Cornersville celebrates Brock, begins search for replacement

By Scott Pearson

Associate Editor

The monthly meeting of the Cornersville Board of Mayor and Aldermen centered around the position of the town administrator last Thursday evening.

For retiring Town Administrator Scotty Brock, the meeting was the last BOMA session in an official capacity in 16 years.

Brock announced his intent to retire at October's meeting.

"I appreciate the opportunity to work here," said Brock. "I've had three really good employees to work with, possibly the best I've ever worked with."

"I appreciate the work you've done for us," said Alderman Mary Johnson, echoing a sentiment shared by the board. "We'll miss you."

Brock joined the town as town recorder in 2005 and added the role of town administrator

Aldermen and staff held a retirement reception for Brock after the close of the meeting.

His last day with the town was Friday.

Most of the meeting centered on the process of replacing Brock.

Chuck Downham, from the Municipal Technical Advisory Service of the University of Tennessee, which will be assisting the town in the search for a replacement, briefed the board on the next steps in the Downham noted the typical search process generally required 90 to 120 days and would be further complicated by the upcoming holiday seasons.

He also noted the challenge of the town's current arrangement, which combines three roles--recorder, treasurer, and administrator-into one position.

Aldermen approved moving forward with MTAS to develop the job posting and the advertise of the opening.

The board will hold a workshop on Thursday, Nov. 11, to revisit the requirements they would like to see from candidates for the position.

As far as filling the responsibilities during the interim, Alderman Doris Arthur told the board that Taylor Brandon, who had served as town administrator prior to Block before leaving for law school, had approached her with an offer to assist part-time while the search was underway.

choice," said Arthur of the town's need to have someone able to carry out the basic duties required.

Chapel Hill adopts budget

By Scott Pearson Associate Editor

Chapel Hill crossed off the top item on the to-do list at their monthly meeting on Monday night.

The town's Board of Mayor and Aldermen passed, on final reading, a budget for the 2020-2021 fiscal year.

The current fiscal year began July 1 but due to staff departures in the lead up to the budget process the State Comptroller permitted the town to operate on the previous year's budget while the current budget was constructed.

The adopted budget projects just under $2.2 million in revenues against just under $2.5 million in expenditures.

The difference, to be covered from the town's fund balance, comes from proposed capital expenditures, primarily for the fire department.

With that most pressing business handled, most of the rest of the meeting revolved around discussion of how to move forward with vacancies with the town recorder position.

The town's charter, and state law, requires the town recorder position be filled, duties which Town Administrator Amanda Harrington has been filling for the past two months.

The town has traditionally combined the roles of treasurer and recorder but some aldermen noted that appointees in the past have leaned more toward the finance and accounting role leading to weaknesses in the recorder's record keeping role.

Last month, aldermen approved a short-term agreement with a Tullahoma accounting firm to handle the town's financial needs while the office of town treasurer was vacant.

Harrington told the board that the firm had closed approximately 70 percent of last fiscal year's books, up from 30 percent last month.

Preparations for the annual audit are also underway, she added.

Aldermen approved awarding Harrington comp time for the hours she was spending on recorder duties and discussion turned to if the town should separate the two positions.

There was some reluctance to essentially create a new position for a recorder in town hall based on the additional costs that another town employee would represent.

Aldermen discussed the possibility of appointing an interim while a final decision was made.

Town Attorney Todd Moore suggested that while town finances were being handled, at least for the interim, it might make sense to bring on a full time recorder to handle the town's record keeping requirements and the town could examine the treasurer role in next year's budget.

Ultimately, the consensus of the board seemed to follow that line of thinking and to at least consider separating the two positions in the

Dixie Theatre officially a landmark

By Scott Pearson Associate Editor

Long an anchor on the Lewisburg square, the Dixie Theatre has official recognition of its importance.

The Tennessee Historical Commission announced last week the addition of the Dixie to the National Register of Historic Places.

The National Register recognizes sites of historic or cultural signifi cance worthy of preservation.

Built in 1936 with novel features such as air conditioning and cushioned seats, the Dixie operated as a movie theater and performance hall until closing in 1985.

The Marshall County Theatre Community purchased the "muted Art Deco" building in the early 1990s and returned to live stage productions in 1995.

The Dixie joins the Ladies Rest Room on 1st Avenue as downtown structures in Lewisburg included on the listing. Overall, Marshall County now has 22 sites listed on the Register.

Lewisburg's Dixie Theatre, built in 1936, was placed on the National Register of Historic Places last week after approval by the Tennessee Historical Commission.

Tennessee business groups want COVID overhaul changes in '22

By Jonathan Mattise Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee business leaders unhappy with recent efforts by Republican-led Legislature to unravel COVID-19 prevention requirements hope to convince lawmakers to revisit some changes when they reconvene in January.

Two prominent business groups say they are especially troubled by a provision empowering citizens to sue businesses they believe slighted them with coronavirus vaccination ment entities.

The dispute, while largely couched in delicate language, offers a rare glimpse at a public rift between groups that tend to be closely aligned. Republican leaders are usually eager to highlight their close ties to business and tout Tennessee as a low-tax, low-regulation haven for companies. Those alliances were

However, the group also plans to consider sponsors of separate bills opposed by business when discussing endorsements and campaign contributions, Brown said. Bradley Jackson, president of the Tennessee Chamber of Commerce and Industry, said it's in Tennesseans' best interest for lawmakers and business to get back on the same page. "I would equate it to two really good friends that have gotten along on so many issues had a disagreement," Jackson told the AP. "Hurtful things have been said, but we know how each other feels on this issue and fundamentally agree on the future of Tennessee on economic prosperity and working together to achieve that."

Legislative leaders have defended their work. House Speaker Cameron Sexton "disagrees with the direction NFIB and Tennessee Chamber is requesting," spokesper-son Doug Kufner said. He also said there is "much discussion" about whether there's a need to extend COVID-19 liability protections for businesses past July 2022. Senate Speaker Randy McNally's spokesperson,

Adam Kleinheider, said

McNally is open to hearing ideas to improve laws but is proud of the work done by lawmakers, adding that the two business groups "had ample opportunity to weigh in at any point in the process and chose to engage only in the later stages." Republican Sen. Todd Gardenhire had similar criticism when he ridiculed the chamber of commerce as the "chamber of horrors" in a committee meeting.

Brown said his group is disappointed in the "outcome and the process," saying it wasn't transparent and it was rushed.

Jackson told the AP he didn't know what lawmakers would include, and two weeks out from session, could only tell member businesses some issues that were likely to come up because he didn't know the specifics.

Granny also cashed in on my alphanumeric naivete, when I asked Dad, "Why do they put so many zeroes in words if they don't mean any-

She even raked in dough for reporting that I checked the paper every Sunday to see what new clever things I had uttered. (Yes, Granny and I invented "synergy.")

Granny seemed reluctant to exploit my more public eccentricities, however. Like the time I ordered both mashed potatoes and French fries at the Hi Hat restaurant and the waitress "helpfully" pointed out that I had ordered two types of potatoes. I glared at her and queried, "Is there a LAW against it?"

My church singing could've provided ample material for Bil Keane's "Family Circus" cartoon. I thought they hymn "The Morning of Joy" was "The Morning of George," and I lustily belted out, "We shall come rejoicing/Bringing in the cheese."

And who can forget the time everyone finished a hymn, and I was still bellowing out "Big Bad John"? (Was it mere happenstance that singer Jimmy Dean went on to market pure-pork sausage, while I remained all-ham?)

Once, my father yanked me out of church for corporal punishment. (I now wish I had halted my playful whooping and hollering long enough to hear what sort of trumped-up charges he was using against me.) As he was stomping toward the front door with me, I was grabbing the pews and yelling plaintively, "Help! Save me, somebody!" Of course, Murphy's Law being what it was, that was the week the preacher hadn't hammered at the Good Samaritan ideal hard enough.

To my credit, I was always generous with the spotlight. Once when our family was on vacation, a stranger looked at my little brother and remarked, "What a fine boy!" I helpfully interjected, "Yes, we're BOTH fine boys."

So, you can see why it doesn't bother me if someone comments on the fine columns of Ann Landers or Kelly Leiter.

(My brother really did have some notions to rival my own. After we got drenched while hiking, he observed, "At least I'm dry on the inside!" And while explaining how to clean a fish, my cousin Steve put forth the unassailable logic that "You've got to kill them while they're alive.")

I would feel honored to have this column hang on a few refrigerator doors. But if I ever have any children and they visit you, I'm pleading the Fifth.

Is there a law against it?

A winning idea for Americans and their dogs

By Rich Manieri

Our elected representatives in Washington produce bad ideas like cows produce methane.

But if Congress really wants to do something to make the lives of Americans better – and remember, I said "if" – I have an idea. Not only would this idea garner significant bipartisan support, it would score massive political points without sowing further discord among Americans and driving the country one more level down to oblivion. Might be a nice > change of pace. Here it is: Congress should immediately petition the court for an immediate injunction barring all TV commercials involving a doorbell. I stand with some 78 million American dog owners, and their pooches, in calling for the drafting of emergency legislation. We can call it the American Ding-Dong

Act. It works on so many levels. Laugh if you want, cat owners and non-dog-people, but you need to understand the impact TV doorbells have on the quality of American life. I'm talking to you too, DoorDash.

With every ring of a television doorbell, our Great Dane, Bosco, and his stumpy-legged Corgi sidekick, Henry, unleash a cacophony of barks and yelps that come straight from Satan's Spotify. I have also found that yelling, "It's a TV doorbell! It's a TV doorbell!" at the dogs in an effort to get them to stop has little to See, in the mind of a dog with no sense of context or object permanence, the doorbell triggers a little thought bubble, which contains a wee man wearing a mask and carrying a crowbar, standing at our front door. Though he doesn't exist, the dogs race to the front door making as much noise as possible in order to run him off. To date, their record is unblemished.

For this reason, Halloween is my sworn enemy. Tiny, noisy children in costumes, quickly and frantically moving about and ringing the doorbell. What could possibly be worse? Five straight hours of skullcrushing barking.

I must confess that this past Halloween I went dark. I sat in my house as if I were waiting out an

To make matters worse, my next-door neighbor had constructed an elaborate system of pulleys and cables on which skeletons and various other spooks flew around his front yard. Very impressive. A crowd gathered in front of his house to watch the show. I know this because I skulked out my front door to get rid of some trash and saw the crowd. I suddenly realized I might be spotted and quickly reversed my steps, lest I be caught out and forever branded as "the guy who hates children."

I'm clearly not the only concerned about the doorbell issue. I recently visited an internet forum – is there another place with more reliable information? which featured numerous complaints.

"I hate when I am on the phone and both [dogs] start barking and running to the door!" I feel you.

"[My dog] not only barks at tv doorbells, he stops what he is doing and barks at dogs on tv.'

"Those commercials with doorbells sound so real that one night my husband jumped up & went to the door.

I have not been able to confirm reports that the lady's husband later chased the mailman down the street. Need I continue?

Let me pause here because I know that following the publishing of this piece, I will get an email from some know-it-all who will point out that dogs can be trained not to bark at the doorbell. So, whoever you are, I will save you the trouble and write the email for you. Dear Moron: If you knew anything about dogs, you would train your dog not to bark at the doorbell. That's what I did. Rather than wasting your time writing about it, why don't you spend some time training those dogs? I guess I should respond.

Dear Humorless:

I'm well aware that dogs can be trained. In fact, we sent our Great Dane to a boarding school for two weeks. It didn't take. He once spent five minutes barking at a cooked turkey so you see what I'm up against. Thanks anyway for the advice. I often prattle on about Congress failing America by involving itself in trivial matters. But if "all politics is local," my front door might be a good place to start.

What we don't know about economic development

By Deborah Fisher

Four years ago, an investigative journalist in Nashville examined the cash grants and tax breaks given to companies as part of the state's economic development deals to create jobs. The headline:

FISHER

Tennessee job subsidies a success? Secrecy makes it nearly impossible know." Despite the deep report sounding an alarm, we are not much better off today in getting answers. Why? A web of exceptions to the public records laws makes a great deal of the information about these deals confidential. Reporting requirements by companies receiving state money or local government incentives are weak or non-existent. Tax credits awarded for job development are not public. And too much of the focus of the state is on announcing exciting new deals, not following up on the less-than-exciting situations that turned sour.

Problems with weak accountability for job creation and other performance measures have been documented by the Tennessee Comptroller's Office in its audits of the state's Department of Economic and Community Development (ECD) in 2016 and again in 2020.

These were followed by hearings in legislative committees. But while lawmakers and communities have gotten better at asking questions, government officials in charge of the programs have not gotten much better in providing answers. Part of what fuels the purported need for secrecy is that disclosing too much of the state's "secret sauce" for luring business to Tennessee would give other states an advantage in competing against us. The businesses also want secrecy — or privacy as they might describe

But secrecy also can hide cronyism. And opaque deals, with little public reporting on outcomes, can obscure what the government is really getting in exchange for taxpayer dollars. Lawmakers, who approve the budget for economic development funds, have gotten tougher and have gradually required ECD and the Department of Revenue to produce reports that provide better insight.

In 2014, the legislature passed a bill requiring companies that received FastTrack grants to annually report the number of new jobs created. The reports are required to be posted on ECD's website.

In 2017, lawmakers passed another bill requiring an annual report about the value of franchise tax credits claimed each year as a result of economic development statutes, including how much companies had carried forward to offset future

And in 2020, trying to get at the state's success in "clawing back" cash grants given to companies that didn't live up to promises, lawmakers passed a bill requiring an annual report on clawback rights executed.

These have all been positive moves by your state lawmakers. But they don't go far enough in providing transparency for the public.

The annual job reports on ECD's website? Both of the Comptroller's audits found not enough is done to ensure the accuracy of those numbers. They simply are not reliable and some were inaccurate. And even if you find a company's job number report, you won't be able to see how it compares with jobs promised or the amount of the grant

The report on tax credits? The most recent report shows that companies redeemed $176.5 million in the last fiscal year and have accumulated more than $800 million state tax credits that they've not yet cashed in. Because of state laws requiring taxpayer confidentiality, however, the report doesn't name companies receiving the tax perks. State leaders have defended this system, noting that tax credits are open equally to any business that meets criteria laid out in state law. But what about companies that don't meet the criteria? Those ineligible businesses can get them anyway if two of the governor's appointees — the ECD and Revenue commissioners-determine it would benefit the state. This has happened

23 times between October 2018 and March 2021. But who got this special treatment and why?

That's secret. And how about the clawback report? The inaugural report delivered July 15 offers a peek into the state's efforts in this important area. The report lacks information, however, on how much the state is qualified to redeem compared with what it actually collected to tried to collect. Only one company is listed as paying back money in 2021 — $385,000. That particular company is listed elsewhere in ECD data as having been granted $5.5 million. The Tennessee Department of Economic and Community Development would likely disagree with my assessment of its transparency. It might point to its website, "OpenECD," as evidence that it is "open" with the public about its performance. But the website lacks clear and connected information. In some cases, the information is even deceiving.

For example, the FastTrack Project database lists the companies that got subsidies. But the column titled "New Jobs" is the number of jobs promised by the company, not the number actually created — information that ECD possesses but chooses not to include.

The state recently announced what is likely its biggest single deal ever. Ford Motor Co. will receive a $500 million capital grant for an electric car plant in West Tennessee. That's not all tax credits, taxpayer-funded infrastructure, money to train company workers, tax-free land and other options are part of the mix. Some have estimated Ford will get nearly $1 billion when it's all rolled up. But we don't While lawmakers authorized funding in a recent special session, they still haven't seen the actual agreement with Ford, including details of any accountability provisions. That's normal in Tennessee. That document is confidential under an exemption to the public records law.

MARSHALL COUNTY DEVOTIONAL PAGE

"Let us draw near with a true heart in full assurance of faith, having our hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience, and our bodies washed with pure water. Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering; (for He is faithful that promised)" -Hebrews 10:22,23

Once someone has come to the saving knowledge of Jesus Christ as their Lord and Savior. Time and trials start to work one the believer's assurance of faith. The natural response is for the believer to look at their works, and their experiences for assurance. When the Bible speaks of the "full assurance of faith" it means to have an unwavering confidence, a full persuasion. However any assurance of our salvation is not determined upon us. The rock-solid assurance of faith concerning our salvation is by looking away from ourselves and by "looking unto Jesus the Author and Finisher of our faith" (Hebrews 12:2). So the assurance of our salvation is not about how strong our faith is, but it is about the God who saved us, "for He is faithful that promised." That simply means that the God who saved us is the same God who is able to keep us saved. Jude wrote at the end of his letter, "Now unto Him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy, to the only wise God our Savior, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen."

When I worked at the airlines years ago, it was interesting to observe the passengers in the airport.

Blessed assurance!

There were those passengers who held confirmed tickets and then there were those who were on standby. The ones with confirmed tickets were relaxed waiting on the flight. Those on standby hung around the ticket counter pacing anxiously. The difference was based upon assurance. The confirmed passenger was assured that they would go through the gates and board the plane while the standby passenger had doubts.

Many times our Lord Jesus Christ is reverently described as our "Ticket" into heaven. What that means is that we are confirmed by God to enter the gates of paradise by the blood of Jesus Christ our Savior.

Once an elderly man said, "I want a definite witness about my salvation?" Then a preacher replied, "Suppose an angel told you that your sins were forgiven. Would that be enough?" The old man said, "Yes, an angel would do." The preacher continued, "But suppose it was Satan who came and said, 'I was that angel, transformed to deceive you." The old man became speechless. The preacher continued, "God has given us something more dependable than the voice of an angel. He has given His Son" (Hebrews 1:1,2). All assurance of faith concerning our salvation is connected to the sure promises of our Sovereign God, who has saved us by sovereign grace, and who are kept by His sovereign hand. That is the blessed assurance - full and free!

Ben Franklin bursts through the line and picks up a handful of yards for the Bulldogs. He led the way with three rushing touchdowns against McEwen on Friday night.

Franklin's 3 TD night leads 'Dogs to playoff win

By Dennis Hollev For the Tribune

The Cornersville Bulldogs (8-2, 5-1) welcomed the Warriors of McEwen High School (7-3, 3-2) in the opening round of the 2021 TSSAA football playoffs, on the first Friday night in November underneath a clear and cold sky at "Frog Bottom".

The Bulldogs, with a smothering defense that hemmed in, ran down and corralled McEwen's Mr. Football semifinalist Thomas Wills, limited the Warrior quarterback to 77 yards on 15 carries.

Conversely, вen Franklin rushed for three touchdowns and the Bulldogs overwhelmed the Warriors, 42-8.

Cornersville's Cason Warner added a 36-yard touchdown run along with a 2-point conversion; Riley Qualls rushed for a touchdown and Blake Estes caught a 19-yard pass for a score for the Bulldogs.

"We had a great week of practice, and we need for that to carry over to next week. Come in, bust our tails, and get ready for the next step. We played a physical football game tonight, and they were not ready for that. I don't know finesse football, all I know is how to line up and beat the guy across the line from me. I'm proud of you," Coach Gerard Randolph told his team after the game,

Defensive lineman Barrett Powers, mainstay of the Bulldogs defense said, "We had a great team effort tonight, everybody came out fast and physical, and I can't wait until next week at McKenzie."

Defensive mate Cason Warner added, "We had to come out physical because we know they are a tough team. They did not take our physicality into account and they did not take it well."

The Bulldogs won the coin toss and elected to defer until the second half.

Eli Welch for the Bulldogs kicked off to the Warrior 16-yard line where McEwen's Jake Artz gathered it in, but Cornersville's David Metcalf tackled him at the 20-yard line.

Cason Warner rammed through the McEwen line for the 2-point conversion; with 1:26 to go in the first quarter as Cornersville then led 14-0. The second quarter saw the Warriors began a drive to the Bulldog 27-yard line, but a Wills pass to Dalton Williams on fourth and six fell incomplete thanks to tight defense by Rhett Woodard.

The Bulldogs let the horses out of the barn on their next possession and with Franklin carrying the load, moved the ball to the McEwen 2-yard line where Riley Qualls rushed for the score and Springer nailed the PAT to push Cornersville lead to 21-0 with 6:06 left in the Eli Welch pinned the Warriors back to their 15-yard line and on first down Wills was stopped in his tracks by Cornersville's Barret Powers.

On second down, Wills' pass was intercepted by Calahan and the Bulldogs were back in business at the McEwen 20-yard line.

Returning the favor, McEwen's Wills intercepted Blaine Woodard's pass intended for Blake Estes in the end zone and the Warriors took over at their own

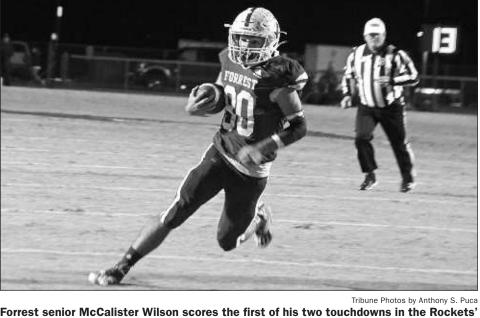

20-yard line. The Bulldogs defense' hammering of the McEwen offense was taking its toll. Warriors were slow to get up as Cornersville's Wesley Pigg, Woodard and Powers big 38-7 win over Adamsville in Friday night's opening round of the Class 2A playoffs at Chapel Hill.

Liam Bell (6) toted the rock 10 times for 64 yards and a touchdown versus the Cardinals.

Big play Rockets crush Adamsville

By Anthony S. Puca Sports Writer

The Region 5-2A champion Forrest Rockets made their 13th consecutive playoff appearance Friday night, hosting the fourth-place Adamsville Cardinals from Region 6/2A at the Murrey E. Holton Memorial Field in Chapel Hill.

The Rockets turned in a dominating performance on both sides of the ball in a lopsided 38-7 win, toting the rock 44 times for 398 yards and five touchdowns while holding the Cardinals to a measly 33 yards on 26 carries.

"We had a great week of practice and our kids came out and executed the game plan," Forrest coach Eli Stephenson said. "It was a great victory for our team."

Adamsville's touchdown came with just 17 seconds remaining in the second quarter on a Carson Plunk 7-yard pass to Luke Helton.

"Our defense has played outstanding all year and did a great job again tonight," Stephenson said. Forrest let all the horses out of the stable with Brenton Burchell leading the way with 78 yards on just four carries and a 23-yard touchdown run.

Davis had 71 yards on five carries, Liam Bell totted the rock 10 times for 64 yards and a 23-yard touchdown run, and Mc-Calister Wilson had 58 vards on four carries with touchdown runs of 10 and 30 yards. Tayton Swift rushed seven times for 54 yards, Hunter Bennett had five touches for 36 yards and a 4-yard touchdown run while Landon Groeneveld had three carries for 23 yards, Noah Helmick rushed the ball six times for 12 yards, Bryce Tankersley had one run for five yards, and Carson Yates added one yard on two carries.

"Our line up front has been doing a great job," Stephenson said. "They are the tip of the spear and they got after tonight and our backs hit the holes hard."

The Forrest defense was superb, forcing the Cardinals to punt after three plays the first three times they had the ball and the fourth time, the Rockets stopped them on a fourth-down play.

After Adamsville's late second quarter score that made it 17-7 at the half, the Rockets' defense went in to total shutdown mode as they forced three straight three and outs to start the second half.

The offense paid them back handsomely, scoring all three times after the defensive stands and led 31-7 at the end of the third quarter.

Gavin Grissom opened the scoring for the Rockets as he booted a 32-yard field goal on Forrest's second offensive possession of the game.

Rockets also The scored on their next two possessions with Wilson scoring on a firstand-goal play from the 10-yard line and Bennett made it a 17-0 contest when he scored from the 4-yard line with 5:36 remaining in the first half.

The only time the Forrest defense let its guard down in the game turned in to the Plunk touchdown pass with 17 seconds left in the first half and from there, the Cardinals did nothing the rest of the game on offense.

Forrest stopped Adamsville on three plays to start the second half before Wilson electrified the crowd with a 30-yard backbreaking run as the senior dragged half the Cardinals defenders in to the end zone.

"Wilson got some great blocks up front, broke it and ran through about three arm tackles and finished it," Stephenson said. "That's what we have been preaching all year is to finish and he finished it."

The Rockets' defense was fired up after the Wilson score and forced an Adamsville punt out of its end zone that was caught on a fair catch by Burchell at the Cardinals' 23-yard line. On the next snap,

Burchell broke free and raced down the home sidelines for a touch-

The Forrest defense swarmed to the football the entire night, limiting Adamsville to just 33 yards on the ground.

Tigers' season ends at Hardin Co.

Tribune Staff Report

SAVANNAH — On a night when nothing could get going, the Marshall County Tigers saw their season come to a close with a disappointing 28-0 loss at unbeaten Hardin County.

After battling through the Region 5-4A gauntlet that included matchups against state powers Tullahoma and Pearl Cohn, The Tigers also took a tough one on the chin against Montgomery Central and had to settle for fourth-place in the region.

That fourth-place region finish set the Tigers on the collision course with a buzzsaw in Hardin County.

Led by Mr. Football finalist Kaydin Pope, the Hardin County Tigers were able to execute their offense, while styling the Marshall County squad to end the Tigers' season.

Hardin County scored its first touchdown of the night on a 7-yard run with 2:33 left in the first quarter, then added a pair of touchdowns through the air in the second frame of 12 and

MCHS, Forrest compete in state cross country meet

By Chris Siers sports@t-g.com

HENDERSON-VILLE — The Marshall County Tigers and Tigerettes, as well as the Forrest Lady Rockets, were well-represented on Friday in the Class A-AA state cross country meet, which was held at Sanders Ferry Park.

In the Girls Class A-AA race, 235 runners competed for the state title.

The Tigerettes took 20th overall as a team, while the Lady Rockets finished 18th overall.

Lady Rocket junior Jaedyn Stalnecker was the top finisher for either squad from Marshall County, turning in a fine performance in 21:29, good enough for 34th overall.

Taylor Crumley was the next Lady Rocket runner to finish. She crossed the line in 23:28 for a 114th finish.

Abby Davenport and Justina Mosley were the next two Forrest runners to finish, turning in a time of 23:29 and 23:32, respective-Marysa Edde was the final Lady Rocket to finish the race. She finished in 26:28.

For the Tigerettes, it was a 20th overall finish in the team standings, with Lydia Molina finishing in 23:00.

Kamea and Kamaria Johnson followed for Marshall County and finished in 23:36 and 23:45, while Brady Phillips finished in 24:05.

Sarina Yamashita finished in 24:14.

Central Magnet's Samantha Ouellette was the top finisher to lead Central Magnet to the team championship.

In the Boys A-AA race, the Tigers turned in a 27th overall team finish.

Of the 31 teams that competed in the race, Central Magnet took the team win with 74 points.

The Tigers finished their season, finishing the state meet in 27th place.

Krew Capps was the top finisher for the Tigers. He took 44th overall and finished his season with a 17:57 final time.

Ayden Cook was the next finisher for the Tigers, crossing the finish line in 19:33.

McKinley Allen followed in 184th in 20:30, while Alex Patino turned in a 21:15 final time.

Terrence Bishop was the final scoring member of the Tigers to finish the state meet. He finished his season with a 24:07.

Creek Wood junior Jackson Martin won the race in 15:41.

Bulldogs

Bulldog 49-yard line. After a block in the back against Cornersville, the Bulldogs began play at their own 33-yard line.

The Cornersville offense, using their bruising running game, with Franklin ripping off 10-plus yards every time he touched the ball, moved to the Warrior 8-yard line where Franklin tore through the line for the score with 23 seconds left in the half. Springer split the uprights and Cornersville pushed their lead to four scores, 28-0.

The third quarter began with Cornersville receiving the kickoff and with McEwen desperate to gain the ball attempting an onside kick, but Bradden Hickman recovered for the Bulldogs at the 49-yard line.

Four plays later, Warner took the handoff, ran to the right side, cut back to the middle, found open field and out-ran the Warrior defenders for pay dirt.

Springer again converted the PAT and the Bulldogs stretched their lead to 35-0 with 10:07 left in the third quarter.

The Cornersville defense, taking no prisoners, forced another three and out with Cook punting from his own 15-yard line getting off a poor kick that went out of bounds at the Warrior 39-yard line.

Franklin and Warner pounded the Warrior defense with Franklin ripping off a 27-yard run to the McEwen 4-yard line.

Franklin then rammed home his third touchdown and Springer again converted: with 3:49 left in the third quarter the Bulldogs led Franklin added to his impressive, late-season play, and added three touchdowns for a total of eight in the last two games. "I thought we executed well as a team and got things done," Franklin said following the to insert the reserves for the rest of the game and McEwen made their only score on a 7-yard run by Wills and a 2-point conversion pass to Brody Dreaden to make the score 42-8.

That score would stand up; but then, a scary moment for the Bulldog faithful.

David Metcalf, a junior on defense for the Bulldogs with 8:35 left to go in the game, lay crumpled on the ground and the medical staff was summoned to tend to the young man.

Cutting away his jersey, removing his pads and helmet

The hushed crowd watched as medical workers cut away his jersey, removed his pads and helmet, strapped him onto a board and gingerly moved him to a waiting four-wheeler to be taken off the field to the ambulance.

Eagles romp over FMS Rockets again

By Anthony S. Puca Sports Writer

The Eagleville Middle School Eagles had a little bit more trouble with the FMS Rockets the second time around this season, but used a 16-point second quarter to run away and hide in a 47-19 home win.

The Rockets started slow and trailed 10-2 at Eagleville Monday night before digging in as they cut the lead to 10-6 on one free throw by Cohen Grissom and a three-point play the old-fashioned way by Eli Bell with 1:08 remaining in the first quarter.

The Eagles responded with a 5-1 mini-run to end the first period with a 15-7 lead.

Eagleville put the foot to the medal to begin the second period, going on a big 10-0 run behind eight points by James Bega, who led all scorers in the contest with 18 points.

The Rockets finally got on the board in the second period with 1:42 left to play in the first half on a Paxton Mealer bucket before the Eagles scored the final six points and led 31-9 at the half.

Jon Hightower and Bell scored the lone field goals in the third quarter for the Rockets, who trailed 40-13, entering the final six minutes.

FMS Lady Rockets capture big road win

By Anthony S. Puca Sports Writer

The FMS Lady Rockets travelled to Eagleville Monday night for a Duck River Valley Conference matchup with the Eagleville Lady Eagles and they took control from the beginning, never letting up in a 42-13 win.

Forrest's Sadie Smith led all scorers in the contest with 11 points, including one 3-pointer and a stellar 4-for-5 effort from the free throw line. Kaylin Pope added seven points and made 3-of-4 from the charity stripe and Maddie Ille nailed one 3-pointer for the Lady Rockets.

Camreigh Warner, Josie Brown, and Adisyn Howes all had two points and Cloie Smith made one free throw.

Both squads got off to a slow start in a 4-1 first quarter in favor of FMS as Warner and Brown both netted their lone field goals of the game in the stanza.

The Lady Rockets (2-2, 2-0) turned in a near perfect second quarter as they shutout the Lady Eagles on defense and scored 11 points on the offensive end with Sadie Smith and Ille both draining a threebomb to go along with five made free throws to lead 15-1 at half-

Sure enough, the Georgia/Tennessee border is in the wrong place

Information is easy to come by these days. If we want to contact someone, we call or text them. If we want to research something, we look it up on the internet. If we want to know our latitude and longitude, we buy a satellite navigation device.

It hasn't always been this way, which is why Tennessee's border with Georgia is slightly off.

When Congress voted to make Tennessee a state in 1796, it set 35 degrees north as its boundary with Georgia. At the time, this line between Tennessee and Georgia was in Cherokee Indian Territory (much of it occupied by warlike Chickamaugans). No one volunteered to survey the border.

It wasn't until 1818

that Georgia and Tennessee decided it was time to map out their common boundary. Each state appointed a threeperson team to get together and find the border as far west as the new Alabama border.

The border was laid out in the following manner: First, mathematicians determined the location of the 35th parallel using a handheld sextant, which required precise calculations of the elevation above the horizon of certain pre-determined stars. The surveying parties started at the site of the Chickamaugan village of Nickajack. From there, they moved east, using a magnetic compass to create the border and conducting astronomical shots with the sextant here and

It sounds simple. But if you think this is easy, then apparently you've never tried it yourself.

Navigating by use of a sextant is hard, as I learned when I flew in the U.S. Navy. If the sextant isn't perfect, your calculation won't be perfect. If you make a single mistake in reading your instrument, you will be way off. If your nautical almanac has a single mistake in it, then your conclusion will be wrong.

It should also be pointed out that the terrain near the Georgia-Tennessee border is not flat. It's treacherous, steep and lies beside a river, which is why the Chickamaugans were there in the first place.

Bart Crattie, a surveyor who has done extensive research into this topic, has discovered another reason their calculations might have been slightly off: bad equipment. A few weeks before setting out for the surveying trip, one of the surveyors wrote the governor of Georgia and asked him (futilely, it turned out) for better surveying de-

We now know that the surveying party made a mistake. Rather than place the border at 35 degrees north, they put the border at about 34 degrees and 59 minutes north (about a mile off). Had they placed the border where it should have gone, the edge of the Tennessee River would have dipped into Georgia. But, instead, the state line of Georgia missed the river by a few hundred feet.

There are some important places in Tennessee that would have been in Georgia had it not been for this error. Parts of Chattanooga were laid out on what should have been Georgia's land.

No one knows when it first became apparent that the border was in the wrong place. But starting in 1887, the Georgia legislature began raising the border dispute in the form of resolutions, and has done so about every 20 years since that time.

There is no precedent for moving a state line that was mistakenly put in the wrong place. Under the legal term known as "acquiescence," if a person or government puts up with something for long enough, they forfeit the right to take legal action about it later. Also, there are state borders all over the country that are slightly off. I suspect none of them will ever

Nevertheless, the government of the state of Georgia retains the right to continue to complain about this, and I'm sure they'll continue to

5 tips to ease the pain of holiday shipping

(StatePoint) Holiday plans may look different again this year. Some families will choose to host small gatherings, while others may celebrate from the comfort of home instead of traveling.

If you won't be spending the holidays with loved ones—and if this season is anything like 2020—you'll likely be shipping gifts. Here's how to ensure a timely, damage-free arrival.

Be Aware of Shipping Deadlines Each year, the United States Postal Service and other major shipping companies release deadlines to help people plan timely delivery of packages during their busiest season of the year. Whether you'll manually ship gifts or order them online, prioritizing these deadlines is key. Give yourself ample time. Aim to have packages shipped about 10-12 days before the holiday. The USPS recommends no later than

Invest in a Quality Box

While it may be tempting to use any old box you have hanging out in the garage, worn-down boxes are much more likely to crumple in-transit. Additionally, if the package is too big for its contents, you risk things rolling or shaking; if it's too small, you risk tearing and breaking.

With this in mind, consider investing in new, quality boxes, like Duck Brand Kraft Box. They are cost-effective. made from recycled, durable materials, and are available in a variety of sizes, all of which meet postal regulations, so you can pick the best fit that protects from damage, while keeping shipping costs down.

Pick Proper Packing Tape. If you're going to invest in shipping supplies, don't forget to include a strong, easyto-use packing tape. Lower-quality options may lead to splitting or tearing, which is a recipe for disaster when shipping holiday presents (or even for storing décor until next year). Duck Max Strength Packing Tape offers premium quality and tough adhesion, to keep boxes and packages secure during shipping. Stronger and more durable than ordinary tapes, this packing tape is designed to seal even the heaviest boxes safely and securely to help prevent items inside from being damaged during delivery.

Add an Extra Layer of Protection. Handle fragile packages with extra care by including the all-important layer of bubble cushioning. BUBBLE WRAP brand cushioning easily conforms around treasured objects and helps prevent shifts and damage during shipping. The product's Air Lock Technology maintains consistent, lightas-air cushioning while filling empty voids in boxes, so items stay put. For best protection, make sure the bubbles are facing your gift to cushion impact.

Personalize the Package. If you prefer a greener option, Flourish Brand Kraft Paper is protective, versatile and sustainable. Made from 100% recycled material, the shipping paper can be easily added to standard curbside recycling bins.

Plus, it makes it easy to wrap up and ship out large boxes, and can be used to fill packaging voids, so items stay in place. Or, as a fun indoor activity throughout winter, kids may enjoy using Kraft Paper to create customized, DIY wrapping paper. Other special touches to your long-distance holiday delivery could be including a thoughtful note or adding a drop of essential oil to the ribbon.

The holidays can be stressful. When you plan ahead and have the proper supplies on-hand, you'll be able to quickly cross "ship holiday gifts" off your to-do list and enjoy the magic of the season.
