Cemetery commission official wary of proposed charter changes

Member says question on ballot does not tell the whole story

BY JOSH BICKFORD

Questions have been raised about a question.

Members of the town's cemetery commission are concerned about one of the questions that will be listed on the upcoming election ballot.

The question — among the 40 that list proposed changes to the town's charter — asks voters "Shall the procedures for appointment to the commission of cemeteries and burial grounds be revised, and shall the commission be increased from three to five members?"

But Sally Small, a longtime member of the town's cemetery commission, said there is much more being decided when voters mark their ballot.

"It's hard enough to get three members. I'm not sure how you're going to get five."

CEMETERY COMMISSION MEMBER SALLY SMALL

Ms. Small said question number 43 will also decide whether members' terms will be increased from three to five years, and also extend power to the town manager for approval of commission expenditures.

Ms. Small said the commission's money is not the town's money and their funds are used to maintain and update cemeteries.

"The commission runs separate from the town," Ms. Small added.

The town charter as it appears now states that the cemetery commission has "the right to select all employees in their opinion, necessary for the proper care and maintenance of said cemeteries and burial grounds, and power to fix salaries of said employees."

Former town council member Jeff Brenner chaired the charter commission and said that many of the questions on the upcoming ballot are multi-layered, similar to the cemetery commission question. He suggested that voters ful-

It's a deli and a coffee shop that also sells wraps, soups and salads, but may be best known for the food in its name — Bagels Etc.

Tim Gorman's father opened the restaurant in 1989 and was not sure whether it would survive after the first couple of months, but it did, and has since flourished while withstanding challenges from a few chain restaurants.

Tim and his wife Amy bought the restaurant 14 years ago and have maintained their focus on offering delicious food while nurturing strong ties to the community.

Hanging along the far wall of Bagels Etc. are dozens of photographs of youth sports teams that Bagels Etc. has sponsored over the years.

"We're part of the community," said Mr. Gorman. "We're involved with BEE, Arts Alive. I coach (Little League) baseball and (Pop Warner) football... This is a family place."

Once inside Bagels Etc., customers have a variety of menu options. There are 18 different types of bagels — Mr. Gorman said his favorites are poppy seed and everything, but admits that plain bagels are the best-sellers.

"We've been consistent with the recipe over the years," he said, adding that when the shop first opened it offered 12 types of bagels.

There are also wraps and soups and salads, and there's a large chalkboard behind the counter that lists dozens of sandwich options. There's a full deli counter featuring Boar's Head meats, and Bagels Etc. also offers catering options.

Running a restaurant that focuses on morning and afternoon traffic — Bagels Etc. does not offer dinner — has presented Mr. Gorman with a unique work schedule. He's got to be at the store by about 3 or 3:30 a.m. most days, but starting work early means he is also able to free himself for coaching during the afternoon and early evenings.

"It does make for some long days though," he said with a smile.

As part of its 25-year celebration, Bagels Etc. is offering a free $25 gift card give-away each day for the month of October. Customers just need to stop by the restaurant and fill out the sheet for the drawing later that day.

"We'll post the winners on Instagram," Mr. Gorman added.

Hayrides, tattoos, a cake-walk and the Angry Birds launcher game were some of the attractions at this year's Sowams School Octoberfest on Saturday. There was also an obstacle course, nail and face-painting, tattoos, mystery bags, cookie decorating and the very popular cake-walk. A large crowd turned out for the event, which raises money for the school's PTO.

Children and adults crowded onto the school's campus for games, rides and refreshments.

A Barrington High School float rolls along during the half-time parade on Friday night.

BHS celebrates its homecoming

Barrington High School crowns its homecoming king and queen; football team rolls to 30-6 win

BY JOAN D. WARREN AND JOSH BICKFORD

barrington@eastbaynewspapers.com

More than 1,200 people crowded around Victory Field on Friday night, Oct. 17 and were treated to a fun homecoming celebration and a lopsided Barrington football victory.

The crowd — one of the largest at the high school this season and rivaling most Thanksgiving Day game turnouts — filled the parking lot with vehicles and spilled out onto nearby roads and fields.

Inside the gates there was plenty to do, as the school's Interact Club held an impressive homecoming fair. There were games and food booths, while other students handed out flyers for the upcoming performance of "Annie."

At half-time, Barrington High School students held their homecoming parade around Victory Field and celebrated its homecoming court.

Then the crowd waited as the king and queen were announced — Teddy Kurkoski and Charlotte Ruda. The two high school students appeared completely shocked as the crowd cheered.

"To be honest, I actually had no idea that I would be chosen as homecoming queen," said Charlotte. "I never pictured myself as that kind of person at the school and it is incredible that my peers saw me that way."

"If you had told me a year ago, even two weeks ago, that I would be homecoming queen, I would have thought you were crazy! I feel like I must have looked like such an idiot when I was crowned because my mouth just dropped. I was so surprised!"

"I'm also ecstatic that Teddy won king because he is such a genuinely nice and funny person and being crowned queen next to him is an honor in itself."

Teddy shared similar sentiments about the honor.

"I am extremely humbled and surprised. It really means a lot that my classmates chose me as homecoming king," he said.

A group of seniors were singing along to Miley Cyrus' "The Climb" before the parade began and were excited to be a part of the schools' tradition.

"This is great. It really has the small town feel with a lot of heart," said senior Corey Daugherty.

Jackie Florio, a senior, has strong ties and history to Barrington — her parents are both BHS graduates as are her two older brothers.

"I can't believe it's my turn. The friends I have are lifelong friends — we grew up together. This is a night I will never forget," she said.

Other members of the Class of 2015 homecoming court included Austin Angelo, Jake DeMarco, Jackie Florio, Bella Gagliano, Annie Iseron, Nick Jensen, Alex LaMotte, Quinn Morvillo, Elizabeth Sawyer, Jake Slye, Emily Sutherland and Kyle Wallick.

The Barrington football team capped the evening with a 30-6 victory over East Providence.

There are 40 proposed changes to charter

COMMISSION: Other changes not clear in cemetery question

'Tip of the iceberg'

A member of the town's cemetery commission is concerned about a proposed charter change question that will be included on the Nov. 4 ballot. She said the question only speaks to one of the three changes that would take place if people vote to approve.

■ What is states: "Shall the procedures for appointment to the commission of cemeteries and burial grounds be revised, and shall the commission be increased from three to five members?"

■ What could change: In addition to the number of members, the question also stands to change members' terms and extends power to the town manager for approval of commission expenditures.

terms are three-year, staggered, not five year

The following local questions will appear on the Nov. 4 ballot. They will be preceded by seven state questions, thus the numbers starting at 8.

8. Question: Shall the maximum period of imprisonment for ordinance violators be changed from one year to 30 days?

9. Shall the reference to the effect of state law be deleted?

10. Shall the charter incorporate the RI Code of Ethics?

11. Shall references to "electors" and "qualified electors" be replaced with references to "registered voters?"

12. Shall the committee on appropriations recommend compensation for town council members to the voters at the Financial Town Meeting (FTM)?

13. Shall the time period before which the town council or the town manager may designate an interim town manager to serve if the town manager is absent or unable to perform his or her duties be decreased from 35 to 21 days?

14. Shall the town council be required to meet nine times annually rather than once per month?

15. Shall the town clerk be required to post electronic copies of proposed ordinances, the proposed budget, and certain other documents on the town website?

16. Shall each ordinance other than an emergency ordinance be explained at the meeting at which it is introduced?

17. Shall the town council be permitted to waive the residency requirement for the town manager?

18. Shall certain town officials no longer be required to post bonds due to insurance coverage?

19. Shall the town manager no longer be required to automatically approve the school committee's budgets and revisions?

20. Shall the town council be permitted to reallocate unexpended balances to different line items within the budget?

21. Shall funds from the current year's appropriations which are deposited into a capital reserve account be considered an expenditure of the general fund within that fiscal year?

22. Shall the town manager no longer be required to include certain figures submitted by the school committee in his or her budget proposal to the town council and committee on appropriations?

23. Shall the deadline for the school committee to submit its proposed budget be changed from the second Thursday in March to the first Monday in March?

24. Shall the number of voters required for a quorum at a FTM be increased from 35 to 100?

25. Shall the duties of the town moderator be enunciated more clearly?

26. Shall the maximum fine for disorderly conduct at a FTM be increased from $20 to $100?

27. Shall a majority be required for action at FTM, except where otherwise provided in the charter?

28. Shall motions to increase or decrease appropriations at a FTM be limited to $50,000 or 20 percent of a particular line item, whichever is less?

29. Shall the procedure for nomination and election of members to the committee on appropriations be clarified and provide for staggered two-year terms?

30. Shall the committee on appropriations be required to submit the approved detailed budget to certain town officials after the annual FTM?

31. Shall certain powers and duties be transferred from the department of public works to the building official and building inspector?

32. Shall members of the school committee receive annual salaries as approved by the FTM?

33. Shall school committee meetings, except where in executive session, be open and accessible to the public?

34. Shall the deadline for the school committee to complete an annual performance review of the superintendent of schools be changed from March 1 to July 1?

35. Shall the school committee submit its budget directly to the committee on appropriations?

36. Shall the cost of maintenance of school buildings, grounds, and motor vehicles be based on the expenses incurred in the prior year?

37. Shall the "last in, first out" rule no longer apply for future reductions of the police force or fire department?

38. Shall emergency medical services be specified as among those services provided to the town's residents?

39. Shall members of the board of assessment review be appointed without regard to their partisan affiliation?

40. Shall the powers and duties of the board of assessment review be clarified by adding the term "alleged" to erroneous property valuations?

41. Shall the town council be required to issue requests for proposals for the town solicitor at least every five years commencing in Jan. 2015?

42. Shall the salaries appropriated at the annual FTM for the judge and clerk of the probate court be in lieu of all fees accruing to those officials?

43. Shall the procedures for appointment to the commission of cemeteries and burial grounds be revised, and shall the commission be increased from three to five members?

44. Shall the charter explicitly reference the RI Access to Public Records Act?

45. Shall the reference to prohibiting officers and employees from making or profiting from contracts with the town be stricken as redundant with the RI Code of Ethics?

46. Shall amendments to this charter become effective upon approval?

47. Shall various grammatical errors and archaic language throughout the charter be corrected and updated, and shall statutory and other references be added as necessary?

ly prepare themselves by reviewing the supporting information that accompanies each question.

Ms. Small questioned whether a public official — in this case, the town manager — should "take over" the endowed trust that had been established for local cemeteries more than 100 years ago.

Ms. Small also challenged whether the commission could recruit more members and for longer terms.

"It's hard enough to get three members. I'm not sure how you're going to get five," said Ms. Small, who has served on the commission since 1991. "We've got along fine with three members for 103 years and we could do it for 103 more."

As for the longer terms, Ms. Small said "Five year terms? How many people want to serve for five years?" Town officials said the

Healey preps for gubernatorial debate

Roger Williams University to host Oct. 28 event

One week before Rhode Islanders hit the polls on Election Day, East Bay voters will get a first-hand look at the candidates for governor.

Roger Williams University will host candidates Gina Raimondo, Allan Fung and Robert Healey to debate their platforms for governor ahead of the Nov. 4 election. WLNE ABC6 will broadcast the debate live on Tuesday, Oct. 28 at 7 p.m. from Roger Williams' Bristol campus.

ABC6 News Anchor John DeLuca will moderate the hour-long debate. Panelists will include ABC6 Chief Political Analyst Mark Curtis, WHJJ Radio talk show host Ron St. Pierre, and Robert Eisinger, dean of the Feinstein College of Arts and Sciences at Roger Williams.

Roger Williams students and faculty and members of the general public are welcome to attend the debate in the Campus Recreation Center, 1 Old Ferry Road. Tickets are free, but advance registration is required for all attendees, who will also be required to arrive and check in at least a half-hour ahead of time. Doors open at 5:45 p.m. and will close at 6:30 p.m. to allow all attendees to be seated before the debate and broadcast begins at 7. To register in advance, visit www.rwu.edu/debate2014.

The debate was postponed from its original date in early September. Those who reserved tickets for the original debate must do so again to be admitted Tuesday, according to a Roger Williams release.

All arriving for the debate Tuesday must have a printed receipt and a matching photo ID. No one will be allowed in after 6:30 p.m. and there is no re-entry for anyone who leaves after checking in.

The following items are prohibited at the debate:

- Signs of any kind.
- Advertising for candidates in any form.
- Outside food or drinks.
- Backpacks. Small purses will be allowed.

Ideas offered for town-owned land

Friends of Nockum Hill call for some of the land to be farmed

BY JOSH BICKFORD

jbickford@eastbaynewspapers.com

What would you do with town-owned land on George Street?

That's the question residents and officials mulled over during a workshop on Wednesday night, Oct. 8, at the town hall, and it appears there may be a push to split up the parcel.

The residents group Friends of Nockum Hill offered a proposal calling for town officials to sell off a one-acre lot that contains a house on the property, and lease the remaining portion of the land to Four Town Farm. The group also wants re-zone all of the land to agriculture.

"I have already spoken to Chris Clegg, owner of Four Town Farms," wrote Jason Lawrence, a member of the Friends of Nockum Hill, in the proposal. "The farm is willing to lease the remaining 1.8 acres, under the current terms of their existing lease agreement with the town."

Council president June Speakman said the council will discuss the proposal when it meets in December. In the meantime, the proposal will be forwarded to other town boards and commissions for review. (Ms. Speakman said the council is trying to keep the November meeting agenda, in light of the fact that the meeting falls just after election day and the town clerk will be very busy with that work.)

Back in 2010, the town and the cemetery commission paired up to purchase the property at 139 George St.

Officials planned to divvy up the land — some of it would be used for a new cemetery while the remainder had been eyed for an affordable housing development.

That remained the case until recently when residents raised concerns about Nockum Hill and another development that had been planned. Called Residences at the Preserve, the project was denied approvals by the planning board but received a green light from the State Housing Appeals Board. Most recently the town filed a challenge in court to stop the development.

With the town fighting against one affordable housing project on George Street, officials and residents began questioning the appropriateness of a second development — one that would be town-sponsored.

In early June, the council followed the recommendation of the housing board and the sentiment of residents and voted unanimously to remove the land at 139 George St. from consideration for future affordable housing developments. (A portion of land is still owned by the cemetery commission.)

At the workshop on Wednesday night, Oct. 8, Mr. Lawrence addressed the council and offered his group's proposal. The Friends of Nockum Hill also called on the council to pay back the money it had taken from the Spencer Trust account to purchase the land.

"Money from the sale of this single family home on the one acre lot will be used to pay back the Spencer Trust Fund," stated the proposal.

Ms. Speakman said the council will, during its December meeting, make a decision on reimbursing the Spencer Trust account. She estimated the reimbursement figure at $275,000.

As far as the zoning switch, the Friends of Nockum Hill are calling for a different designation for the property.

"We would like George Street to become a Farm Conservation district, similar to the plan that the town of Warren has adopted," stated the proposal.

Council challenges St. Andrew's tax status

Bill DeWitt calls for legislative change to school's exemption

BY JOSH BICKFORD
jbickford@eastbaynewspapers.com

A member of the Barrington Town Council wants local lawmakers to write up legislation that would eliminate a special tax exemption for St. Andrew's School.

Bill DeWitt, whose term expires this year and who is not seeking re-election, made a motion at the Oct. 6 council meeting that targets the Barrington private school.

St. Andrew's School has a special charter that was granted by the state back in 1950 exempting the institution from paying property taxes. It is that charter that Mr. DeWitt said he would like local legislators to address.

In earlier discussions, Mr. DeWitt had proposed negotiating a payment in lieu of taxes agreement with school officials; the council and town manager also toured the private school last spring. But talk of a PILOT deal quieted when town officials discovered St. Andrew's School held the special exemption.

At the Oct. 6 council meeting, Mr. DeWitt revisited the topic and eventually made a motion to direct local lawmakers to write up legislation that would eliminate the school's special exemption. Ann Strong seconded the motion and the council showed its support with a 5-0 vote.

During the meeting, council president June Speakman spoke about potential "push-back" from St. Andrew's, which, she said, may feel like it is being picked on.

Mr. DeWitt defended his motion, adding that the reason the school is the focus of this attention is that it is the only institution that holds the special exemption.

Children are encouraged to wear their costumes, entrance into the event is $3 per person and all proceeds from the event benefit the Primrose Hill School PTO.

Resident pleads guilty to wire fraud

Warren Hebert faces up to 20 years in prison, $250,000 in fines

Barrington resident Warren Hebert, the owner of Checkmaster Payroll Services on Maple Avenue, pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court in Providence on Monday, Oct. 20, to defrauding seven businesses and the Seekonk, Mass. Water District of more than $1.2 million in federal payroll taxes that were to have been paid to the IRS.

Mr. Hebert, 67, reportedly admitted to the court that he failed to pay to the IRS approximately $1,266,680 in funds he withdrew from client accounts to pay the clients' federal employment taxes. He allegedly admitted that he diverted the funds for his own use, in some instances paying the additional tax liabilities, interest and penalties of other clients whose tax returns he had previously failed to accurately prepare, file and pay-over.

According to prosecutors, Mr. Hebert admitted to the court that beginning as early as April 2009 and continuing through at least Oct. 2011, he diverted money from at least seven businesses operating in Rhode Island and Massachusetts, including Red Brick Nursery School on Middle Highway. Other victims included a moving and storage company, a jewelry packaging company, and a marketing and communications company. Mr. Hebert also admitted to diverting funds from the Seekonk, Mass. Water District, a municipal water agency.

Mr. Hebert, a Lincoln Avenue resident, appeared before U.S. District Court Chief Judge

William E. Smith, and pleaded guilty to eight counts of wire fraud and one count of impeding the administration of the Internal Revenue Code. He is scheduled to be sentenced on Jan. 9, 2015.

Wire fraud is punishable by a statutory penalty of up to 20 years in federal prison and a fine of up to $250,000. Impeding the administration of the Internal Revenue Code is punishable by a statutory penalty of up to 3 years in federal prison and a fine of up to $250,000.

The case is being prosecuted by Assistant U.S. Attorney John P. McAdams. The matter was investigated by IRS Criminal Investigation, with the assistance of the FBI, Rhode Island FDA Task Force, Rhode Island State Police and Barrington Police.

Fun church potluck on Friday night includes silent auction, awards

Mark your calendars and get ready for food and fun on Friday, Oct. 24, from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. — that's when the Barrington Presbyterian Church will host a potluck dinner and fund-raiser. The evening will include appetizers, main dishes and desserts. There will be voting for the best dishes in each of those categories with trophies awarded to the winners. Included in the evening activities will be a silent auction which will include a variety of gift baskets and gift certificates. Since this is a fund-raiser for the church, all who come are asked purchase a dinner ticket for at least $5 per person or for any amount up to $20 per person or family. Anyone interested in bringing his or her best dish for the competition or purchasing tickets in advance should email Linda Davis at lindadee.davis@gmail.com.

CANDIDATE STATEMENTS

A win for voters in this election

Collaboration is an important first step to addressing the challenges facing Rhode Island. Respect for one another's ideas and interests gives us all a better understanding to how we can best accomplish a task at hand.

Whether it's striving to eliminate the car tax, fighting for the statewide school construction moratorium to be lifted, seeking change to the affordable housing law, or developing a responsible budget, there is one guarantee — it must be done in a collaborative effort.

Being accessible and keeping an open dialogue with constituents and colleagues alike is important. Residents of Bristol, Barrington and East Providence should expect honesty, integrity and accountability from their representatives in state government — individuals who can reach across the aisle in a bipartisan manner to get the job done.

This is not Washington, DC. Let's use our small geographic size to our advantage by partnering with businesses and educational institutions to promote new business and, our greatest asset, our natural resources.

As your next state senator, you can be guaranteed all of the above and the winner in this election will be you, the voter.

Cindy Coyne
8 Newbrook Drive

Ms. Coyne is a Democrat running for RI Senate, District 32 seat.

Rhode Island is a diamond in the rough

Rhode Island was once an economic powerhouse and a world leader in industry, education, and trade. Today we struggle, but I believe firmly that we are a diamond in the rough.

Whether it's our outdated infrastructure, our flawed political system, or our punitive taxes, our challenges are all fixable. What defines Rhode Island — our history, our proud immigrant culture, Narragansett Bay and our other our natural resources — cannot be taken away from us.

My priorities are to fix what needs fixing so that our assets can shine. If elected I will advocate for 1) elimination of the car tax, 2) conservation and protection of our environment and open spaces, 3) economic development policies that help all businesses, not just insiders like 38 Studio, and 4) funding for school infrastructure so that our students and educators have safe, clean, and effective places to teach and learn.

These are practical and achievable goals, and with your support on Nov. 4 I will be able to do my part to move us forward and return Rhode Island to our rightful place as a national and world leader. We are a diamond in the rough, and we can and should shine again.

Giovanni Cicione

Wood Avenue extension will help town

There is too much traffic in our village center on County Road, and it will only increase if Warren's American Tourister building is developed into condominiums.

Among the other negative effects, traffic can create a disincentive to shop in our village center. Residents in West Barrington, Roberta Platt, Primrose or Zion, may choose the Riverside or Seekonk stores rather than battle the traffic on County Road, and many do.

There is a solution: We can extend Wood Avenue directly into the Shaw's parking lot allowing people to enter and exit that center while avoiding traffic on County Road. Wood Avenue runs behind Santander Bank and Dunkin Donuts and the extension would run roughly parallel to the side entrance to Rite Aid Pharmacy.

This entrance would allow many to buy groceries, have a coffee or visit the shops without using County Road, reducing traffic there while increasing foot traffic in the shops. It will also create another path for emergency vehicles.

Creating an additional entrance for emergency vehicles in case County Road is bottled up makes our town safer. Improving business by making it easier for customers to visit local shops is good for Barrington in general.

Michael Carroll

Mr. Carroll is a Democrat running for Barrington Town Council.

Residents' interests will come first

I am running for town council to protect and preserve the same opportunities that living and working in Barrington have provided my family and me.

I will ensure that our schools have the resources to continue to thrive and excel. I will work to change state and local affordable housing laws to protect taxpayers and preserve the character of the town.

I will explore ways to better serve our growing senior population, and ensure that the Spencer Trust provides maximum benefit to needy residents.

I will promote continued cooperation among the town council, school committee, and appropriations committee to ensure that we can continue to invest in our community.

I will work to build on the planned improvements to the business district by exploring ways to promote and support local business. I will approach each issue with common sense and an open mind, and I will always put the interests of Barrington residents and taxpayers first.

Steve Primiano
15 Driscoll Lane

Middle school project taking center stage

The conversation about the Barrington Middle School facilities status is not new to our community. The Barrington School Committee and Barrington Public Schools are faced with the impact of an extended moratorium on school construction at a time when we need to address the BMS plan.

In Sept. 2012, the Rhode Island Board of Regents approved the Stage II application for Immediate Health and Safety Needs; Phase One of that process was just completed in late August.

In Oct. 2012, the school committee confirmed the building committee recommendation for consideration of the following two options in the district application to the Rhode Island Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (RIDE): complete (gut) renovation with an addition or new construction. The building committee is charged to provide advisory recommendations to the school committee and all recommendations developed by the building committee will lead to the creation of a 21st century learning environment that supports the district's strategic goals.

It is imperative to have a strong communication structure to inform and engage our communi-

QUESTIONS OF THE WEEK

Town council

Question: Tell the readers what sets you apart from the other candidates. Why should they cast their vote for you?

Michael Carroll (D)

"If elected, I will provide thoughtful leadership. That means understanding the issues and laws that impact our town, while finding solutions to improve efficiency and lower costs. I'll work with my fellow councilors and make decisions in the best interests of the entire town for today and for the future."

Don Nessing (R)

"If elected to the Barrington Town Council my focus will be to preserve the natural strengths of the town: suburban community; quality schools; safe streets; clean environment; excellent recreational and leisure opportunities; pastoral and beautiful! On these matters, I know that Steve Primiano and I are in complete agreement."

Bill Layton (D)

"With a collaborative and entrepreneurial spirit I will work hard for the residents and businesses of Barrington to ensure that our town continues to provide high quality services at reasonable costs, leverage state and market incentives to decrease energy costs, and maintain a range of housing and business opportunities."

Steve Primiano (R)

"If elected Don Nessing and I will provide a fresh common sense approach to issues like affordable housing, the Spencer Trust, and managing our resources to ensure that we can continue to invest in our schools and community. We will always make doing what is best for Barrington residents our priority."

School committee

Question: Tell the readers what sets you apart from the other candidates. Why should they cast their vote for you?

Kate Brody (D)

"I was a strong advocate for the best interests of all students in the Barrington Public Schools for 16 years prior to my election (2010.) I'm passionate about excellence in public education. I believe that research based best practice drives the continuous improvement process in a world class education system."

John Alessandro (R)

"I am seeking a place on the school committee in order to continue the amazing efforts of the members who have served already. Education is the foundation of our society. I believe my 20 years experience in working with educators will help me to improve our children's education for the future."

RI General Assembly

Question: Tell the readers what sets you apart from the other candidates. Why should they cast their vote for you?

House of Representatives, District 66 seat

Joel Hellmann (I)

"The general assembly is a place that resists change. What Barrington needs is someone who is not afraid to raise holy Hell when something is corrupt. Someone who is not afraid to stand alone if he feels he is right. And most important someone who will come back to you and tell you what is really going on. If you want someone to change things, then vote for me on Nov. 4."

Joy Hearn (D)

"Honesty, integrity and successful experience is what I would bring to the state-house if re-elected. Through my constituent nights and community forums I have made myself accessible to constituents and with my cooperative style I've had many legislative accomplishments. If re-elected I will continue to vote my conscience."

Senate, District 32 seat

Giovanni Cicione (R)

"Despite the reputation of the general assembly, most candidates are sincerely well intentioned. Many, however, simply add their votes to a body that has failed Rhode Island. If elected, I would work — respectfully and effectively — against that grain and effect concrete changes to put our fine state back on track."

Cindy Coyne (D)

"Throughout my career with the Rhode Island State Police, and as a member of the Barrington Town Council, I have demonstrated the honesty and integrity that the voters of District 32 deserve. My proven record of leadership and collaboration should give voters confidence that I will put their interests first."

CANDIDATE STATEMENTS

Eliminate master lever

What has kept Rhode Island a one party state for so long? The master lever, which allows lazy voters to fill in one line and never even have to look at the names of the other candidates.

In a dramatic unexpected turn of events, after 40 years of pushing to have the master lever eliminated, the assembly actually allowed the master lever elimination to come to a vote.

And the master lever was eliminated! By unanimous vote no less! This was truly a vote for democracy! With one vote, the general assembly gave us back democracy!

Then of course the Senate took democracy away again.

In Rhode Island, as usual, democracy loses again.

But you can take it back again. Don't fill in the master lever! Look at the names of everyone you vote for. The master lever is eliminated if everyone chooses not to use it. You are hiring people for a job. Make sure you know who it is that will be working for you. I ask for your vote. But if you don't choose to vote for me, vote for democracy and read the names of everyone you vote for.

Be prepared for 'Barrington 40'

It might be a good idea to carve out a few extra minutes when you head to the voting booth this year. In Barrington, voters will be asked to mark their ballots for candidates in the town council, school committee and general assembly races. And they will also face seven state questions and 40 local queries.

That's right — 40.

The questions are all proposed changes to the town's charter and are the result of a lengthy (and very public) process that included meetings of the charter review committee and open workshops. Still, election workers are preparing themselves for some long lines this Nov. 4.

In an effort to keep things moving along, we suggest voters take a look at the local questions (see page 5) and the supporting information (which can be found online at barrington.ri.gov).

It's also worth noting that most of the questions appear to be "house-keeping" changes — such as number 11, which asks "Shall references to electors and qualified electors be replaced with references to registered voters?"

Other questions may force voters to pause a bit longer.

Number 43 has already wreaked havoc with members of the town's cemetery commission (see story on page 1) who called the question "deceitful." Charter officials counter, stating that many of the questions listed on the ballot are multi-layered.

While we can appreciate the town council and charter commission recommending yes votes on all the questions (see June Speakman's letter on the bottom of this page), we think voters should do themselves a favor and take a closer look at what is being asked.

Mark a "cheat sheet" if you'd like and copy off it when you head to the polls, or just slow down and take your time once you've got the ballot in front of you. And above all, try to be patient if the lines are a little longer than usual.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letter writer misstated my position

To the editor:

I was surprised to see Gary Morse's letter in which he misstated my position and misunderstood the Spencer Trust.

To be clear, the Trust is not taxpayer money, it is a gift given by Wilton Spencer 80 years ago to help those in need in our town.

I don't support the use of Spencer Trust funds to build new homes.

I do however support the use of those funds to help our neighbors who are struggling to stay in their homes by funding necessary repairs, like a new roof.

I also believe that, in using those funds that way, we can get credit with the state toward the state law's 10 percent goal under the Affordable Housing act. That belief is based on my reading of the law and my conversations with Rhode Island Housing.

The more progress we make toward the State's goal, the sooner we can reduce the unequal power private developers have over our town.

I should also correct Mr. Morse's misunderstanding of the Spencer Trust. He has written that the words "affordable housing" don't appear in the Trust. They do; in Article III, page 3 of the Spencer Trust By-Laws, which lists appropriate uses including "affordable housing, house repairs."

Finally, I reject Mr. Morse's contention that not one penny of the Spencer Trust funds should be used to keep our struggling neighbors in their homes. Among the basic needs of the poor and unfortunate is shelter, and I believe that providing for that need is a very appropriate use of Wilton Spencer's generous gift.

Giovanni Cicione deserves your vote

To the editor:

It has been an honor to serve you for the past 22 years as a member of the Rhode Island State Senate, representing District 32. As you may know I have decided to step down from my position and am pleased to endorse Giovanni Cicione as the Republican candidate to succeed me.

I have known Gio for quite some time, ever since he was a young attorney advocating for pro-jobs legislation at the statehouse. For the past 20 years he has been an active voice in the East Bay and across the state for ethics reform, job creation, and tax relief.

Gio has four children, runs two small businesses, and still finds time for community service. He has a deep understanding of local and state government and the experience needed to make a meaningful difference in the general assembly.

He is a long-time supporter of environmental causes, having served for close to 10 years on the board of the Rhode Island Chapter of the Nature Conservancy, and leading early state efforts on brownfields redevelopment and historic revitalization. Gio has been an active leader in Scouting and a strong advocate for creating opportunities for getting children from all around the state to experience the great outdoors. Most importantly, he has never been afraid to take on a fight if he knew it was the right thing to do.

Without significant reforms in the general assembly, controls on spending and borrowing, and an end to the rampant cronyism that leads to rotten deals like 38 Studios, the bright future we deserve will be unlikely.

I would be proud to see the seat I held for the last two decades in the hands of someone who shares my values, my vision, and what I hope has been a rational and reasonable approach to serving you, my constituents.

Please join me with a vote for Giovanni Cicione for Senate District 32 this Nov. 4.

Vote 'Yes' on questions 8 through 47

To the editor:

Dear fellow Barrington voters: On the Nov. 4 ballot, questions 8 through 47 ask voters to consider changes to Barrington's charter. These changes are result of a year-long examination of the charter by a group of citizen volunteers who comprise the Charter Review Commission. The commission

See FACING PAGE

LETTER: Council, charter comm. say vote yesFrom FACING PAGE

met over a dozen times at public meetings to review the existing charter and recommend various changes. The town council conducted two public hearings last June to discuss the commission's recommendations and hear public comment. The council also hosted a workshop on the changes in early October. There has not been any publicly expressed opposition to any of the proposed changes.

The charter commission recommends approval of the changes, as does the town council. A document containing the proposed changes with explanations is on the town website at <http://www.barrington.ri.gov>

You may also print out a sample ballot (also on the town website), or pick one up at town hall, the senior center or the library. To save time at the polls on Election Day, you may bring that sample ballot with you into the voting booth.

Again, the charter commission and the town council both recommend YES votes on questions 8-47.

Nockum Hill: This Town Council wants to turn a swan into an ugly duckling.

Nockum Hill is Barrington's most endangered, agricultural, ecological and historic area. But to this Town Council it is one of the greatest opportunities for affordable housing. For years Barrington officials were quietly using the Spencer Trust to plan an affordable housing development on this special piece of land.

Barrington already has affordable housing as 20% of the homes meet the affordable housing threshold. The Town Council must be more transparent regarding their vision for affordable housing. Barrington taxpayers have no idea what this town Council's "vision" is going to cost. This Town Council's intent to reshape Barrington via a self imposed ordinance will needlessly cost taxpayers a number that has not been shared. This is why local ordinance 185-192 MUST be repealed.

This Town Council's efforts to reshape Barrington is at the expense of projects that the town desperately needs. These tax dollars would be much better spent on the construction of a new Middle School instead of providing tax breaks to developers.

Barrington needs leadership that is responsive to the needs of its citizens as its highest priority.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sowams Octoberfest was a big success

To the editor:

The annual Sowams School Octoberfest was held on Saturday, Oct. 18 and even a little rain in the middle of the day didn't slow it down!

There was a tremendous amount to do this year. Families played games, watched exciting demonstrations, jumped in the bounce houses, launched catapults, fired Angry Birds, flew around on hovercrafts and outbid each other at the silent auction.

Pizza and chowder and soup made for great lunch! Thank you to the scouts of Pack Two Barrington for running catapults for the entire day and to the Bayside YMCA and Jason Piette for supplying the music and sound system for the day.

A great deal of preparation goes into running a successful event and it requires scores of volunteers to run smoothly. A sincere thank you to all who made Octoberfest such a huge success! A special thanks goes to the committee chairs for their hard work and dedication: Jen Gill, Liz Lanik, Leslie Saylor, Maria Wah-Fitta, Emily Lefebvre, Karen Igoe, Amy Greene, Keri Fisher, Kate White, Carla Martin, Mindy White, Cynthia Affronti, and Nicole Jellinek.

I would like to thank Sowams principal Jim Callahan and the teachers of Sowams school, the executive board of the PTO, copresidents, Amanda Hope and Amy Boyes, treasurer Natalie Leonard and secretary Kate White; and custodians Saul, Marty and Chuck for their awesome efforts preparing for the festival and all the work done that day.

I would like to thank all the volunteers from the community, including the Interact group, Barrington High School National Honor Society and St. Luke's Confirmation class students.

Lastly, thank you to the parents and family members who donated their time that day, baked treats, created class baskets, built new attractions and contributed items to the silent auction. Thank you to everyone who supported us in fund-raising efforts for our school. Your contributions made it happen!

OTHER VOICES

'Novelizations of non-existent movies'

Early this summer the Providence-based action writer, Jon Land, gave me an advance proof of his most recent novel, "Strong Darkness," to be published by Forge this month; the book is the sixth in the Caitlin Strong series.

Though the plots vary wildly from one book to the other, the cast of characters remains the same: Caitlin Strong, the brash 40-ish Texas Ranger, her lover, Cort Wesley Masters, his teenage sons, Dylan and Luke, Guillermo Paz, the 7-foot-tall "force of nature," as well as the ghost of the old man Leroy Epps.

I have read approximately 10 of Land's 35 or so novels, and have become increasingly impressed with the power of his imagination, his ability to create so many complex narratives that jump back and forth both in time and place.

In "Strong Darkness," for example, the plot unfolding in our contemporary world keeps bouncing off an adventure that takes place in 1883, starring the fictional Texas Ranger William Ray Strong, Caitlin's great-grandfather, along with the historical Judge Roy Bean. While much of the action occurs in South Texas, a significant element of the story — to the delight of local readers — plays out in Rhode Island's capital city of Providence. In addition to his narrative inventiveness, Land has an exquisite sense of timing; to build suspense, he is able to judge just how much his readers need to know and when they need to know it.

In order to learn more about Land's views on the craft of writing, I set up a face-to-face interview with him this past July 22. When I suggested that his work reveals a strong cinematic element, especially in his use of crosscutting, the rapid fire interweaving of two or more scenes, the author concurred: "My books are novelizations of non-existent movies."

Given the influence of cinema on his work, it is no accident that Land frequently emphasizes the lighting in a particular scene in order to dramatize the developing story. Thus, in "Strong Darkness" Land writes: "Cort Wesley had already drawn the shades and left only a single lamp on, angled so it caught Maren's face, making the bronze tone look as if it could be peeled off like a Band Aid."

I asked Land how time after time he manages to get all the jigsaw puzzle pieces scattered about the 350 pages of one of his novels to come together at the very end to form a compelling and coherent picture.

"The connective tissue has to be organic," he began and went on to explain that his characters become his muse; they tell him what they intend to do, and he trusts them to lead him in the right direction. Remarkable! Land's characters figure out the plot for him!

When Land lets his characters be themselves, the result can be a bit confusing. This is especially true in the case of "old man" Leroy Epps. Land keeps his readers guessing as to whether Epps is a real person or a figment of Cort Wesley's imagination. Cort Wesley "[j]ust accepted the fact of his presence and (was) grateful that Leroy kept coming around to help him out of one scrape after the other."

In a scene in "Strong Darkness" at Providence's Rhode Island Hospital, Land continues to foster a certain deliberate ambiguity regarding Epps. The ghost/not ghost Epps apparently drinks a bottle of "Authentic Hines Root Beer with sassafras" and leaves it drained on the window sill of the patient's room. When I asked Land how the reader is to interpret the empty bottle, Land explained rather evasively that his characters "stretch the borders of their own reality — the border of the world as they perceive it to be."

Land is well aware that in writing a number of books with the same characters, as in his current Caitlin Strong series, he faces the problem of introducing the major players to his new readers without leaving readers of his previous books with the disturbing sense of "I've heard this already;" that is to say, Land must find a way to engage his readers with characters who reappear in novel after novel. To address this issue, the author creates men and women who are constantly struggling with their ever changing emotions; their ongoing emotional conflicts keep the readers caring.

As our discussion drew to a close, Land summarized his sense of himself as a novelist: "I am a story teller. The writer can never be bigger than his story. The story is everything." To experience just how good a story teller Jon Land is, be sure to read his most recent Caitlin Strong thriller, "Strong Darkness."

Car rolls into the river

A Barrington resident's car rolled into the Barrington River at about 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 16. According to police the resident had stopped her vehicle along New Meadow Road after a tree had fallen across the roadway. She had reportedly exited her car — other cars were stopped in the same area — when the vehicle began rolling toward the edge of the river. A passenger in the vehicle was able to exit the car before it rolled down a four-foot bank and into about a foot of water. A bystander later helped retrieve a dog that had been inside the car during the incident.

POLICE REPORT

Police: Mailman yells at bicyclist

Tuesday, Oct. 14

An officer responded to Bay Spring Avenue at about 9:30 a.m. for a dispute between a mailman and a bicyclist. According to the report, the mailman yelled at the bicyclist while passing him on Lincoln Avenue. The mailman said the cyclist had rigged his bike with a foam noodle that sticks out into the roadway and forced him to pull into the oncoming lane of traffic while passing the biker. While being questioned by police, the bicyclist refused to give any personal information. He eventually relented. No one was charged.

A Hilltop Avenue resident told police that he received a letter from a collection company claiming that he owed hundreds of dollars for a television account in Florida. He said he never owned a home in Florida and had no knowledge of the account.

Police responded to a West Street residence for a dispute between a moving company and two residents. The residents claimed that the moving company had done a sloppy job moving them and refused to pay for the service. The moving company said the residents had been verbally abusive and needed to pay for the work. The parties agreed to resolve the issue.

A Whipple Avenue resident called 911 after he realized someone stole a truck battery from his property. The man said the battery had been stored near his garage; he was planning to return the old battery in order to get money back. He said a white pickup truck with a white box in the back may have been involved in the theft.

A Lamson Road resident and her sister, who also lives in town, were allegedly robbed by a cleaning lady. The Lamson Road resident told police that she had been contacted by Mass. State Police who had arrested the cleaning lady and found items — rings and Euros with a total worth of more than $1,500 — belonging to the Lamson Road resident's sister in her possession.

Police received a phone call about a fight in progress in the area of Bay Spring Avenue and Narragansett Avenue. Officers responded and located a 39 year-old woman and her 11 year-old daughter arguing. The woman said her daughter had not been following the rules of the home and needed to do so. No one was charged.

Wednesday, Oct. 15

A Lamson Road resident stopped into the station to report a banking law violation. The woman said she believed her daughter's boyfriend had stolen a check and was using it to pay a personal account. The suspect is a 36 year-old East Providence resident.

Dead dog washes up on Barrington Beach

A woman walking along Barrington Beach on Friday afternoon, Oct. 17, at about 1 p.m., spotted a dead dog floating in the water just off the shoreline. According to Barrington police, the woman waded into the shallow water and pulled the dog onto the beach. The dog, a female chocolate labrador retriever, was wearing a pink collar. It was not clear whether there was a tag attached to the collar. The woman called police who retrieved the dead dog and brought it to the East Providence Animal Shelter. Officials said they were checking databases to see if the dog had been reported missing.

Police were called to the parking lot in front of Barrington Pediatric at about 4 p.m. for an altercation between an older woman and young man. When officers arrived the woman began calling them for help, adding that she could no longer restrain the man. Officers helped restrain the subject. The woman turned out to be the mother of the man, who was 21 years old and autistic.

Thursday, Oct. 16

A resident called police after his 2009 Audi was damaged when he struck a pothole on Nayatt Road.

A Manor Road resident called police after she noticed someone was using a Dumpster on her property for their own trash. The woman said she was having some work done to her home and had ordered the Dumpster. She said she began noticing trash from someplace else landing in the receptacle. She said she even put a sign on the Dumpster stating that it was a private Dumpster and not for public use, but someone tossed the sign in the Dumpster. Police are still investigating.

Police charged Robert M. Kreft, 45, of 306 Rumstick Road, with domestic assault by strangulation and domestic-simple assault/battery, after officers responded to that address for a 911 call. Police said the victim's daughter had called 911 and told a dispatcher that her father was strangling her mother.

Friday, Oct. 17

Police responded to an Anchorage Way residence after a neighbor filed a barking dog complaint at about 3 p.m. According to the report, the officer could hear the dog barking toward the rear of the property. The officer knocked on the door and later spoke with the homeowner's son. Police said the dog's owner has been cited numerous times in the past for the problem. The officer issued a summons to the dog's owner.

A woman called police after she stopped by the middle school to pick up her son and daughter, who are both students there, but could not locate her son. Police spoke with school officials and others at the school and eventually found the 12 year-old boy at a friend's house on Allen Avenue.

A resident called 911 after a small terrier attacked his boxer. Police responded and spoke to the boxer's owner, who said his dog was on a leash when a neighbor's terrier ran up to it and bit it on the leg. The owner of the terrier disagreed with that account; she said her dog was just trying to play and never made contact with the other dog. According to police, there was a puncture wound on one of the boxer's rear legs.

Saturday, Oct. 18

A Nayatt Road resident called 911 after he grew concerned about a verbal argument he was having with his wife. Police said the man called and said he felt his wife was being abusive. He later said his wife had calmed down and that there was no physical confrontation between the two. No one was charged.

Sunday, Oct. 19

A Bay Road resident called police to report a suspicious vehicle in the neighborhood. Police checked it out and found that the motorist was waiting to pick someone up.

Monday, Oct. 20

Police issued a summons to 15 year-old Barrington girl for truancy — the ninth-grader has reportedly missed 15 days of school and a total of 104 classes.

Eagles capitalize on Townies' errors, win big

Barrington travels to Cranston West this Friday

BY NICK FRIEND
Special to The Times

On Homecoming Night at Victory Field the home team did not disappoint. Backed all evening by a large and energetic crowd, the host Barrington High Eagles beat the East Providence Townies by a final score of 30-6 in a Division I football contest Friday, Oct. 17.

The Eagles pleased their fans from the very beginning as Barrington scored its first touchdown just five minutes into the game. Barrington made the score 13-0 when Eagles senior Jake Slye faked a field goal and found senior receiver Andrew Blau in the end zone. Jake Bonney added the extra point conversion and the Eagles led 14-0.

East Providence's offense struggled during the first half finishing with just 15 offensive snaps. The Eagles added on a field goal with just seconds left in the half to give them a 17-0 lead.

Barrington continued to roll in the second half adding two more touchdowns, both by running the football. The Townies scored their lone touchdown with just a minute left in the third quarter. However, E.P.'s offense continued to struggle to move the ball while Barrington didn't. E.P. also had two costly turnovers in the game which was one of many reasons the Eagles were able to score three rushing touchdowns.

"Today we were able to break a couple of tackles," Barrington head Coach Bill McCagney said. "We were able to wear them down inside."

The Eagles came out running the ball on their first drive of the night, but the march came to a halt forcing them to punt. Then, on the Townies' first offensive play they fumbled and it was recovered by a host of Eagles giving them the ball at E.P.'s 13. Just a couple plays later Barrington captain Jake Gelsomino ran it in for a five-yard touchdown to give the Eagles the early 7-0 lead.

E.P. then went three-and-out on offense giving Barrington the ball at midfield. Barrington senior quarterback Jake DeMarco led his team down the field with two key third down passes. The drive then came to a stop and it looked like the Eagles would attempt a short field goal. However, Barrington used a fake field goal, a pass from Jake Slye to Andrew Blau, that helped up the Eagles' lead to 14-0.

The Townies' offense went three-and-out for the second straight drive forcing them to punt the ball. Then, E.P.'s Jayden Chase intercepted a pass giving E.P. great field position with the ball at Barrington's 45 yard-line.

The Townies, however, couldn't capitalize as they fumbled it back to the Eagles. It was recovered by Barrington's Daniel Perry. This was the second of two fumbles for E.P. errors head coach Jay Monteiro said has hurt them all year long.

"Every week we are struggling with the mistakes," he said. "It is frustrating to me why we go over this every week and I don't understand why it keeps happening."

After the fumble Barrington put together its longest drive of the night starting at its own 19. The Eagles continued to drive the ball down the field until a false start forced them to attempt a 25-yard field goal. Seconds later the field goal was made by Jake Bonney that put the Eagles up 17-0 at the half. Bonney previously booted a pair of point-after kicks.

In the third quarter, the Townies' offensive woes continued, as they went three-and-out to start the quarter. The Eagles were able to put together an 80-yard drive led by the running game which accounted for 68 of the yards. The possession was finished off by Nicholas DiPaola's 25-yard touchdown run. Bonney's PAT gave the Eagles a 24-0 lead.

E.P.'s offense then showed life as the Townies put together a 53-yard drive that finished off by quarterback Ryan Ellinwood running it from two yards out. On the next play, E.P. failed on the two-point conversion cutting the lead down to 24-6.

The Eagles, who are 2-2 in the division, will play at Cranston West on Friday night.

Eagles top Lincoln and Smithfield, eye playoff march

Field hockey team scores eight goals in two victories

The Barrington High School field hockey team defeated Lincoln High, 4-0, and Smithfield, 4-1, last week and has secured a spot in the upcoming Division I playoffs.

Against Lincoln, four different players scored goals — “Jillian May and Julia Soares have been our consistent scorers and both had one goal each Alexa Jurgeleit added a goal on an offensive corner and Claudia Kriz, who is a freshman, scored her first varsity goal, which is exciting,” wrote coach Lee Markowski in a recent email.

Meghan Miller assisted on Jillian’s goal while Jill May assisted on Alexa’s score. Grecia Restituyo had a uneventful day, as Lincoln had no shots on goal.

Against Smithfield, Jill May scored Barrington’s first goal on an assist from Julia Soares. Julia then notched the second goal unassisted, and Katelyn McMahon scored the third goal on an assist from Julia, who later scored her second goal of the game. Libby

Dolan assisted on Julia’s second goal.

“We attended to business on both days, doing what we needed to do to win both games,” wrote Markowski.

Barrington was scheduled to play at Bay View on Tuesday and was due to celebrate senior day on Thursday in a game against Wheeler. Barrington has eight seniors on the team — Restituyo, Eliza May, McMahon, Jillian May, Annie Iserson, Meghan Miller, Jillian Blanco and Libby Dolan.

According to Markowski, Barrington could secure a secure a first round bye for the upcoming playoffs.

Girls’ volleyball

It was a busy week for the Barrington High School girls’ volleyball team.

Last Monday the Eagles competed in the Koch Eye Volleyball Tournament and finished 3-3. The Eagles were eliminated in the semifinals by Cranston West.

Coach Ron Enos said the long day at the tournament appeared to take its toll on his players Tuesday, who were “a little sluggish in practice on Tuesday and it carried over to an ugly win vs. Lincoln on Wednesday.”

The Eagles reportedly suffered a season-high in hitting and service errors, but escaped with a 24-26, 25-22, 25-23, 25-22 victory. Barrington bounced back in a win over Mt. Hope on Friday — topping a Huskies team they had previously lost to. Barrington won Friday’s match 25-15, 22-25, 25-21, 25-13.

“We hit real well as a team with 49 kills and served tough with 25 aces against 10 errors,” wrote Enos in a recent email. “Defensively we recorded 37 digs and 5 blocks.”

Barrington is scheduled to play at Woonsocket on Thursday and at first-place Tolman on Friday.

Barrington's top singles player Morgan Downing battled to a 6-1, 7-6 victory in the Eagles' playoff opener against Mt. St. Charles last week.

The Barrington High School girls' tennis team overcame a slow start in its playoff opener against Mt. St. Charles on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 15, but battled hard for a 4-2 victory.

With the win Barrington advanced to the Division I semifinals, but ran up against a tough East Greenwich team. The Eagles lost in the semifinals to the defending state champions at Slater Park in Pawtucket on Friday.

Against Mt. St. Charles, Barrington picked up a team point when fourth singles player Julia Forte won her match in straight sets, and a second team point when the second doubles team of Claire Adamson and Sarah Erickson won.

But Mt. St. Charles grabbed two points with victories at first doubles and second singles. In a dramatic match at first singles, Barrington freshman Morgan Downing won the first set 6-1, but fell behind 1-5 in the second. Morgan powered back, however, and forced a tie-breaker. With the crowd rallying behind her, the young netter captured the match with an 11-9 tie-breaker win.

"That was her biggest win of the year," said Barrington coach Betsy Brenner.

The clinching point came in the third singles match, where Barrington senior Monica Drimbarean fought back from a 1-6 loss in the first set to win the next two sets, 6-4, 6-4.

"That was unbelievable," said Brenner. "She's been so tough for us all year.

"It was a true team effort. Everyone played so hard. I couldn't be more proud of the girls."

Barrington Pop Warner Pee Wees shut out Islanders

Pee Wees improve to 7-1 with victory

The Barrington Pop Warner Bagels Etc. Pee Wees to 7-1 with a hard fought 9-0 win at Middletown on Sunday.

The Eagles received the opening kick and moved the ball down the field on an eight-minute drive behind the offensive line of Thomas Rocha, Dave Raposa, Aidan Keenan James Anderson and A.J. Prete. The powerful line opened holes all day for the running of Brigham Dunphy, Luke Gorham, William Loew and Jax Gorman. The drive came up short when Cole Reed took an option pitch around the right side and was brought down just before the first down marker.

Barrington's defense, which has only given up 36 points all year was rock solid again. Matt Daft, Bennett Durkin and Jay Schieffelin did a great job in the secondary, breaking up passes and stopping the run.

With three minutes left on the clock Barrington got the ball back. They moved the ball to the Islander 35, when the offense went to the no huddle. Gorman then hit Reed on a post pattern for a 20-yard pick up and then found Loew for a touchdown over the middle. Loew made an impressive catch, out-jumping a defender for the ball. Dunphy caught the extra point conversion.

The second half picked up with great defensive plays from Paddy Couley, Marley Karnes, Shaun Rodrigues and Mikey Cox. The defense recorded a safety in the fourth quarter, and the linebacking crew of Thomas McAdams, Loew and Gorham delivered punishing hits all day.

The Eagles offense controlled the ball for 80 percent of the game with great blocking on the day from the tight and split ends Collin Phillips, Luke Wilcox and Mike Raffa.

The Pee Wees play their last regular season game at home this Saturday vs Portsmouth at 4:30.

Junior Pee Wees

The Ullucci Sports Medicine

Junior Pee Wees picked up a win on Oct. 12 and dropped a tough game on Oct. 19.

On Sunday, Oct. 12, the Junior Pee Wees dominated Fairhaven from the opening kickoff en route to a 20-0 victory. The tone was set on the very first drive of the game when the Eagles offense marched down the field on strong runs by Nate Cooperman behind the solid blocking of Connor Nelson, Joe Mederios, Will Arnone and Danny Lemos.

The drive was capped off when quarterback Ben Proulx faked a handoff to Cooperman and took a bootleg, untouched, around the end for the score.

The Eagles defense remained stout throughout the contest. Will Sanchez had a touchdown-saving deflection on a deep pass in the first quarter and also chipped in with multiple open field tackles. The Eagles defense was a total team effort to preserve their second shutout in a row.

Fairhaven had a key first and goal in the first quarter which the Eagles were able to shut down on four straight tackles for loss. The goal line stand changed the entire outlook of the game. Many players contributed to the success — Drew LaPointe, Dante Salvaggio, George Alexandre, Asher Kranowitz, Ethan Rega-Costa, and Ethan Tomulonis all played key roles in the group effort.

The Eagles extended their lead in the second quarter when Proulx hit Will Sanchez on a 67-yard touchdown pass. Ben Proulx had time and protection from a line that kept their quarterback upright all afternoon. Jack Kelty, Connor Nelson, and George Alexandre were among a few on the offensive line who had their way with the Blue Devils defensive front all game.

The game was sealed in the fourth quarter on a 25-yard touchdown run from Bryan Ivatts who took a sweep around the left end and won the footrace into the end zone. The win was the Eagles' second in a row.

On Sunday, Oct. 19, the Junior Pee Wees traveled to Middletown to take on the undefeated Islanders. It was a tall task for the Eagles who fell behind early and were unable to recover or get things rolling during the contest against a very solid Middletown squad. The Eagles ultimately dropped the game 25-0.

After falling behind 13-0 in the first quarter the Eagles were able to buckle down and began to show some signs of determination.

Strong tackles from Ethan Tomulonis, Andrew Jameison, Joe Mederios and Ethan Hines helped to slow the Islanders offensive attack. The Eagles offense was highlighted on a pair of long runs, one from Michael Uriati who turned a spoiled punt attempt into a 25-yard gain on a heads up play and a strong outside dash down the sidelines before being knocked out of bounds inside Islanders territory. The Eagles long play of the day from scrimmage came from running back Scott Gausland who took a handoff off-tackle, made a couple of quick cuts and broke into the open field. The play went for 40 yards and gave the Eagles a little momentum in the third quarter. Second half defensive plays from Christopher DeSisto, Will Arnone, Danny Lemos, Jackson Lloyd and Andrew LaPointe helped to better contain the Islanders in the second half.

The Eagles will wrap up their season this Saturday at Barrington High School against the Portsmouth Patriots.

Pop Warner homecoming is Saturday

Barrington Pop Warner will hold its homecoming celebration on Saturday, Oct. 25. The local organization, which started in 1970, hopes to gather players, cheerleaders, alumni and their families to celebrate football in Barrington. The Eagles also will award "four year" jackets to players and cheerleaders who have played at least four seasons, and honor one of the founders of Barrington Pop Warner. The event is open to the public.

town Islanders shut the Pearson Travel Barrington Eagles Junior Midget football team out 41-0 in a game played in cold and windy conditions at Gaudet Field.

Unlike the last meeting between these two teams, three weeks ago and also in Middletown, there were few highlights for the Barrington team. Middletown hit the Eagles hard on both sides of the ball.

Mark Bernardo, Jon Adamson and Max Dimonte got some traction in the running game, but neither offense was able to sustain a drive. Lucas Cobery threw several passes and actually ran a dive play for significant positive yardage. Hunter Norris returned a kick-off to the Middletown side of the field, taking on several Islander would-be tacklers before finally going down.

But the Barrington defense simply could not stop the Middletown rushing attack. Despite this, the efforts of defensive players Jack Kovolyan, Oliver Roberts, Nick Figueroa, Jack Kelleher, Liam Davis, Robert Cahill and Ben Silva, should be recognized.

Several other players, including Mark Bernardo, Lucas Cobery, Jon Adamson, Cole Glazard, Owen Valentine, Noah Werbel, Max Dimonte and David Romano, played hard throughout the entire game.

Brendan Chalue-Feeney, Chase White, Kyle Greenberg, Harry Masse, Kyle Camille, John Fay and Logan Dorsey also contributed with significant playing time.

Once again, Greg Despines assisted the coaching staff and cheered on his teammates.

Barrington will play against Portsmouth at Victory Field on Saturday, Oct. 25, at 6 p.m. in its final regular season game and homecoming celebration.

'Scouting for Food' begins Saturday

Local Scouts will drop off reminders; donations due Nov. 1

Narragansett Council and Barrington's Boy Scout and Cub Scout units, along with selected Girl Scout units, will run the annual food drive called "Scouting for Food" beginning Saturday, Oct. 26.

This food drive has become an annual event and is designed to replenish community food banks throughout the state prior to the holiday season. The program has been quite successful — Rhode Island scouts have collected more than 300 tons of food over the last 10 years.

Barrington residents can expect a food collection door hanger on the front door of their homes on Saturday, Oct. 25. Residents have one week to collect non-perishable packaged and canned foods and place them in a container of their choice (i.e. paper shopping bag or plastic bag.)

On Nov. 1, scouts will pick up the filled containers from residents, who can leave the containers out in front of their homes' front doors.

Scouting is a national organization run by trained and screened adult volunteers which is designed to help young men and women become good citizens who are self-reliant, capable and dependable.

Any young man who is interested in scouting can contact Narragansett Council headquarters at 351-8700 to find a unit to join in his area, or view the link to join at Scouting.org.

Tap-In can always use new volunteer drivers

One of Tap-In's first accomplishments nearly 31 years ago was developing a pool of volunteer drivers to make sure East Bay area clients can get to medical appointments. It continues to be one of the most important and rewarding programs for both clients and drivers, many of whom develop lasting friendships.

Drivers are able to select not only the number of drives they wish to commit to, but also the hours, days and distance they feel comfortable with. Because many drivers are away sometimes, or move away, there is always a need for new drivers and substitutes. While clients may live anywhere in the East Bay area, the greatest number are in East Providence.

The Housewares Closet is still in need of bedding, towels and small appliances. Furniture items (non-upholstered only) are also very low. Tables, chairs, shelves, bureaus, computer desks, etc., are always requested.

And, gift cards are available for all holidays and other occasions.

Drop off donations during regular office hours from 9 a.m. to noon Monday to Friday and learn more about the agency and its opportunities for volunteerism. It is in the lower level of the library building, 281 County Road. Call 247-1444 or visit tapinri.org.

Foster Grandparent volunteers sought

The East Bay Community Action's Foster Grandparent Program has openings in Newport County, Bristol and East Providence. The program provides a unique service built on the natural bond between generations.

The program is a bridge that connects these generations. Foster Grandparents assist in schools, Head Starts, libraries and other nonprofit organizations throughout the East Bay. As a Foster Grandparent, you're a role model, a mentor and a friend. You will help children learn to read, provide one-on-one tutoring, and guide children in need.

Foster Grandparents receive a modest hourly tax-free volunteer stipend, travel allowance, meals, paid holidays and accident and liability insurance while on duty. If you are interested in becoming a Foster Grandparent or are an organization interested in sponsoring a Foster Grandparent, call the Office of Civic Engagement at East Bay Community Action at 435-7876.

Newcomers and Neighbors open to all

Barrington Neighbors and Newcomers is an organization that seeks to foster a sense of community within the town of Barrington and the surrounding East Bay area. You don't have to be a newcomer to join them.

The group offers activities that include adult social events, family outings, infant to 5-year-old playgroups, organized tennis clinics/groups, book club, wine tastings, ladies night out and much more.

Visit them at www.barrington-neighborsri.com for more information or contact the membership chairman at Membership@BarringtonNeighborsRI.com.

Crafters and vendors sought for annual fair

The fifth annual craft fair/bake sale by the Bristol County Elks is on Sunday, Nov. 16, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Elks Lodge, 1 Constitution St., Bristol.

Crafters and vendors are being sought for the fair. Contact zib@pizazzbyzib.com or call 683-4792 for information on table space.

AT THE LIBRARY

Tech help available Wednesday afternoons

Having problems downloading ebooks, audio or video to your electronic device? Need help with a PowerPoint presentation, or filling out an online job application? On Wednesdays from 2 to 4 p.m., drop-in tech help is available on a first-come, first-served basis at the library's reference desk.

Film series looks at WWII off the front line

Join librarian and cinema enthusiast Doug Swiszczy for his latest film lecture series, "Collateral Damage: WW II Off the Front Line," on Wednesdays at 1 p.m. in October. Films are free and open to the public. They are preceded by commentary from Mr. Swiszczy.

Rather than look at movies that take place on the battlefield, the series explores the impact the war had on those away from the direct line of fire.

The series continues on Oct. 22, with "The Search." Released in 1948, the film is set in post-war Berlin, where an American private (Montgomery Clift) tries to help a young Czech boy find his mother.

The boy is just one of thousands of displaced children who have lost track of their families during the war. Traumatized by his ordeal, the boy is unable to speak and cannot remember his own name, let alone whether he even has a mother. Shot in a near-documentary style by director Fred Zinnemann, the film used a cast of both professionals and non-actors. The black and white film is unrated, and runs for 104 minutes.

The final film on Oct. 29 is "The Railway Man" (2013). Based on a true story, the film looks at Eric Lomax (Colin Firth), a British veteran who was one of many prisoners-of-war at a Japanese labor camp following the British surrender of Singapore in 1942. There, the interned men were forced to build a railway. Beset by horrific memories of the brutality he suffered, Eric finds compassion from his new wife (Nicole Kidman). When he learns the Japanese military policeman responsible for his torture is still alive some 35 years after the war, Eric returns to Thailand to confront him. Jeremy Irvine plays the younger Eric in flashbacks, and Hiroyuki Sanada is the older version of Eric's interrogator. The movie is rated R for depictions of prisoner-of-war violence and runs for 116 minutes.

Programs for teens include films, Comic-Con

Programs are being offered for teens in October.

See "The Burbs" (1989, PG, 109 minutes) on Thursday, Oct. 23. It's a creature feature with "Godzilla" (2014, PG-13, 123 minutes) on Saturday, Oct. 25, at 2 p.m.

Watch classic episodes of "The Simpsons Treehouse of Horror" from 6:30 to 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 28.

A Mini Comic-Con is on Thursday, Oct. 30, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Come in Cosplay! Prizes will be given for the best costume, and there will be crafts, snacks and more.

'All That Jazz' with the Aristocats on Monday

In a repeat of their popular performance last autumn, the Aristocats and members of the Barrington High School Jazz Ensemble will present "All That Jazz" on stage at the library on Monday, Oct. 27, at 7 p.m.

The inspirational evening of live jazz brings together the Aristocats who have been performing jazz for many decades, with the young, but very talented, students under the direction of Barbara Hughes. The combination swings and will bring pleasure to all who attend. For more information, call 247-1920, ext. 305.

World War I lecture series on Tuesdays

"World War I Remembered" is a four-part lecture series from military expert Stanley Carpenter, Ph.D. This year marks the 100 anniversary of the start of World War I.

The lecture series begins on Tuesday, Oct. 28, at 7 p.m. with "1914: When Empires Collide."

It continues with — "Stalemate on the Western Front" on Tuesday, Nov. 4

"1917: Lafayette, We are Here" on Tuesday, Nov. 18

"1918: Year of Decision" on Tuesday, Dec. 2

Mr. Carpenter is a professor of strategy and policy at the U.S. Naval War College in Newport. He retired from the U.S. Navy in June 2009 with the rank of captain after 30 years of service, both active duty and reserve, and having held several commanding officer and senior staff positions.

The series is free and open to all. It is sponsored by the Friends of Barrington Public Library.

'Gothic Ghost Tales by Candlelight' next week

"Gothic Ghost Tales by Candlelight" will be performed by Rita Parisi of Waterfall Productions on Wednesday, Oct. 29, at 7 p.m. Highlighted will be stories from early 20th-century writers Rose MacCaulay, Agatha Christie and Virginia Layefsky.

It is often said the ghost story disappeared with the invention of electric light. People became less fearful of ghosts because real horror existed in the shape of wars.

Some of the most imaginative and original writers in the 20th century have been women. In their ghost stories, they probe the possibilities of other dimensions in time and human consciousness. They mix old-fashioned ghosts and science fiction to create a modern ghost story.

The evening is suitable for ages 10 and older. It is free and sponsored by the Friends of Barrington Public Library.

Barrington Public Library is at 281 County Road. Fall/winter hours are from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday to Thursday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday. For more information, call 247-1920 or visit www.barringtonlibrary.org. The library will provide accommodations to ensure equal participation in all meetings and programs. Requests for accommodations may be made in writing to the library director, by voice at 247-1920, ext. 305, or at 711 "relay" if using TDY or TDD.

BCS offering classes in photography, bread baking, opera prep

Trip to Goodspeed Musicals is on Nov. 12 for 'Circus in Winter'

Pressed for time to treat yourself to a course? Barrington Community School is offering a number of one-session workshops next week in photography, bread-baking and opera.

On Wednesday, Oct. 29, a lecture on the opera "Carmen" is part of an ongoing series of opera appreciation with Blythe Walker, Metropolitan Opera soprano and BCS instructor. The focus of "Opera Prep: A study guide for the Met's HD broadcasts" is critical listening and going beyond the basic story line of each piece.

Develop a greater appreciation of these works through informative lectures held the week preceding each broadcast. Lectures meet from 10 a.m. to noon at the BCS office, 283 County Road. Other lectures, listed in the BCS fall brochure, are scheduled for November, December and January before each performance. The fee for individual lectures is $25; $20 BCS members.

An "Introduction to Photographic Composition" with Ronald Zincone is on Thursday, Oct. 30, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Barrington High School. He will introduce you to the art side of photography known as "composition." Learning to compose an image takes time, patience, diligence and much hands-on application.

The workshop will guide you to developing a photographer's eye and help you see composing elements such as good light, shapes, forms, lines, patterns, colors, angles and much more. Tuition is $38; $30 BCS members.

Have you ever wanted to bake your own bread? "Artisan Bread at Home" is on Thursday, Oct. 30, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at a private residence in Barrington; directions will be sent to registrants in advance. Learn some tips and tricks on how to get the perfect crust, types of yeast, proper kneading techniques, types of flour to use and how to turn a Dutch oven into the perfect vessel to make that crusty loaf of bread.

On the menu is authentic brioche in mini flower pots, no-knead Dutch oven and, authentic Vera Pizza Napoletana dough recipe that will make pita bread/focaccia/calzone/pizza or just bread. Chefs Phil Griffin and Malinda Coletta, instructors, will also discuss how to make a crusty Italian loaf and give you a recipe. The class fee of $43; $35 BCS members includes tuition and food supply fee.

In trip news ...

For almost 30 years, The Norma Terris Theatre has been Goodspeed Musical's home for developing fresh, innovative and original new musicals. These new works are developed in Chester before moving on to other theatres. Because this is a developmental theatre, the show can change on a day-to-day basis. New scenes are added, songs are moved, costumes are changed, dialogue is tweaked — all based on audience response and feedback.

A day trip to Goodspeed at Chester is on Wednesday, Nov. 12, for a matinee performance of "The Circus in Winter." Step right up for a brand new musical where legend and lore collide under the big top. Love, lust, betrayal and tragedy unfold in a series of interwoven stories that reveal the private lives of a death-defying acrobat, sideshow African queen, lonely circus owner, disheveled clowns and more — all with a rootsy, folk/rock score.

Before the show, enjoy a three-course luncheon at one of the oldest continuously operated inns in the country, Essex's Griswold Inn (1776). Barrington departure at 9 a.m. will be followed by a Warwick pick-up at 9:20; and a return is by 6 p.m. The trip fee of $125; $115 BCS members includes theater ticket, luncheon, BCS escort, motorcoach and driver tip.

Also available is the Wednesday, Nov. 5, trip to Boston's Museum of Fine Arts for the first comprehensive retrospective of artist Jamie Wyeth and "Goya: Order and Disorder," the largest retrospective of the Spanish master in over a quarter of a century.

The BCS fall brochure, listing courses and trips throughout the fall and early winter, is available at area libraries and businesses. The entire brochure can also be downloaded at www.barrcomm-school.com. Or, for more information, call the office weekday mornings at 245-0432.

AT THE YMCA

The Bayside YMCA offers a variety of programs for all ages at the Y at 70 West St., Barrington. Stop by or call 245-2444 for more information or to register. Online registration is available for YMCA members at www.gpymca.org.

Programs may be canceled due to lack of enrollment, so register as soon as possible. Financial assistance is available for many programs.

Fall registration begins

Fall II programs start Nov. 1 through December. Come in and pick up a program guide. Registration is now open for members and non-members. Swim lessons are filling up fast.

Youth basketball league

Registration for the Y's 2014-15 youth basketball league for grades 1 to 8 is still open. The fun begins in November and continues through March. Have fun, build skills and character. Clinics and games are on Saturday mornings. Practice sessions may be held on weeknights. During the first weeks, staff and volunteer coaches will help each child build skills through instructional clinics.

Children are placed on teams through a cooperative teaming process. The remaining weeks give children the opportunity to reinforce the skills learned by playing games as part of a team. Children are grouped by grade level for both the instructional clinics and teams. The registration fee is $265; $154 for members. For more information or to register contact the Y.

Volunteer coaches are needed. The commitment is two hours a week. Pick up a volunteer application at the front desk or download one online on the YBL page of Bayside's website.

Sponsorship opportunities also are available. Your company's logo and name displayed on over 350 T-shirts, banners, Bayside website and Bayside Facebook page. Contact Jason Piette at jpiette@gpymca.org or 245-2444 for more details.

Adult coed volleyball

A competitive recreational adult coed volleyball league is for all adults age 18 and older. There are limited openings, first come, first served. A substitute player/waitlist will be maintained. A players' spot is held only by registering at the Y's member service desk.

The league meets on Mondays from 6:15 to 9:15 p.m. Games start on a rotating basis. Play begins in October and concludes by the second week in April. The fee is $155; $105 for Y members. Uniform is included. Call for more information or to register.

Adult coed basketball

Registration is open for the coed basketball league for ages 25 years and up. This is a competitive 5 on 5 league. Games are two, 20-minute halves once a week. Start times are on a rotating schedule. Play is on Wednesdays from 7:15 to 9:15 p.m., November to March.

Registration deadline is Oct. 29. Payment is required to guarantee a spot. E-mail addresses are required to register. The fees are $155; $105 members.

Holidays Team Challenge

A six-week, small group training program designed for those who want to stay on track as the holiday season approaches is from Nov. 3 to Dec. 6. Participants will meet once a week for 60 minutes with a trainer in a small group with a personal trainer. Three special events will enhance the program experience: a presentation by a registered dietitian on healthy eating during the holiday season, a mindfulness workshop, and a specialty exercise class.

The program includes a pre- and post-weigh-in to track progress. The cost is $200; $100 for Y members. Form your own group or they will help you find others to join. Program time varies based on the group's need. Registration is now open.

Rhode Island Companion Services helps seniors stay in homes

Most seniors would prefer to stay in their homes, maintaining ties in their neighborhoods, living among their treasured possessions, growing older in their own comfortable and familiar environments. Sadly, however, many of these seniors end up in nursing homes, often not for medical reasons, but simply because there is no one to provide the care and companionship that would make living at home possible. Rhode Island Companion Services is a new, non-medical organization that provides superior caregiving and commitment to strengthen a living environment with assistance for activities that many find difficult to accomplish alone. It opened its office on Maple Avenue in Barrington in August and is currently offering services in the East Bay and Aquidneck Island, while also offering these same services throughout other Rhode Island communities.

With 24-hour coverage and no minimum hour requirement, Rhode Island Companion Services and its caring and compassionate caregivers provide an unmatched and reliable level of care to loved ones and an important feeling of security to family members. From basic companionship and conversation, to planning outings or luncheons with friends, to playing cards or prompting medication and appointment reminders, to doing the necessary laundry and light housekeeping chores and grocery shopping and preparing meals, even to providing transportation to appointments or events, the organization's hand-selected team of caregivers go far beyond the usual agency services. Their Home assessment team also assist in finding the proper level of professionals that can administer necessary medical services when required.

"If it looks like it should be done, our exceptional companions and caregivers will make every effort to take care of it," says Linda Newly established Rhode Island Companion Services offers exceptional compassionate care to improve the quality of life for clients.

Rimoshytus, a former nurse and companion, who is the Home Services Coordinator. "When challenging needs arise, like dementia and respite care, our experienced caregivers can also provide the necessary support," she says.

Rhode Island Companion Services is also actively recruiting compassionate caregivers who would be interested in offering this level of care to those in need of services. While nursing experience is not required, the agency is looking for experienced individuals who can provide their special type of services, with a loving touch. For information of services provided or to arrange an interview, please contact Linda Rimoshytus, Home Services Coordinator.

Creating growth

Proposed bond could power arts-driven economic recovery

BY CHRISTY NADALIN
cnadalini@eastbaynewspapers.com

When the subject of Rhode Island's economy is raised — that is, all day, every day, across every strata of society in every corner of the state — it is too often a gloomy lamentation on the loss of our manufacturing sector. For years, community leaders have touted the importance of the arts as a way of enriching and beautifying our communities and attracting investment. But for the average Rhode Islander, allocating resources to aesthetic pursuits during an economic downturn may have felt like a bit of an indulgence.

Fortunately, the state's economy had its own agenda — Rhode Island's arts and cultural industry grew by 21 percent since 2006, making it one of the fastest-growing economic drivers in the state.

In fact, Rhode Island is home to 2,696 arts-related businesses that employ 12,623 people, and is third in the nation in the number of arts related businesses per capita, according to Americans for the Arts 2014 Creative Industries Report.

On November 4, Rhode Islanders will have an opportunity to vote on Question 5, the Creative and Cultural Economy Bond, which would authorize the state to borrow $35 million (triggering the influx of $35 million in additional matching funds from the private sector) to build and improve arts facilities and historic sites around the state. The Question names nine organizations including 2nd Story Theatre in Warren and the Rhode Island Philharmonic and Music School in East Providence. The larger coal-

RICHARD W. DIONNE JR.

Lynne Collinson, 2nd Story Theatre's executive director, hopes voters will support Question 5, which could provide much-needed funding for 2nd Story and arts groups across the state.

tion for Arts & Preservation, which is working to support Question 5, includes several additional local organizations, including Blithewold, the Bristol Theatre Company, Firehouse Theater, Imago, Island Moving Co., and the Newport Historical Society.

The bond would also provide $5 million in State Preservation Grants which repair public historic buildings like town halls, theaters, museums, and libraries — a program that was suspended in 2008 due to a lack of funds.

For Lynne Collinson, 2nd Story Theatre's executive director, funds from the passage of Question 5 would allow the group to finish work they began a dozen years ago, restoring their Market Street home to its historic use. The former Cercle Jacques Cartier, the local French Club, the 100 year old building was once a gathering place for a large part of the town of Warren. "It was where folks came to spend time; weddings were held here," Collinson said. "As a theater, it's a marriage of art and architecture. The restoration work supported by this bond is important for both the permanence of our cultural institutions and beautifying the neighborhood."

David Beuchesne, executive director of the Rhode Island Philharmonic, is also hopeful for passage of Question 5 to help provide funds to complete much-needed upgrades to their East Providence headquarters. While not a historic town centerpiece like 2nd Story's property, the Philharmonic devotes 50 percent of its budget to public education and community engagement, bringing thousands of people (students range in age from 6 months to 91 years) through their doors every day. They also house nearly a dozen other community music groups and provide music therapy programs through Bradley Hospital and the Rhode Island Autism Project. "We are the largest orchestra in the country with a community education program, serving over 20,000 people each year," Beuchesne says. "We are here for everyone who wants to learn and explore music."

These arts organizations already account for nearly $150 million of economic activity annually, and have an undeniable impact on local restaurants, shops, and galleries. The state's investment would also create thousands of jobs in the local construction industry, something Collinson knows first hand. "We make a point of hiring local tradesmen, from the contractor to the electrician and the plumber. We try to create economic impact right here," Collinson says. "It's an investment in the home team."

Halloween is scary business

Whether you are a master of mayhem or a halloweenie, there is plenty of holiday fun to be had in the East Bay and nearby this week.

Save the Bay launches winter seal tour schedule

From October through April, Save The Bay offers seal watching and nature tours in Newport and Westerly aboard their education vessels. The Newport Seal Watch Cruise, a local tradition for the past 12 years, motors through historic Newport Harbor and views seals on the rocks off of Rose Island and the Newport Bridge. Choose from a one-hour seal watch or two-hour seal watch and lighthouse tour. Tours depart from 142 Long Wharf Dock in Newport at the intersection of Long Wharf and Washington Streets. The Westerly Seal Watch & Nature Cruise, held in conjunction with the Stonington Historical Society, is a 90-minute voyage down the Pawcatuck River and into Little Narragansett Bay to discover the coastal history, winter wildlife, and environmental issues in the region. Tours depart from the Viking Marina, 19 Margin Street, Westerly. For more information and pricing, visit savebay.org.

STRAIGHT UP THE MIDDLE

We don't need a wild card in every contest

Many of us in Red Sox Nation remember this week ten years ago as being the greatest in sports history. After securing the AL wild card spot in the playoffs, the Red Sox beat the Angels in the American League Division Series before facing the Yankees in the American League Championship Series. After being down three games to none, the Red Sox came back to win four games in a row and beat the Yankees for the American League title. By October 27, 2004, the AL wild card Red Sox were World Series Champions and the generations-long streak of gut-wrenching losses was over.

Since the baseball gods did not smile on the Red Sox this year, I'm forced to reminisce and focus on political races instead of baseball playoffs. In Rhode Island, we have a wild card in the race for governor. Local attorney Bob Healey was a last-minute entry for the Moderate Party, dropping the Cool Moose label and swapping positions with another candidate who was too ill to run. Mr. Healey is well-regarded as a smart man who reflects the common-sense values of our area, so I am puzzled by why he would allow himself to be used as a spoiler in such an important race. He insists that his campaign is a serious one but in my opinion, using a loophole to join a race less than eight weeks from Election Day is a stunt, not what one would expect from a person who wants to move Rhode Island forward.

From a constitutional standpoint, Rhode Island's governor is weak. There is no line-item veto and a governor cannot place a referendum on the ballot. However, the job is nevertheless an immense responsibility as the governor serves as the administrator for state government and the public-facing representative of our state. For most candidates, the decision to run is a difficult one because the campaign — and serving in the office — is an incredible commitment and requires an investment of time and money. I'm sure many candidates would like to slide into the race after the primary, saving money and an entire summer on the campaign trail.

And while I certainly understand Mr. Healey's dislike for the influence of money in politics and respect his decision not to raise any money or to self-fund, it shows that he's not in this to win. The simple truth is that one needs to spend some money to compete in politics. A serious hockey player would never try and play without skates, pads, a stick and ice time and a serious candidate for public office needs basic campaign infrastructure — and that requires money. This is not a revelation: Bob Healey has been running for statewide office over the course of the last 30 years and he has yet to do two things: raise money and win.

While I respect anyone willing to put his or her name on the ballot, I think it's important to do it the right way and to respect our democratic process. While finding the loophole, dropping the Cool Moose banner and sliding in as a Moderate has been okayed by the lawyers, it still won't sit well with many voters. Rhode Island needs serious candidates for these difficult days and fewer wild cards on the ballot.

Fall is a great time to fish

The Department of Environmental Management's Division of Fish and Wildlife will hold several fishing programs this fall. With strippers and bluefish plentiful in

Capt. Dave MONTI

Narragansett Bay, autumn is one of the best times of the year to fish. Hosted by the Division's Aquatic Resource Education program, the programs include an introduction to saltwater fly-fishing workshop and a series of fly-tying classes. Pre-registration is required for most programs.

For additional information and for registration materials, contact Kimberly Sullivan in DEM's Aquatic Resource Education program at 401/539-0019 or via e-mail at kimberly.sullivan@dem.ri.gov.

Fall is a great time for fresh and saltwater fishing. Anglers are catching tautog, cod, scup, bluefish, striped bass and the false albacore and bonito bite is very strong. The black sea bass bite is also still very strong with a seven fish per angler limit until December 31 in state waters. The tautog limit is 6 fish/angler /day to December 15, with a maximum of ten fish per boat.

Fall fishing trip

Greg Vespe of Tiverton and Noah Gasperini (age 13) recently fished the Newport Bridge. Greg said, "The Bay is still holding a really nice mix of sea bass, scup and striped bass along with tautog and bluefish. We bottom fished with squid and ended up with our limit of sea bass to 2.5 lbs, all the scup you could want, a nice striper at 20 pounds and even some fluke that were in our chum slick. Fish were all in the 20' to 25' depth range which was a bit shallower than I expected, especially for the sea bass."

Falling asleep at the rod

Last Saturday Don Smith of West Warwick fished with his wife and son at General Rock, North Kingstown. He said, "My son fell asleep, hooked up with a tautog and the rod went overboard. When getting ready to leave we noticed a fishing line caught on the anchor line... the fishing rod was attached to the line and on the other end a four plus pound tautog."

Moment of truth for new striped bass regulations

The final agenda and meeting materials for the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission's 73rd Annual Meeting taking place October 27-30 in Mystic can be obtained at asmfc.org/home/2014-Annual-Meeting; click on the relevant Board/Committee name to access the documents for that Board/Committee.

DEM stocks trout in ponds and rivers

The Department of Environmental Management's Division of Fish and Wildlife has stocked over 4,000 brook, brown, and rainbow trout in selected locations in the state last week. Due to elevated water temperatures and low water conditions, fall trout stocking was delayed until water conditions improved.

DEM Fish & Wildlife staff finished stocking the hatchery-raised trout last week. The following areas were stocked: Meadowbrook Pond in Richmond; Caruncle Pond in Coventry; Olney Pond in Lincoln; Barber Pond in South Kingstown; Silver Spring Pond in North Kingstown; Round Top Ponds in Burrillville; Upper and Lower Melville Ponds in Middletown; and the Wood River from Rt. 165 to Barberville.

A 2014 fishing license is required for anglers 15 years of age and older wishing to catch fish. A Trout Conservation Stamp is also required of anyone wishing to keep or possess a trout or to fish in a catch-and-release or 'fly-fishing only' area. Fishing licenses and the Trout Conservation Stamp ($5.50) can be obtained at any city or town clerk's office or authorized agent such as bait and tackle shops and Benny's. Licenses may also be obtained at DEM's Boat Registration and Licensing Office at 235 Promenade Street in Providence. As an added convenience, anglers may purchase their fishing license online at dem.ri.gov.

Tautog bite getting stronger

The tautog bite is on. Good sized fish mixed in with under-sized fish are being caught in shallow water. As of last week, not many anglers have been able to hook up with tautog in deep water. This usually starts to happen this time of year when the water cools but the water is still a bit warm.

Tautog (or blackfish) is a great eating fish with dense white meat. Their bulldog like fight (similar to grouper) is very exciting and much like a tug of war between you and the tautog. Once a tautog is hooked it will try to bulldog its way back down into rock or structure. So when the fish bites, it becomes the angler's job not to let it bury itself in the structure.

Last week I fished the General Rock, North Kingstown area which yielded three keeper fish over sixteen inches with the largest tautog being 23 inches and just over eight pounds. The tautog limit, through December 15, is six fish/person/day with a ten fish per boat maximum (does not apply to charter boats). These fish were in shallow water 12 to 15 feet and it took two and a half hours to catch them along with about a dozen shorter undersized fish.

"Bottom fishing" and "Good old days" at RISAA seminar

Bottom fishing table fair and how fishing has changed will be covered at the Rhode Island Saltwater Anglers Association (RISAA) seminar at the West Valley Inn, West Warwick; Monday, October 27, at 7 p.m. Al Conti, owner of Noah Gasperini (age 13) fished with Greg Vespe of Tiverton last week and hooked up with this black sea bass, as well as fluke, scup and a 20 pound striped bass.

Sung Harbor Marina, Capt. Ed Kearney, long time RISAA board member and Ron Raso, who has been fishing for over 65 years, talk about how fishing has changed over the years. The second topic "The great taste of bottom fish" will be presented by Lary Norin, last year's RISAA angler of the year. Lary loves to catch and eat fish and is good at both tasks as he is a graduate of Johnson & Wales University culinary arts program. Everyone is welcome, non-members requested to make a $10 donation to the RISAA Scholarship Fund, RISAA members attend free.

Where's the bite

Striped bass fishing has been fair. Fly fisherman Ed Lombado said, "We fished the Narrow River last week at night and the river was very generous, we took a great number of strippers all in the 3 to 4 lb. class. All these bass were fresh fish, very bright, and many had sea lice attached to them, a good sign for bass on the move. We did in fact get some hickory shad but the strippers outnumbered them 9 to 1 on this night. Pink colored flies worked the best for both bass and shad. Yellow flies worked very well also." Capt. Ron Mouchon of Breachway Bait & Tackle, Charlestown, said Monday, "With twelve foot seas I doubt many boats are fishing Block Island, however, the striped bass and blue fish bite from shore and jetties has been good even in rough seas anglers have been landing fish. We weighed in a couple of 40" fish yesterday." "October has been weak for striped bass. Usually at this time of year we are weighing in striped bass. We haven't weighed in a fish in a while." said Manny Macedo of Lucky Bait. "A lot of hickory shad have been in Pawtuxet Cove and anglers have been snagging them and catching school bass." said Greg Burning of The Tackle Box, Warwick.

Squid bite is on. Macedo said, "We have sold a number of squid rigs. Anglers are catching squid in Jamestown as well as Goat Island, Newport."

Cod fishing continues to improve. Roger Simpson of the Frances Fleet said, "The catching of fish in general on the cod trips was about as good as it gets! ...generally small market fish with a few into the mid teens on Friday's run but otherwise pool fish were in the 8 to 10 lb range. For those that are wondering we have generally been doing better around the Island for just about everything including cod as opposed to Coxes Ledge where the big fish run we have been accustomed to this time of year for years just does not seem to be materializing for whatever reason." Black sea bass and scup fishing have been good. Federal waters are now open to black sea bass fishing once again. Roger Simpson said, "We are excited as this is being written to again keep the big sea bass to six pounds we have been throwing back in staggering numbers for a month now." Scup fishing in the bay continues, however, Macedo said, "Anglers are not catching the large scup they were landing in the summer, though they are catching keepers with a lot of shorts mixed in." Legal size for scup is 10" with some select shore provisional areas where 9" fish can be taken.

Tautog fishing continues to improve as water cools. Bill Sokolowski reports on the RISAA blog, "Two of us left the dock in Jamestown at 7 a.m. on Sunday to fish the SE side of the bay. Anchored once found the bottom had too many snags. Let out about 20' of line and never moved again until we called it a day at 1:30 p.m. Limited out with about eight almost identical fish in the 5 pound range, one smaller and one 7.5 pounds. The last two hours were mostly spent relaxing and enjoying the day. Almost all action came before 11 a.m. with the largest fish last at about noon. More keepers than shorts. The bite died when the tide went slack." Capt. Ron Mouchon of Breachway Bait said, "With rough seas no one has been targeting scup of tautog the past few days." Macedo said "Customers are catching tautog around rocks and docks. Good bite from shore on the bridges in Warren and Barrington, Colt State Park, and at Ft. Adams at about a 15 to 1 (short to keeper ratio). Anglers are also caching fish (with better ratios) from boats." The tautog bite was on last week along the jetty at Codington Cove, Middletown. "We caught about 100 fish and out of that eight keepers ranging from 5 to 7 pounds. When we moved to deeper water we caught small tautog and black sea bass so we switched to squid" said Greg Bruning of the Tackle Box, Warwick.

Eye Care

Presented by
Kendall A. Gibbs, M.D.
Eye Physician and Surgeon

BRINGING CLARITY TO THE ISSUE

There has been some discussion as to whether cataract surgery may increase a patient's risk of developing age-related macular degeneration (AMD), the leading cause of vision loss in people over age 60. Just to be clear, cataract surgery is undertaken to remove the natural lens of the eye when it becomes cloudy and replace it with a man-made clear lens. Because the replacement lens allows more light to enter the eye (particularly higher-energy blue light), some have wondered if the more intense light could damage the retina and lead to AMD (a disease of the central retina, the macula). However, a three-year study involving 2,000 cataract patients aged 65 and older found no association between cataract removal and AMD.

Do you have any questions about today's column? Are you contemplating cataract surgery? Your comprehensive eye examination incorporates the latest advances in research and technology. Your eyes are special and deserve the best of care. It is our desire to assist you in maintaining the precious gift of vision. Call us at 247-2015 to schedule an appointment. At our office, located at 24 Bosworth Street, Barrington Shopping Center, Barrington, we provide eye care for a diversity of conditions and needs.

P.S. Symptoms of age-related macular degeneration (AMD) include loss of central vision and difficulty seeing fine detail, such as print.

BOOK REVIEW

Slow reading? That's nothing new for most book lovers

BY LYNDA REGO
lrego@eastbaynewspapers.com

When I read about the slow reading movement, I had to laugh. Many of us have been slow readers all our lives. You know who you are. We like to curl up with a book in a corner of a warm house, stretch out on a chaise poolside on vacation or in our own backyards on a sunny day, or read on the train or plane on the way to somewhere. We can find a quiet place to read on our lunch hours or while waiting for our cars to be repaired.

Now, there's an actual movement to take back quiet reading time with clubs that meet, not to discuss a book, but to quietly read one. Heck, I do that all the time. And, here are some suggestions if you want to try it yourself.

■ "The Round House" (2012) by Louise Erdrich. This is an author I especially enjoy. Her books are unique — most are set in the Midwest and some, like "The Round House," on Native American reservations. Antone Basil "Joe" Coutts Jr. is 13 in North Dakota in 1988. His father is a judge in the tribal court, and his mother Geraldine is a tribal enrollment specialist. Joe (he chose the name when he was 6) spends his time with his best friend, Cappy, and friends Zach and Angus riding their bikes and beginning to think about girls. Joe likes to read his father's books on Indian law and listen to stories by his grandfather, Mooshum. When Joe's mother Geraldine is violently raped, the aftermath takes them on a search for answers and revenge. It's a vivid look at life on a reservation at that time, and the laws and history they have to contend with.

■ "Those Who Save Us" (2004) by Jenna Blum looks at the horrors of the Holocaust from the perspective of an Aryan German woman, Anna, and her daughter, Trudy. When Anna falls in love with a Jewish doctor and hides him in her Nazi-sympathizer father's house, it starts a chain of events that move from her struggle to survive the hardships of war in Germany to the United States when an American soldier marries Anna and takes her and 3-year-old Trudy to Minnesota. The story shifts from 1939 to 1997 to tell of Anna's experiences and Trudy's memories and how both women try to overcome both.

■ "Stoker's Manuscript" (2013) by Royce Prouty is a different twist on the Dracula story. Joseph Barkeley is an expert on rare books and manuscripts in Chicago and is hired to authenticate the original notes and manuscript for "Dracula" by Bram Stoker. It seems like a coup until he finds himself in Romania and a prisoner in the castle of Vlad Dracul's son, Dalca. As he is forced to help read the cryptic clues buried in the manuscript, he fears for himself, but knows he has to try and fight this ancient evil. Joseph and his brother were Romanian orphans brought to the U.S. by Catholic nuns. How does he fit into what's happening? Mixing fact and fiction, this is a fascinating take on how Stoker wrote the book, what happened to it, and the history of Vlad Dracul's family. You won't be able to put it down.

■ "The Perfume Collector" (2013) by Kathleen Tessaro is another time-shifting story. These are becoming very popular and I like them when done well, as Tessaro's fragrantly evocative book is.

The stories of Grace Monroe, a 1955 London wife who moves in rarified social circles, and Eva d'Orsey, a Frenchwoman she's never met, collide when Eva dies and makes Grace her beneficiary. When Grace travels to Paris to meet with the lawyers for what she thinks is a misunderstanding, she will embark on a search for Eva's past from 1927 New York, to 1932 Monte Carlo, to Paris during the Nazi occupation until Eva's death. Who is Eva and what is she to Grace?

■ "The Writing Class" (2008) by Jincy Willett is a clever mystery set at a university extension writing class. Teacher Amy Gallup, who was a successful author at a young age, but no longer writes, is expecting the usual mix of talent and no-talent writer wannabes. But, soon someone is slipping obscene drawings and cruel critiques into the evaluations given to those who share their writings each week. Amy isn't sure what to do. But, then things take an even worse turn. This is a fun, witty story that anyone who likes writing and books will love.

■ "The Light Between Oceans" (2012) by M.L. Stedman is a beautifully rendered story about a couple, Tom and Isabel, living on a remote lighthouse off the coast of Australia. After several miscarriages, Isabel despairs of having a child. Then, a dinghy washes ashore holding a dead man and a baby. What they do next will lead to heartbreaking consequences for everyone involved. It's a gorgeously drawn picture of what it's like to live somewhere that's equally beautiful and isolated — and what happens when you lose sight of what it means to live among other people.

POLI-TICKS

A different kind of number-crunching

Ted Hahn is a former advanced math teacher who taught for 38 years in the public school system. His love affair with numbers carried into politics. For years he has been involved in campaigns both statewide and in the City of Providence. His job is usually unpopular. He looks at historical voting trends for the past 4-5 elections, then factors in the newest demographics of a voting district and the historical percentage of voter turnout for the ethnic group(s) both on and off a presidential year, and finally he delivers the news to the candidate as to whether or not he or she has a snowball's chance in August of winning the race.

Since he had no horse in the race in Providence, I asked him to predict the winner of the mayoral contest. He did.

Here's his analysis. There are wards which vote historically one way. When there is a past candidate for mayor as Mr. Cianci was, Ted will go back to review the voting margins in those districts then adjust for population shifts. Historically, the East Side of Providence has determined the election. Mr. Hahn noted that Jorge Elorza carried the East Side (Wards 1, 2, and 3) by around 2700 votes in the primary. He factors in about a 10 percent dropoff, either because the voters will switch to somebody else or not show up due to exigencies. Coming out of the East Side with anything over a 2000 vote plurality gives the election to Mr. Elorza. The former mayor has been popular on the East Side in the past but "instinct" tells Mr. Hahn that these wards will go for Mr. Elorza.

Ward 4 is the Charles St. area and would go to Mr. Cianci in the past, given its ethnic make-up of Italian Americans. This predominance no longer exists. The same is true of Ward 13, which is the Federal Hill area. Mr. Cianci will not draw enough votes here to make up for the East Side.

Wards 5 (Mt. Pleasant) and 6 (Triggs golf course area) have supported Mr. Cianci in the past but these are Council President Michael Solomon's strengths in the primary, and he is supporting Elorza, which makes them up for grabs. Ward 7 (Silver Lake) typically went to Mr. Cianci but now the Hispanic population dominates. The so-called minority wards are 8, 9, 10, and 11, and they are in play. The Smith Hill area (Ward 12) plus St. Pius (Ward 14) marginally tips to Mr. Cianci but this won't make up the plurality of votes if Mr. Cianci loses the East Side by 2000 votes.

Mr. Hahn concludes that Mr. Elorza will prevail based solely on the numbers, notwithstanding the polling done by WPRI/Providence Journal which has Mr. Cianci ahead.

The Republican candidate, Dr. Daniel Harrop is a factor. If he secures 10 percent or less of the vote the edge goes to Mr. Elorza. Above that, Mr. Elorza's support begins to erode with voters supporting this East Side doctor.

One interesting anecdote that Mr. Hahn tells is that from the 50's through the 90's, the City of East Providence was the bell-weather for state elections. As it voted the state voted. East Providence was the perfect micro-cosm of who was going to win and by what percentage.

So, there you have it. Will the "numbers man" beat the polls?

Dog in the world: tips for a healthy fall hiking season

Dear Dr. Evans,

I love this time of year, and I love taking my dog, Red, out and just enjoying the crisp fall air. We particularly enjoy hiking in the woods around my house. Red is well-trained and up to date on all his vaccines. Are there any things I should be concerned about, or are we good to go?

— Fall Guy

Dear Fall Guy,

Sounds like you're ready to enjoy some quality time with Red. A few tweaks to your routine will help ensure a safe and happy fall.

If you let Red off-leash while hiking, I'd suggest brushing him up on his recall, i.e. make sure that he comes to you every time you call. As much fun as it is to have him run free, you want to be sure that he'll return to you without a second thought if dangers arise.

What might some of those dangers be? Wildlife, other dogs that may not be as friendly as Red, fellow hikers whose silhouette might frighten an unwary dog — all these can loom up suddenly and scare Red into a defensive mode. My border collie, Sassy, was nobody's fool — she had a vocabulary of about fifty words — but she'd cower if she saw a hiker with one of those massive backpacks that distorts the human outline. Work with Red's favorite treats, and maybe enlist a trainer's advice, until he returns to you at the sound of his name, every time.

Another danger you'll want to be able to call him away from is tainted water. If there's standing water in your woods, watch out for blue-green algae bloom. Keep him away from stagnant water, especially if it's greenish in color or foul in smell, especially especially if a layer of green, blue, red, or brown vegetation seems to be floating on it. Algae toxicity can cause neurological disease, even death. If your dog jumps in before you can stop him, wash him well in soap and water asap. Likewise, don't let him drink from puddles — they can contain Giardia, a one-celled intestinal parasite, or leptospirosis, a bacteria that I hope he's vaccinated against.

Are you getting the idea that I think your dog should be leashed at all times? Not really — a leash-free romp can be so much fun. But be smart and vigilant about possible dangers, and always carry a collapsible bowl and fresh, clean water in your backpack.

Of special concern this time of year: depending on the hunting season, you and Red will want to wear blaze orange vests in the woods. Help your fellow outdoors enthusiasts avoid tragedy by making your presence easy to detect.

And remember to keep Red's flea and tick protection up to date year-round. Red doesn't need passengers, and he should go home with nothing but happy memories, not Lyme disease.

Blaze orange? Check. Water and Bowl? Check. Training spiffed up? Check. Vaccines current? Flea and tick prevention? Check, check, and check. Then go have fun in the woods.

TRASH OR TREASURE?

Depression-era appliance for the man who has everything

Q. I picked this up for $30 at a local consignment shop. The cabinet is completely lined with either zinc or lead. Could it be a mini fridge? It is about 26" high x 15" square.

Karen WATERMAN

A. This is not a mini fridge but a "smoking stand" or humidor for cigars and other tobacco products. This one was most likely made around 1930. Your version has a zinc, lead or perhaps tin lining. More commonly used was copper (which is naturally biostatic and kills mold), but copper became somewhat expensive during the Depression. According to some cigar enthusiast websites, the metals were used to hold and maintain a relative humidity to keep the cigars fresh. In the 1950's Spanish cedar imported from Cuba with Cuban cigars became the material of choice (and preferred today). The cedar holds moisture and repels tobacco beetles. Many cigars are shipped in cedar boxes. Cigar aficionados claim the metals affect the taste in a negative way and prefer the cedar's spicy aroma.

Humidoros come in all shape and sizes. Some smoking stand versions had inserts on the top to accommodate ash trays. Some smaller ceramic versions, which were made for loose tobacco, came in figurative shapes and are desired by collectors. Technological advances have made smoking stand humidors somewhat obsolete. During their heyday in the 1920's and 1930's they were found in most homes. Smoking was trendy and there were a lot more smokers. Today's market for them is not very strong but you could use it as a humidor or repurpose it. Either way, $30 for a nice little cabinet is a good deal!

HEALTHY EATING

Eat your way to better sleep

A good night's sleep is linked to lower blood pressure, a stronger immune system, a healthier heart, weight maintenance and the ability to think clearly. On the other hand, poor sleep habits are associated with higher stress levels, poor performance at work, and overeating during the day.

Emily DELCONTE

Many of us know that getting to sleep (and sometimes staying there) can be a challenge. There are many reasons that you may not be sleeping well, including medical problems, medications, sickness, stress, or anxiety. However, there are some diet and lifestyle factors that have been linked to better sleep.

- If you have a snack before bed, aim for some complex carbohydrates. These types of carbohydrates increase tryptophan, which is an essential part of chemical reactions that help us sleep. Try an apple with peanut butter, whole grain crackers and low fat cheese, or veggies and hummus.

- Avoid simple carbohydrates because these cause a spike in your blood sugar. Blood sugar spikes before bed make it harder to fall asleep. Simple carbohydrates include cookies, juice, soda, pretzels, and chips.

- Avoid caffeine for at least 6 hours before bed.

- Limit your fat intake at night. Fat moves through our digestive system slower than carbohydrate or proteins, and can lead to heartburn.

- Drink chamomile tea before bed.

Since sleep is such an important part of our overall health, be sure to talk to your doctor if you struggle to fall asleep or stay asleep on a regular basis.

Layered Greek Dip

16 QUARTER-CUP SERVINGS

- 8 ounces hummus
- 1 whole tomato, diced
- 1/2 cup cucumber, diced
- 1/2 cup fat free plain Greek yogurt
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon paprika

- 2 whole canned artichoke hearts, chopped

- 2 whole roasted red peppers, diced
- 1/4 cup low fat feta cheese
- 2 tablespoons fresh parsley, minced
- 1/4 cup kalamata olives, chopped (optional)

1. In an 8 by 8 inch square pan, spread the hummus on the bottom. Layer the tomatoes and cucumbers over the top.

2. Gently spread the yogurt over the vegetables. Sprinkle the yogurt with salt and paprika.

3. On top of the yogurt, layer the artichoke hearts, roasted red peppers, and feta cheese. Sprinkle the parsley over the top and garnish with olives (optional).

4. Serve with fresh vegetables, whole grain pita chips, or whole grain crackers.

Serving Size: 1/4 cup dip (without crackers or chips)

Nutrition Information per Serving: 50 calories, 3 grams fat, 4 grams carbohydrates, 0.5 grams fiber, 2.5 grams protein, 150 milligrams sodium

THE UNIVERSITY OF RHODE ISLAND

More than 750 Rhode Island companies employ 4,000+ URI engineering graduates. With a history of executives and scientists who graduated from URI dating all the way back to 1936, Teknor Apex, an international leader in advanced polymer materials, is still headquartered in Rhode Island. Its president, William Murray '78, says, "We're competing with other states and countries. If we're not keeping our best and brightest here in Rhode Island, we have no hope for the future."

On November 4, Rhode Island voters will be asked to support Question 4, a $125 million higher education facilities bond referendum for a new engineering building and upgrades to outdated classrooms and labs—facilities to match the high caliber of teaching, research and innovation taking place at the URI College of Engineering.

ADD VALUE WITH A 'NEW' BATHROOM THAT DOESN'T COST A FORTUNE

The allure of a spa-style bathroom is something few homeowners can resist. Such bathrooms can make for a welcome retreat after a long day at the office or an afternoon spent chasing kids around the yard.

But as appealing as such a sanctuary may seem, the cost of creating a luxury washroom is more than many homeowners' budgets can withstand. Fortunately, a dream bathroom does not have to break the bank. In fact, there are several ways to make a bathroom worthy of the most comforting spa without stretching your budget.

- Install a wall-hung mirror. If your idea of a luxury bathroom harkens back to a time before the advent of recessed medicine cabinets, then a wall-hung mirror can give the bathroom an entirely new feel without much of a financial commitment. Flush-mount mirrors need not require the services of a contractor, but they can provide a sense of elegance that recessed cabinets cannot.

- Replace bathroom countertops. A countertop replacement job may sound expensive, but such an undertaking is not very costly in the washroom, where counter space is typically limited. Since the cost of countertop materials is by the square foot, you can replace bathroom surfaces for a relatively small amount of money. Granite countertops can be beautiful, but such surfaces do not create the warm feel that many prefer in a luxury bathroom. A material such as soapstone is warm and inexpensive and can quickly give the bathroom a new look.

- Embrace calm colors. Painting the bathroom is another inexpensive way to give the room an entirely new look. If the walls of your washroom are currently a vibrant color, consider a more calming tone to give the room the luxurious and relaxing feel you're aiming for. If your bathroom includes a clawfoot tub, you also can make it a two-tone tub to add a touch of relaxing elegance. Paint the tub's exterior in a calming tone such as soft gray, and you will have transformed the washroom at little cost and even less effort.

- Transform your double vanity. Many homeowners prefer a double vanity in their bathrooms, as such a setup allows both men and women the space to get ready for bed or work without getting in one another's way. But instead of a traditional vanity with a counter between the sinks, consider installing matching pedestal sinks to surround an antique washstand. This can give the washroom a feel of antique luxury, and such washstands can be found for a few hundred dollars.

- Replace old fixtures. Though they are often overlooked, cabinet and door fixtures as well as towel racks can greatly influence the feel of a washroom. If the cabinet and drawer handles are old or outdated, replace them with more modern options. Such a job might be even more effective if you repaint or reface existing cabinetry. Neither task is terribly expensive, but both can give the washroom a more luxurious feel. The same goes for replacing old towel racks, which can be an eyesore if they're especially dated. Transforming a bathroom may seem like a significant and costly undertaking, but savvy homeowners can give their washrooms a new and luxurious look without spending much money.

Tiverton home mixes history with modern comfort

Exterior: The home at 452 Highland Road in Tiverton was built in 1845, but many of the mechanicals have been updated.

Kitchen: A designer kitchen has lots of cabinet space.

Three-season: The home features a newly renovated three-season room loaded with windows facing the large yard.

The best of Old World craftsmanship and New World convenience in a country setting abound at this lovely home in Tiverton. This Greek Revival home is in Pristine condition and has a designer's touch in every room.

Generously proportioned with four bedrooms and three-and-a-half bathrooms, the 2,422-square-foot home is perfect for a growing family.

The home was built in 1845, but many of the mechanicals have been updated, including the 200-amp circuit breaker, gas heat and a cooling unit in the attic. A two-car detached garage and space for 10 cars in the driveway make the property and large, well-groomed yard the perfect place for cookouts and family parties.

The designer kitchen has plenty of cabinet space, and the dining room has a fireplace and beautiful hardwood flooring. A large living room with a brick fireplace opens to a newly renovated three-season room with rows of windows overlooking an expansive yard that is more than an acre in size. The property is locat-

Loan rates based on $100,000 with 20% down payment & no PMI. Variable mortgages listed are for 30 years, adjusted annually. Points are a one-time charge equal to one percent of the mortgage. APR stands for annual percentage rate and reflects closing costs spread over the life of the loan. CAP is the most a variable mortgage can increase in one year. Savings and loans and Rhode Island loan and investment banks are included in the bank section of this chart. These rates, provided by the institutions on Monday of this week, are subject to change or special conditions. For more information, consumers are advised to call the institution. First-time homebuyers may qualify for lower-rate mortgages from the Rhode Island Housing and Mortgage Finance Corporation. Many credit unions only grant loans to members and limit membership to a defined group. When shopping for mortgage rates ask for explanation of closing costs.
