. They are more readily available and there are many fakes and reproductions.

One manufacturer's tobacco jars that always command some of the highest prices are those made by the Martin Brothers of London are considered to be some of the best twentieth century art potters. The four brothers produced a distinctive type of stoneware pottery from the 1870s until 1923. They were best known for their bird sculptures and bowls all in a whimsical, some downright grotesque but highly skilled style. Their "Wally Bird" tobacco jars are highly sought after and command high prices. This one fashioned to resemble the British Prime Minister Benjamin Disraeli just sold at Phillips Auctions in New York for a record-breaking $233,000.

POLI-TICKS

The last shred of privacy is under attack

While a battle royale is raging nationally over whether Apple must develop a "back door" for the FBI to access the phone used by one of the San Bernardino shooting suspects, closer to home the residents just dodged another privacy invasion. Representative Robert Jacquard (D-Cranston) sponsored legislation to put electronic eyes on every car driving on the state's highways in a professed effort to identify and extract revenue from out of state uninsured drivers. Kudos to House Speaker Nick Mattiello for quashing the bill. To be sure administrative problems abounded for the proposal but the major issue of the invasion of privacy was overshadowed by theorists who saw the practice being extended to nailing Rhode Island drivers for a series of infractions. While this development is more likely than not, the issue of privacy should be front and center.

Without question we have lost more privacy than we realize. Folks tend to shrug that loss off since they know that Google, Microsoft, and others have more information on them since the phones themselves "spy" on the user. Nonetheless, it's a different matter when the government can do it since it alone can abridge fundamental liberties. In effect, the United States can become a country quite different from that promised by the forefathers.

The public never thinks it is going to happen here as opposed to incidences in so-called banana republics. Already, many citizens have been brainwashed by the mantra that we need to protect the commonweal from terrorists. More and more people subscribe to the notion that they don't care about government intrusion since they have nothing to hide. Right now, the fight between Apple and the United States Government has been spun into a debate that the FBI cares about keeping people safe while Apple only cares only about keeping its customers. Of course, these justifications are not the point. A society without privacy protections is not a free society.

Rhode Islanders may not realize that when they maneuver the traffic lights with cameras that everybody's plates are recorded and potentially stored, not just that of the driver who blew the light. Police departments including Providence have argued that they need cameras in public places to quash crimes. Some were actually installed some years ago in the vicinity of Johnson and Wales, downtown. They weren't manned for very long, if at all. The argument then was that it had a chilling effect on crime. One only needs to read about the attacks outside Providence bars to realize that "crimefighting" via cameras was misplaced.

As a former Attorney General and victims' advocate, nobody wants to fight crime more than I do. I have been in too many countries, particularly in the 70's, where surveillance was used against dissidents rather than criminals. The United States, more and more, has become the country of Big Wealth. In Rhode Island, special interests control the executive and legislative branches. Any tool which gives either branch the access to instruments that track citizens is a step in the wrong direction.

England certainly has become the country of cameras on its citizens. There's no way that should become the norm here, particularly in Rhode Island. Fighting the incursion into privacy rights is worthy of another revolution.

Coggeshall Farm looking for a few good hands

Coggeshall Farm Museum in Bristol is seeking volunteers to assist with the day-to-day operation of the farm.

Volunteers must be 14 years of age or older and comfortable working on a farm, which usually means getting your hands (and boots) dirty. Volunteers must complete an application and participate in a training session as part of their volunteer experience.

Opportunities include:

Builder's Brigade: Knowledge of basic carpentry is appreciated but not necessary. You will learn 18th-century techniques for woodworking and how they are used in various ways all over the farm.

Crafter's Corner: Help with a myriad of 18th-century crafts, either on site or in their homes or studios. Spinners, weavers, knitters, dyers, blacksmiths, tinsmiths, basketmakers and other artists for workshops and demonstrations are all welcome.

Event Volunteers: Volunteers needed for major events, especially the RI Wool & Fiber Festival on May 21 and the Harvest Fair on September 17 and 18.

Gardener's Guild: Volunteer in the Farm's heirloom garden, using late 18th-century sustainable farming and agriculture techniques. Volunteers will learn seed saving practices, how to start nurseries, and how to farm using minimal space for maximum results.

Education Program Docents: Adults age 18 and up with an interest in education and public history are needed to assist the professional staff with school and summer camp field trips.

Interested volunteers or organizations should email Assistant Director Casey Duckett at c.duckett@coggeshallfarm.org. For more information on Coggeshall, visit www.coggeshallfarm.org. Coggeshall Farm Museum is located at 1 Colt Drive in Bristol, off of Popquash Road.

A crunchy, citrusy baked fish dish

BY LYNDA REGO

lrego@eastbaynewspapers.com

I was looking for a new way to cook fish and decided to revamp a recipe I have for a crunchy Panko coating for chicken. I added lemon juice or orange juice and dried herbs.

If you like a little heat, you could add some cayenne or red pepper flakes to the topping.

A thin coating of mayonnaise or mustard allows the coating to adhere better and adds flavor (I will try a mix of both next time) and the dish goes together pretty quickly. I roasted asparagus, which conveniently cooks at the same temperature and for the same amount of time as the fish. Just rub it with some olive oil and lay it flat in a jelly roll pan.

Voila! Dinner in 35 minutes.

Baked Citrus Herb Scrod

Serves 4

- 1 1/2 lbs. scrod fillets (cod or haddock), not too thin
- 1 medium onion, halved and thinly sliced
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 teaspoon and 1 tablespoon butter, divided
- 1 teaspoon and 1 tablespoon olive oil, divided
- 1 lemon (zest and juice) or 1 orange (zest and juice)
- 1 cup panko breadcrumbs
- 1 teaspoon dried thyme or tarragon
- 1/4 cup white wine

Panko breadcrumbs give this baked scrod a nice crunchy topping.

- Salt and pepper
- Heaping tablespoon mayonnaise or Dijon mustard

Preheat oven to 400°F.

In a skillet over medium heat, sauté onion in 1 teaspoon of oil and 1 teaspoon of butter until soft but not browned, adding garlic for the last minute.

Meanwhile, combine the panko, thyme or tarragon, 1 teaspoon lemon zest, 1 tablespoon melted butter and 1 tablespoon of olive oil and mix well with a fork.

Once the onions are soft, add salt and pepper, the juice of half the lemon and white wine and cook 1 or 2 minutes more.

Spread onion mixture in a baking dish just large enough to hold the fish.

Place fish on top. Spread evenly with the mayonnaise or mustard. Cover with the breadcrumb mixture and bake for about 20 minutes until fish is cooked through and the crumbs are browned.

If the crumbs are browning too fast, cover loosely with foil. (Don't cover the whole dish or the topping will get soggy instead of staying crunchy.)

Note: I like the lemon/thyme or orange/tarragon in combination, but you can try any mix you like. ## HEALTHY EATING

Why you should eat beef that eats grass

There is quite a buzz about the possible benefits of grass-fed beef. Many people enjoy its taste and texture, and others prefer it for animal rights and environmental purposes. So should you give it a try? Here is a bit more information to help you decide.

Emily DELCONTE

What is the difference between grass-fed beef and conventional beef?

Grass-fed beef comes from animals that are fed only grass and hay. They have not been raised in confinement and have never been fed antibiotics. Conventional beef comes from animals that spend the early part of their lives roaming freely. Then, when they are a year old, they are moved to feedlots where they live in pens. They are fed a corn and grain based diet.

What are the benefits of grass-fed beef?

Animals that are grass-fed have more muscle and less fat than grain- or corn-fed beef. The fat they do have is made up of less unhealthy saturated fats and more healthy fats. These "good" fats help decrease inflammation in the body. Inflammation has been shown to increase risk of many chronic diseases.

In addition, raising grass-fed animals benefits the animals' quality of life and the environment.

Although grass-fed beef is more expensive, it may be worth the benefits. If you choose to eat grass-fed beef, check the packaging for "USDA Certified Grass Fed" labeling or, if possible, check directly with the producer.

Beef and Broccoli Stir Fry

Servings: 4

- 3/4 cup chicken broth, low sodium
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce, low sodium
- 2 tablespoons rice vinegar
- 1/2 teaspoon sesame oil
- 2 tablespoons Asian chilli sauce
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 tablespoon coconut oil, divided
- 12 ounces grass-fed beef steak, very thinly sliced
- 4 cups broccoli florets
- 2 cups brown rice, cooked

1. Combine chicken broth, cornstarch, soy sauce, rice vinegar, sesame oil, Asian chilli sauce and sugar in a small bowl.

2. Preheat non-stick skillet over medium high heat with 1/2 tablespoon coconut oil. Add beef and saute until beef is cooked through, about 3 to 4 minutes. Remove beef from pan.

3. Add remaining 1/2 tablespoon coconut oil and saute broccoli for 3-4 minutes until crisp and tender.

4. Add beef and sauce into the pan with the broccoli and stir until sauce thickens, about 4 to 5 minutes.

5. Serve over brown rice

Serving Size: 4 ounces beef, 1/2 cup rice, 1 cup broccoli

Nutrition information per serving: 345 calories, 11 grams fat (8 grams unsaturated fat), 35 grams carbohydrate, 4 grams fiber, 23.5 grams protein, 403 milligrams sodium.

Tony award-winning '1776' in Warwick

The seminal event in American history blazes to vivid life in the Broadway hit 1776. It's the summer of 1776, and the nation is ready to declare independence...if only our founding fathers can agree to do it! 1776 follows John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Richard Henry Lee and Thomas Jefferson as they attempt to convince the members of the second Continental Congress to vote for independence by signing the Declaration of Independence. This fast-paced, high-energy musical puts a human face on the pages of history as we see the men behind the national icons: proud, frightened, uncertain, irritable, sometimes petty, often charming, and ultimately noble figures, determined to do the right thing for a fledgling nation.

Songwriter, guitarist David Wilcox in Newport

Cleveland-born David Wilcox was inspired to play guitar after hearing a fellow college student playing in a stairwell. His lyrical insight is matched by a smooth baritone voice, virtuosic guitar chops, and creative open tunings, giving him a range and tenderness rare in folk music. He released an independent album in 1987, was a winner of the prestigious Kerrville Folk Festival New Folk award in 1988, and in 1989 he signed with A&M Records. His first release on the label, How Did You Find Me Here sold over 100,000 copies in the first year. Now, 17 albums into a career marked by personal revelation and wildly loyal fans, David continues to find and deliver joy, inspiration, and invention.

MEET KAREN FLORIO: REALTOR, GOLFER AND AVID SPORTS FAN

BY JOAN D. WARREN
jwarren@eastbaynewspapers.com

Karen Florio was born and raised in Niantic, Conn., and is the youngest of three children. She graduated from East Lyme High School and began a career as a dental assistant since her older brother was a pediatric dentist.

In 2000 she changed careers and went in to real estate in Stonington, Conn., before moving to Rhode Island in 2011. Upon coming to the Ocean State, she fell in love with the town of Bristol, where she now resides with her husband. A member of the William Raveis team, Karen takes advantage of the natural resources of the area and is an avid Patriots and Red Sox fan. She is a member of Crestwood Country Club and the Bristol Elks, where she participates in local charitable ventures.

?WHY REAL ESTATE AS A CAREER? "What I like most about real estate is helping clients find the home that is the best fit for them. I also enjoy seeing the new products/trends/decor."

FAMILY TIES: "My husband Glenn and I were married in Barrington in 2011, and we moved to Bristol in 2012. We have a wonderful blended family of five children ranging from ages 19 to 27 years. The oldest two have graduated from college, two more are scheduled to graduate in May, and the youngest is a freshman at Bryant University.

BEST FAMILY DAY: "Our best family day is any day we can get our gang together since it's difficult with everyone's busy schedules ... and if it contains a competitive game, even better!"

HOBBIES: "As far as hobbies go, I love to play golf, bowl, throw darts, and am a huge sports fan — especially football and baseball."

WHO HAS BEEN AN INSPIRATION IN YOUR LIFE? "My Dad was my inspiration in life. He was very intelligent, loving and always treated me like Daddy's little girl."

KITCHEN CREATION: "If I had to pick a culinary creation I would say my eggplant parmigiana, although my pomodoros is good too!"

Karen Florio

William Raveis Real Estate
860-303-9899

BEST PLACE FOR BREAKFAST IN THE EAST BAY: "I enjoy both Green Eggs and the Sunset Café for breakfast in Bristol."

LAST BOOK READ: "The last book I read was the old classic, 'The Sun Also Rises,' which my son gave to me."

ADVICE FOR FIRST TIME BUYERS: "My advice to first time home buyers is to find a great mortgage lender, concentrate on the one thing that is most important to you in a home, as you will usually have to make a concession of some sort the first time around."

MARKET PREDICTIONS: "I hope and believe that there will be continued purchasing growth, housing prices may move slightly higher but only in the 3% to 5% range, mortgage rates may go slightly higher but I don't see a significant change there either."

Renovated ranch sits on half-acre in south Tiverton

This two-bedroom home at 36 South Court in Tiverton was built in 1950, but you wouldn't know it. The interior has been renovated into an open space, with vaulted ceilings and central air conditioning.

Looking the lot of 25,265 square feet. The home is located on a dead-end street, and there is a deeded beach right, and a mooring is available on the Sakonnet River.

Beautifully appointed, this meticulously maintained executive ranch style home is located in the Nanaquaket area of Tiverton. Built in 1950, the two-bedroom, two full-bathroom home has architectural features throughout. Completely renovated in 1996, the home was gutted and expanded to add the second bedroom and two-car garage and central air conditioning. The open concept features a spacious foyer and a bright kitchen that opens to a dining area and living room with a fireplace. The spacious master suite has a spa bath and enormous glass stand-up shower and a large walk-in closet. With gleaming hardwoods throughout, the second bedroom is spacious and the first floor also has an office/study, laundry area and family room. At 2,095 square feet of living space, the vaulted ceilings and clean lines make the space appear large and inviting. The lower level is unfinished but has a fireplace and could be a great man cave or rec. room. French doors lead to a deck over-

Current Residential Mortgage Rates CALL 401-253-6000 TO PLACE YOUR MORTGAGE AD TODAY.

Phone Number	15-Year Fixed Rate Mortgage Rate	APR	Points	30-Year Fixed Rate Mortgage Rate	APR	Points	Variable Rate	Points	Annual Cap
Navigant Credit Union	401-233-3468	2.875	2.979	0	3.625	3.684	0	2.625	0	3.267

Loan rates based on $100,000 with 20% down payment & no PMI. Variable mortgages listed are for 30 years, adjusted annually. Points are a one-time charge equal to one percent of the mortgage. APR stands for annual percentage rate and reflects closing costs spread over the life of the loan. CAP is the most a variable mortgage can increase in one year. Savings and loans and Rhode Island loan and investment banks are included in the bank section of this chart. These rates, provided by the institutions on Monday of this week, are subject to change or special conditions. For more information, consumers are advised to call the institution. First-time homebuyers may qualify for lower-rate mortgages from the Rhode Island Housing and Mortgage Finance Corporation. Many credit unions only grant loans to members and limit membership to a defined group. When shopping for mortgage rates ask for explanation of closing costs.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING WITH YOUR INCOME TAX REFUND???
We recommend investing in a Generator to protect your family and property. You may not have lost power this winter, but hurricane season will be on our doorsteps soon.
Don't be complacent about power outages. NOW is the time to order your system, and to line up an electrician and plumber BEFORE they get so booked that they cannot get to you.
Home Standby Generator Systems and Portable Generators available! Call us today!
