Warren resident wins double gold at Special Olympics games

Warrenite John Kemp came up big — really big — at the Rhode Island Special Olympics summer games held this past weekend at URI.

Mr. Kemp, 26, who works as a custodian at Warren Town Hall, bested all competition by taking gold in two swimming events, the backstroke and freestyle. The Bristol County Baysiders team member said Monday that he thought he would win silver, but was surprised when he came out on top.

Judy Clancy of Warren takes the torch from Barrington fireman Jesus Sanchez during the 2014 Torch Run in honor of the RI Special Olympics Friday.

"It was great!" he said. Mr. Kemp is the son of Woody Town Hall since 2009. Though this is his first year with the Baysiders, he has competed in the Special Olympics before and also came close to earning his Eagle Scout several years ago.

His Baysiders coach, Barbara LePage, said Mr. Kemp's performance blew her and his other coaches away.

"He was slow as molasses at practice," she joked. "Then when he started swimming (for the medal) he blew everyone out of the water. We couldn't believe it. He was amazing."

Mr. Kemp spent a good part of Monday basking in the glory of his Olympic win, wearing his two gold medals around his neck his

Positions were cut or cut back at Financial Town Meeting last month

BY TED HAYES

thayes@eastbaynewspapers.com The Town of Warren has sent out a handful of pink slips to employees who are either losing their jobs, or having their hours and benefits cut back, following a vote of the public at the Financial Town Meeting earlier this month.

Recently, termination notices were sent out to four part time employees whose jobs will be eliminated at the beginning of the 2014-15 fiscal year on July 1. And on Wednesday, Warren Town Planner Caroline Wells received notice that her job will be cut to a part time position, with no benefits, starting on July 1. It is not clear whether Warren Building Official William Nash received a letter; he submitted his resignation letter a week before the Financial Town Meeting, telling town officials he will work until today, June 4 after accepting a new job with the International Code Council.

Part time employees who will lose their jobs in July include Maurice Clare, Warren's Economic Development Coordinator; Catherine Gresh, a part time clerk in the building and planning office; Dawn Lawrence, a clerk for Warren Police Chief Peter Achilli; and assistant Animal Control Officer Kathi Krause. In addition, Ms.

Tourister project suffers minor delay

Zoning board plans special meeting for later this month

BY TED HAYES

thayes@eastbaynewspapers.com The American Tourister redevelopment project passed a hurdle recently but will end up being delayed on another front.

The project went before the Warren Zoning Board on Wednesday, May 21, for consideration of several variances and special use permits, all of which are needed before the project can continue on with preliminary and final approval before the Warren Planning Board.

While the special use permits were granted, zoning board members were forced to delay discussion on the variances because the specific ones needed were worded improperly on a legal notice published prior to the meeting. Zoning board chairman Alden Harrington said the board will reconvene later this month and hold a special meeting on the matter.

"It was just a miscommunication" between the town and the the waterfront zone. ■ A variance is being sought to exempt the project from a section of the ordinance that prohibits nonconforming structures (like the mill) that lie in special flood hazard areas from being enlarged or expanded.

Another variance would allow buildings to be set closer than 200 feet from a floodway (the Warren River).

■ Developers are looking for a variance on the number of off street parking spaces. In all, zoning codes would require 892 parking spaces at the development; developers are looking to install 733 spaces.

A variance is being sought for the ordinance's parking lot requirements, which require one "island" for every eight parking spaces. The amount of parking lot to be landscaped is also at issue.

■ Finally, the developers seek a reduction in the total number of loading spaces/docks required.

Apart from planning and zoning review, the project also needs approvals from the state DEM and CRMC. It earned planning board Master Plan approval earlier this spring.

In confirming the resignation, Mr. Massie noted that members voted unanimously Tuesday "to condemn the actions taken in the cutting of those positions, and to express deep regret."

Hazel Baldwin-Kress will graduate fifth in her class this coming Saturday, June 7

BY PATRICK LUCE pluce@eastbaynewspapers.com

She may be "just a normal teen," but she's also an excellent student and, clearly, an extraordinary test taker.

Hazel Baldwin-Kress is a senior at Mt. Hope High School, who — in addition to running cross-country, indoor track and outdoor track, competing on the debate team, editing the school's literary magazine and serving on Rep. David Cicilline's Youth Congressional Cabinet has found time to keep up her nearly straight-A grades, graduating next week 5th in her class.

Oh, and she's just been handed one of the biggest educational honors a high school student can receive.

Baldwin-Kress has been named a National Merit Scholar, one of just 2,500 in the country to receive the honor. In addition to her stellar grades, Ms. Baldwin-Kress received an incredible score on her Preliminary SATs — the first qualifier for National Merit Scholar consideration — registering 220 out of a possible 240, placing her within the top 6,000 scores nationwide.

"I was really surprised. I had taken it before and had a lot of problems," Ms. Baldwin-Kress said. "The second time I took it I thought, that was the easiest test I ever took."

It must have seemed easy, as Ms. Baldwin-Kress walked out having gotten "only 2 or 3 problems wrong." The test results, cer. Jocelyn decided to donate her combined with the applications, essays and letters of recommendation that came later, resulted in the honor, which comes with a $2,000 annual scholarship.

"People think I'm some super over-achiever," said Balwin-Kress. "But I'm really just a normal teen who binges on brownies. I don't have a lot of free time, but when I do, I pretty much like hanging out with friends, baking, eating, reading."

Her love of reading was the topic of her winning essay how literature has shaped her life. The daughter of two college professors, Ms. Baldwin-Kress began reading at an early age and remains an avid reader, which she credits in part to the success she's had so far in her education.

"Reading was a way to bond with my parents," she said. "We were always going to libraries. We've always been very connected to reading. They've always fostered a love of learning in me, and let that carry me through."

Ms. Baldwin-Kress will continue her love of learning at Tufts University in the fall, where she plans to study anthropology, international relations, women's studies and French. She hopes to transfer her love of learning onto others, especially those who may not have the same opportunities as she and her peers have had.

"I want to educate women in lesser developed nations. Try to raise women's status," she said.

As for how future students can achieve her success on the PSATs, there is little advice to give. Baldwin-Kress had some testing experience and took a preparatory class, but cramming for the test is pretty hard to do.

"Most of it you can't study for ... it's just stuff you're supposed to know."

Hugh Cole student cuts her hair for cancer

BY TED HAYES

Until last week, Jocelyn DeBritto, 9, had a thick, enormous head of hair. She'd grown and nurtured it for several years, and it made her unmistakable in a crowd. Now that it's all gone, she doesn't mind.

Last Friday, Jocelyn's mom Melissa Turcone took scissors and shears and started cutting. She grabbed one pony tail's worth, then two, then three. In the end, Joceyln's mom harvested six pony tails' worth of hair from her daughter's head. It will all go for a good cause — to Locks for Love, an organization that makes real hair wigs for people suffering from can-don't care." Jocelyn is a student at the Hugh Cole School, and on Thursday morning was given the school's monthly "Reach for the Stars" award for her act. The award honors a student of good character who has "established a high goal and worked hard" to achieve it, or who demonstrates "persistent effort." She received a loud round of applause when she walked up to receive her award.

On Wednesday, her mom said Jocelyn has been teased at least once for her short hair. But her daughter takes it in stride:

"If people say I look like a boy, I say I donated my hair for people with cancer so they can wear wigs and won't feel different," Jocelyn said.

AG awaits town response in Nosh case

Attorney files open meetings act complaint against town with AG

BY TED HAYES thayes@eastbaynewspapers.com

Investigators from the Rhode Island Attorney General, Äôs Office are waiting for Warren's response to allegations that the Warren Town Council violated Open Meetings Act this spring when it rejected a would-be business owner's application for a liquor and food license.

Fab Goldberg, the proprietor of the former Basically British Tea Room in Warren, appeared before the council on Tuesday, April 8 with partner Virginia Forbes in hopes of taking over the former Cheese Plate restaurant at Water and State streets and opening a new eatery, Nosh. But council members rejected the partners' application for a transfer of victualing and liquor licenses without discussion, in an exchange that lasted less than two minutes.

Though council chairman Chris Stanley later alluded to financial "issues" the town has had with Ms. Goldberg and said the council chose not to discuss the matter in public to spare her "pain," Ms. Golberg hired attorney Robert Healey several days after the meeting. After seeing a videotape of the meeting, he filed a complaint against the council soon after, alleging the council violated the Open Meetings Act.

"It doesn't make for a good commercial for Warren, for economic development, that's for sure," he said. "Clearly there was no hearing. It really doesn't look like top notch playing. If the town wants to keep sticking its nose into things, it's going to find itself on the wrong end of a lot of lawsuits."

Warren tree farm pumps out the green

Seminar later this year for residents interested in free trees

BY TED HAYES thayes@eastbaynewspapers.com

It's been a busy few weeks at Warren's municipal tree farm, which has been providing lowcost shade to residents going on 10 years now.

Volunteers have been planting hundreds of new trees at the farm, a few acres of lush land across the street from the DPW on Birch Swamp Road. The "whips" are little more than budding sticks mailed to the DPW from a tree farm in Minnesota. But by the time they mature in several years, they'll be viable, lush oaks, birch, red maple and other varieties. Over the past few weeks, volunteer workers have planted more than 250 of them.

The tree farm is Warren's answer to the problem many municipalities have had in recent years: Funding tree planting programs. While mature plantable trees can cost upwards of $300 or more, Warren buys whips for about $1.50 each, plants them and lets them sit for a few years. The staggered nature of the farm new whips are planted every year — ensures a steady stream of viable trees, all of which are handed out to residents who ask for them, free of charge.

"It saves the town money and it works out pretty well," the DPW's Judy Fardig said.

DPW Director John Massed made the land available about a decade ago after being approached by tree advocate Mimi Kugler of Canario Drive. Even after she got the first plantings started and left the program in DPW hands, Mr. Massed and Ms. Fardig, as well as the Warren Tree Commission, continued to support it.

The program is currently funded through the commission, which gets a small stipend from the town every year.

Last year, demand for the town's farmed trees was very high, and a seminar held by the commission in the fall attracted several dozen residents. They learned what kind of trees are available, where they can plant them and about the town's overall aims for trees in general.

Though commissioners have been unsuccessful convincing the town council to pass their new tree ordinance over the past few years, the commission is actively trying to increase the number of trees planted in town. Trees are good for aesthetic reasons, commission chairman Chuck Staton said, but also for more practical ones:

"We're trying to have a healthier urban forest," he said. "They take in carbon dioxide and give off oxygen. The roots absorb excess moisture, which helps runoff. They provide shade, energy conservation."

Another tree seminar will be held later this year. For more information on the program, call Judy Fardig or John Massed at 245-0200.

Here comes the 'home team'

The Bruins went down in flames, the Sox are shaky but all is not lost for sports fans here seeking someone — anyone — to cheer for.

Team Alvimedica is sailing across the Atlantic at this very moment and should pull in to Newport sometime next week. This is a group the south coast can rally around.

True, the boat was built in England and it's backed by a Turkish medical equipment firm. Beyond that though, this entry in the upcoming Volvo around-the-world Ocean Race is about as 'home team' as anything in big-time sailing gets these days.

Skipper Charlie Enright learned to sail here, lives in Bristol right around the corner from the Herreshoff Marine quite a change in a race long dominated by seasoned pros — most from New Zealand and Australia.

Experience wise, Enright may fall short of Ken Read, East Bay skipper of the last home town Ocean Race boats, the Team Puma entries built at Goetz in Bristol and New England Boatworks in Portsmouth. But those who've seen him at work say it would be a mistake to underestimate him or his crew — they are talented, enthusiastic and showing that they can make this boat sail fast.

Especially sweet is that the Ocean Race's North American stop this time around will be in Newport — May of 2015 so spectators will be able to watch as these amazing boats sail in from Brazil then head off to France.

First though, Enright and crew will arrive here next week after their first ocean crossing practice sprint. To arrange for an arrival time text alert, visit www.volvooceanracenewport.com. Then they'll stay at Newport Shipyard for a few weeks where well-wishers are welcome (check website for details).

Don't miss this one — it's sure to be a wild ride.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR Nash departs: 'Vocal minority' hurt town

To the editor:

On May 5, 2014 I was offered new employment in the building code field and submitted my resignation notice to the Warren Town Manager the following day. Coincidently, two weeks later at the Financial Town Meeting, a motion was made and passed (overwhelmingly) to effectively reduce the Building Official and Town Planner to part-time positions.

The people who stood to support this motion could easily be categorized as a "vocal minority." "Vocal" for obvious reasons and "minority" because this group represents less than 5 percent of the registered voters in Warren. What happened at the TFM was clearly an organized effort, misguided by certain people with personal agendas which, when combined with other devastating cuts to the town budget, will result in irreparable harm to the Town of Warren. The ignorance of this effort and the follow-up arrogant behavior by some, along with the misinformation spin is mind-boggling and leaves me somewhat embarrassed to be associated with the Town of Warren. The town employees and other appointed positions that are left behind, in addition to many other Warren citizens, deserve more respect from this group.

Thankfully, there is however, a "silent majority" which, based on my almost 10 years' experience working in Warren, I am confident, will ultimately prevail and work hard to overcome the extremely difficult consequences inflicted upon them by a such small group of people. This vocal minority group is clearly more interested in forwarding personal agendas and personal attacks than offering constructive or realistic suggestions. It is unfortunate that many of the silent majority did not attend the FTM however; for every one member of the vocal minority group, I could easily identify five or more members of the silent majority that I have met and worked with over the years. These people will now work even harder to overcome what happened at the FTM and beyond.

On this note, my original intention for writing this letter is to thank the many people who have supported me since I began my employment in Warren almost 10 years ago. Many of these people are also included as members of the above mentioned silent majority. I wish to thank the many contractors, developers, property owners, and business owners whom I have had the pleasure of working with on a daily basis; many of you have kindly stopped into my office recently to wish me well. I wish to thank my colleagues as department heads, the clerks in each of their offices, the DPW workers, members of the WPD and WFD; and members of the Warren Zoning and Planning boards.

Specifically, a special thank you to the following people: Michelle Maher (former Town Planner) who notified me of the Warren job opening and encouraged me to apply for the job; Michael Abbruzzi (who hired me,) Richard Paduch, and Tom Gordon for your competent and professional guidance and support as Town Managers; Joe Depasquale, Frank Alfano, and Louis Rego for your guidance and support as Town Councilors; Fausto Anguilla and Paul Ryan, former Town Solicitors; Tony DeSisto and Stephanie Federico, current Town Solicitors who work tirelessly on behalf of the Town far below the standard rate for Solicitors; Michael DeSisto, Esq., who defended the Town of Warren and I so well when burdened with a frivolous lawsuit; ultimately we were 100 percent vindicated. Also, Nick Massed and Peter Withers, the extremely competent and professional part-time inspectors in my office; Catherine Gresh, the part-time floating clerk who spent much of her time working in my office and is also a victim of the budget cuts; and most importantly Diane Soares, the full-time clerk in my office who is far over-qualified and far underpaid but one of the most competent, professional, and pleasant persons that I have ever had the pleasure of working with.

I am humbled by this group of people that I am proud to know, and thankful to have worked with. All of these people deserve better than what happened at the FTM, but more importantly respect from the vocal minority.

Bill Nash

Middletown Mr. Nash is the outgoing Warren Building/Zoning Official

To the editor:

Now I have only lived in town for 20 years, so I am not sure that my comments are of value to some, but I am an accountant and something just doesn't add up to me. First, I want to say that my Dad did janitorial work so I am not disrespecting that type of work. What I am having trouble understanding is that we are paying a janitor over $46,000 per year and we can't change that because we are concerned about union repercussions. However, our full time tax assessor earns $47,070 per year! I would like someone to explain to the taxpayers of this great town how that makes any sense whatsoever. Cleanliness is important, but at almost the same cost as the tax assessor? Has zero based budgeting ever been considered?

Basically, this situation is one of the systematic problems that not only hurts our town, but our entire state. We need to change the system and if that means we need to deal with union lawsuits then maybe that is the price we need to pay to fix the system once and for all. Maybe we need to take a step back to move forward, to preserve our town and make it prosper for us today and for generations to come.

The game is over. We can no longer afford big government and doing things the way it has always been done is just not working, not just in our town but all over Rhode Island. We as a town and as a state must operate lean. When your household income is cut, you tighten up on expenses. It might not make everyone happy, but what is our alternative? Taxpayers cannot continue to incur tax increases. Do we continue doing things the same old way until someday our town and our state files for bankruptcy? I think many people will be very unhappy if that occurs. Also, if we are not careful, those who decided to move here may decide to leave, which will put our town deeper into a predicament. Don't think that is possible? See what has happened to Detroit.

If we are afraid to try to work with all employees to put our town in a better position, then maybe we should try jumping on the trend of multi-tasking and train the janitor to do some other function too! Oh wait, sorry, unions probably wouldn't go for that either.

Ignition interlock law needs to change

To the editor:

As an alcohol/drug addiction counselor and concerned motorist in our state, I am writing regarding the continuing scourge of drunk driving, and a potentially life-saving device called 'ignition interlock.'

According to an article in the June 2014 edition of AAA's "Horizons" publication, "a vehicle equipped with ignition interlock will not start without a successful breath test, and requires periodic re-sampling while the vehicle is running."

Currently in Rhode Island, administrative DUI penalties include only possible installation of an ignition interlock system. The device is mandatory in our state only after a third DUI offense. Statistics provided by MADD estimate conservatively that "a first-time offender has operated drunk at least 80 times before being arrested." The AAA article cites other MADD data that "Rhode Island is one of only seven states with a completely discretionary law," meaning the courts can decide on a case by case basis when a device must be installed, and only for repeat offenders.

Twenty states at present require interlock devices for all convicted drunken drivers.

There is a push calling for legislation in Rhode Island making the installation of ignition interlock devices mandatory for all DUI offenders, including first-time offenders. MADD cites research indicating that "50 to 75 percent of convicted drunken drivers continue driving even with a suspended license."

In recent testimony before state legislators, AAA officials said their association would support use of the device in place of license suspension; "Interlock says you can keep driving but you've got to be sober," AAA senior vice-president Lloyd Albert reportedly told legislators. The ruination of how many families (of victims as well as of perpetrators) could be avoided with this simple device?

I ask that anyone who feels this issue warrants attention, please contact your state representatives and urge passage of legislation to expand across the board application of these ignition interlock devices. William McCaughey

Problems in education are nothing new

To the editor:

The everyday problems in pedagogy teachers have to deal with probably extend back to the days of Socrates: They are legendary and, quite frankly, eternal. There are no solutions, only means of control; modestly, generously and willingly, K through 12 teachers share these means with colleagues almost daily, on a formal or informal basis; this is quite remarkable. In some schools, unfortunately, what often appears as a remedy is, in the long run, just window dressing, all talk, and finally nothing substantial.

Note, however, that our teachers should not have dealt with the mundane problems of teaching today if Charter schools had existed in Socrates' time. In "Chartering Success on Capitol Hill,," Commentary, Providence Journal, May 27, James Maloney quotes Dr. Margaret Raymond thusly: "charter schools are benefitting lowincome, disadvantaged and special education students." Such bravado in this article is enough to stun Plato; well, make him blink at least.

Bloviation of all sorts, be it in sports, politics or education, brings to mind two well-known adages:

Warren Times-Gazette June 4, 2014 Page 7

A. If it sounds too good to be true, it probably isn't; and

B. If you repeat a lie often enough, people, yourself included, will start to believe you.

The above adages did not originate with Aristotle. They might have; who knows? To explain: It would be unkind and criminal to name Socrates and Plato in a discussion on education and not include Aristotle.

At Hugh Cole, one school and one book

Years ago, when the parents of current Hugh Cole students were in grade school, Reading was Fundamental. More recently, it was just plain fun. To kick off a week-long literacy program called "One School, One Book," teachers last month brought in some special guests to speak to students about reading and help them get excited about books. They included an African drummer, guests made up as characters from the book "Owen and Mzee: The True Story of a Remarkable Friendship," and more. "One School, One Book" gave students, families, teachers and administrators the chance to come together while reading the same book; the program promotes not only classroom discussion on the material, but reading at home. "Owen and Mzee" was chosen "because it is an amazing story about friendship told through beautiful language and photographs," Hugh Cole literacy specialist Sarah Yassine said.

Local Girl Scouts earn gold and silver awards

2nd Story offering three plays this summer

2nd Story Theatre has an exciting summer planned at the theater at 28 Market St.

DownStage

DownStage in June will be "Freud's Last Session" by Mark St. Germain. Legendary psychoanalyst Dr. Sigmund Freud invites the rising Oxford Don C.S. Lewis to his home in London.

There, the two clash about love, sex, the existence of God, and the meaning of life. It's a deeply touching play filled with humor that explores the minds, hearts and souls of two brilliant men addressing some of the greatest questions of all time.

Performances are from June 6 to 29.

UpStage in repertory

UpStage Rep in July and August will present two plays.

First up is the popular "And Then There Were None (aka 'Ten Little Indians')" by Agatha Christie. Ten guilty strangers are trapped on an island. One by one

Q: Where is decay most likely to occur

A: Dental caries, the technical name for tooth decay, can occur on three specific areas of the tooth: in the root, which connects the tooth to the jaw; in the pits and fissures that generally are on the chewing, or occlusal, portion of the tooth; and on the smooth enamel sides of the tooth.

In the case of children, about 60 percent of all cavities occur in the pits and fissures, either on the chewing surface, or in the pits and fissures that occur on other surfaces of teeth that did not form

Free Family Fun Day Saturday at the Audubon; plus 'Just for Seniors!' and a botanical event

Pull on a hat, grab the binoculars and head to Let the kids explore the great outdoors at the Audubon Society of Rhode Island's Environmental Education Center at 1401 Hope St. on the Bristol/Warren town line.

The center also features a lifesized model of a Right Whale, harbor seal display, marine and freshwater aquarium exhibits, tide pool tank, along with trails and a boardwalk to the bay on the 28acre wildlife refuge. The center is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday to Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

The usual admission fee is $6 for adults, $5 for seniors and $4 for children 4 to 12 years (under 4 are free). However, it is waived on the first Saturday of each month for Free Family Fun Day courtesy of a grant from the Citizens Bank Foundation.

For more information, call 245-7500 or visit www.asrieec.org. To register for programs call 949-5454, ext. 0, or register online at www.asri.org.

■ A sea glass jewelry workshop for adults is from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 4. Create a beautiful pendant with sea glass found on local beaches. Learn how to choose the right piece of glass and transform it into fun, creative jewelry using quick and easy wire wrapping techniques. The program includes all materials; but, if you found something special on the beach, bring it.

Registration is required as space is limited to 12 participants and classes fill quickly. The fee is $30 ($25 members). Register online. More classes are coming up on June 14 and 28.

■ Preschool storytimes are on Thursday and Friday, June 5 and 6, with "An Extraordinary Egg" by Leo Lionni at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Thursday and at 10 a.m. only on Friday. Children ages 3 to 5 enjoy the reading of a nature story, with hands-on activities, followed by a nature craft. Adults must accompany children. The fee is $6 for children ($5 for member children). Space is limited; register online.

■ "Saving Bees ... The Right Way," a summer lecture, is from 7 to 8 p.m. Thursday, June 5. Join Jon Nelson of Bee Bee Apiaries to learn about the plight of the very important honeybee. Jon and his co-presenter, Roger Robitaille of the R.I. Beekeepers Association, will discuss their work as ecofriendly professional bee removers.

Jon and Roger have safely removed hives to save the honeybee in the strangest of places: church towers, house gables, mills, and tall trees. They will discuss just how fascinating and complicated the honeybee is as well as some of the dangers it faces. And, of course, they will talk honey.

Registration is required. The fee is $10; $8 members. The lecture is for adults. Register online.

■ A Free Family Fun Day is from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, June 7. Admission to the Environmental Education Center is free on the first Saturday of every month, courtesy of a grant from the Citizens Bank Foundation. Families can explore environmental exhibits representing Rhode Island's diverse habitats, enjoy the nature trails, and participate in programs listed below, which are free.

ment of the head and neck are also especially susceptible to root cavities. Smooth surface decay usually happens in the sides of the teeth that face each other. Those surfaces are called the proximal surfaces. Flossing is such an important part of your oral health regimen because toothbrush bristles, as a rule, will not adequately clean the proximal surfaces. Flossing will scrape off the plaque that holds the acid created by the chemistry in your mouth. Talk with your dentist at your next visit about techniques you can use to keep all the surfaces of your teeth clean.

Meditation class

Meditation is a tool designed to keep your body, mind and spirit in balance. Discover the ability to help yourself move toward greater balance, control and peace of mind at a group meditation class with Ariadne Greenberg on Saturday, June 14, from 1 to 4 p.m. The fee is $30 for members and non-members. Call to register.

Managing falls

Have you turned down a chance to go out with family or friends because you were concerned about falling? Have you cut down on a favorite activity because you might fall? "A Matter of Balance: Managing Concerns About Falls" will be offered by the YMCA and Olympic Physical Therapy.

The eight-session program is from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesdays, June 18 to Aug. 6, at Olympic Physical Therapy, 450 Hope St., Bristol. It is $15. A workbook is provided and refreshments are served.

People who who fear falling often limit their activities, which can result in severe physical weakness. And older adults may experience isolation and depression when they limit their interactions with family and friends.

"Thanks Mom and Dad for

Learn to set realistic goals to increase activity, change your environment to reduce fall risk factors, and learn simple exercises to increase strength and balance.

Space is limited and registration is required. It is limited to 12 participants. Call the YMCA.

EnhanceFitness®

The EnhanceFitness® Program is a series of specially designed and tested exercises specifically for the management of arthritis. The benefit of this evidence based program is recognized by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. The program fosters support and develops relationships while focusing on strength training, stretching, flexibility, lowimpact aerobics and balance.

It is designed to be safe for physically unfit adults yet challenging enough for the more active participant. Classes are on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. Come one day or all three. Your progress in strength, flexibility and balance will be measured quarterly.

It is free for members and $25 a month for non-members. Call to register.

Camp Manitoo

Camp Manitoo is in Barrington on the grounds of the Bayside YMCA. It's a traditional day camp with value-based programs that help kids explore and discover their talents and interests while building strong friendships in a fun-filled day.

As part of the ongoing botanical exhibit, "Drawing and Painting Botanicals," a demonstration, is on Saturday, June 7, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and on Saturday, June 21, from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Join artists Gail Tantangelo and Joan DeGregory as they demonstrate the drawing and painting of botanicals. It is free with admission. Registration is not required.

■ "Just for Seniors!" is on Wednesday, June 11, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Those interested in learning something new and meeting other seniors with similar interests are invited for educational programs on a variety of topics. Class is limited to 15 participants, so register early.

The topic on June 11 is "Geology of Rhode Island" by Lisa Maloney, Audubon urban education coordinator. The cost is $15 ($12 members).

Other programs coming up are "Butterfly Walk and Talk" by Eugenia Marks, Audubon senior director of advocacy, on July 9; and "Summer Birds of Bristol" by Laura Carberry, Audubon Fisherville Brook Wildlife Refuge manager, on Aug. 13. Bring binoculars if you have them.

■ "Explore the Nature of Prudence Island" from 9:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Saturday, June 14, on Prudence Island. It's a great introduction to the incredibly rich diversity of wildlife, ecosystems and history on the island. Enjoy a guided van trip exploring various habitats and trails, learning about the wildlife and plants.

The walking trails are simple to moderate and it's an easy pace as you will be looking for birds, butterflies, reptiles, amphibians and plants.

The fee is $12 for adults and $6 for children 10 and older only ($8/ $4 members). For details on traveling to Prudence Island, visit the events calendar at www.asri.org. Register online at www.asri.org.

■ "From the Mountains to the Sea: Plants, Trees, and Shrubs of New England" is open through June 28. View the New England Society of Botanical Artists' juried exhibition of native plant portraits during regular center hours. Celebrate the diversity and beauty of plants from our own backyards. The exhibit is free with admission.

AT THE EAST BAY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Learn how to make your website healthy

A seminar, "Why Your Website May Be Losing You Money," is on Thursday, June 5, from 2 to 3:30 p.m. at the Chamber office. Chances are your website was never designed to be profitable. It was probably not designed to attract the "right" visitors and then convert those visitors to customers.

With Kevin Conway's 10-point website health checklist and Online Profitability Blueprint, uncover why your website is not generating leads, customers and cash. Discover what your specific website is missing with a 10-point website health checklist you will create and take home to immediately implement.

The seminar is $10; $5 for members. To sign up, call the office or visit the website.

Mr. Conway is a 15-year eCommerce veteran and business coach, consultant and speaker. He is president of Cutting Edge eMarketing and founder of Conway's Vintage Treasures, an upscale online retail gallery of fine art, antiques and rare collectibles that has over 10,000 visitors a month and has grown tenfold in the last five years.

His most recent online venture is a web-based business dedicated to men's health and fitness. He is a graduate of the University of Rhode Island and a US Navy submarine service veteran.

Women's spring series continues on Tuesdays

A women's spring series will bring harmony, life-balance, education and resources to women at the Chamber of Commerce offices.

The weekly Brown Bag Lunch is hosted by WEBOND (Women's Empowerment and Business Owners Networking Development) on Tuesdays from noon to 1 p.m.

Admission is $5 weekly. Each week, they present a guest speaker (20 minutes), networking, a raf-fle and more. Visit www.meetup. com/webond for more information or call 245-0750.

Networking event next week at university

The next Meet & Greet Networking event is at Roger Williams University on Wednesday, June 11, from 5:30 to 7 p.m. in the Global Heritage Hall, Lower Level. Join the East Bay Chamber of Commerce and the University Outreach and Engagement Team for an evening of networking.

Meet the directors of the Career Center (Robbin Beauchamp), the Feinstein Center of Community Engagement (K.C. Ferrara), the Community Partnership Center (Arnold Robinson), the Latino Policy Institute (Anna Cano-Morales) and the R.I. Housing Works (Nicole Lagace) and Vice President Peter Wilbur.

Learn about the numerous ways you can involve the students at RWU with internships, jobs, projects and volunteer opportunities at your organization.

Meet & Greet Networking events are fun, affordable ways to network with fellow Chamber members and their guests, and to get a view inside the workings of a fellow member's business.

Sign up for the monthly opportunity to break the ice, put names with faces, chat, exchange business cards and gain new allies in the local business community.

Registration is required. The cost is $5 for Chamber members and $10 for guests. Call or sign up online.

Free counseling with a business counselor

Anyone interested in a free, confidential mentoring session can contact the East Bay Chamber of Commerce to meet with a SCORE business counselor. Appointments are available on Fridays at 9:30 or 10:30 a.m. at the Chamber office.

Learn more about how to grow, expand or manage your business with a face-to-face consultation with a business professional who has owned a variety of businesses for 40 years and can help with your questions or problems.

You decide the level of assistance you would like, and the number of sessions, based on your needs.

Call the Chamber office for more information.

The East Bay Chamber of Commerce is at 16 Cutler St., Suite 102, Warren. For more information, call the office at 245-0750 or visit www.eastbaychamberri.org.

ACHIEVEMENTS

Two Warren students, juniors at Worcester Polvtechnic Institute, recently completed intense, hands-on research projects. EMI-LY CAMBROLA, who is majoring in biomedical engineering, did a "Fire Service Market Analysis" in Costa Rica. ELI WOLFANG, who is majoring in mechanical engineering did a project "Re-evaluating the Citi Gallery" in London. At WPI, all undergraduates are required to complete a researchdriven, professional-level project that applies science and technology to address an important societal need or issue.

College graduation notices to begin next week

If you want to let Warren know that you (or your child) are graduating, now is the time to get the information to the Warren Times-Gazette. Some colleges and universities do not include parents' names, honors received or employment plans, and most do not include photographs.

Due to the large volume of notices, the Warren Times can only print a graduation notice once. So, submit additional information or a photograph as soon as possible. We need digital photos e-mailed or sent on a disc as a high-resolution jpg or tif. Or, we accept glossy photographs (not those with a matte finish).

We will begin running the notices on June 11 as space permits, and will print all the students from a particular university or college together when we receive the list from the college (so, please be patient).

Drop off any material at the office, 1 Bradford St., Bristol; mail it to Community News, P.O. Box 90, Bristol, RI 02809, fax it to 253-6055 or e-mail it to lyndarego@ eastbaynewspapers.com. Include a phone number where you can be reached during the day.

For more information, call 253-6000, ext. 107.

Save the date! East Bay Beer Festival coming up

Brickyard Wine & Spirits and The East Bay Home Brew Club will present a local beer festival featuring all the great Rhode Island breweries in one beautiful waterfront location on historic Water Street (next to Blount's Clam Shack) on Saturday, June 14, from noon to 4 p.m.

Breweries scheduled to appear so far include Foolproof, Narragansett, Gray Sail, The Bucket, Newport Storm and Berkshire. There will be live music and a brewing demonstration with Carl from Brew Horizons Homebrew Supply.

Tickets are $30 the day of the event or $25 in advance online through Eventbrite.com (search for "2014 East Bay Beer Fest").

Faithful Friends helps you say farewell to a beloved pet

here's little doubt pets are very important family members. It's not surprising then that when a beloved pet passes away, the loss is keenly felt. Faithful Friends Crematory on Schoolhouse Road in Warren understands the distressing situation those who have lost a pet are in. It is one of very few pet crematories that operate in the region and provides a compassionate setting for pet farewells, cremations, as well as complete services to help a family handle the loss.

Faithful Friends, a subsidiary of the 145-year-old William J. Smith Funeral Home, is well-versed in easing family members through difficult times. Owner and great, great grand niece of the founder, Cathie Tattrie says of the twoyear-old pet crematory, "Several years ago, we started receiving many phone calls from local pet owners wondering what they could do with their beloved family pet who had just passed away." Cathie says they began to research services that went beyond what local veterinarians could provide and came up with their own Faithful Friends concept. They renovated a barn on the property and in addition to the crematory, built in private viewing facilities and a quiet room for families to bid farewell. "It is a restful and compassionate space and affords to pets the respect given to other family members," says Cathie.

High School poets 'slam' their words at Mt. Hope

BY ERIC DICKERVITZ edickervitz@eastbaynewspapers.com

It was a battle of words inside the Mt. Hope High School auditorium on Wednesday, May 7; not the kind that fuels debate and divides opposing parties, but the kind that embraces thoughts, feelings and ideas and conveys them through creative expression.

Seven students competed in the Mt. Hope High School poetry slam, an event that emerged from Kerry Mastriano's Music as Literature class several years ago, and has evolved into an annual event that provides students an outlet in which their innermost thoughts and feelings can be shared in the form of their original poems.

While viewed as a competition — with bragging rights, if not lavish prizes — going to the top three poets, the event is more an opportunity for the artists to display their works through spoken word.

"It's hard to get up in front of your peers, never mind sharing something as intimate as a poem," said Ms. Mastriano.

And yet they did, displaying poise and passion in relaying their work.

Some of the poems told a somber story, like Patrick Collins' "A Man From Morrow." In it, Patrick relates the life of a man whose life changes for the better after getting married and raising a family, only to return to a life of sorrow with the death of his eldest son.

"No longer was the eldest man about tomorrow,

No longer were his days without sorrow"

Other poems told of the desire for acceptance, the perils of ignorance and racism, and learning to handle one's emotions when faced with new experiences.

In his poem, Jacob Weeden recited a rhyme that led the audience through his thoughts as he dealt with the break-up of a relationship, not wanting to act on his emotions, but directing those feelings through his rhyme.

His poems concludes with the recognition that poetry is his outlet.

"... This is just me being totally honest see I share more with my fans than I do with my mans or my fam I turn to music cause that's who gave me a chance when they all said that I can't. This the revenge of the dreamers stay strong forever even if no one believes us."

Jacob, a freshman, whose facial expression and gestures punctuated his thoughts, took third place among the competitors.

First and second place went to juniors Madeline Lessing and Samson Kneath, respectively.

"These students continue to blow my mind with their creativity and talent," Ms. Mastriano said. "The lines that separate them into various cliques melt away. Watching them all support one another is truly moving. I feel so lucky to be a part of it."

TOGETHER, SMALL BUSINESSES ARE RI'S BIGGEST BUSINESS.

"From an organizational perspective, the transition was pretty seamless but more importantly our employees had a much wider range of options from which to choose than ever before.

Peter Mello Managing Director WATERFIRE PROVIDENCE

"Not only did the business save money, but we were also able to offer our employees the opportunity to pick the health insurance plan that made sense for them."

"The employees at Pilgrim Screw made the decision to obtain health coverage through HealthSource RI because we saved enough money on the premiums to fund our health savings accounts."

PILGRIM SCREW

"Mereco decided to use the Exchange due to its unique Employee Choice option which enabled our employees to choose from sixteen different plan designs."

As a small business owner, you know that big businesses get all the breaks. That's why they pay less for pretty much everything-including health insurance. But with HealthSource RI, small businesses can join forces and get a better deal on health and dental insurance.

Mr. Read, who also directs Sail Newport, said he hopes people will turn out to greet the boat and crew when they arrive.

"Charlie is from Bristol so there's a lot for people in the East Bay — people from this whole region to get really excited about."

The arrival is "going to be so much fun, either by boat or on foot down at Newport Shipyard ... a real first chance for us here to cheer on this amazing boat and crew. I hope people will give them a rousing cheer." By visiting the the website www.volvoocean racenewport.com, fans can check on the boat's progress and sign up for text arrival alerts.

Visitors will be welcome to visit throughout the stay and at a number of events, including a boat naming ceremony on June 28. While sailors may already know of Charlie Enright's sailing talent, "I'm hoping that our non-sailing neighbors in Bristol, Central Falls — everywhere — will get excited about this incredibly colorful team ... Charlie is the youngest sailor in the race buy a good chunk but those around him already have an incredible amount of respect for his ability."

Newport has already been visited by two boats — the all-women Team SCA, and then Team Dongfeng, the entry from China. That boat arrived aboard a yacht-carrier ship that anchored off Portsmouth's East Passage Yachting Center to unload a dozen or so boats. It was scheduled to be shipped back to Portugal last Thursday.

In Newport, the Volvo 65 race boats have been taking guests and the media out for sails from Newport Shipyard.

STRAIGHT UP THE MIDDLE

Mending the rift in the political clubhouse

ast week's return of the 2004 Red Sox to Fenway was highlighted by the first attempt to bring Manny Ramirez back into the fold of Red Sox Nation. Most will recall that in addition to being the most feared right handed hitter in baseball, Manny was a bit of disaster off the field and acted like an overgrown child in the clubhouse. He almost never reported to spring training on time, got in fights with team staff and his own teammates in the dugout, skipped out on high profile team events like visiting wounded soldiers at Walter Reed Hospital and even quit on his team several times. Manny left Boston at the trade deadline in 2008 after several of his own teammates approached the management and asked them to get rid of him. He is the only MLB player to get caught using PEDs three times in his career. Considering that other 2004 heroes — with stellar reputations — were standing on the field without a starring role, it's no wonder that there has been considerable grumbling from the media about the team's choice to honor Manny.

In every election cycle there is period of clubhouse fighting (the primary) where candidates from the same party duke it out to become their party's endorsed candidate. This is a tough time for many candidates to negotiate because sometimes they focus so intently on appealing to their party's primary core voters that they position themselves far to the left or right of the more centrist general election voter. In Rhode Island, we have our primary late (this year it's September 9) giving candidates very little opportunity to reshape their image for the general election on November 4.

In the past, this has worked particularly well for Republican gubernatorial candidates who have been able to run their race towards the middle as Democratic candidates have fought for the

Walk for hope for Huntington's this weekend

The Rhode Island Chapter of the Huntington's Disease Society of America will be holding their Team Hope Walk in Bristol this weekend, one of more than 85 Team Hope walks which will be held in cities across the country. This is the largest annual grassroots event for the Society, and all proceeds will go to improve the lives of people and their families affected by Huntington's Disease.

Huntington's Disease is a devastating, progressive brain disorder that causes people to lose both mental faculties and physical control before succumbing to cardiac and respiratory complications. Symptoms usually appear between the ages of 30 to 50, and worsen over a 10 to 25 year period.

Huntington's is inherited, with a roughly 50 percent likelihood of developing the disease if one of your parents is afflicted. More than 30,000 people in the United States are currently diagnosed (about 1 in 10,000) with an estimated 250,000 more people at risk for of having inherited it from a parent, making it one of the most common genetic disorders. As of today, there is no cure.

Individuals with Huntington's Disease not only need support as the disease progresses and robs them of their ability to care for themselves, they also need a strong advocacy network. There is a genetic test that determines if a person is going to develop the disease, but the decision to have the test done is a complicated one, and federal nondiscrimination laws only provide limited protection. The Huntington's Disease Society of America supports 21 Centers of Excellence at major medical facilities throughout the U.S., where people with Huntington's and their families can receive comprehensive medical, psychological and social services, in addition to physical and occupational therapy and genetic testing and counseling.

Registration begins at 9 a.m. and the walk beings at 10 a.m., at the Bristol Sports Complex at Colt State Park. The Rhode Island Chapter is asking for the community's support with this fun, family-friendly, and very important event. Become a sponsor, form a team, walk as an individual, donate products or volunteer to coordinate event activities. To volunteer or support the Team Hope Walk, please contact co-chairperson Lynn Doyle at 401/301-4076 or by e-mail at Iddoyle@cox.net.

BURDETT: Sad end for Saratoga, headed for scrap

The decommissioned aircraft carrier Saratoga, which has been rusting away at a Navy dock in Newport, is headed for the scrapyard after the Navy paid one penny to a Texas scrapyard to dismantle the 81,101-ton carrier that blockaded Soviet ships during the Cuban Missile Crisis and participated in a 1986 air strike against Libya.

Naval Sea Systems Command announced that Saratoga will be towed to Brownsville, Texas, later this year for scrapping by ESCO Marine.

There had been an effort to convert 'Super Sara' to a Rhode Island air and sea museum but the Navy decided in 2010 that those plans were not feasible.

Saratoga is the second of three conventionally-powered carriers headed for the ship breakers. All Star Metals took the Forrestal earlier this year, also for a penny. A third contract is pending for the Constellation, with International Shipbreaking Ltd.

The carrier, the sixth Saratoga in the US fleet, was decommissioned in 1994 after 38 years in service.

Mastering the Craft

International Yacht Restoration School brings back its summer series, Mastering the Craft, with a focus on Making with Modern Materials in 2014. The series offers a look at modern craftsmanship by engaging master makers, builders, and companies in the local area who work with composite materials. There will be four special access opportunities, scheduled on Fridays at 3:30 p.m. at the following manufacturer locations:

■ June 6: Clear Carbon & Components (Bristol) with Matt Dunham

■ June 20: Hall Composites (Bristol) with Ben Hall and Pete Levesque

■ July 18: IYRS School of Composites Technology (Bristol) with Henry Eliot & Dirk Kramer

■ August 1: TPI Composites (Warren) with Steve Nolet

The series will culminate on Friday, Aug. 15, with a public roundtable discussion. The series participants will be joined by Ping Fu, 3D printing entrepreneur, for a conversation moderated by Richard Saul Wurman, American architect and graphic designer.

For more information or to reserve a tour ticket, contact Loriana De Crescenzo, at ldecrescenzo@iyrs.edu or 401-848-5777 x 204.

Dragons take bronze

St. George's School (Middletown) finished third in the Interscholastic Sailing Association's National Championship Regatta sailed May 24-25 at Lakewood Yacht Club in Texas. Point Loma High School finished first and Annapolis High School second in racing for the Baker Trophy. Sailing on the St. George's team were Roger Dorr, Will Logue, Oliver Parsons and Miranda Bakos.

D-Day at the Cove

Battleship Cove will embark on a Saturday, June 7, day-long celebration of the 70 anniversary of the Allies' historic June 6, 1944, invasion of the beaches of Normandy.

At 10 a.m., a ceremony led by Battleship Cove Executive Director, Brad King, will take place to commemorate those who fought 70 years ago.

The ceremony will start with the marching of the Honor Guard and the playing of the National Anthem by Navy Band Northeast followed by an invocatione. The ceremony will conclude with a laying of a wreath, 21-gun salute and a rendition of Road to the Isles, Blue Bonnet and Hieland' Laddie by bag pipers.

D-Day Veteran, Robert Forcier, will also be in attendance.

There will be displays of weapons and uniforms from both sides of the action in front of a landing craft of the type used on the Omaha and Utah beaches. There will also be two WWII Jeeps on display, and Professor Steve Kornatz, of the Naval War College (Newpott) will present a talk on Operation Neptune – the maritime component of D-Day.

where the fish are feeding. Here are ten ways to catch striped bass, and to help sustain and enhance this great fishery of ours, they are followed by catch and release tips.

Top ten ways to catch striped bass

10. Trolling with umbrella rigs. Many use this technique trolling in deeper parts of Narragansett Bay, off Newport or Block Island with a variety of squid, shad, worm or eel umbrella rigs.

9. Casting soft plastics, various bait types and weights to fish different depths. Make sure the plastic baits are scented if they are not, add some scent. Who wants to eat plastic?

8. Buck tail jigs with pork rind squid strips. Many have had success with this method to get under schools of bluefish to the striped bass below.

7. Live eels. Used by shore and boat anglers, particularly for larger trophy sized bass. Hook the eel through the mouth and out one eye. Going between the eyes usually kills the bait.

6. Live menhaden. Snag the live bait with a weighted treble hook or net them. Hook the bait through the bridge of the nose, put the fish back in the school of menhaden and let it swim.

5. Chunking fresh or frozen menhaden. Anchor (and chum); drift fish or fish the moving bait schools with chunks. Some anglers use weight slides to get the bait down to where the fish are.

4. Surface plugs. Many school bass in the spring are caught using surface plugs of all types.

3. Swimming lures. My favorite is a grey and silver Yo-zuri Crystal Minnow.

2. Parachute squid jigs. Often used in ocean water (or where there are squid). Anglers successfully use this method off Newport, Narragansett and Block Island.

1. Trolling with tube and worm. Anglers use lead and wire line or weight there tube to get it down to the bottom where the big bass are. Lead and wire line is designed to sink in water column. Bubblegum or red colored tubes seem to work best in the Bay and amber colored ones off coastal shores, all tipped with clam worm.

How to enhance your catch and release efforts

Many anglers are now releasing all striped bass they catch to help sustain and enhance the striped bass fishery. In a recent report NOAA said 92 percent of all striped bass are being released. Anglers who keep their catch often catch several undersized fish until they catch their limit of two legal sized fish over 28". So it is important to plan your catch and release efforts to ensure the fish you are not taking have the best chance of surviving.

One way to enhance survival is to use circle hooks. Circle hooks have been used by commercial fisherman for years. When longline fishermen using circle hooks would return to check their hooks, the fish would still be alive (hooked in the jaw or mouth and not in the stomach). Circle hooks are highly efficient at catching fish and keeping the fish alive.

Here's how circle hooks work: after the bait and hook are swallowed by the fish and it starts to run, the hook is pulled out of the stomach and slides toward the point of resistance on the fish's jaw or lip and embeds itself in the lip, usually the corner of the fish's mouth.

Circle hooks successfully hook bass in the mouth 95 percent of the time. The trick is not to jerk the rod to set the hook because you could pull the bait and hook right out of the fish's mouth. Let the fish run, as it does, it will pull the hook out of its stomach and hook itself on the lip. Once this happens the fish is hooked so all you have to do is start fighting the fish and reeling it in. To release striped bass, particularly undersized or large egg bearing striped bass, consider these techniques.

Use circle hooks, they successfully hook bass in the mouth (not the gut) 95 percent of the time. Land fish quickly to minimize stress Avoid putting fish on deck and letting it flop around, keep it in the water as much as possible.

Wet your hand before handling the fish, dry hands remove the fish's protective slime layer and leave it open to infection

Handle fish carefully. Do not put fingers into gill cavities or eye sockets.

Gently remove the hook to minimize damage.

Use lures with single hook, barbless hooks (I snap them off), or circle hooks (as noted above). Return fish to water quickly.

Place fish gently in water in upright horizontal position. Move it back and forth in the water to force water across its gills. Once revived allow fish to swim away.

Where's the bite

Striped bass fishing in Narragansett Bay and off coastal shores has been outstanding. Small school size striped bass and keepers (over 28") are being caught from the rivers in Providence all the way down to Newport and along the coast to Westerly. Carlos De Hoyas of Pawtucket landed several keeper bass to 33" at Gano Street in Providence. Carlos said, "I have been fishing in the area for the last 15 years ... a lot of school bass caught there... I was using sea worms with an outgoing tide around 7:30 p.m. last week. A lot of pogies in the river... some guys are catching fish at night live lining under the new Pawtucket bridge at (I-95) Exit 28. Some of them are big." Mike Swain of Coventry and I fished with circle hooks and fresh Atlantic Menhaden chunks Saturday and landed striped bass to 35" and 16 pounds in the East Passage. However, fish are being caught using pogies in the West Passage too. Anglers are also having luck trolling tube & worm and using small umbrella rigs. When I called Ken Landry of Ray's Bait & Tackle, Warwick this weekend he said, "Striper fishing is great, I've got one on the fillet board now."

Summer flounder (fluke) are in so whenever you get tired of fishing for bass, don't hesitate to give fluke fishing a try. Minimum size is 18" with a limit of eight fish/angler/day. Roger Simpson of the Frances Fleet said Sunday's, "Full day fluke trip was the best day of the week. Capt. Richie crushed the fish, lots of limits, over 150 keepers. 50 fish over 4 lbs, pool fish just under or at ten pounds." Angler Ed Bison reports, "Fished the southern Bay yesterday (Saturday). Fluke are in caught three nice keepers to 24" landed a total of 8 in a little over an hour on the incoming." John Stavrakas of North Kingstown said, "We tried our luck fluking today under overcast skies and with calm seas. With wind against tide we worked hard for a couple of shorts at Nebraska Shoal and a Green Hill. We ran to Block Island and fished south of New Harbor for some consistent action. We put three keepers in the box and caught a couple dozen shorts (mostly 17 inches). Stopped by Green Hill again on the way back to Point Judith for another keeper. Nice trip to kick off the season."

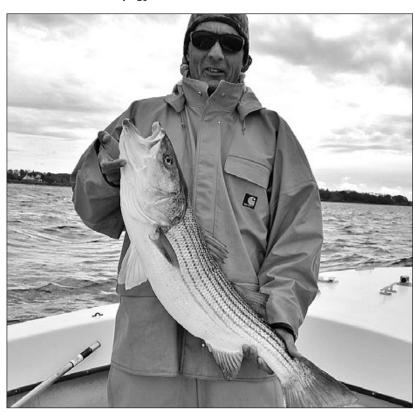

Bluefish are being caught as anglers target striped bass. Angler Anthony Clang said, "I fished last evening from shore in the Rocky Point (Warwick) area and caught one 23" Blue. The tide was high at 5:30 p.m. and it was pretty calm. I was using chunked porgy (scup)."

Fresh water fishing remains strong for both trout and largemouth bass. Many anglers are still catching trout stocked in ponds by DEM including the Golden Trout that played a larger role in DEM's hatchery program this year. Visit www.dem.ri.gov for stocked ponds and Golden Trout program information.

Captain Dave Monti has been fishing and shellfishing on Narragansett Bay for over 40 years. He holds a captain's master license and a charter fishing license. Contact or forward fishing news and photos to Capt. Dave at dmontifish@verizon.net.

Capt. Monti with a striped bass landed using a circle hook and chucked Atlantic Menhaden (pogy).

Bass on chunks: Mike Swain of Coventry has been landing striped bass in the Bay (both East and West Passages) using Atlantic Menhaden chunks or live lining them.

Carlos De Hoyas of Pawtucket landed this 33" bass at Gano Street, Providence using a worm.

TRASH OR TREASURE?

Made in Japan

Q. I inherited this serving set. My father was in the Navy and stationed in Japan during the 1950's and may have bought it there. It is marked "Hand Painted Kutani Yamazaki." Underneath it

"Underneath it is stamped "Made in Japan." How old is it and what is it worth? A. Your "Lazy Susan Set" or "relish tray" was made circa 1945. The United States Customs Bureau be marked required all goods be marked "Japan" or "Made in Japan" as of August 1, 1921. Prior to this, there were still stamps, but all Japanese goods were stamped "Nippon." At the time, paper labels did not adhere well enough to ceramics so they were stamped in indelible ink to make it through customs.

No ceramics were imported from Japan to the United States during World War II (1941 to 1945). From 1945 until 1952 (when your father was most likely stationed there), ceramics were imported with stamps of "Japan" or "Made in Occupied Japan." In 1952, the stamps returned to "Made in Japan" but were on paper labels due to the advances in adhesives which kept the labels on the ceramics well enough to satisfy the Customs Bureau.

Kutani porcelain has been made since the mid 1600's. The name "Kutani" is not for a specific factory but a region in Japan where there is a natural abundance of kaolin which is a necessary ingredient in making porcelain. Most ceramics from this region are made for the export market.

This set would sell for around $25-$30.

left side of the political spectrum. Rhode Island political pundits agree that bloody Democratic primaries helped elected Governors Lincoln Almond and Don Carcieri because the Democratic primary process produced a candidate that was weakened and too far to the left to win the general. This year is especially interesting because there are hotly contested primaries on both sides of the aisle and surprisingly, the first negative ad — from the Fung campaign — has already been launched. While negative ads are frequently described as "comparative" by candidates' camps, this one is negative with a dash of humor — depicting Block supporters as less than intelligent "blockheads" while talking about why they support his candidacy. The timing of the ad is particularly interesting since negative ads are usually much later in the cycle, indicating to me that the Fung campaign wants to deliver a knockout punch early before focusing on general election voters later in the summer and into the fall. This might be like "counting your chickens before they hatch" but also shows that the Fung camp is aware that their only shot at winning depends on Democrats shredding each other in September, not toiling with Ken Block to prove who the real conservative is.

With the Republican candidates already tussling, it's just a matter of time before the Democrats turn on each other and offer more than just competing visions for the state's future. I make no predictions but am fairly certain that the two candidates that emerge from September clubhouse fights will have to do a better job than Manny to appeal to Rhode Island voters who are turned off by their antics.

so they create quasi-public entities like the Economic Development Corporation (EDC). In setting up these entities the legislative language articulates that the agency is separate and apart from the state and can be sued or sue SOLELY on its own and there is no state back-up since the state is another legal entity. As a matter of fact, the332 page offering documents for such a bond which went to 38 Studios clearly articulates that the state isn't involved and repeatedly says that Rhode Island has no liability for debts and that no full faith and credit is pledged to pay off the bond in case of a default.

Enter Standard and Poor,LLC (S&P), a bond credit rating agency which is threatening to downgrade Rhode Island's bond rating for the state and municipalities unless the State backs up the "moral obligation" bonds of a completely different entity. Mind you, this was the same credit rating group who was warned by then General Treasurer Frank Caprio to forego a top credit rating on this bond issuance which the company chose to ignore.

Consider further, that S&P was sued last year by the U.S. Department of Justice, 16 states with some Attorney Generals and the District of Columbia for alleged misconduct involving structured finance securities which were at the heart of the nation's financial crisis. The lawsuit states that S&P allowed its analysis to be influenced by its desire to earn lucrative fees from its investment clients and knowingly assigned inflated credit ratings to toxic assets sold and packaged by Wall Street banks. The allegations note that S&P's so-called independent judgment and objectivity were compromised.

Consider still further that then-Connecticut Attorney General, Richard Blumenthal, joined by mayors from across the state, sued S&P and other credit rating agencies for allegedly giving artificially low credit ratings that cost taxpayers millions of dollars in unnecessary bond insur-

Spay your pets with no regrets

BY DR. LYNN ANNE EVANS Dear Dr. Evans,

I just adopted a female Labrador (maybe a mix, but she sure looks like a Lab) from a shelter. Sookie is four months old, very sweet and pretty, and my buddy would like a pup like her. I'm thinking of letting her have at least one litter if I can find a male I like. I've heard that vets recommend spaying and neutering all dogs at around six months, but do I really have to? She's a great dog. —Puppy Love Dear Pup,

I'm glad you found a puppy you love, but please do her a favor-get her spayed before her first heat.

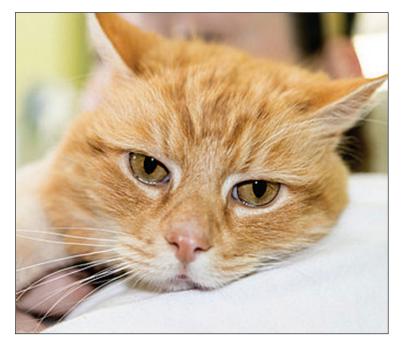

Unless you have the absolute world-class, top-of-the-line, first-at-Westminister Lab lady, the world doesn't need more puppies. When you adopted your new friend, I bet you walked past cage after cage of forlorn dogs and pups, all wagging hopefully or, worse, resignedly. Your dog is one of the lucky ones. Sure, a dog as great as yours may have a very easily placed litter. But for every pup you find a home for, there's one at the pound waiting to find a "forever home." And a lot of them won't be so fortunate. Estimates vary, but three to four million cats and dogs are euthanized in shelters every year approximately 56 percent of shelter dogs and 71 percent of shelter cats, according to the American Humane Association. Please don't let your girl contribute to the problem.

Besides, there are a lot of good solid reasons to have Sookie spayed before she comes into heat. If a dog is spayed before her first heat, she's many, many times likelier than an unspayed female to avoid breast tumors

PET OF THE WEEK

Pet of the week is Precious

Hi, my name is Precious and am the newest resident at the Warren animal shelter. I am around 10 years of age. I am neutered and up to date on all my shots. I like to be held and spend my day laying in the sun. I am very lovable. Right now I look a little funny because my fur had to be trimmed. The staff at the shelter tell me not to worry because it will grow back and I will be beautiful again. I sure hope they know what they are talking about. If you think you could give me a forever home, please call the Warren animal shelter at 401/245-4569.

later in life. The protective effect of spaving diminishes with every heat she has; a dog who's spayed after her fourth or fifth heat is just as likely to develop mammary cancer as an intact female. An unspayed female is also at risk for pyometra, a very dangerous uterine infection that generally demands emergency surgery with a significant risk of life-threatening complications (and a significant risk of costing the owner thousands of dollars). And every six months or so, an unspayed female will find every male dog in the neighborhood on her doorstep with a bunch of roses and bad intentions. Sookie may not mind these booty calls, but I guarantee you will.

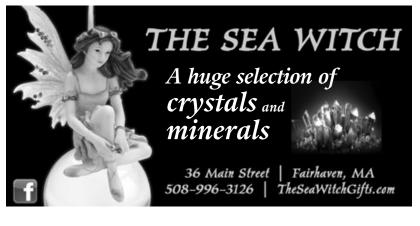

As a side note, these remarks generally apply to cats as well, though once a female cat goes into heat, she cycles in and out of season once every few weeks. Really vocal, really dramatic, and really annoying.

As to the timing of spaying/neutering, six months is not set in stone, but it is a good guideline. Shelters have been spaying and neutering very young kittens and puppies for years, without any apparent ill effects. And recently, one study suggested that neutering later in life — say, at one to two years of age — allows male dogs to develop more adult musculature, leaving them less prone to hip dysplasia and other musculoskeletal issues. Then again, intact males develop some ugly testosterone-fueled behaviors, like aggression and urine marking.

Veterinary guidelines may change with time and further study, but seriously — get Sookie spayed. You won't regret it.

Navigating long-term veterans care benefits

ong-term care costs can add up quickly. For veterans and the surviving spouses of veterans who need inhome care or are in a nursing home, help may be available. The istration (VA) has a pension benefit called Aid and Attendance that provides money to those who need assistance performing everyday tasks. Even veterans whose income is above the legal limit for a VA pension may qualify for the Aid and Attendance benefit if they have large medical expenses for which they do not receive reimbursement.

Aid and Attendance is a pension benefit, which means it is available to veterans who served at least 90 days, with at least one day during wartime. The veteran does need to have service-related disabilities to qualify. Veterans or surviving spouses are eligible if they require the aid of another person to perform an everyday action, such as bathing, feeding, dressing, or going to the bathroom. This includes individuals who are bedridden, blind, or residing in a nursing home.

To qualify the veteran or spouse generally must have less than $80,000 in assets, excluding the home and vehicle. In addition, the veteran's income must be less than the Maximum Annudo?"

MUSIC NOTES

al Pension Rate (MAPR). Following are the MAPRs for 2014: Single veteran - $21,107

Veteran with one dependent -$25,022

Single surviving spouse -$13,562

Surviving spouse with one dependent - $16,179

Income does not include welfare benefits or Supplemental Security Income. It also does not include unreimbursed medical expenses actually paid by the veteran or a member of his or her family. This can include Medicare, Medigap, and longterm care insurance premiums; over-the-counter medications taken at a doctor's recommendation; long-term care costs, such as nursing home fees; the cost of an in-home attendant that provides some medical or nursing services; and the cost of an assisted living facility. These expenses must be unreimbursed (in other words, insurance must not pay the expenses.) The expenses should also be recurring, meaning that they should recur every month.

How it works

The amount a person receives depends on his or her income. The VA pays the difference between the veteran's income and the MAPR. If, for example, John, a single veteran, has income from Social Security of $16,500 a year and a pension of $12,000 a year, his total income is $28,500 a year. If he pays $20,000 a year for home health care, $1,122 a year for Medicare, and

$1,788 a year for supplemental insurance, so his total medical expenses are $22,910. Subtracting his medical expenses from his income ($28,500 - $22,910), John's countable income is $5,590. John could qualify for $15,517 ($21,107 - $5,590) in Aid and Attendance benefits. For 2014, the most a single veteran can receive is the same as the MAPR which is $1,759/month, for a married veteran, $2,085/month and for the surviving spouse of a veteran,

$1,130/month. One issue is that the Veteran's Administration generally does not act on Aid and Attendance applications quickly. I have had applications approved in as little as 2 months and as long as 24 months, perhaps longer if the veteran or spouse has dementia and needs a third party to receive the funds. However, once approved, the benefits will be paid retroactive to the application date. Unfortunately, if the veteran dies without a spouse or dependent before the benefits are received, any retroactive benefit will be lost.

TELL ME ABOUT THE LIVE SHOWS COMING UP WITH HELLSPEAK, I KNOW THE FIRST GIG IS JUNE 21ST AT AXLE'S ROCK HOUSE IN CONNECTICUT? It's going to be great. We have 4 to 5 new Hellspeak songs in a heavier vein that we are also working on. We won't do the mellower tunes for that show.

WILL THERE BE A TOUR WITH MELIAH RAGE? Not this year. The guitar player just shattered his wrist. So we won't tour with this album until next year. That band has had a stream of bad luck this year.

HOW DID MELIAH RAGE GET A HOLD OF YOU? Through a friend, Jonathan Jacobs, who has worked with them and Fate's Warning. He recommended me and they checked out a You Tube video from another band with me in it. They called me up and had me send in songs. My audition was recording "These Scars" that song appeared on a compilation album.

BESIDES HELLSPEAK, MELIAH RAGE, AND METAL 101, ARE YOU WORKING ON ANY OTHER PROJECTS? Yes. Actually, another band in the vein of Nevermore and Soilwork; and a few other things. I'm trying to stay busy.

WHEN DO YOU SLEEP? Ha ha. Well, you know — I nap a lot.

DO YOU DO ANYTHING SPECIAL TO KEEP YOUR VOICE IN SHAPE? I rehearse every day. I go to the gym every day, I work, and I rehearse. I have a vocal routine that I do. I have a regimen.

DID YOU TAKE LESSONS? I took lessons for years. I have a vocal coach, Jaime, who I have been with for years. After singing for thirty years you just get your own thing that works for you.

HOW DO YOU FEEL THE METAL SCENE HOLDS UP IN NEW ENGLAND? There are a lot of bands. It's cool. But I would like to see them do your own thing — there are too many bandwagon bands. But at least they are out there.

HOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT SOCIAL MEDIA IN REGARDS TO THE INDUSTRY? Obviously no one of a five block radius would know you without social media. It is tremendous for young bands. I wish I had it when age in this business, there was one band that stood apart from the rest. In 1992 there was really only one powerhouse

MARTIN local metal act: Hammersmyth. "In a dark room" was a triumph of the local music scene. The one thing that stood out on that album, besides the impressive musicianship, was the searing, over-the-top vocals of Marc Lopes. Marc is a vocalist who lives and breathes the philosophy of metal. His dedication to his fans and his art is unmatched onstage and off, metal is his life. His vocal prowess can be heard on several projects and his talented singing style recently landed him a gig with none other than national recording artist Meliah Rage. Currently, he performs in Hellspeak, Meliah Rage, and Metal 101. The Hellspeak album, "The Slaughter Rule of Agony" is one of the best local CDs I have come across and it rocks from start to finish. # Colorful chicken dish is perfect for spring

BY LYNDA REGO lrego@eastbaynewspapers.com

Chicken cooked with peppers and onions in a vinegary sauce sweetened with a touch of honey is so colorful and pretty - and delicious, too. It's just perfect to welcome the warm weather ahead. This dish takes about 50 minutes to make.

I have become a huge fan of chicken thighs and use them almost exclusively now, except for a couple of favorite boneless breast recipes I've had for years. This dish is based on a recipe that was in Parade magazine that I've changed over the years until I got the sauce just right. I like to thicken it quite a bit at the end so it makes a nice glaze over the chicken and peppers and some rice on the side.

Chicken and Peppers in Vinegar Sauce

Serves 4

■ 4 bone-in skinless chicken thighs (about 1 3/4 pounds)

■ Salt and freshly ground black pepper

3 tablespoons olive oil

■ 1 large red bell pepper, cored and thinly sliced

- 1 large yellow bell pepper, cored and thinly sliced
- 1 large orange bell pepper, cored and thinly sliced
- 1 onion, thinly sliced
- 4 cloves garlic, peeled and chopped
- 1 tablespoon tomato paste
- 1/2 cup white balsamic vinegar
- 2 tablespoons honey

- 1 cup low-sodium chicken stock or broth
- 1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley

Heat oil in a medium Dutch oven over high heat (on 8) until it shimmers. Pat the chicken dry with paper towels, season with salt and pepper, and place in the pan, top-side down. Cook until golden brown, about 5 minutes, then turn over and cook another 3 minutes. Remove chicken to a plate.

Add peppers and onion to the pan and cook (6), stirring occasionally, until slightly soft, about 4 minutes. Add garlic and cook for 1 minute. Add tomato paste and cook for 1 minute. Add the vinegar and cook (on 8) until reduced by half. Add honey and broth and cook for 5 minutes (on 5). If you're making rice, put it on the stove now.

Return the chicken and any accumulated juices to the pot. Reduce heat to medium (3 1/2), cover the pot and cook until chicken is tender, about 15 minutes. Remove chicken and peppers to a platter. Cook sauce on high heat until reduced to a sauce, about 5 minutes. Pour over the chicken. Sprinkle with parsley. Serve with rice or noodles.

NOTE: You can use any color bell peppers or any variation. I've used yellow and green (but these three colors look really pretty).

Emily DELCONTE

Aim for eating 3 meals and 2 snacks every day. When making your snacks, focus on pairing carbohydrates and lean proteins. It is important to avoid eating carbohydrates alone, as this causes a quick rise (and then fall) in your blood sugar level. Focus on whole grains (such as whole wheat crackers, brown rice cakes, popcorn, and whole grain cereal), fruits, vegetables, nuts, glycemia (low blood sugar).

seeds, and lean proteins. Try some of these snack ideas:

■ 1 slice whole grain toast with 1 tablespoon natural peanut butter.

■ A small banana with 10-15 almonds.

1 brown rice cake with 1 tablespoon natural almond butter.

2 cups air popped popcorn with 2 tablespoons shelled sunflower seeds.

■ 1 slice low sodium turkey with 1/2 cup baby carrots.

■ Sliced red peppers with 2 tablespoons hummus. ■ 3/4 cup low fat Greek yogurt

Always...Patsy Cline

This tribute to the music of the woman who epitomized country music in the late '50s and '60s is wrapped around the true story of her friendship with one of her greatest fans, Louise Seger. Seger, who fell in love with Patsy's voice after seeing her perform "Walkin' After Midnight" on Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts in 1957, followed Cline's career via radio and television and finally met the singer at a Houston concert in 1961. The two became pen pals up until the 1963 plane crash that claimed Cline's life. ### Martin's Garden Notes Gardening in the Shade

There are plenty of options now for gardens in the shade. Often interesting foliage plants like hostas are excellent for providing structure for your shade garden. Astilbe, with plumes of white, pink or red or Pulmonaria offering speckled foliage and pink, white or blue blooms in early Spring add color. Old fashioned Bleeding Heart blooms beautifuly in early spring while the dwarf forms bloom all summer.

Groundcovers are effective in the shade including pachysandra, and myrtle. Be cautious with ivy as it is quite agressive and hard to control when established. One Pachysandra discovered by a nursery in Connecticut is called Green Sheen is slower growing with glossy foliage. Introducing scattered groups of other perennials like hostas in a bed of groundcover adds interest to the space.

Several perennials bloom late in the season in the shade including Toad Lily with speckled blooms in October. European Ginger, Ferns, Andromeda and Japanese Holly also work well.

All these add up to interesting possibilities for your shady garden. Stop by and we will be glad to show them to you!

ance and higher interest rates. Mr. Blumenthal asserted that S&P was, in effect, implementing a secret tax on Main Street for the benefit of Wall Street. In 2011 S&P et al caved in and settled with the State of Connecticut coughing up a $900,000 credit for future bond ratings along with other remedies for its deceptive and unfair trade practices.

I was younger. I think a lot of us wish we had it when we were younger. On the other hand, It hurts the attention span. It's about ten seconds now. Other than that I love it. I use it every day.

WHAT IS THE CRAZIEST THING THAT EVER HAPPENED TO YOU AT A GIG? Well just recently at a metal 101 show we had this girl onstage that wouldn't get off. She was doing cartwheels and throwing shot glasses and yelling into the microphone. We didn't know what to do. I didn't want to be rude because she was having a good time.

FAVORITE BAND GROWING UP? There is only one. Iron Maiden

O.K THEN LET'S TALK MAIDEN. "HAL-LOWED BE THY NAME" OR "FEAR OF THE DARK"? "Hallowed be thy name". You know it's not even close. I am a big fan of all Maiden does. A band that after 30 years can continue to reinvent themselves, and yet stay with the realm of what they do, is amazing. Brilliant. And a band that still, after all this time, records live. Bruce Dickinson is my motivator for life. I have a saying. If I'm having a bad day I just say "What would Bruce Do?

HELLSPEAK2? Oh yeah. We have not even tried to shop the band yet. We just put it out there and wanted to see what people thought. The response was way more than I could have asked for. So now we will push it forward. More than likely, we might go and do a fundraiser thing to raise money for the next cd. Some people will say it's like begging but it's not. You're providing a product. Like pre-ordering a cd. So I don't think that fundraising is like begging. You will be part of it. There is nothing wrong with it and the band gets to stay true to itself.

IF YOU COULD SING WITH ANY OTHER BAND WHO WOULD IT BE? Helloween. All of it. I love the Michael Kiske version of Helloween, but the last 4 or 5 albums lately, have been fantastic.

ANY ADVICE TO ASPIRING MUSI-CIANS? Get a real job to survive. Get an education. Do something besides music. Play because you're passionate about it. You should always have a plan Aminus. I don't believe in plan B. That is what I recommend. There is no money to be made in music, it's an expensive hobby. I do Metal 101(metal tribute band) because I love the music but it also keeps my voice in top shape.

ANYTHING ON YOUR IPOD THAT MET-AL FANS MIGHT NOT EXPECT? One of my favorite non-metal bands is Muse. I like some of their stuff. I listen to so much different kinds of metal. I'm also a big fan of Barry Manilow.

ANYTHING YOU WANT TO SAY TO THE FANS? I can't thank them enough. I promise to stay true to what I do, and there will be tons more stuff. Without them I am nothing. Thank you.

MEET KATHY SANTOS: RIVERSIDE REALTOR WHO CAN SING. COOK OR BAKE

BY JOAN D. WARREN

Kathy Santos has been a realtor since 2009. She is married to Steve Santos, and they have two adult daughters, Stephanie Sivalingam and Sharon Santos Leonard. They are the proud grandparents of a twoyear-old, Allston, and 9-month-old, Maggie Jean. They have a sleeve Pekinese Nappy. Kathy was raised in Riverside and lives there today.

WHY REAL ESTATE AS A CAREER? "Actually, my youngest daughter and I decided we should take the classes because we wanted new careers. Naturally, we did this during the real estate crash. I renewed my license and continued, but my daughter left for something with a more predictable income. My husband said in time the market would improve, so not to worry. I do better financially every year."

WHAT DO YOU LIKE MOST ABOUT IT? "Meeting people. Helping them buy and sell, fulfilling their dreams.'

WHAT DO YOU LEAST LIKE ABOUT IT? "The financial unpredictability and the crazy long hours."

MEMORABLE REAL ESTATE STORY: "The funniest was hosting an open house when I was selling my parents' house. One of my mother's old friends came and told me lous meals she had there." ADVICE FOR FIRST TIME HOME-BUYERS: "Get pre-approved before you start searching for a house. It saves time. If your credit score isn't good, listen to your mortgage person and realtor, and it won't be long before you are ready to get a house.' HOBBIES: "Some my hobbies are singing. I have been in assorted church and community choirs over the last 30 years. I also like to cook and bake."

BEST VACATION EVER: "All my vacations are my best vacations. I enjoyed my trips to Punta Cana, Italy, singing with my church choir, or visiting friends and family throughout the country. I am visiting friends in France next year, and am going to Ireland to visit relatives the year after that."

IN THE KITCHEN: "My best culinary creations are my cookie dough cheesecake, sour cream coffee cake, and seafood dishes."

BEACH, LAKE OR POOL: "I love going to the beach when on vacation. I love the convenience of my pool, when at home."

SUMMER READ: "I am reading Janet Evonovich books now. They are fun mystery books, not heavy at all. My sister-in-law introduced me to them."

DESKTOP, LAPTOP OR TABLET? "I have a laptop. At some point I will get a tablet."

SUMMER PLANS? My summer plans are working, enjoying the pool, and going to Cape Cod with my kids and grandkids."

House of the Week

Tasteful B & B or single-family home in Bristol

LR: The living room features a brick fireplace and plenty of sunlight.

KITCHEN: The kitchen has been updated with granite countertops and stainless steel appliances.

EXTERIOR: This Cape Cod-style home has been home to the Bristol House Bed and Breakfast. The business is not for sale, but the home is.

BEDROOM: Each bedroom is accompanied by its own bathroom.

Lush landscaping surrounds this expanded Cape Cod-style home in the Bristol Highlands neighborhood. Currently used as a bed and breakfast, the home on the west side of town could easily be used as a singlefamily home.

Thoughtfully renovated, the property is on a 20,000-square-foot lot. The home has four bedrooms — with a first-floor master bedroom with bathroom en suite, and three other bedrooms on the second floor, each with a private bath.

A large entertaining space opens to a pergola-covered patio and a beautifully landscaped yard. The home has custom built-ins and crown moldings, with a lovely fireplace in the living room.

There are hardwoods throughout.

The atmosphere is bright, airy and sunfilled. The large kitchen has stainless steel appliances and granite countertops. Although the business is not for sale, new owners might choose to open their own business especially since it is set up for that especially since it is set up for that purpose.

The home, built in 1962, is located less than a half-mile to Narragansett Bay and the East Bay Bike Path. A short drive to downtown Bristol, enjoy shops, galleries and Bristol's many award winning restaurants. Newport & Providence are only 25 minutes away.

DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT (HUD)

You can finance a home with a loan from a bank, a savings and loan, a credit union, a private mortgage company, or various state government lenders. Shopping for a loan is like shopping for any other large purchase: you can save money if you take some time to look around for the best prices. Different companies can offer quite different interest rates and loan fees; and as you know, a lower interest rate can make a big difference in how much home you can afford. Talk with several companies before you decide.

CONSIDER EAST COAST FINANCIAL

WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING ABOUT EAST COAST FINANCIAL

"I have had the pleasure of working with Jeff numerous times and cannot say enough about his business ethic. Each time Jeff has treated my mortgage as if it were his own. Anyone interested in obtaining a mortgage should call Jeff. His rates are better than any, and his service is second to none. I have referred many friends and they have all been extremely happy." DENISE D. - WARREN, RI

"Jeff has assisted us with the sale and purchase of two homes. Jeff was able to lock in rates that were consistently lower than those offered by retail banks and competing mortgage brokers. However, it is Jeff's knowledge of the industry and his professional service that sets East Coast Financial apart. Jeff constantly goes above and beyond the normal expectations of a mortgage broker to ensure that his clients are educated and comfortable throughout the process. In an industry plagued with brokers who are either uneducated or out for the quick dollar, Jeff's honesty and genuine care for his clients are rare traits indeed. We've recommended many friends and family and would definitely work with Jeff again." JASON H. - WRENTHAM, MA

Loan rates based on $100,000 with 20% down payment & no PMI. Variable mortgages listed are for 30 years, adjusted annually. Points are a one-time charge equal to one percent of the mortgage. APR stands for annual percentage rate and reflects closing costs spread over the life of the loan. CAP is the most a variable mortgage can increase in one year. Savings and loans and Rhode Island loan and investment banks are included in the bank section of this chart. These rates, provided by the institutions on Monday of this week, are subject to change or special conditions. For more information, consumers are advised to call the institution. First-time homebuyers may qualify for lower-rate mortgages from the Rhode Island Housing and Mortgage Finance Corporation. Many credit unions only grant loans to members and limit membership to a defined group. When shopping for mortgage rates ask for explanation of closing costs. Financial institutions that write residential mortgages that wish to be included on this list can get in touch with Classified Real Estate Advertising Specialist at 401-253-1000
