Honestly, I don't think I have any such power over people, but regardless, I hope you know that you have a lot of respect in the community. A lot of loud, frankly strange sounding nonsense can't erase that. It takes more spine and self control to be respectful to those you disagree with than to lash out in such a hateful way. This is vile stuff, unprofessional and unworthy of the office. Stand steady and be the adult that you are my friend.

Well JW,

You've successfully destroyed any chance of Yelm moving forward by choosing Jen Littlefield. Did you know that people are actually starting to list their houses for sale after Tuesday's meeting, and because of it? They've told realtors that Yelm will be corrupt forever, and they don't want to live here for that reason.

Ron Harding runs city council. We all know that Tweedledee and Tweedledum run racing to Ron before they make any decision. Curry's been best buds with him forever, and Littlefield is his lapdog. They'll all do his bidding, which means that Ron still controls City Council, which means that he controls you.

Congratulations! You're a puppet mayor, doing Ron's bidding whether you like it or not, and the rest of Yelm will eventually realize it. Too bad you didn't have the spine to change things. Dance, Marionette, dance!

JW,

I will of course continue to work tirelessly toward the betterment of Yelm in my position on City Council until my term ends in 2019. I hope that we can find a way to work together in that goal. I am open to any ideas that you might have in that direction.

Molly, Thank you for your work so far on the council, I really do appreciate your concerns and your personal efforts to make the council an effective tool for the betterment of all who call Yelm home. If you think you can no longer be effective in working with me and the others in that concerted effort, I would gladly accept your resignation and rush to appoint Scott Bradley in your place. He has demonstrated a much better temperament for the job. However, I will continue to do the job of Mayor as best I can with the council I have. My dedication is to the residents and businesses that make Yelm a great place to live, work and play. Your assistance in that effort is appreciated. Your mean-spirited words are not.

Your Mayor,
JW

They'll all do his bidding, which means that Ron still controls City Council, which means that he controls you.

Congratulations! You're a puppet mayor, doing Ron's bidding whether you like it or not, and the rest of Yelm will eventually realize it. Too bad you didn't have the spine to change things. Dance, Marionette, dance!

Thank you Jennifer. I do appreciate your support and words of encouragement. Be advised though that your two responses to me were 'reply all', so the rest of the council is able to read them too.

Board: I don't think there are such power over people but you know that you have a lot of respect in the community. A lot of good things happen around your city and I hope that it takes more time and effort to be recognized. I hope you are able to do some good things with that. I don't know if that is a good idea. This is a lot of stuff. I don't think that you are the only one. I don't think that you are the only one.

Hello Council, I wanted to let you know that I appreciated the respect most of you showed me during the difficult decision your split vote forced me to make. I believe I made the right decision. This is the letter of 'support' that I got from Council member Carmody. Not helpful.

Your Mayor,

JW

Well JW,

You've successfully destroyed any chance of Yelm moving forward by choosing Jen Littlefield. Did you know that people are actually starting to list their houses for sale after Tuesday's meeting, and because of it? They've told realtors that Yelm will be corrupt forever, and they don't want to live here for that reason.

Ron Harding runs city council. We all know that Tweedledee and Tweedledum run racing to Ron before they make any decision. Curry's been best buds with him forever, and Littlefield is his lapdog. They'll all do his bidding, which means that Ron still controls City Council, which means that he controls you.

Congratulations! You're a puppet mayor, doing Ron's bidding whether you like it or not, and the rest of Yelm will eventually realize it. Too bad you didn't have the spine to change things. Dance, Marionette, dance!

Molly, Thank you for your work so far on the council, I really do appreciate your concerns and your personal efforts to make the council an effective tool for the betterment of all who call Yelm home. If you think you can no longer be effective in working with me and the others in that concerted effort, I would gladly accept your resignation and rush to appoint Scott Bradley in your place. He has demonstrated a much better temperament for the job. However, I will continue to do the job of Mayor as best I can with the council I have. My dedication is to the residents and businesses that make Yelm a great place to live, work and play. Your assistance in that effort is appreciated. Your mean-spirited words are not.

Your Mayor,

JW

JW,

I will of course continue to work tirelessly toward the betterment of Yelm in my position on City Council until my term ends in 2019. I hope that we can find a way to work together in that goal. I am open to any ideas that you might have in that direction.
